MAKING WAY FOR SPRING

"I can hardly wait till February is over and spring is here!"...

Certainly not an unusual exclamation. The snow, which was novel in November and welcomed in December, is merely tolerated in January, and declared a nuisance by February.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are captured on film and New Year's Eve is but a memory. Still, we must bear the ice and freezing temperatures, at least through February.

Yet, toward the end of February there may be a most unusual day when the air is not quite so cold, and the sun seems to touch the earth with teasing, tantalizing fingertips of warmth melting the winter snow and making way for spring.

Does it sometimes seem that you have more than your share of trouble and sorrow? Learn to know God. Psalm 46:1 promises us that God is "...a very present help in trouble." Accept Him and let His love touch your life like the revitalizing warmth of an "earlier than spring" day.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHEN ARE YOU FREE?

February 24, 1991

Background Scripture:
I Corinthians 8:1-11:1
Devotional Reading:
I Corinthians 10:1-13

A woman noticed her neighbor's little girl hurrying down the sidewalk. "I'm running away from home!" the little neighbor announced as she sped by. A few minutes later the little girl passed again with the same announcement. As the little girl was making her third pass around the block, the neighbor lady asked why, if she was running away, she continued to circle the block? "—'cause I'm not allowed to cross the street!" snapped her little neighbor.

All freedom is relative, isn't it? Our freedom is never total; there are always limitations within which we must exercise our freedom. Some times, the more we seek to exercise our freedom, the more we are captivated. If I want to smoke a pack of cigarettes per day, I have the fredom to choose to do so. But, if I smoke a pack a day, am I really consciously choosing, or is a habit doing it for me?

WAS JESUS FREE?

Actually, wonderful as freedom is, it is not the highest of all goods. Love is higher than freedom. In a sense, we might even say that love is the fulfillment of freedom. When Jesus was crucified on a cross in Jerusalem, he appeared to be the prisoner — a man bereft of freedom. From the vantage point of time, however, we see that Jesus's acceptance of the cross was not imposed upon him, but a freely-chosen act of love. Even as he hung on the cross, Jesus was the only free man at Golgotha.

So freedom is not always what it appears to be. That is why I have always loved George Matheson's hymn:

Make me a captive, Lord,
And then I shall be free.

Sometimes it is only when we recognize a loyalty higher than to our own desire that we can really appreciate freedom. Back in those days when educators were in conflict over the amount of freedom students should be granted in the educative process, I remember a cartoon in which a school boy raises his hand and asks the teacher, "Do we have to do just what we want to do again today?"

A STUMBLINGBLOCK

It is against this kind of background that we have to put Paul's teachings concerning freedom in I Corinthians 8 through 11:1. Apparently Paul had received an inquiry from the Corinthian church about food offered to idols. Much of the meat that was sold in the market place came from animals that were sacrificed in pagan temples. Some Christians saw nothing wrong in buying and eating this meat because they didn't think of it as being "food offered to idols." Others, however, had some scruples about this meat, fearing that because of its source it made them participants in the pagan rites of sacrifice.

Paul agreed that there was nothing necessarily wrong about Christians eating this meat, unless: "Only take care lest this liberty of your somehow become a stumbling block to the weak" (8:9). Paul himself concludes: "Therefore, if food is a cause of my brother's falling, I will never eat meat lest I cause my brother to fail" (8:13)

In other words, Paul believed that, although we are free to do pretty much what we please, there are times when, if in love we practice self-restraint, we experience the highest possible level of freedom. Only then, it would seem, are we truly free.

Shanna Reed's dance training gave her skills for acting

By Candace Havens

In CBS' Major Dad, Shanna Reed portrays Polly Cooper, a liberal journalist and mother of three daughters who is married to a conservative Marine (Gerald McRaney).

But Reed didn't begin her career as an actress. She was born in Kansas City, Kan., and grew up in Phoenix. At age 17, she packed her bags and moved to Las Vegas to pursue a career as a dancer. She got her first break performing in "Folies Bergere" at the Tropicana Hotel.

A few years later she moved to New York and began modeling, but she continued to audition for dancing roles. On a whim she went to an audition for the first national touring company of the musical A Chorus Line. She got the job and a year later she landed a role in the Broadway production of Bob Fosse's Dancin'.

"Dance gave me incredible discipline plus the ability to focus all my energy in a business full of distractions," commented Reed. "Success as a dancer also required aggressiveness, individuality and style — all important qualities for an acting career as well."

Her television debut was in the daytime series Texas. She later moved to California and did several guest stints on shows before landing the role of Polly.

Reed lives in Los Angeles with her husband, Terrance O'Hara. She is involved in volunteer work for environmental causes and for children. © TV Listing Inc.

'The Sea Will Tell,' says author of drama

Richard Crenna stars as lawyer

By Amy Schmidt

Mac and Muff Graham wanted to get away from it all — from the noise, the pollution and the crowding of San Diego. In 1974 the attractive couple, upper-middle class and cultured, set sail in their lavishly outfitted sailboat for a deserted island in the Pacific.

There the Grahams crossed paths with two young lovers also fleeing civilization, but for a very different reason. Buck Walker and Jennifer Jenkins were running from the law.

What was to follow on the island of Palmyra was a grisly conflict between the "haves" and "have-nots," a double murder, a celebrated trial and a verdict that remains in doubt to this day.

Richard Crenna, Rachel Ward and Hart Bochner star in And the Sea Will Tell, a four-hour miniseries based on the book of the same name by Jenkins' attorney for the defense, Vincent Bugliosi. The fact-based drama will air Sunday, Feb. 24, and Tuesday, Feb. 26, on CBS.

Bugliosi is probably best known for successfully prosecuting cult murderer Charles Manson and subsequently writing the book Helter Skelter.

Is the movie version of And the Sea Will Tell accurate? "It captures the highlights and the essence of the case very well, but there are many things the movie can't go into because of the inherent time limitations of television," says Bugliosi. Those who want more detail can always read the book. But don't jump to conclusions, says the author, because the ending is "quite a surprise." © TV Listing Inc.

Mark Harmon stars in Depression-era drama

Past more and more like the present

By Amy Schmidt

Are you like me? Do you find yourself wanting to drift back to the '30s, to the days of gangsters in pin-stripe suits careening about in old Fords? For all the turmoil, I'll take the '60s, riots, Rosa Parks, JFK and Janis Joplin. Escaping from the '80s and '90s, even if it hurts a little, is sometimes a priority when it comes to movie viewing.

So when NBC came out with Long Road Home about a farm family forced to become migrant workers during the Dust Bowl of the Depression, I couldn't help but be intrigued. Never mind the plot sounds suspiciously similar to Grapes of Wrath. Besides, I wanted to see actor Mark Harmon, in his most down-and-out role ever, get his clothes dirty. That, in itself, doesn't happen very often.

The year is 1937. Ertie Robertson (Harmon) is an injured rodeo rider who moves his family to California's San Joaquin Valley to harvest crops. The pickers are paid but a nickel a box and are so poor they have to live in tents. Ertie's son, played by Morgan Weisser (Extreme Close-Up), wants to join up with the union, but Ertie's only concern is to feed his family on a day-to-day basis. And he wants nothing to jeopardize that.

"I used to read a script and think, 'Gee, this is a great story and a great character, and I want to do this,'" said Harmon. "You only have to do a few movies or a few projects that turn out very different from what you first read to when they eventually come out. My judgement now, I think, has a lot more to do with who's involved. I've admired John Korty for a long time, and I was thrilled to get the opportunity to work with him.

Long Road Home, airing Monday, Feb. 25, on NBC, is a gritty drama directed by Korty. Korty has done a lot of movies looking back at important topics, including The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman and Farewell to Manzanar. Korty got his start years ago working for the Quakers making radical anti-war films.

"I think there's a need for that," said Korty. "There's also a need for the kinds of movies that these are, which may nudge 20 million, 30 million, 40 million people 10 degrees. You know, when I started out to make movies, I wanted to change the world. I wanted to make movies that would totally change the world very quickly," confessed Korty. "It doesn't happen quite that fast. But I think that one of the things you learn is that you need to — that certain things happen in a radical, sudden way and other things happen in a gradual way."

Ironically, for all its retrospective virtues, in many ways Long Road Home hits on today's issues of the homeless and jobless. "I think that we are definitely going into a very difficult period for America economically," expounded Korty. "And this is a movie that tries to go back into the last period of economic difficulty and say, 'Look it's bad, but it's not the end of the world.' ... This is the way people hold together. And I think that's important to bring back."

Maybe by looking back we look ahead. © TV Listing Inc.

Larry Hagman, Linda Gray to reunite in 'Love Letters'

Larry Hagman and Linda Gray, who starred as husband and wife on Dallas for 12 seasons, will be appearing together in Love Letters at the Canon Theatre in Beverly Hills during March. Gray will be guest-starring later this season on Dallas.

Sally Field has hired a personal security guard after receiving threats apparently inspired by her starring role in the film Not Without My Daughter, a drama about hostages in Iran. Field decided to hire protection "because of the times we're in right now," her publicist said.

Production has begun on ABC's new comedy series When You're Smiling, which stars Ray Sharkey. The series follows the evolution of Brooklyn-born Italian-American Sal Bavasso, a ne'er-do-well who reluctantly promises his dying father that he'll continue running the family grocery store.

ABC will air the reality series Emergency Room this spring, in addition to American Detective, already ordered as a spring replacement.

ABC's hit series The Young Riders, for the second year in a row, has been named a winner of the 1991 Western Heritage Award. The award will be presented March 16 during a ceremony at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City.

Billy Crystal has been set as host of the 63rd Annual Academy Awards presentation, to be telecast live March 25 on ABC.

Richard Crenna's lawyering skills are tested in CBS' And the Sea Will Tell, Sunday and Tuesday.

Bruce Weitz joins the cast of Anything But Love, airing Wednesdays on ABC, as a no-nonsense reporter.

Dan Aykroyd and the late John Belushi (from left) turn Chicago on its ear when they play The Blues Brothers, Wednesday on cable's USA Network.

SOAP TALK

Bradley's story will likely drag on

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: On The Young and the Restless, why doesn't Bradley Carlton fly to Las Vegas and find out about his marriage? He's supposed to be such a bright person, why hasn't he thought about that? —Thank you, Mrs. D.M. Screder, Stillwater, Minn.

Dear Mrs. Screder: If Bradley were to find out the truth so soon, it would be a definite end to the storyline, and the writers won't let that happen. True to the Y&R format, the Brad-Cassandra-Traci storyline has to last so long that we just become sick of it, or used to it.

Dear Candace: Don't the writers remember on Y&R that Leanna was married to Psychiatrist Stephen Lassiter, Ashley's former husband, who was killed? The storyline now is that she was a virgin before she married Victor and has only had sex with two men.

And why doesn't someone look into David's past — Catherine, Jill, Cricket or Danny, just someone? —Thanks, Vicky Veselenak, Byesville, Ohio

Dear Vicky: Leanna was never really married to Stephen. She fantasized about him incessantly and tried to kill him when he put off her advances. Supposedly, she was a virgin when she married Victor, but who knows, that story could change tomorrow. I'd say it looks like David's time is up, one way or another.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. © TV Listing Inc.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Something for everyone on week's movie lineup

By Amy Schmidt

ABC has two offerings. Leading off the week Sunday, Feb. 24, is the sexy baseball comedy Bull Durham, starring who else but Kevin Costner and Susan Sarandon. Sarandon plays a nymphomaniac school teacher who feels it's her duty to "tutor" the players on the local minor league team. She finds a tough challenge in shrewd catcher Costner. Then, Dirty Harry, a.k.a. Clint Eastwood, returns a fifth time in The Dead Pool, premiering on network TV Monday, Feb. 25.

Filmed in Hawaii, Tahiti and Vancouver, British Columbia, is CBS' true island murder drama And the Sea Will Tell. The two-part miniseries airs Sunday and Tuesday, Feb. 24 and 26. It stars, among others, Richard Crenna, Rachel Ward, Hart Bochner and Deidre Hall.

On NBC Sunday, comic Robin Williams plays a Vietnam War DJ who turns Saigon on its ear in the funny yet dramatic film Good Morning, Vietnam. On Monday, sex-symbol Mark Harmon stars in a less-than-glamorous role in the premiere of Long Road Home. Harmon plays an ex-rodeo cowboy trying to eke out an existence as a migrant worker during the Great Depression.

Real-life husband and wife Val Kilmer and Joanne Walley, and actor Wallick Davis star in the fantasy epic Willow. The 1988 theatrical release makes its TV debut Monday on Fox. © TV Listing Inc

STEVE'S BEAT

Rod Steiger takes on role as white supremacist

By Steven Alan McGaw

Rod Steiger heads the cast of an NBC telefilm now in production titled In the Line of Duty: The Twilight Murder Case. Steiger portrays Gordon Kahl, a real-life white supremacist who murdered three North Dakota lawmen before meeting his own death at the hands of the FBI.

Peter Graves is now taping his fourth season as host of the prestigious Biography series for cable's Arts & Entertainment Network.

Legendary director Robert Wise is planning to helm a musical biography of country singer Merle Haggard. It's still in the early stages.

Jerry Lewis has tentatively agreed to star in Sugarbabies II. Rehearsals should start by the summer.

Grace Zabriskie has joined River Phoenix and Keanu Reeves in My Own Private Idaho.

San Antonio recently played host to film crews from Island Productions filming the action movie Toy Soldiers. Louis Gossett Jr. stars in the story of a boys' prep school taken over by terrorists employed by Colombian drug lords.

If you haven't seen the movie Awakenings, do so. Robert De Niro and Robin Williams are marvelous (as usual), but Ruth Nelson is amazing as De Niro's devoted, sensitive mother. Don't miss this performance.

There's talk of turning Truman Capote's The Grass Harp into a movie.

APFA Meets, Adopts Position On Forest Mgmt.

The Appalachian Professional Foresters Association held its winter meeting at Barton's Restaurant at Rawlings, February 15. Eighteen of the members were in attendance with discussion centering around forest management of public land.

The members, which consist of private, public, and consulting professional foresters from Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania, adopted the following position statement on Forest Management of Public Lands:

1. Professional foresters have the experience and educational background to effectively manage forest lands for a variety of uses. Issues pertaining to forest land management can be best dealt with by professional foresters in a leading role, working in cooperation with other natural resource disciplines, user groups, and the general public.

2. We acknowledge the validity of managing forests through the use of the scientifically recognized even-aged and uneven-aged silvicultural systems. Both have a place in forest management and each is applicable, depending on management objectives, site conditions, tree species, and forest condition (tree age, and diameter; tree density; and damage from insect, disease, wind or fire). We further recognize that both of these systems can serve to perpetuate the forest for wildlife, recreation, aesthetic, water quality, timber production, and biological diversity.

3. A balanced age class distribution consisting of a variety of tree species, and age classes is essential to a varied and healthy population of both flora and fauna, contributing to the enhancement of biological diversity. Forest management activities, including timber harvesting, can have a positive effect on biological diversity.

4. In any forum involving forest resource planning, scientific forest management principles should be the basis for management decisions.

The summer meeting is set for June 6, 1991 at the Green Mountain Training Center of Westvaco Corporation.

Pine Seedlings Available For Spring Planting

White pine tree seedlings may be purchased at cost from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Landowners interested in planting a minimum of 250 seedlings for conservation purposes may order seedlings through the project forester in each Maryland county.

White pine trees are often planted to provide a windbreak, a visual screen or as a hedge. Orders may be taken now by the county foresters for spring seedlings delivery.

DNR's Buckingham Forest Tree Nursery in Harmans offers a variety of seedlings for sale to the public. Seedlings are sold on a first-come first-served basis, beginning in the fall. White pine seedlings may still be ordered from the county project forester for delivery this spring. Persons should consult the blue pages of the local telephone directory under State of Maryland listings to find the county forestry office.

Through his Green Shores program, Governor William Donald Schaefer encourages the planting of trees to improve and maintain the quality of the Chesapeake Bay watershed. County foresters may provide information on the seedlings as well as a number of other DNR tree planting incentives for Marylanders.

On Dean's List

The dean's list for the winter term at Bridgewater College has been announced by Dr. Carl H. Caldwell, Dean for Academic Affairs.

Included on the list was Elizabeth A. Whitehair, a senior majoring in elementary education, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitehair, of near Aurora, W.Va.

Students on the dean's list have attained a 3.2 or better quality point average of a possible 4.0, and are included in The National Dean's List, a publication citing academic achievement of college students nationwide.

DNR Newsletter Available At Public Libraries

A second edition of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources newsletter entitled VOICES -- Resource Planning News is now available at public libraries statewide. The newsletter reports on efforts to include the public in its decision-making process on state lands planning.

DNR manages a quarter of a million acres of public land throughout the state. A state lands planning process has been developed to manage those lands, with Savage River State Forest being the first in the planning process.

To learn more about the role of citizens in the public lands planning process, persons may visit their local library and request a copy of VOICES. They may also learn about other citizens' participation efforts by contacting: James Burtis, Jr., VOICES Editor, Department of Natural Resources, Tawes State Office Building, B-2, Annapolis, Md. 21401.

Potomac Edison Is Charter Member Of Global Releaf

Potomac Edison has become a charter member of Global Releaf, a national program promoting the planting of trees. Global Releaf is sponsored by the American Forestry Association, the oldest citizens' conservation group in the United States.

Potomac Edison officials were invited to the White House late last year to celebrate the company's involvement in this important tree-planting initiative.

A comprehensive forestry program created with the protection and care of the environment in mind has been in place at Potomac Edison for decades. Participation in Global Releaf is an extension of this environmental concern. Potomac Edison has promoted tree planting for many years through its tree replacement program. Twelve towns throughout PE's service territory in Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia have participated in this program, which encourages the replacement of older, decaying trees with lower-growing species more suitable for an urban environment. More than 700 trees have been planted as part of this program.

PE has also planted 18,000 trees on 27 acres at its Black Oak Substation in Allegany County, and is planning to plant an additional 10,000 trees in 1991. Trees will be planted on 20 acres of land at the site each year until a total of 480 acres is converted from agricultural to timberland. At the company's Unionville Substation in Frederick County, 3,500 trees will be planted by the end of 1991.

At Potomac Edison's arboretum and nature trail located at PE's corporate headquarters in Hagerstown, children and adults learn about the delicate balance that exists in nature. Tours of the nature trail allow school children to discover the wonders of the forest, with guides explaining the many types of trees, plants and wildlife found there. Nearly 2,000 blue spruce seedlings were given to students visiting the nature trail, employees, and customers last year to celebrate Earth Day, along with instructions on the proper planting and care of the trees.

Through its participation with Global Releaf, Potomac Edison will continue to promote the importance of tree planting to the preservation of the environment and to conservation. Trees planted near homes can save as much as 40 percent on home energy consumption while increasing property values. Properly planted trees can act as windbreaks and can shelter homes from the sun, reducing energy use in the winter and summer. Trees are also natural users of carbon dioxide, removing it from the air as they grow and releasing oxygen back into the air. "As well as being good for the earth and the environment, planting trees can help beautify the world we share," said a P.E. spokesman.

For more information on how proper tree planting can save energy at your home or business or for facts on planting the right tree in the right place, contact your local office of Potomac Edison.

GCC's "College And Me" Will Be Continued

The "College and Me Program," now in its second year at Garrett Community College, is among those early intervention programs in Western Maryland for which continued funding has been approved, according to Frank C. Peto, executive director of RESA.

A recent letter to Peto form George J. Funaro, deputy secretary of the Maryland Higher Education Commission, affirmed that Commission's intent to continue funding these programs. In his letter, Funaro stated, "The Commission is pleased with the work that has been done to increase the awareness and academic preparation of students and parents in Western Maryland to the benefits of a college education."

The College and Me Program makes it possible for every fifth grade student in Garrett County schools to spend one week on the college campus. During this week, fifth graders are taught their usual subjects by their regular teachers, but they also attend a series of enrichment activities taught by college faculty and administrators. For these activities, which cover a variety of subject areas, the fifth graders are divided into smaller groups so that each group attends two such activities a day.

Mrs. Linda Strider, coordinator of Garrett's program, also plans for parents to come to the college campus one day each week to learn about the college and visit some classes with their children.

COLLEGE AND ME PROGRAM TO CONTINUE -- Garrett Community College's "College and Me" program, which provides the opportunity for every fifth grade student in Garrett County to attend a week of classes at the GCC McHenry Campus, will be re-funded for next year, according to an announcement by the Regional Educational Service Agency (RESA). Above, Garrett CC Instructor Terry LaRocco teaches German to a group of local fifth graders. The program is currently in its second year of operation.

Annapolis Bus Trip Scheduled For Career Fair

Eighty Garrett County families have expressed interest in attending the Computer, Math and Science Career Day Fair, which will be held at the Annapolis Mall on Saturday, March 2. Since many families have decided to drive, there are still 10 bus seats available. The round trip fare is $10 per person.

For reservations, persons should contact Ben Thorn, counselor at Southern Middle School. Families who are planning to drive may obtain maps of the mall area from Mrs. Cherle Glotfelty at Northern Middle or from Thorn. All students attending are encouraged to register with the guidance counselors so that the AAUW members may anticipate their needs.

The bus will leave from the Garrett Community College parking lot promptly at 6:15 a.m. and stop at Northern High School at 6:30 a.m. After a short stop at Fort Frederick, arrival at the Annapolis Mall will be about 11 a.m. The bus will leave for the return trip at 3 p.m., stopping for a "McDonald's dinner" at the individual's expense. In the event of inclement weather, persons should listen to station WKHJ before leaving home to check on bus cancellation.

The Fair is being sponsored by the Maryland Division of the American Association of University Women in order to acquaint middle school students with the need to schedule computer, math, and science courses throughout their coming school years in order to be prepared for career opportunities. Girls, as well as boys, are encouraged to enter these fields, in order to prevent a shortage of trained personnel.

There will be prizes and surprises for the youngsters attending. They can learn about careers from female role models in computer know-how, mathematics, and sciences ranging from astronautics to zoology. Also featured will be the Maryland Science Center's traveling show, as well as other scientific and technological exhibits and demonstrations. Exhibits set up by colleges, universities, and technical schools will be staffed by personnel equipped to explain curriculum requirements for careers in such fields as engineering, medicine, financial analysis, veterinary medicine, and more.

Maryland Citizens With Disabilities Receive Funds

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that 42 Maryland citizens with disabilities have been awarded assistive devices as part of the Maryland Technology Assistance Program. Awards included assistance in home renovation for wheelchair users, wheelchairs, communication devices for people with hearing impairments, and computer hardware and software.

The Technology Assistance Program is administered by the Governor's Office for Handicapped Individuals and is funded by a grant from the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research.

"We are fortunate to be one of the first nine states to receive federal funding for this unique program," said Governor Schaefer. "We are putting devices and equipment in people's hands that will help make a difference in their everyday lives."

The Technology Assistance Program works to enhance the quality of life for people with disabilities. Program services include training, locating and evaluating assistive technology, and helping with the purchase of devices. It also provides information about assistive technology through a clearinghouse: 1-800-638-8864 (Voice), and 1-800-852-2892 (TDD).

The Technology Assistance Program is available to Maryland residents of any age who are limited in vision, hearing, speech, education, cognition, or mobility because of a disability. Persons applying for device funding should be able to show financial need.

When It Comes To Saving Money, Are You Overlooking The Obvious?

Think about it. Your checking account is the banking service you use most, but probably think about least. In today's economic environment, it makes sense to take a long look at your current checking account, and ask yourself some hard questions.

"Am I Overlooking An Opportunity To Earn Interest On My Checking Dollars?"

Do you have checking dollars sitting idle in a non-interest bearing checking account? If you normally keep a checking balance of $500 or more, you can earn a competitive rate of interest on your checking dollars with a First Federal Savings Bank Checking account.

"Do I Have Access To Overdraft Protection Just In Case I Overdraw My Account Or Need To Write A Check In An Emergency?"

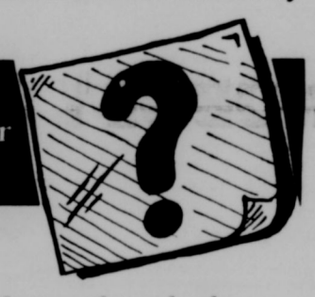
SERVICE FEE

Nobody's perfect. We all have times when we make an error in balancing our checkbook. Or, we need a little extra cash right before payday. Instead of paying an overdraft fee, you could be enjoying the convenience of Overdraft Protection, available with all First Federal checking accounts. Your application for Overdraft Protection is subject to credit approval.

"Does My Current Checking Account Respect The Value Of My Time?"

That's why we have branch offices conveniently located throughout Western Maryland. That's why many of our offices offer evening and weekend banking hours. And, of course, we offer the 24-hour convenience of the MAC/Cirrus network with every checking account.

"Does My Checking Account Make Sense For The Way I Use It?"



Everybody has different checking habits. Some people write many checks each month and others write only a few. Some people prefer to keep their checking balance as low as possible while others feel more secure having a higher balance available all the time. In fact, it could be that the checking account that made sense for your family ten years ago may be wasting your dollars today. In addition to having a number of different checking options, First Federal has a knowledgeable staff who will work with you to help you determine which checking account will be most cost-efficient for your family's checking needs today.

"Maybe I Should Talk To First Federal."

In today's financial environment, you can't afford to waste a nickel on anything, especially something as important as your checking account. Why not come in for a checking check-up at First Federal Savings Bank today?

COMPLETES REPAIR COURSE -- RoxAnn Wooden, co-owner of Maryland Hearing Aid Service, Bear Creek Road, Accident, with offices also in Cumberland and Somerset, Pa., recently completed a factory course in the repair of hearing instruments which qualifies her to offer on-site facilities for hearing aid repairs right in her local office. These new capabilities can save Maryland H.A.S. clients from the possible two-to-three-week delays under older systems where the instruments might have to be sent to a factory for repairs or adjustments. Wooden was trained in the spotting of and analyzing problems in hearing aids and how to repair, adjust and modify them in her local office/laboratory. She participated in the hands-on training course at the corporate headquarters of Electone, Inc., one of the four major manufacturers of hearing aids in the U.S., located in the Longwood suburb of Orlando, Florida. Hearing aid dispensers from the U.S., Canada, Latin America and the Pacific areas participate in the training courses at Electone.

Trio To Perform At FSU Campus

The Chamberlain Trio will present a recital on Sunday, March 3, at 8 p.m. in Pullen Auditorium on the Frostburg State University campus. The public is invited to this free concert.

Comprised of Dr. Ellen Grolman Schlegel, cello, Joan Knoblach, violin, and Kim Andrews, piano, the ensemble will present works by Rimsky-Korsakov, Cowell and Arbus.

The "Piano Trio," opus 1 by Russian composer Rimsky-Korsakov will be followed by the "Trio in Nine Short Movements" by American composer Henry Cowell Enrique Arbos' "Piano Trio" is three Spanish dances, the Bolero, the Habanera and the Sequidilla and completes the performance.

Since 1983, Ellen Grolman Schlegel has been the string specialist of the FSU Department of Music and conductor of the FSU Community Orchestra. A guest conductor for area orchestra festivals, she is also a frequent recitalist and adjudicator. Previous to her appointment at FSU, she held a faculty position in Eilat, Israel, where she performed extensively during her tenure in the Mideast. Dr. Schlegel is presently involved in editing a collection of 18th century string trios and compiling a catalog of works for piano trio by American women composers.

Joan Knoblach holds degrees from the Philadelphia Music Academy and Carnegie-Mellon University. She is presently a member of the Maryland, West Virginia, and Delaware Symphonies and teaches at the Cumberland Valley School of Music of Chambersburg, Pa. Previously, she held positions with the Knoxville and Savannah Orchestras. Ms. Knoblach plays a Richard Duke violin, made in London in 1767.

Kim Andrews studied piano at FSU under James Pierce and at the University of Missouri. She has performed for major music festivals throughout the United States and was first runner-up in the Collegiate Honors Division of the National Music Teachers Association Piano Competition. An accomplished organist, she is also a part-time member of the FSU Department of Music.

Completion Of Projects Noted By DNR, Trust

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced last week the release of a two-year annual report detailing 41,373,991 in projects made possible through donations to the state's tax check-off.

"The scope of projects outlined in this report demonstrates the power of the check-off to provide immediate benefit to our threatened wildlife and to the health of Chesapeake Bay," said Governor Schaefer. Donations to the check-off are divided evenly between the Chesapeake Bay Trust and the endangered species programs of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Governor Schaefer thanked Marylanders for their support of the check-off, by stating "they can be very proud that their contributions of volunteer time and money made these hundreds of projects possible."

The report lists 104 grants awarded by the Chesapeake Bay Trust. Many of the projects funded provide benefits statewide.

Awards with particular impact on Western Maryland include: $16,400 to the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin for an educational exhibition on the Potomac and $20,000 to the Commission for a clean-up project conducted along the length of the Potomac; $1,000 to the Frederick District Forest Conservancy Board for workshop expenses and a tour of the Monocacy Watershed; and $7,188 to the Monocacy River Clean-Up Campaign for an environmental awareness and clean-up project along the Monocacy shoreline.

DNR listed 39 completed projects and 40 proposed projects. Projects funded in Western Maryland included: $49,486 for barn owl habitat assessment; $2,500 for a study of cave invertebrates; $6,600 for a study of small mammals of Western Maryland; and $17,000 for a study of Maryland's remaining old growth forests.

The Chesapeake Bay Trust is a public non-profit organization that provides grants to community groups, schools, and non-profit organizations for Bay restoration projects.

DNR manages check-off contributions through the Nongame and Urban Wildlife Program and the Natural Heritage Program.

FFA Leadership for a growing planet

FFA Chapters Nationwide Are Celebrating National FFA Week

FFA members all over the country are promoting FFA, agricultural education and the food and fiber industry this week, Feb. 16-23, during National FFA Week.

This year's theme is FFA — Leadership for a Growing Planet. During FFA Week and throughout the year, FFA chapters will pursue activities which show that they are leading the effort for a better environment. Planting trees, starting community recycling efforts and restoring mining areas are just a few of the initiatives planned by various chapters across the country.

The week also provides FFA members in thousands of chapters across the U.S., Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands the chance to create awareness of and support for agricultural education and the FFA. Public service announcements at the local, state and national levels will help spread the message.

Agricultural education classes stress hands-on experience in diverse areas of agriculture. FFA activities provide leadership development, career training and award incentives for young people.

Mark Timm, national FFA president from Fillmore, Ind., said FFA Week is an opportunity for members and communities to recognize achievements and activities available through FFA and agricultural education. This year's theme challenges FFA members to make a difference in their communities; to think globally but act locally.

"We're young people trying to strike a balance between progressive agriculture and a healthy environment," Timm said. "As FFA members and students in agriculture classes, we are learning to wisely manage our resources, and gaining the leadership skills necessary to prepare for the diverse and challenging careers in agriculture."

Each year FFA Week is held during the week of George Washington's birthday (traditional) to recognize his leadership and commitment to American agriculture. The National FFA Center is located on part of Washington's original Mt. Vernon estate near Alexandria, Va.

FFA is a national organization of 387,042 members in 7,634 local chapters preparing for careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture. Local, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills acquired through agricultural education. FFA members strive to develop agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship.

Ohio Farmers Union Backs The "Agency"

"The Ohio Farmers Union (OFU) is deeply concerned with the drastic drop in dairy farmer income caused by falling milk prices. This trend is expected to continue which is why OFU has pledged financial aid and membership support to the Producers' Equalization Agency (Agency)," says Charlie Nash, president of OFU.

Nash explains, "The Agency is a dairy farmers' organization formed in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania that can be used by dairy farmers to establish over-order premiums. These premiums can be charged to milk processors, then paid to dairy farmers, and under today's marketing conditions, can assure dairy farmers of at least a $1 over-order premium. However, the Agency can only work if dairy farmers want it to work by signing an agreement to mutually price their milk. In order to help stabilize dairy farmer income, we pledge our (OFU) support and urge dairy farmers to establish this dairy farmers' pricing agency."

"Presently, 2,900 out of 5,000 dairy farmers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania have joined the Agency. But before over-order pricing can be implemented, the vast majority of dairy farmers need to sign an Agency Agreement to mutually price their milk. With the support of OFU and other agricultural organizations, we are moving closer towards our goal. However, pledges and borrowed funds will not last forever. This is why it is critical that within the next couple of months dairy farmers make the decision to price their milk by signing an Agency Agreement," explains John Siglow, general manager of the Agency.

Siglow adds, "Dairy farmers in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania need to act now. For more information those interested should call Ohio Farmers Union at 1-800-321-3671 or the Agency at 1-800-875-2250 to arrange a dairy farmers' meeting in your local community."

Agency Schedules Meeting For Dairy Farmers In Somerset, Garrett Co.

"Just last week I received my December final milk check and the federal order milk price dropped to $11.33 per hundredweight (cwt.). This is a drop of $4.16 per cwt., the largest drop in the milk price I have seen in over 10 years and a greater concern is the fact that it tells us (dairy farmers) where our milk prices are heading — down. How far our milk prices will drop is a good question, but based on the predictions by the USDA stated in the December issue of "Hoard's Dairyman," our blend price for 1991 could average below $12 per cwt.," says Lowell Friedline, independent dairy farmer from Somerset County, Pa.

Fredline, also a director for the Producers' Equalization Agency (Agency) adds, "Dairy farmers for years have concentrated their efforts and resources on improving the productivity on their dairy farm. This recent drop and trend of falling milk prices alarms us to a point where we (dairy farmers) need to look at other alternatives. We feel that another alternative we can look at is improving our price which is why I have agreed to schedule a meeting for dairy farmers in Somerset and Garrett counties.

"Obviously, the handwriting is on the wall. The government is no longer willing to support the milk price at a reasonable level. Therefore, if we want something done to maintain a reasonable living on our family farm, we need to do it ourselves."

Friedline explains that the Agency is a dairy farmers' organization and an alternative that can help dairy farmers by mutually pricing milk in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. The need for such a dairy farmers' organization, he says, is because milk processors can only pay higher over-order premiums is they know their competitors are paying the same premiums. This can only be done if the vast majority of all dairy farmers agree to price their milk.

The objective of the Agency is to keep some of the milk price drop for dairy farmers without directing milk or disrupting milk producer and processor relationships. "Our goal is to price milk at a level that will return at least a $1 over-order premium to dairy farmers. This premium will be paid to dairy farmers in a third check and their regular milk checks will continue to come from their milk processor. The cost of operating the Agency will be approximately one cent per cwt., which will be deducted from the premiums collected by the Agency.

To explain the Agency and to answer questions, a meeting for all dairy farmers has been set for Friday, February 22, beginning at 1 p.m. at the Springs Community Center on Route 669 in Springs, Pa.

"Now is the time to do something about your future. This is why I urge all dairy farmers in Somerset and Garrett County and surrounding counties to attend this meeting," concludes Friedline. Those wishing more information may call 1-800-875-2250.

Last Year Saw Record Harvests Across State

Statistics show that Maryland farmers opened the throttle a notch or two to get the decade's crop production off to a rousing start.

Overall, crop output in 1990 ranked as one of the most bountiful harvests in history.

Soybean and hay average yields were the largest on record, corn average yield tied the record yield, and aggregate soybean production for the state was at a record level. In addition, the average yield of all small grains approached historical highs.

Maryland growers produced a record 17.8 million bushels of soybeans in 1990, eight percent higher than the previous high of 16.5 million bushels in 1989. A six-bushel increase in the average per acre yield more than offset a smaller acreage harvested.

The average corn field in Maryland produced a record tying 118 bushels per acre, equal to the record set in 1985. Total corn production was 53.1 million bushels, 21 percent more than the 1989 output of corn for feed grain in Maryland. Because of relatively modest acreage in corn, this overall output is short of a record.

Maryland hay production in 1990 amounted to 678,000 tons, an eight percent increase from 1989. The average yield per acre, at 3.01 tons, was the highest on record. This large yield more than offset below-record acreage harvested.

The Maryland tobacco crop averaged 1,330 pounds per acre, 60 pounds below the record level set in 1982. High yields pushed overall production of tobacco to 9.4 million pounds, a little more than the previous crop but still the second smallest Maryland tobacco crop on record due to the drastically reduced acreage devoted to this crop.

Only peaches, trimmed drastically by spring frost, suffered from adverse weather during the year.

Potato production totaled 324,000 hundredweight, three percent above the 1989 production of 315,000 hundredweight.

Sweet potato production for 1990 totaled 84,000 hundredweight, five percent above the 1989 production of 80,000 hundredweight.

Small grain yields were up from 1989, but not quite to record levels. Winter wheat and barley yields for 1990 at 52 and 68 bushels per acre, respectively, were one bushel short of the record 53 and 69 bushel records in 1988.

Rye yield for 1990 at 30 bushels per acre was short of the record 33 bushels for 1985 and 1986. Oat yield was 58 bushels per acre, compared to the record 60 bushels in 1985.

Winter wheat production for 1990 totaled 9.88 million bushels, 15 percent above the 8.60 million produced in 1989.

Oat production for the 1990 season totaled 986,000 bushels, 25 percent fewer bushels than the 1.3 million bushels produced in 1989.

Winter wheat seeded in 1990 for 1991 harvest is expected to total 205,000 acres, three percent or 5,000 acres above the 200,000 acres in 1989 for 1990.

Farming In Maryland ..... Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Mountain Fresh Producers Hold January Meeting

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association held their first meeting of the year on January 24. All members present felt that the 1990 season was very successful in both the demand for their produce in direct and bulk sales, and also at the tailgate market. Along that line, members feel the new pavilion in the Oakland town parking lot should be a great asset in this coming season.

Members were presented new areas to think about regarding this new facility: to finalize a schedule for the coming produce season; assigning spaces; and expanding the use to include special events such as the selling of Christmas trees and crafts in December. These areas will be discussed at the next meeting.

New opportunities were presented for the membership to think about. These included ideas for new products such as small fruits. Workshops for topics in which growers have expressed an interest will be planned. Jim Simms reported that the new meat processing plant is on schedule and should be completed mid to late summer. This will mean that there will be a new demand for locally raised beef, lambs, hogs, and goats.

It was noted that the association has two items of equipment available for borrowing — a plastic mulcher and a transplanter. Interested members may contact Jim Simms at 334-1990.

Also under new opportunities, the Maryland Department of Agriculture is in the process of developing a tail-gate market in Allegany County and have approached the Mountain Fresh Producers Association with the possibility of including Allegany County in their association. Three things are expected: Allegany would be able to start under a recognized logo; current association members would be able to participate in the Allegany markets and they in the local ones; and the Allegany markets could participate in the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program, something they cannot do unless they are included under the Mountain Fresh umbrella. It was moved and approved by the membership present to include Allegany County growers in the Mountain Fresh Producers Association.

A number of problems the group may have to solve before or during the coming season were also discussed by the group. The first problem is one of money. Funding for the Department of Agriculture as well as the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service is being severely cut by the budget problems of the state of Maryland. This translates into less money for the association in the form of grants that are used for advertising and salary for a market coordinator.

Members were asked to think about possible solutions, such as members volunteering to do marketing one or two days a week. It is hoped that there will be some funding available to hire a coordinator two or three days a week.

An inventory of crops was another issue stressed. Members were told they need to do a better job of giving information to the market coordinator, such as what crops are being raised, estimated harvest times, estimated amounts. This is especially important for direct and bulk sales.

Also thrown out for members to think about was the membership fee for 1991, and any interest in purchasing seeds, pesticides or packaging materials in bulk.

The association's next meeting will be held February 28, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension Office in Oakland.

The members were invited to participate in an open house presented by the Maryland Department of Agriculture on March 23. This year the department is including an "Old Tyme Farmers' Market" and are inviting farmers and craftsmen to sell their bedding plants, jams, jellies, honey, and other homemade craft and specialty products. The open house will be at the department headquarters in Annapolis and they are expecting a crowd of at least 5,000. Anyone interested in participating as an individual or part of Mountain Fresh should contact Jim Fearer at 334-2185 (work) or 334-9549 (home), or Jim Simms at the Extension Office, 334-1990. The fee for a six-foot table will be $20 and the deadline for reservations is February 26.

Low-Cholesterol Eggs Introduced

The C.R. King Egg Company of King of Prussia, Pa., is using a combination of sea kelp, bran, alfalfa meal and vitamin E in hens' diets to produce an egg that is lower in cholesterol.

Marketed under the tradename Heartland's Best Eggs, the company reports that a person can regularly eat as many as a dozen Heartland's Best eggs a week without increasing levels of serum cholesterol in the body.

The eggs were introduced into the Cincinnati, Ohio, and Grand Rapids, Mich., markets this fall. The company hopes to expand to markets in Jacksonville, Fla., and Albany, N.Y., by mid 1991.

The eggs are identified by a little red heart printed on each eggshell, and will be produced and distributed by 26 franchises across the nation.

The company spent more than $2 million in research and development and has obtained patents on the operation. The Purina Mills feed company produces the specially formulated feed.

Heartland's Best eggs sell for nearly $2 per dozen in the grocery stores, compared with the national average of $1.10 per dozen for regular eggs.

MASCD Seeks To Stall 2020 Legislation

In a riveting and stirring final session, members of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts (MASCD) discussed land equity and land preservation and the potential repercussions of the Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act also known as "Maryland 2020" legislation. Many members of the association, who are also landowners in Maryland, expressed extreme concern about the legislation and the implications it held for them as landowners.

"If this 2020 legislation passes," George Lechlider, farmer and first vice president of MASCD stated, "It would eliminate our land equity. We need to protect the rights of individual landowners. Agriculture represents half of the businesses in the state. We owe it to ourselves as managers of a business to get this bill postponed or killed."

Lechlider continued his impassioned speech by listing the dangers a state growth plan would pose for the agricultural community. He said it could be the end of agriculture in Maryland.

Wicomico County farmer Richard Wright said: "The implications of this bill are too complicated. We are not out of line to ask for a delay."

MASCD supports the governor giving more time for study of the proposal. That was the official action. A resolution was advanced and sent to Governor William Donald Schaefer to postpone the Chesapeake Bay Growth Protection Commission Act for at least 18 months for additional study due to potential adverse fiscal impacts to agriculture.

The unofficial feeling of the organization's members was to fully oppose any type of statewide growth plan. Indeed, it was pointed out that MASCD's policy book already opposes any such proposal.

In an earlier discussion, Leonard Lowry of Washington County delivered a statement opposing the 2020 legislation. It reflected the organization's mood.

"Farmers in Maryland in my generation have spent their lives working hard, paying for the land, many times under very stressful conditions," Lowry began. "They have taken care of the land because of their pride in their accomplishments. Now the citizens of the state admire what they see in the rural areas and enjoy the quality of life that has been achieved through much hard work.

"Protecting the farmer's equity in their land and their right to farm will be the only way to preserve this quality of life in Maryland."

Another resolution was presented strongly opposing any reduction in Program Open Space funding for the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Program. At present, $17 million slated for this program has been deleted by the General Fund Deficit Reduction Act of 1991. The resolution states, in part, that MASCD believes that the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Program has a proven record of success in accomplishing its goals. During the first 14 years of the program, 194,388 acres were enrolled in agricultural preservation districts. The resolution further stated:

"Since July 1, 1990, an additional 526 agricultural preservation districts, with 59,758 acres, were enrolled. This tremendous success of the preservation effort is due in large part to the increased commitment to the funding of the easement purchase program supported by Governor Schaefer, the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the Maryland General Assembly.

"The MASCD encourages Governor Schaefer's continued commitment and support of the Maryland Ag Land Preservation Funding Program . . . (we) believe that the MALPF Program more effectively accomplishes the "Visions" of the 2020 report than any of the provisions of the Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act of 1991 recently proposed by the Governor's Commission on Growth."

Donald Spickler, a district supervisor from Frederick County and one of only two farmers on the 32-member 2020 Commission, said he realized early in the game that agriculture did not have "an agenda" in the commission. "So I quickly put one together," he said.

It had three goals — to recognize the equity in the land, to preserve private property rights and to guarantee the right to farm without harassment.

"It is my desire," Spickler said, "that the state's priority — indeed, the national priority — will be that raising food will be considered as important as development."

He added that the commission did not look at the existing state programs while writing their legislation.

"I think in many ways, the agricultural community is doing a good job. Contrary to some of the bad press we have been getting, everything isn't going downhill. For example. I don't think they looked at the existing farm preservation program. Why gut a program that's working?"

Resolutions were also passed on the following: waiving public notice and hearing provisions if minimum design standards on livestock crossings are met; supporting an effort to reclassify Class III trout streams that sustain no native trout population; and supporting a cover crop "best management practice" to be cost-shared by the Maryland Agricultural Cost Share Program. A resolution selecting a state soil, much the same as the selection of a state bird, tree, etc., was tabled for further study.

Maryland agricultural issues were brought up and discussed at the winter meeting in committee and area meetings. They included the Greenshores Program and how it might piggyback on top of the already existing Conservation Reserve Program. Intensive grazing management was another topic, and the problems inherent in applying sludge to farmland.

A new Resource Conservation and Development Area (RC&D), a program through the USDA Soil Conservation Service that encourages community development, was further discussed for the western counties of Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick.

An RC&D area is designated by the USDA, who provides a full-time SCS coordinator to obtain grants and funding for various projects suggested by the local communities. The RC&D includes a board of directors who discuss the suggested measures and sets priorities. These measures may include such projects as historical restorations and public use sites. County development directors are also involved in this planning process.

A new project was explored for the existing RC&D area on the Eastern Shore that would recycle tires, and the restoration of a grist mill was also discussed. Sediment control on state highway projects, pond standards, and groundwater testing were also brought out in smaller committee meetings.

A lively discussion ensued about the interagency commitment to cooperate and the interagency acceptance of "best management practices." Members felt with this renewed cooperation, they could reduce paperwork so more conservation would be applied to the land rather than just talking about it.

Conservation Districts in Maryland are a unique unit of local government that use state, federal, and local resources to solve conservation and natural resource problems. They are led by the belief that decisions on conservation problems should be made on the local level, by local people, with technical assistance provided by both the federal and state governments.

Each soil conservation district in Maryland is guided by a governing board of district officials who give their time and talents voluntarily. Each district office in the state is shared by personnel from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, the Maryland Department of Agriculture and other local and district employees needed to carry out specific programs.

Nationally, there are nearly 3,000 conservation districts, each assessing conservation problems on the local level and setting priorities for conservation efforts. They coordinate and carry out programs that involve erosion and sediment control, non-point source pollution, water quality enhancement, flood control, mine reclamation, rural development, wetlands protection, and urban resource planning.

DNR, Farmers Agree On Bill To Eliminate Cattle Crossing Red Tape

Last month, farmers and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources found themselves on the same side of the stream, so to speak — an occurrence many describe as rare.

This came about after a Maryland Senate bill was proposed by DNR waiving the requirement of farmers to notify neighbors when building a cattle stream crossing. Action was taken by DNR after prompting from the state's Soil Conservation Committee and other agricultural sectors.

The bill was presented to the Senate Committee on Economic and Environmental Affairs, with no objections raised to the amendment by any committee members.

Without a stream crossing — essentially a crude bridge with fencing to funnel the cattle to it — cattle are seen as polluters of water. The cattle defecate and urinate in the water and break down the stream's banks.

In the words of Catherine Stevenson, chief of DNR's water resources branch, cattle stream crossings "are a very beneficial activity." The Maryland Department of Agriculture and the USDA offer cost-sharing funds to farmers building cattle stream crossings.

However, in order to put in a stream crossing, farmers are required, under current Maryland law, to notify all their neighbors. If any of those neighbors offer any objection, then the farmer has to go through a public hearing to gain approval.

Such red tape is a hindrance for cattlemen who would like to do the "environmentally beneficial" thing.

"Sending notice to every adjacent landowner may be a disincentive," Stevenson said. "We went too far," she added in discussing the current law.

Robert Knutsen, a Cecil County farmer, has come head-to-head with the stream crossing law. He wanted to build a stream crossing for his 200 head of cattle in 1989, but encountered a bureaucratic nightmare. His was a case that many in agriculture point to as an example of over-regulation.

"Our stream is a designated trout stream," said Knutsen. "That's ridiculous. The stream dries up in the summer."

Because it is a "trout stream," Knutsen had to get a permit from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to build a stream crossing — an earthen bridge with a pipe to allow the water to flow through underneath. Knutsen said the Corps required him to put two pipes instead of one to allow for the imaginary trout.

Then Knutsen got the kicker. He found out about the state law requiring him to notify his neighbors of his intention to build the crossing. "We had to send 27 letters to adjoining property owners," he said. Knutsen gave up.

But his case led to DNR's Stevenson presenting a bill to end the requirement of notification.

Royden Powell III, a Queen Anne's County farmer and president of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts, supported DNR's proposal in testimony before the Senate committee.

"The Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts has traditionally helped farmers implement best management practices," Powell said. "Anything that we can do that would lead to better participation (in the stream crossing program) will improve the quality of the state's waters."

Knutsen said that he will consider putting in a stream crossing if the state gets rid of its notification requirement.

What Does Farm Bill Mean To Dairy Farmers?

Editor's Note: In a continued effort to understand the 1990 Farm Bill, this article by Economist James S. Fraher is being reprinted from the January issue of "Atlantic Update" published for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

On November 28, 1990, President Bush signed into law the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990.

The Act, also known as the 1990 Farm Bill, sets basic U.S. dairy policy for the 1991-1995 period. The most important provision of the bill is the establishment of a $10.10 per hundredweight U.S. support price "floor" for milk testing 3.67 percent butterfat. For milk testing 3.5 percent butterfat, the support price is $9.90 per hundredweight. This is the current U.S. support price.

The establishment of a support price floor of $10.10 represents a major change from the 1985 Farm Bill. The Food Security Act of 1985 contained a "trigger" which reduced the support price based on Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) purchases of surplus dairy products.

The 1990 Farm Bill also changed the way dairy surpluses are calculated. To date, all such accounting has been based on butterfat equivalents. As a result, with heavy butter purchases in recent years and little or no cheese or non-fat dry milk purchased, surpluses have looked much larger than they were in reality.

The new Farm Bill will substitute total solids for butterfat accounting. The Act further provides authority for the Secretary of Agriculture to increase or decrease the support price based on surplus purchases, provided that the price is not reduced below $10.10 per hundredweight.

For calendar years 1991-1995, if purchases are greater than five billion pounds total solids equivalent, the Bill calls for a support price reduction of between 25 cents and 50 cents per hundredweight. If removals are between 3.5 billion pounds and five billion pounds, there is no change in the support price. If removals are estimated at less than 3.5 billion pounds, the support price will be increased by at least 25 cents per hundredweight. In no case can the support price be reduced below $10.10 per hundredweight.

As has been the case in recent years, the Farm Bill had to pass strict "budget muster." For the first time, the 1990 Farm Bill limited total annual expenditures for surplus dairy products at the cost of purchasing seven billion pounds of total solids equivalent. If annual surplus purchases exceed the seven billion pound "cap" during any of the years 1991-1995, a uniform assessment per hundredweight will be charged to all U.S. producers. The assessments will be equal to the cost of purchases in excess of seven billion pounds.

The Farm Bill also provides a vehicle for the development of an "inventory management" program to limit milk surpluses. By August 1, the Secretary of Agriculture is to "prepare and submit a report and recommendations" to the House and Senate Agriculture Committees on "milk inventory management programs." USDA will be soliciting supply management proposals from the industry as part of this study. This study will include a review of two-tier pricing. Adoption of another "buy-out" program is prohibited.

The Bill also calls for "reform" of the Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) price series. USDA is currently preparing a study of alternative price formulas. By October 1, a national Federal Order hearing will be held to consider proposals to replace the M-W with a new price mover.

The Farm Bill also requires that, effective November 28, no state shall provide a greater "make allowance" than that provided by the U.S. support program. Currently, the state of California provides manufacturing plants with processing margins that are considerably greater than those used by CCC. Given the vague wording of this section of the Act, there are questions regarding USDA's ability to enforce this provision.

The Bill also provides for the possible establishment of a "processor-funded promotion program." Any monies collected under the program would be generated by an increase in Class I prices. The maximum rate of funding is set at 20 cents per hundredweight. Processor approval is needed to implement the program.

In sum, the establishment of a $10.10 per hundredweight support price floor represents a major achievement for producers. As significant, the establishment of a ceiling on total Federal dairy program costs signals producers that needed income can only be generated in the marketplace.

Specialty Veggies Have Potential

Growing specialty vegetables fits into the same financial scheme as buying high-yielding junk bonds in the money markets.

"Chances of taking home a tremendous profit are balanced out by the big risk," said Rick VanVranken, vegetable specialist at Rutgers University in New Jersey.

"Consumers want quality and variety, anything different insofar as color, shape, size and taste go," he said.

"This covers the gamut of specialty ethnic, tropical, baby and miniature vegetables, herbs, edible flowers and organic produce."

The risks include a scarcity of information on cultivation practices, which variety to grow and lack of proved pesticides to use on the crop. Also, some items are extremely perishable, VanVranken says.

On marketing specialty veggies, VanVranken suggested keeping labels small on packaging that enhances market appeal and providing recipes for those experimenting with the product for the first time.

To put the right product in the right market, he said, it is necessary to study the demographics of potential buyers — income, religion, ethnic group and distance they travel to the market.

Potential markets can be found at roadside stands, restaurants, hotels, gourmet food stores, retailers and wholesalers, VanVranken said.

But he cautioned that wholesale outlets on many products would be limited. "Test the market and start small," he advised. "And remember that just a few growers can rapidly flood the market."

State Adds Roof Runoff Controls To Clean Up Cost-Share Program

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) has announced the addition of a new eligible practice to the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share Program (MACS). Referred to as Roof Runoff Management, the new practice is intended to eliminate water pollution which is caused directly by roof runoff from farm buildings.

Cost-sharing of up to 87.5 percent will be allowed for guttering, downspouts, gravel trenches, drain tile, rip-rap, and other components which are needed in each case to intercept roof runoff and transport it safely to a permanent, stable outlet. Residences are not eligible for cost-sharing, but other farm buildings are. Under criteria adopted by the department, a proposed roof runoff project is eligible for MACS assistance only for those locations on a farm where existing roof runoff is causing severe soil erosion or transporting significant pollutants from animal waste, and where the roof runoff is contributing directly to the pollution of local streams or other surface waters.

Eligibility criteria and design requirements were developed by the department with the assistance of an interagency committee which included representatives of the USDA Soil Conservation Service and the local soil conservation districts in Maryland, among others.

"The soil conservation districts have told us that improper handling of roof runoff often contributes significantly to the pollution of local streams, especially in certain cases involving livestock operations. I am pleased to be able to add this practice to the 'toolbox' available to the districts as they work to help farmers solve pollution problems on their farms," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr.

The MACS program, in operation since mid-1983, is a major component of Maryland's ongoing efforts to reduce sediment and nutrient pollution of the Chesapeake Bay. MDA implements the program through the 24 local soil conservation districts in Maryland. Since 1983, the program has made a total of $24.9 million in state and federal funds available to farmers to install pollution controlling "best management practices" on their farms. By the end of 1990, a total of some 5700 individual projects had been approved for funding, of which 4,935 had been completed by farmers and for which $20.7 million had been paid out by MDA.

Farmers interested in receiving MACS assistance on the roof runoff practice, or any one of the 21 other practices recognized by the program. should contact their local soil conservation district. In Garrett County, farmers should contact the Garrett County Soil Conservation District, 334-1900.

MDA Annual Open House Set For March 23

The annual open house at the Maryland Department of Agriculture is expected to be bigger and better than ever with new things for the public to see and do on Saturday, March 23. Last year, the event drew over 3,000 visitors.

As in the past, the event will start off with the "Maryland With Pride" 10-K Run set up by the Annapolis Striders, starting at 9 a.m.

New this year will be laboratory tours in the department's brand new wing featuring labs that do work on animal feeds, household cleaning products, fertilizers, pesticides and even a lab which checks weights down to a millionth of a pound for accuracy.

Farming means food and there will be no shortage of cooking and food sampling demonstrations put on by many Maryland food commodity organizations ranging from apples to seafood and fish farming.

There will also be a number of activities for children: a farm coloring contest, face painting, and an always popular petting zoo stocked with fuzzy, furry and friendly animals.

The event is free and will be held at the department's headquarters building, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis. Additional information can be otrained by contacting Desiree Mundell at 301-841-5770.

Madigan Chosen As Secretary Of Agriculture

Newly nominated Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan, one of the chief congressional architects of the 1990 farm bill, knows agriculture and will be an excellent representative for America's farmers and ranchers, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Madigan has been named by President Bush to replace USDA Secretary Clayton Yeutter, who accepted an appointment as head of the Republican National Committee. Yeutter's resignation is effective March 1.

"We expect the same wisdom that guided Rep. Madigan toward his support of a more market-oriented agriculture will continue to guide his policy decisions as secretary of agriculture," said AFBF President Dean Kleckner. "His vast legislative experience will be a welcome ally in agriculture's corner."

Madigan has represented a rural congressional district in Illinois for the last 18 years. He has served as a member of the House Agriculture Committee for 16 of those years, and has been its ranking Republican member for eight years.

"The leadership that Ed Madigan has demonstrated will prove invaluable as he leads a market-based agriculture toward the challenges of a new century," Kleckner said. "He was a key designer of the market-oriented provisions of the 1985 and 1990 farm bills as a member and leader of the Agriculture Committee."

In addition, Madigan's other committee assignments provide him a broad base in areas like the environment, finance, commerce and energy.

"That will serve to bolster America's farmers and ranchers as they face tests in related areas such as world trade, the environment and preserving the rights essential for the basic freedom to farm," Kleckner said.

In 1988, Madigan was recoginized by Farm Bureau for his outstanding legislative service to agriculture.

Aquaculture Program Draws 70 Participants

The Aquaculture Program sponsored recently by Garrett County Extension Service drew over 70 participants who were interested in the possibility of raising striped bass, trout, or catfish as an alternative income enterprise. Dr. Daniel Terlizzi, Sea Grant agent, presented information on raising finfish in Garrett County ponds or tanks.

A cage was partically built which could be placed in ponds and holds up to 250 fish. Most fish cost approximately $2.00 to raise with the main costs being food. Fish can be sold for approximately $4/per pound. Most fish, and especially new hybrids, can be grown to two pounds in 12-18 months. The fish are started as fingerlings in size.

A survey was sent out to participants to determine what type of follow-up to the meeting is needed. A workshop-demonstration program at a farm pond is being proposed for April.

Persons interested in getting more information and adding their names to the Aquaculture mailing list should contact the Garrett County Extension Service (334-1990).

Potomac Edison's Home-Buying Seminars Slated February 22-23

The Potomac Edison Company's Second Annual Home Buying Seminars will be held in Cumberland on February 22 and 23 at the Holiday Inn. Held for the fist time in 1990, the seminars, which assist customers in making wise decisions when building or buying a new home, attracted 600 customers, according to a P.E. spokesman.

According to Western Division Manager Nancy Neff, "Potomac Edison would like to help its customers live smart and build smart. They can enjoy a lifetime of affordable comfort when energy-efficient appliances, proper insulation and thermal treatment are considered at the time a home is built."

Neff added that Robbie Robinson of Goodfellow Agency, David Mathews of First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, Richard Kidd of Home Federal Savings Bank, John Murphy of Foxcraft, Inc., and Wayne Hosselrode of Potomac Edison will all make presentations designed to help home buyers become aware of options available and assist them in making wise decisions when buying. "These professionals will also be available to answer any questions potential home builders and buyers might have. Last year's participants agreed that the seminars were very useful in helping them learn the ins an outs of today's home market."

Admission to the seminars is free. They will be held at the Holiday Inn in downtown Cumberland. The February 22 meeting will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and the February 23 meeting will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. Reservations are not necessary, according to Neff, but if customers know they will definitely attend, they may call 1-800-654-3317 to indicate their interest.

"Treasure Hunt Of Homes" Set For This Weekend

Thousands of homes will be open for the statewide "Treasure Hunt of Homes" February 23-24, from 1 to 4 p.m. each day. The event, jointly sponsored by the Garrett County Board of Realtors and the Maryland Association of Realtors' "Do It Now! Buy a Maryland Home" campaign, is designed to inform the public of the opportunities available in today's market.

Garrett County Board of Realtors' President Karen F. Spiker, stated, "Currently, it is a buyer's market, but it won't last long. Anyone considering buying a home should take advantage of this opportunity. An incredible array of open houses will be found in Garrett County on the 23rd and 24th. Prices are excellent and interest rates, including FHA at 9 percent, are the lowest in many years."

Spiker continued, "During the statewide 'Treasure Hunt of Homes ' weekend properties will be designated in newspaper advertisements in The Republican, as well as individual properties posted with special 'Treasure Hunt of Homes' insignias. Even if you are only 'thinking about it,' stop by and take advantage of this chance to preview the homes open over this special weekend.

"In kicking-off the 'Do It Now! Buy a Maryland Home' campaign, we have been enthusiastically supported by Governor William Donald Schaefer," she continued. "The Governor is again demonstrating his commitment to assist Maryland homebuyers with the announcement of soon-to-be released CDA (Community Development Agency) funds. These monies will be made available through the normal CDA process, working jointly with participating mortgage lenders in Garrett County. Not only are these funds an incentive, they offer many families, especially those with lower incomes, the chance to build for their future through homeownership. Buyers interested in obtaining further information on participating homes or potential CDA financing should contact a local realtor."

THE REALTY INDUSTRY has been sluggish nationwide for several months now, but sales are slowly beginning to rebound, according to some local realtors. In order to promote and encourage home sales, the state of Maryland and the Maryland Association of Realtors are currently conducting the "Do It Now; Buy a Maryland Home" campaign. The Garrett County Board of Realtors is participating in the campaign and has erected a banner, pictured above, on the Rob Michael Insurance building in Oakland, which also houses the Board of Realtors' office. Part of the campaign will be the "Treasure Hunt of Homes," slated for this weekend, Feb. 23-24, from 1 to 4 p.m. each day.

Miller-Coleman-Warnick Family Reunion Planned

The fourth annual Miller-Coleman-Warnick family reunion will be held on Saturday, July 20, from 11 a.m. until dusk, at Pavilion Number 3, Dan's Mountain State Park, Lonaconing. The pavilion is located adjacent to the swimming pool.

Those attending are requested to bring a covered dish for the meal, which will be served at 2 p.m. In the event of rain or reclosing of the park, an alternate, indoor site will be used.

A brief business meeting will be followed by games and entertainment for all age groups, with gifts and prizes awarded for the various categories.

All descendants of Revolutionary War soldiers Chris Miller and John Coleman, and of Mary Jane Warnick, are invited to attend. These three were originally owners of the land on which Dan's Mountain State Park now stands.

An early notice of the reunion date is published at this time to assist those who must make early vacation plans or drive long distances to attend. Each descendant should contact all of his or her family members and other descendants who may not have access to this information.

An up-to-date record of family information will again be published in the program folder. All items of interest (family deaths, births, marriages, engagements, graduations, retirements, and special honors or awards) should be forwarded to Elizabeth Reed or June Ambrose, 30 West Main Street, Lonaconing, Maryland 21539, or call 301-463-5885, in sufficient time to allow for publication but not later than July 1.

Anyone wishing additional information may contact Elizabeth Reed at the above listed number or Regis Bittinger at 301-777-8486.

Eighty-Year-Old Rebel Challenges Other Seniors In Recent Book

by Pam Ashby

A self-proclaimed spokesman for the elderly people of the world, Jesse E. Aiken challenges other senior citizens to join in his quest for peace, justice, world hunger, and ecology. In his recently self-published book, An 80-Year-Old Rebel Says!, he says he is angry — "angry because just at the time when we, the elders, have the experience, the knowledge, and the ample time to make significant contributions to the welfare of the human race, we are written off as people of little value."

Jesse E. Aiken

While aware that anger can be a destructive force, Aiken subscribes to the notion that creative anger can become a positive force.

Aiken says his objectives in writing An 80-Year-Old Rebel Says! is to encourage men and women of his generation to muster all the creative energy they possess to become a force for good where so much evil prevails; to dramatize the need for peace and justice in a world ravished by the destructive scourge of war; to attack the twin abominations of poverty and hunger via a more equitable distribution of the world's bountiful resources; to make us more aware of the desecration of Planet Earth by selfishness and carelessness and that seniors have a special responsibility to do all they can to prevent the rape of Planet Earth.

The name Aiken likely rings familiar with local folks because of the late Delegate B.O. Aiken, who was a lifelong resident of Garrett County. Jesse Aiken is a nephew of B.O. Jesse served as his uncle's best man when B.O. married Hildegarde Miller. At the wedding, Jesse met Martha Miller, who was then a high school senior and the younger sister of Hildegarde. Six years later they married.

Jesse grew up in Littleton, N.C., a town just slightly larger than Accident. He graduated from Duke University in 1932 and went to Washington, D.C., where he expected to enter the Foreign Service Division of the State Department.

But under the Economy Act of 1932, those jobs were eliminated. So after a few "false starts," Jesse got into the real estate business, first in Washington and then in Maryland and for a total of 55 years.

In 1986, Jesse underwent a quintuple bypass operation and then moved back to Hickory, N.C. to be near his daughter and her family. That same year, he began to write fiction to convey his convictions about peace, justice, world hunger, and ecology.

Every year since 1932, Jesse spends part of his summer in Garrett County. He will be here again this summer for the annual Miller-Aiken reunion.

An 80-Year-Old Rebel Says! contains three short stories and one novelette. They explore ageless themes such as male-female relationships and the conflict of the generations.

The dialect and settings are familiar in his parables of small-town life. The author says he bases his characters on real friends and acquaintances but he stresses that he is writing fiction. "I don't want to be sued by anyone," he laughs.

Aiken writes about three hours a day and refuses to be put on the shelf where older citizens are too often placed. He has something to say and his life's experiences give him the right to say it. He's been there. "I think the average senior, as I see it, lives far below his or her potential," he stated.

The dialogue is believable and the stories are easy to read. It is this middle-aged writer's opinion that Jesse Aiken's book would be enjoyed and benefitted by young and old alike. His subtle and not-so-subtle messages of the human condition are lessons worth learning.

"Big events in my life have been controlled by things that were beyond my control," said Aiken. "I can say, however, I've had a great life and a wonderful experience."

An 80-Year-Old Rebel Says! is Aiken's fourth book and is available only by writing to the author. He had 2,000 copies printed and his cost was $3.50 per book. He's hoping to break even.

Persons interested in ordering a copy may send $5 to Jesse Aiken, 249 5th Ave. N.E., Hickory, N.C. 28601.

Westvaco To Give Elm Trees To Towns, Colleges

Elm Research Institute has announced that the Westvaco Corporation has, for a second year in a row, underwritten Municipal/College Memberships, in Elm Research Institute, for 10 cities and four colleges. Under the Municipal/College Membership program, these communities and colleges will each receive 100 disease-resistant American Liberty elms distributed exclusively by Elm Research Institute. Each tree comes with a 10-year guarantee against Dutch elm disease. Over 1,400 American Liberty elms are scheduled for shipment in April to the sponsored groups.

Westvaco is taking part in the Tree-mendous Maryland Program initiated by Governor Schaefer. Ten other communities have also been sponsored through the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service. The Tree-mendous Maryland Program is orchestrated by Special Assistant Wally Orlinsky.

The trees will be planted by Boy Scout troops from each of the communities involved. The Boy Scouts call this their Johnny Elmseed Community Service Project. The project is designed to restore the American elm to its former glory.

Piedmont and Keyser, W.Va., Westernport, Luke, Cumberland, Oakland, Barton, Lonaconing, Frostburg and Midland, as well as Frostburg State University, Allegany Community College, Potomac State College and Garrett Community College, will be receiving these trees.

Members, residents, businesses, students and faculty are entitled to honorary membership (regularly $25/year) which allows them to purchase up to three American Liberty elms per year. For each tree so purchased, Elm Research institute will send a free match tree to the local Boy Scout troops involved in recognition of their assistance in this restoration project. The trees given to Boy Scouts may be used for future beautification projects or for troop fund-raising projects.

Persons who would like to assist Westvaco and these communities with this project should call 1-800-FOR-ELMS.

Ruston Named To President's List

Bonnie Ruston, a 1989 graduate of Southern High School, was named to the President's List at Southwestern College, San Diego, Calif., for earning a perfect 4.0 grade point average during the 1990 fall semester.

Miss Ruston is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Steyer, Deer Park.

Tree-Planting Workshops Slated By Department of Natural Resources

Marylanders may learn how to plant trees by attending one of six regional tree planting supervisor workshops sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources. The workshops will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and are free to all citizens.

The tree planting workshops closest Garrett County will be held March 23 at Allegany Community College. Citizens need only attend one workshop and may register by calling 974-3776.

Once trained, citizens will be qualified to act as tree planting supervisors and are encouraged to plant trees during the month of April for Maryland's Tree-mendous Earth Month Celebration. Governor William Donald Schaefer has challenged all counties to help him plant one million more trees this year. These trees should be above and beyond those trees which are routinely planted as part of a county's maintenance and landscaping.

"I encourage all Marylanders who love trees to attend a tree planting workshop and join Maryland's Tree-mendous Earth Month celebration," the Governor said. "These workshops are open to everyone and will help spread the word that trees help the Bay, provide food and shelter for birds and wildlife, and cool the air and ground."

For a copy of a brochure about how groups, schools, businesses, farmers, individuals, and government agencies can organize a tree planting for Earth Day, call (301) 974-5300.

TREE FOR THE TROOPS -- Crellin Elementary School students, staff, and parents braved the elements on February 14 to trim an evergreen planted to honor the troops of Operation Desert Storm. The Crellin PTA purchased the eight-foot blue spruce from Holland-Fike Nursery and had it planted beside the school sign to commemorate the troops. Each of the 119 students was provided a yellow ribbon by the PTA to place on the tree. According to Principal Asa McCain, approximately one-third of the school has a family member involved in the conflict.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The Maryland State Highway Department, in conjunction with the Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife Service, will be soliciting bids for tree planting on State Highway property this Spring in Garrett County.

The State of Maryland has a Reforestation Law that stipulates "That any project using State funds and resulting in the loss of an acre or more of trees, must put $500/acre in a fund to cover the cost of reforesting a similar size acreage."

The new truck Weigh Station on Big Savage Mountain on Route 48 Eastbound, which opened recently, is an example of such a project. The Weigh Station resulted in the clearing of approximately 16 acres of forest land. Under the reforestation law, a similar area on public land must be reforested.

Approximately six acres of ground on the side slopes around the new Weigh Station will be replanted under the reforestation law. The remaining ten acres will be planted on State Highway ground on Keyser's Ridge, near the SHA complex.

Contractors interested in bidding on this tree planting, and other plantings in Allegany County along Route 48, should attend a pre-bid meeting on February 26, at 10 a.m. at Allegany Community College.

BUILDING FOR SALE

Each year our JTPA Building Trades class constructs a small building. In the past, these buildings have been sold to the highest bidder. This year we have decided to seek a person or organization who would like to purchase the building for the cost of materials. In the past, materials have cost between $4500 and $5200.

The following is a description of a building built in previous years and this year's building would be very similar. The size would be identical. The building is 24'x12' and consists of 3 rooms. Room sizes are: 11'x14', 7'x9', and 3'9"x9'. It is frame construction covered with T1-11 siding. The interior is drywall. The building contains 4 windows and 2 doors. Electrical wiring, outlets and light fixtures are installed.

If you are interested in learning more, please contact Sandy Major at 387-6666, ext. 180, by March 1st.

Local Woman Arrested On Drug Charges

A 33-year-old Kitzmiller woman was arrested Tuesday on several illegal drug charges, including possession of marijuana with intent to distribute in a drug-free school zone. The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force made the arrest.

Kathy L. Hartman was charged with the violations after a search and seizure warrant was executed at her home in Kitzmiller. Counts against her include possession with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana and cocaine, as well as possession of controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia.

Kitzmiller Elementary School was apparently the drug-free school zone in question, according to a Garrett County Sheriff's Office spokesperson.

Hartman was released on her own recognizance shortly after her arrest. Further details were not available.

In a separate case, Michael J. Hardesty, 22, Deer Park, was arrested on multiple traffic charges after he reportedly eluded police officers in the early hours of Feb. 23.

Dep. D. Welch saw Hardesty skid through the intersection of Oakland Avenue and G Street in Mtn. Lake Park. When the officer attempted to stop the driver, Hardesty reportedly speeded up and drove through several intersections at a high rate of speed. Welch then lost track of the defendant and contacted Dep. D. Crossland, who was in the area.

Crossland caught up with Hardesty in Loch Lynn and chased him into Pleasant Valley. The officer passed the defendant and pulled his squad car across the road to finally force the driver to stop, according to the report.

Hardesty was then charged with six counts of failure to stop at a stop sign, one count of negligent driving, one count of speed greater than reasonable, and one count of fleeing and eluding an officer of the law.

Daina R. Stinson, 24, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on theft charges on Feb. 25. Stinson reportedly refused to release some possessions belonging to Deborah Reall, Deer Park, after Reall moved from the apartment that the two women formerly shared.

Dep. C. Nolan charged Stinson with theft of goods worth over $300. The defendant was later released on her own recognizance.

David R. Reckart, 26, Oakland, was arrested for battery on Feb. 24. Reckart

TAKE AWAY THE MODERN CLOTHING and this might appear to be a scene from the past, as persons emerged from a passenger train at Oakland's historic B&O Station late Friday evening. These 70-some passengers rode a special "ski train" from the Baltimore-Washington area to enjoy a weekend of skiing at the Wisp Resort and, if desired, visit and shop other areas of the county. The excursion was coordinated by various state and local agencies and organizations, including the Department of Transportation, the Governor's Office, Transwestern Development Corporation, and the Greater Oakland Business Association. The program was experimental in nature and it was believed that, with more time to promote the excursions, they could become a permanent attraction, not only during ski season, but at other times of the year and for special local events. Local Jury Members Sentence Bedford To Life In Prison

After approximately three hours of deliberation, a local jury in the Garrett County Circuit Court chose to sentence Robert Bedford Jr., 28, Baltimore City, to life in prison rather than death in the gas chamber for the crime of first-degree murder and rape. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the trial.

The local jury, comprised of eight women and four men, found Bedford guilty of the charges on Feb. 15, after hearing evidence of the Nov. 2, 1986, killing of 57-year-old Florence Joan Jung, a real estate agent from Catonsville. At the request of the defendant, the jury was then asked to choose the defendant's penalty: life in prison, or death in the gas chamber. After testimony from various experts as well as Bedford himself, the final decision of the 12 Garrett Countians was life in prison.

Bedford was charged with the counts of murder and rape as well as counts of theft and robbery with a dangerous and deadly weapon. The defendant reportedly committed the crime at the home of the victim, where he raped Mrs. Jung and then bludgeoned her to death with a heavy lamp. He also removed several possessions from the home at that time.

The trial was a change of venue case, which means it was moved to Garrett County from Baltimore City at the request of the defense coun-

Tax Differential Sought By Mayor, Town of Oakland

The Oakland Mayor and Town Council members discussed the subject of a tax differential at a recent meeting. Mayor Asa McCain explained that the citizens of the town of Oakland, as well as several other towns' citizens in Garrett County, pay "double taxes" every year because of double services within the towns.

A tax differential would alleviate some of the apparent inconsistencies. Basically, the differential would be a sum of money or a tax break given to towns by the Garrett County Commissioners in compensation for any services for which the town may already be paying. McCain said that Maryland law states that a tax differential should be provided by commissioners if a town provides $25,000 or more per year in services.

A differential has been requested before, McCain said, but the commissioners have not been agreeable to such an arrangement. Garrett County is the only county in Maryland that does not offer a tax differential, the mayor stated.

McCain said that all county residents pay the same county tax rate, yet some towns must provide their own street maintenance and snow removal, as well as their own police force. Oakland has its own police force, he said, yet citizens also help fund the Garrett County Sheriff's Depart-

Morgantown, W.Va. Man In "Stable" Condition Following One-Car Mishap

A Morgantown, W.Va. man was listed in "stable" condition Wednesday by a nursing supervisor at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, after he was injured early Tuesday morning in a one-car mishap on U.S. Route 48, east of the Green Lantern Road.

Chiu Lung Chung, 41, was injured when the 1982 Cadillac Cimmaron he was operating ran off the right side of the highway, struck a guardrail, traveled back across the icy highway and into the median strip before striking another guardrail.

Chung was taken to Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Tpr. J.W. Hare investigated and charged Chung with changing lanes when unsafe to do so and driving a vehicle without the proper registration.

A Friendsville girl remained listed in "fair" condition at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va. Wednesday, according to a hospital spokesman, following a Tuesday evening accident that occurred on the Glade Road, west of Md. Rt. 42.

Stephanie D. Bittinger, 14, was a passenger in a 1978 Dodge Diplomat that was involved in a head on mishap.

According to police reports, the accident occurred when the Dodge vehicle began sliding on the snow-covered road, causing it to cross into the westbound lane and strike a 1989 Chevrolet Suburban, operated by Marlin F. Sisler, 48, Friendsville. The operator of the Dodge was Robert W. Tabor, 17, Friendsville.

Tabor was reportedly treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, as were two other of his passengers, Amy Umbler, 13, and Derek R. Bittinger, 18, both of Friendsville.

Although the elder Sisler was apparently uninjured in the mishap, a passenger in his vehicle, Ricky A. Sisler, 20, Friendsville, was treated and released from the local hospital.

Those taken to the local hospital were transported by the Northern Rescue Squad. Miss Bittinger was flown by Healthnet helicopter to Ruby Memorial.

Police reports indicated that Sisler did attempt to avoid the collision, but was unable to do so because of weather conditions. Tpr. G.S. Becker is investigating and no charges have been filed in the 6:10 p.m. mishap.

A Frostburg man escaped serious injury Saturday when the 1983 Jeep CJ-7 he was operating on U.S. Rt. 40, west of the Allegany/Garrett county line, ran off the right side of the road, struck two state highway signs, and then overturned.

Christopher W. Yarberry, 19, reported the 2:30 a.m. accident himself to the State Police. Tpr. S.H. Anderson investigated and charged Yarberry with failure to report accident to nearest police and negligent driving.

DWI ARRESTS

Three drivers were arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs by the State Police this past week.

John T. Hickman, 21, Terra Alta, W.Va., was charged with DWI on Saturday by Tfc. G.R. Chaney.

Henry L. Steyer, 31, Deer Park, was cited for DWI on Saturday by Tfc. J.K. Moore.

Stephen J. Chase, 29, Raleigh, N.C., was stopped by Cpl. R.S. Farrell on Sunday and charged him with DWI.

Impasse Declared Between GCTA And Education Board

An impasse has been reached by the Garrett County Board of Education and the Garrett County Teachers' Association (GCTA) over salaries and other contract issues. An arbitrator will now be appointed to assist in settling the differences between the two. The choice for the arbitrator must be agreed upon by both groups.

The main point of conflict concerns a salary increase. The GCTA has requested a nine percent increase, while the education board is offering only a three percent raise. Other issues include the GCTA's request for more planning time for elementary teachers and an improved type of health insurance for employees with dependents.

The school board members do not want to change the planning time allotments, nor do they wish to adjust the health insurance benefits.

The GCTA is also pursuing the establishment of a study committee to review the extra-duty pay for employees who head extra-curricular activities, and a salary increase for coaches and teachers who conduct extra-curricular activities.

After the arbitrator is chosen, he or she will review the issues and arguments of both sides, and then will offer recommendations on how to solve the differences.

County Officials Testify Against Md. Growth And Development Act

Garrett County Commissioner John G. Braskey and Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson both travelled to Annapolis this week to testify at a Senate hearing against a bill entitled The Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act, designed to limit the sprawling growth and development taking place in Maryland and to protect the Chesapeake Bay from further pollution.

The bill seeks to limit growth and development by designating four separate land areas, each of which has specified development limitations. One of those categories is the rural resource designation which limits growth to one dwelling per 20 acres.

During the hearing, Commissioner Braskey stated, "Garrett County can accommodate and is yearning for new growth," explaining that only 2.9% of Garrett County's 424,000 acres are currently developed. He added that the legislation before the General Assembly "undermines our local initiatives for future development and prosperity and would have a negative impact to our tax base."

Braskey also cautioned the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee on the negative effects the bill would have on "every rural county in Maryland struggling for economic vitality," and added that the legislation would infringe on property owners' rights.

Braskey also noted that the 20% of land in Garrett County owned by the state is another limiting factor, stating, "This massive land holding has a significant impact on growth in our county and sets aside, in perpetuity, many acres of potentially developable land."

Following Braskey's testimony, John Nelson spoke to the committee about three specific areas of concern "which we have identified as being inconsistent with existing county policy and which also may result in development patterns in Garrett County which are contrary to the declarations and purposes of this legislation."

The first problem Nelson cited was the timetable in which to set up an interim program, with the deadline for implementation set at July 1 of this year. Explaining that Garrett County does not currently have in place a county-wide zoning ordinance, Nelson stated, "Considering the lack of these land use control measures, we find ourselves in the position of not having the ability to effectively implement the interim program."

The second problem with the proposal Nelson testified about was the fact that the legislation did not take into account "regional differences or make allowances for localities with resort or tourism economies. "A large portion of the real estate market in Garrett County is based upon the second home market and the majority of the second home buyers are looking for a 'cottage in the woods or mountains' when they are considering real estate," said Nelson.

Nelson was referring to the part of the bill specifying that only one dwelling per twenty acres would be permissible in the rural resource area - a designation which is anticipated to make up a large part of the Deep Creek Lake area.

The third area of concern that Nelson spoke about at the hearing was "the assumption that local costs for infrastructure will be reduced with the implementation of this act." He explained that in Garrett County, the tax base generated by second homes within the Deep Creek Lake area alone represents 42% of the county's total tax base. He noted that these second home owners

Sex Offense Case Not Prosecuted Because of Insufficient Evidence

A fourth-degree sex offense case against an Oakland man was not prosecuted in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week because of lack of evidence.

Allen E. Pysell, 43, had been charged with a fourth-degree sex offense, child abuse, and battery against a six-year-old female. None of those charges was prosecuted because of lack of evidence by the State.

Pysell had been charged after the juvenile told a therapist and a Child Protection Service case worker that Pysell had rubbed her genital area through her clothing.

In other District Court news, a McHenry man was sentenced last week on various charges after being found guilty in December of last year.

Aaron S. DeWitt, 19, had been found guilty of assault and attempting to elude a police officer. In a plea agreement, charges of trespassing, failure to obey a police officer, speeding, failure to stop at a stop sign, failure to drive right of center, and negligent driving were not prosecuted.

For his crimes, DeWitt received a one-year jail term (all of which was suspended but time served), a total of $125 in fines, and one year of supervised probation.

DeWitt had been arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department after a high-speed chase on June 16, 1991, that began at Broadford Recreational Park and ended near Kingwood, W.Va. when DeWitt's pickup struck a stump on a dead-end road.

Randall E. King, 38, Deer Park, was sentenced last week by Judge Jack R. Turney after having been found guilty last October for theft and resisting arrest.

At his trial in October,

MSP Nab One For Ski Thefts; Thefts Continue

Maryland State Police arrested one man for ski thefts last week, but also reported that ski theft reports continue at the McHenry Barrack.

David J. Gallo, no age or address given, was arrested on February 20 by Tpr. R.W. Cuthbertson and charged with stealing two pairs of skis and one snowboard.

Apparently Gallo was spotted taking one pair of skis. Following the arrest, another pair of skis and a snowboard were recovered by police.

Ski thefts continue, however, and police remind skiers to pay close attention to their ski equipment at all times and not leave it unattended for even brief periods.

Dennis Friedman, 41, Potomac, told police that someone stole his Blizzard 180 skis, bindings, and poles, from the Wisp Resort on Sunday.

The skis are valued at $700. Tpr. S.H. Anderson is investigating.

Tpr. Anderson is also investigating the reported theft of skis from Douglas Kriss, 39, Baltimore. Kriss told police that someone took his Molner 190 skis, Tyrolia bindings, and poles from the Wisp Resort on Sunday.

Eric F. Lapp, 14, Accident, reported that someone stole his Gyrator skis and bindings from the Wisp on Saturday at about 6:30 p.m.

The skis are valued at $535. Cpl. R.S. Farrell is investigating.

In other State Police crime news, Richard P. Domas, 18, Shinnston, W.Va., was charged recently on a weapons violation.

Tfc. P.R. Brown said he was given permission to search the Domas vehicle. The search allegedly revealed a .22 caliber revolver that was fully loaded.

sel. The transfer was reportedly requested because of negative pre-trial publicity.

Bedford was represented by M. Gordon Tayback, who stated that he was impressed by the jury and pleased with how hard they worked on the case. Attorney Clifford Robinson, Baltimore County assistant state's attorney, prosecuted the case. He, too, expressed gratitude to the jury members and Judge Thayer, stating that the local people were hospitable, professional, and kind.

In turn, Judge Thayer commended both lawyers for a job well done.

According to reports, Bedford will spend no less than 25 years in prison.

use far less of the local services than year-round residents (especially educational services for their children, which represent about 45% of the county's annual budget) and, therefore, "represent a windfall in terms of tax revenue rather than a drain on capital expenditures," he said.

The hearing reportedly lasted over eight hours and the room was filled with opponents of the bill, many of them farmers (some from the Garrett County area) who oppose the bill because of its potential to greatly diminish the value of their land. Although most protestors of the bill reportedly believe in some form of land use controls, they believe it should be accomplished at the local, not the state, level.

A total of approximately 350 persons filled the Senate room Tuesday, and a large crowd is also expected today as the House conducts a hearing on the legislation.

Woman Arrested

reportedly assaulted Sheila C. Reckart during a domestic dispute at their home on Rt. 39.

Mrs. Reckart was transported to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released. Dep. R. Shaffer made the 2 a.m. arrest.

William L. Friend, 28, Friendsville, was arrested on the strength of a warrant on Feb. 25. Friend was charged with theft, as he reportedly stole a compound bow from Jason Sisler on Nov. 14, 1990. He also allegedly resisted arrest on Nov. 14.

Dep. J. Sowers served the warrant to Friend.

Marvin S. Bowman, 33, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on Feb. 21 after Dep. J. Murphy found him to be in possession of a CDS.

Bowman was stopped by Murphy on Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park at 12:45 a.m. when the officer noticed a faulty exhaust system on Bowman's vehicle. After sensing an odor of marijuana, the officer then conducted a lawful search of the defendant, at which time he discovered two metal pipes and a baggie of suspected marijuana.

Bowman was charged with CDS possession and possession of drug paraphernalia.

A bench warrant was served to Paul S. Walker, 36, Columbus, Ohio, on Feb. 25. The warrant was issued by Judge Finan of the Cumberland District Court for the charge of violation of probation.

Det.Sgt. D. Tucker served the warrant to Walker.

Douglas E. Halterman, 28, Oakland, was also arrested on the strength of a bench warrant on Feb. 24. Halterman reportedly failed to appear in Garrett County District Court to face charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI).

The week-long program consists of a series of lectures and field trips to give students a first-hand knowledge of natural resource careers.

The Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards sporsors the program. Student selection, fees and transportation are coordinated by the local county forestry board. There is no cost to students attending.

This year's program will be held at Camp Hickory, Environmental Education Center, Accident, July 28 through August 3.

Applications can be obtained through the Northern or Southern high school guidance offices.

All completed applications must be returned to the respective guidance counselor, or the local Forest, Park and Wildlife Service office, by April 12. Successful applicants will be notified of their selection by mail.

Stark Raven To Return To GCC March 22

The eclectic band Stark Raven will appear in concert at Garrett Community College's auditorium Friday, March 22 at 8 p.m. The band's concert at Garrett last spring was an enormous success, and The Raiders of the Lost Arts, GCC's cultural club, invites people to attend "a show that they won't soon forget," according to Jack DuBose, organizer of the event.

The band is comprised of Julie Adams, vocals and guitar; Deni Bonett, vocals and electric violin; Ron Sowell, vocals and guitar; Bob Webb, guitars, cello, and dulcimer; Ammed Solomon, drums; and John Kessler, bass. Kessler is the director of the Mountain Stage Band, which features members of Stark Raven and appears on the National Public Radio program Mountain Stage. Adams and Bonett (that's pronounced bow-nay) are also regularly featured on the program as "The Fabulous Twister Sisters."

"For a concert of rare quality and unique flavor, see this band. Their sound is not easily pigeon-holed into any single musical category although acoustic/electric folk-rock-classical-jazz is the mouthful of adjectives that come to mind. Most people just call it a great show," stated DuBose. Admission is $5 for students, $7 for the general public. Tickets go on sale Tuesday, March 5 at Englander's Pharmacy, Oakland; Arrowhead Deli and Grocery, Deep Creek Lake; Plaza Deli, McHenry; Ruth Enlow Library, Accident; Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville; and Main Street Books, Frostburg. More information may be obtained by calling Jack DuBose at 387-6666, extension 178.

Oakland Town Elections Slated For March 11

The Oakland Municipal Elections are slated for Monday, March 11. Three council members are to be elected, as the terms for councilpersons Clinton W. Englander, Harvey J. Moyer, and Arthur Naylor are expiring.

The last day to file for office is Friday, March 1, at 4 p.m.

The polls will be open on March 11 from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Any resident of Oakland, age 18 or over, may register to vote at the city hall during regular office hours until 4:30 p.m. on Friday, March 1.

The town of Oakland maintains a separate register of voters; however, persons who have registered at the Board of Election Supervisors after January 1, 1990, are automatically qualified to vote in the municipal election.

Residents in the annexed areas of Country Club Acres and South Third Street are now eligible to run for office, according to a city hall spokesperson.

The deadline for obtaining absentee ballots is Monday, March 4.

Civic Club Of Oakland Given ACLI Grant

The Civic Club of Oakland has been awarded a grant from the American Council of Life Insurance (ACLI) to implement its proposed "Long-term Care; A Community Action Program." This is an educational project jointly sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the American Council of Life Insurance. One-year grants were awarded to member clubs on a competitive basis. The Oakland Club will receive $858.

"Our working definition of long-term care," according to Club president, Martha Jachowski, "includes the whole spectrum of nursing, medical, and social services that is provided to an individual over a prolonged period of time. It is not limited to nursing homes or only the elderly."

Mrs. Jachowski further explained that the Club's project includes three phases: first will be a random sampling of community concerns regarding long-term care. This will be followed by a survey of long-term care services available in Garrett County and the compiling of a Resource directory of these services. The project will conclude with an all-day seminar September 28, 1991, at Garrett Community College for interested community residents. "At this time," Jachowski said, "we hope to share the knowledge the club has been able to acquire during this 12-month period of intensive study."

Co-sponsors on this community project are the Area Council on Aging, Garrett Community College, the Cooperative Extension Service, and The Republican. Members of the Civic Club serving on the steering committee are Roberta Andersen, Marin Day, Anne Grant, Martha Jachowski, Jackie Johnson, Dottie Leighton, Betty Malloy, and Betty Moran.

Judge Turney handed him a 30-day suspended jail term, fined him a total of $100, and placed him on six months of unsupervised probation.

Gauden had been charged on September 15, 1990, after he reportedly hunted on the property on Derfy G. James, Friendsville, without permission.

Janet L. Nicholas, 23, Swanton, who had been found guilty of possession of marijuana on November 27, 1990, had her verdict changed to probation before judgment. She will serve six months of probation before Judge Turney passes judgment in the case.

Nicholas had been charged on a search and seizure warrant by the Sheriff's Department on June 8, 1990.

Trisha A. McCurdy, 27, Oakland, was sentenced last week after a pre-sentence investigation had been ordered on October 30, 1990. At that time, she had been found guilty of battery and being disorderly in a public place.

She was sentenced to a 60-day suspended jail term and placed on 24 months of supervised probation. Her fine was waived.

McCurdy had been arrested on July 18, 1990, after causing a disturbance at the Short Stop in Mtn. Lake Park.

Joseph Kisselovich, 36, Oakland, pleaded not guilty but was found guilty of telephone abuse and disturbing the peace. Judge Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation. He was found not guilty of two additional charges of harassment and trespassing on private property.

He had been charged as the result of a November 7, 1990, incident. Charges were filed by Dixie S. Moore, Deer Park.

Joseph P. Graham Sr., 30, Cumberland, was found not guilty of trespassing on private property. He had been charged on October 21, 1990, after his estranged wife, Doris Graham, charged him with trespassing on her property on the Crellin-Underwood Road.

ment. Although the Oakland City Police do not operate "around the clock" as do the sheriff's officers, they do assist the sheriff's deputies in several ways.

McCain also said that another service Oakland offers is water for several county fire departments. The mayor explained that water from Oakland is used for fires anywhere in the southern part of the county. For example, Deer Park Volunteer Fire Dept. fills its tanks at the Bausch & Lomb facility, located on Oakland property. McCain said the town gets no compensation for the water even though its use serves the entire southern county.

McCain also noted that the town of Oakland maintains the Broadford Lake Park, which he said does serve the entire county. However, the town loses approximately $10,000 on the park, and again receives no compensation for the expenditure.

The mayor explained that there is a service out of the University of Maryland that will do a study to determine the actual tax differential figure that would be correct for the town.

The Town of Mountain Lake Park sought a tax differential some years ago, and received it after taking the matter to court. However, after two years, the town council agreed to revert to the original method of taxation, as they decided it was for the town's best interests to do so.

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland will meet with the commissioners in March to discuss the tax differential subject. The date of the meeting has not yet been scheduled.

The Experts Were Wrong . . .

As recent as a month ago the great majority of political, historical, and even some military experts were telling us how costly in terms of human life a ground war against Iraq would be for U.S. and allied troops. Estimates were usually given in the thousands of soldiers who would die per day or, in some predictions, per hour. Many of those same experts said the war would last at least six months and possibly more than a year.

Today, just six weeks after the beginning of the conflict and only four days since the initiation of the ground attack, the war is apparently over. The latest total of U.S. troops killed in action since January 16 is 79, with nearly a third of them killed by one of Hussein's scuds a few days ago.

How could the experts be so wrong? We suspect that they greatly over-estimated the capabilities of the Iraqi army and greatly underestimated the power and technology of the U.S. and allied forces. Never has one side demonstrated such a superior force while at the same time incurring almost no casualties, except perhaps when the pair of atomic bombs were dropped to end World War II.

While there is much to be done to wrap up Operation Desert Storm and it remains to be seen just what will happen to Saddam Hussein, we hope that the result of this incredible show of force will lead to long-time world peace. Certainly every other nation in the world, including the Soviet Union, had to be impressed, if not shocked, by this demonstration of our military capabilities. We believe it will be a long time before some other thug in a position of power, like Hussein, attempts to overrun a neighboring country and threaten world peace. If indeed this is the case, and millions of people will be able to enjoy peace for decades to come, then the effort was assuredly worth it and the deaths of the men and women of Operation Desert Storm will certainly not be in vain.

For the loved ones of those who died, the loss and nightmare for them is just as great, regardless of the final tallies. While we celebrate the saving and safety of so many lives, let us never forget the few who made the supreme sacrifice for their country.

We extend our deepest appreciation to President Bush, all of our military leaders, and especially the young men and women who put their lives on the line, all of whom did an outstanding job in winning this fight for freedom.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Last week, my son, Andy, participated in the College and Me program for Dennett Road Elementary fifth grade students, at Garrett Community College. Never have I seen Andy so interested and enthusiastic over "going to school," His nightly conversations about what had happened in his day there were heartwarming and interesting.

I wish to say "hats off" to the Garrett County School Board, the Garrett County School Administration and Garrett Community College for coming up with such an innovative and stimulating program. Thank you all for showing Andy that learning can be a very positive experience.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

This letter is in regard to Foster Road. I wish to extend my thanks and appreciation for the nice condition and all of the hard work which went into making this road.

Now if the County Commissioners would only approve a bituminous overlay finish, it would prolong the life and surface of the road, and there would be less maintenance involved.

I also wish to thank everyone for keeping our roads plowed during the winter snows.

Very truly yours,,

To the Editor:

I like to think of an elected official, especially one as important a leader as a governor, to be worthy economically, politically, and ethically. True, no one can be perfect, but when a governor signs a bill to allow a mother to destroy her unborn child for almost any reason at all, even because she wanted a boy instead of a girl or vice versa, his place on the ethical pole is about as near the ground as he can get. It puts to doubt any other ethical standards, or any other kind of standard, he may have.

We always should strive to be the best in any walk of life, but to be in the position of favoring the most liberal abortion law of any state seems to me to be destroying all peoples' efforts to be best.

Sincerely,
Bernice Idleman

To the Editor:

Last August I sent to The Republican a copy of a letter which I had sent to the Commissioners in behalf of the Civic Club of Oakland thanking them for appointing a recycling committee and urging "full speed ahead."

Today, February 19, 1991 -- six months -- a half of a year later -- 11 Civic Club members attended a County Commissioners' meeting arranged as a public session by the League of Women Voters to voice our concern over the lack of any action on recycling. We consider recycling a major problem that concerns not only Garrett County and our country, but the very future of our planet.

What we heard in response to our questions of when is Garrett County to have a recycling program was, "We're considering it." "We want to get a good plan." "It takes time." The Committee appointed by the Commissioners to come up with a plan has reported its recommendations. But what is happening with them? Nothing as far as we could tell from today's meeting. Last fall we were told by Gary Yoder, chairman of the County's Recycling Planning Committee, that collection sites could be in place by the first of January 1991. We have yet to see them. The Civic Club representatives today vented their frustrations at this Government lethargy by putting their weekly recyclables on the desks of the Commissioners!

When Commissioners were asked what they did with their own personal recyclables, Commissioner Braskey responded he did not recycle. Commissioner Groves said he would recycle when the County's program was instituted. Only Commissioner Butscher said she currently participated in recycling her own household recyclables. She further volunteered that if no one else would see that the recyclables (described as "garbage" by Commissioner Groves which he advised a Civic Club member to leave at home the next time the group attended a meeting) were taken care of, she personally would see that they got to a recycling center.

Is this the kind of leadership we can expect from our elected County officials? It is the hope of the Civic Club with its 87 members that this is not the case. It is our fervent wish that before the first of April 1991, we can write a letter to The Republican supporting the County's implementation of a recycling program. It is not only for Garrett County's benefit, but for the benefit of our world.

Sincerely yours,
Martha U. Jachowski
President, GFWC

To the Editor:

I am appalled by the prospect that the proposed ban of 39 so-called "assault rifles" could become the law in Maryland. Not only would these 39 fire arms be banned, the law would allow the Superintendent of the State Police to add any fire arms to the list anytime he wanted to. Colonel Elmer Tippet, the aforementioned superintendent, freely admitted to a SUN reporter that those so-called "assault rifles" are not widely used in crimes in Maryland. He claimed that his support of the ban was "proactive."

The Uniform Crime Report for 1989, published by the Maryland State Police, shows that rifles, as a generic class of fire arms, follow handguns, knives, physical un-armed assault, blunt objects, and shotguns as the weapon of choice of criminals. As so-called "assault rifles" make up only a small percentage of rifles, their use by criminals can hardly be described as a clear and present danger to the average Marylander.

I find it chilling that the chief law enforcement officer in Maryland, the man who will be charged with enforcing the BAN, if it becomes law, the man who can add fire arms to the list at any time he chooses, admits that there is virtually no danger to the average citizen from this class of firearms weapons, yet he throws his personal support and the influence of his office behind the law. What can we expect next from our police force and politicians — preventive detention without legal charges, searches without warrants, jail without trial, suspension of the right of habeas corpus?

This is the FREE STATE of Maryland, not South Africa or Lithuania. Our constitution does not provide for the "proactive" taking of basic rights from the citizenry. The State of Maryland already has a waiting period before a citizen can purchase a so-called "assault rifle." During this period the State Police conduct a criminal record background check to screen out those who are precluded by law from having firearms. Convicted felons cannot legally own any fire arm. Murder and armed robbery are felonies in Maryland.

We do not need any new laws restricting the rights of honest citizens.

Sincerely,
Richard Lyons,
Oliver Beach

When push came to shove, the Japanese Government became deeply and bitterly divided over whether or not to pay their share of the cost of Desert Storm. Is that real support to those putting their lives on the line to fight against ruthless dictatorship and international aggression?

Next time you buy a car, ask yourself how many Japanese (or Germans) that are supporting the Alliance of Free Peoples; ask yourself how many radios and televisions are now made in America; ask yourself if you really want that to happen to General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler Corporations; ask yourself if your foreign car is really worth laying off hundreds of thousands of American workers and shutting down the thousands of associated free enterprize pursuits here in America.

Not meaning to offend anyone, I go out of my way to look for Made in U.S.A. Sometimes it means spending an extra 10% or so. America means a whole lot more than that to me -- always has. Our brand of freedom can't be found anywhere else in this world. I just love putting my money where my mouth is; chew this around:

Hey, Fellow American.

I'm not Japanese, I'm not German, I'm an American. So is my Ford. While you're thinkin' on that, do yourself a big favor. Show your American spirit, and jump on board.

To the Editor:

The Civic Club of Oakland began its recycling efforts eight months ago. Recycling takes some getting used to. It is a new way of life for many of us that have been tossing away bottles and cans for most of our lives. Our members responded whole heartedly . . . not only did they separate, rinse, and store bottles and cans, but they encouraged friends and neighbors to do the same.

Each month a volunteer brought his pickup to our meeting site and trucked the recyclables to B&S Scrap. The money earned was used to send an environmental newspaper to four of our Garrett County schools.

As is the case with the, League of Women Voters recycling program, we have reached a point where we are no longer able to do it alone! Garrett County has a Committee appointed by the Commissioners to draw up a plan that will enable the county to meet the state mandates on reduction of landfill. In October of 1990 that committee presented the commissioners with their plan. A plan that "could have been enacted in a matter of months." In January of 1991, the committee met with our commissioners again to see why nothing had been started.

As Conservation Chairperson for the Civic Club, I asked our members to attend the February 19 public meeting, called by the LWV, to discuss the recycling issues with the commissioners. In a desperate attempt to make the commissioners realize the reality of recycling, each member brought along one bag of recyclable, The Commissioners' desk was not a pretty sight!

I can understand our elected officials being annoyed by the recyclables on their desk. Many times I become annoyed with the same items that pile up in my garage. What I cannot understand is their unwillingness to discuss the plan submitted to them and their open annoyance when pressured to give us a date when we can expect some help with recycling! Perhaps if Mr. Braskey and Mr. Groves would begin recycling in their own homes, they would have more of an understanding of what so many others in Garrett County are experiencing. When asked, both said they did not recycle.

I would like to thank Brenda Butscher who assured the group that our recyclables, which Mr. Groves refers to as garbage, would not find their way to the landfill. Brenda has long been recycling on her own and offered to take all the bags home with her.

Be proud, Garrett County, proud of all the residents who are recycling on their own or through schools, churches, and organizations. We need local government support -- now!

We are waiting to hear some word of support within two weeks-- as promised!

The Mind Wanders

Lions and Tigers and Bears...Oh My!
by Sherry Frantz

Once again, the issue of instituting a "limited" black bear hunting season has surfaced in the county. Several months ago, at a pre-legislative meeting held between the county commissioners and our delegate and senator, the commissioners requested that Delegate Edwards introduce a bill to enable the county to enact such a hunting season in a limited scope and using a lottery system as the manner in which the season would be implemented.

The commissioners cited the fact that our neighboring states, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, both have black bear hunting seasons, so why shouldn't we? (Pennsylvania and West Virginia both have inadequate road maintenance systems, too. Shouldn't we?)

The impetus for the concern over the black bear "problem" comes from reports of crop and livestock damage by black bears. This is, at the very least, regrettable and unfortunate.

But isolated incidents of this sort of damage are, at the very most, one of the few negative occurrences we humans must endure in order to be fortunate enough to inhabit the earth along with other species.

While not intending to make light of any hardship a landowner might suffer or any loss he might realize, the intended demise of any creature who "gets in our way" is hardly justifiable. In fact, it perpetuates a dangerous philosophy of life -- a philosophy that may have already taken us too far down the path of self-destruction.

Because to destroy other species is to destroy ourselves and our planet. Because to truly understand life is to understand that one form is dependent on all other forms. Because we are not here merely to learn to live among other forms of nature, just as we are not here to destroy other forms of nature. We are nature. We are, all of us, just different configurations of the same elements.

Human beings have no more a claim to the earth than any other species.

I recently spoke with a biologist with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources who assured me that "illogical and unrealistic" fears exist among some local citizenry about the black bear.

Yes, black bears are sometimes destructive; hurricanes are often destructive; puppy dogs are rarely not destructive, and human beings...well, need I say more?

So which species is the most deserving of being the target of a hunting season?

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Local League Discusses State Role In Growth Management

Delegates to the 1989 League of Women Voters Maryland Convention adopted a study of the state's role in managing growth. This study is to include a review of present land use, environmental, housing and transportation positions. The scope of the study is to include the state's goals of growth management as well as the criteria, techniques and objectives used to influence the rate amount, type, location and/or quality of development.

The current LWVMD land use position, reached in 1975, allows us to encourage the state to establish minimum standards and guidelines for overall land use, with local implementation of land use policies.

The local league met recently at the Oakland Town Hall with a group of citizens who represented the farming community, the Farm Bureau, the Sierra Club, the Oakland Civic Club, GOBA, Southern States Cooperative, the Business and Professional Women's Club and the general public.

During the meeting, questions were posed concerning the state's authority to set goals, guidelines and standards in the designated functional areas, if those guidelines/standards should be mandated by the state, and whether or not the state should provide incentives in those areas.

A general consensus was reached among the participants of the meeting that more discussion and study of the 2020 panel's report was needed. It was also noted that the Garrett County Commissioners, District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John Hafer have made it known that more input from the local level to the state legislature is needed before the bill becomes law.

Cleaning Up The Bay

by Robert Perciasepe, Sec.
Maryland Department of the Environment

In 1987 Governor William Donald Schaefer joined with leaders of the other bay states in signing the Chesapeake Bay Agreement. Phosphorus and nitrogen are the nutrients most damaging to water quality and a key commitment of the agreement was an ambitious goal to reduce nutrient loads to the bay by 40 percent by the year 2000. To meet this goal, we must act now to pass the Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act (SB 227 and HB 214).

The first steps necessary to clean up the bay were clear: find the sources of pollution and control them. With state-of-the-art technology and a massive commitment of public and private money, we've made great progress in cleaning up discharges from sewage treatment plants and industrial sources.

Cleaning up the point sources of pollution has been a challenge, and controlling non-point source pollution will be even tougher. Bay pollution doesn't stop at the end of the pipe or the top of the smokestack. Rainwater running off streets, farms, and yards carries damaging pollutants and sediments to the bay. Even some pollutants originating from our cars are eventually deposited in the waters of the Chesapeake.

The act outlines a rational framework for protecting and restoring the health of the Chesapeake Bay and Maryland's environment. The thrust of the bill is to concentrate growth, rather than following the current trend of sprawled development. Channeling growth to already developed areas could have measurable, positive impacts on our environment.

The growth provisions debated by the Governor's Commission and envisioned by the act would spare an estimated 229,500 of the nearly 2.7 million acres of existing forested and open space lands from residential or mixed use development over the next 30 years.

This means that as much as 96 million pounds of sediment annually would not end up in the bay. That's enough to cover over a thousand acres of the bay's floor each year with a layer of sediment thick enough to damage fragile shellfish beds.

In addition, up to 1.35 million pounds of nutrients annually could be kept out of Maryland waterways. That is four times the amount of phosphorus and nitrogen discharged from all the sewage treatment plants on the Patuxent River each year.

Under the growth management plan, new development could be concentrated around employment and retail centers, reducing the distance that people must drive to work and shop.

If we could cut the growth rate in vehicle miles traveled by just 10 percent, we would prevent nearly 20 tons of auto pollutants from being released into Maryland's air each day — equivalent to the reductions achievable by installing vapor-catching nozzles on every gasoline pump in the state. Auto emissions are major contributors to ground-level ozone (smog) and the bay's nutrient loadings. These reductions in miles traveled could also save nearly two million gallons of gasoline daily.

The Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act would also reduce water and sewer costs to local governments, protect sensitive areas, and preserve forests and open space.

Our current scattershot approach to managing growth creates a host of environmental problems. Lasting benefits are achievable if we act boldly, work together and strive for more than just the status quo. It's time Marylanders move positively to change the way we grow, or we will all suffer the costly economic and environmental consequences of growing the same old way.

Funds To Be Taken From POS, Ag Land Plans

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week commented on the recent proposal that a large amount of money ($40 million) is to be taken from Program Open Space and Agricultural Land Preservation funds in an effort to help balance the state budget, stating that his main concern is to keep the legislation passed by the legislature last year in place -- legislation that had lifted the cap on revenue funds going into the open space program.

Edwards was instrumental last year in convincing legislators to lift the cap that had previously been placed on the program, in a five-year phase-out plan, until eventually all the money from state transfer taxes could be used for the acquisition and capital improvements of parkland.

Fearing that the program might become irreparably delayed -- or even eliminated -- environmentalists from the Chesapeake Bay Foundation began an advertising campaign to spur Maryland citizens into action that would prevent that from happening.

Other efforts to save the program took the form of several bills introduced to the legislature aimed at acquiring alternate sources of funding. One bill seeks to authorize the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to issue tax-supported bonds to replace the funds.

This would put money back into the program until such time as property sales climb back up to their normal level, said Delegate Edwards, explaining that revenues from transfer taxes are low at the present time because property sales are down.

"If we can supplement some of the decreases with bonding, we can pay it back later when property sales go back up," stated Edwards.

He added, "As long as we don't do away with the program, it's just a delay."

Edwards noted that the Joint Subcommittee on Program Open Space, of which he is co-chairman, is scheduled to meet March 5.

Dateline: Annapolis

In other news from the Annapolis office of Delegate Edwards this week, it was reported that several bills, co-sponsored by the delegate, were recently introduced. One of those bills (HB 643) seeks to abolish the delegate and senatorial scholarship programs and transfer the appropriated scholarship funds to the General State Scholarship Program.

The program has received some criticism over the years because of some public perception that selections made by the legislators might be biased. Although Edwards stated he feels certain that selections made by the legislators for the recipients of those scholarships have always been fair, he feels the program is best implemented in the hands of the General State Scholarship Program.

Edwards said the bill takes "a more favorable approach" to the scholarship process, and stressed that the same amount of money would still be available for scholarships. In fact, he said, it might mean more money would be appropriated for the Western Maryland district.

Edwards has also co-sponsored one of the many victims' rights bills that seek to establish additional constitutional rights for victims of serious crimes.

The bill (HB 719) states that "a victim of a serious crime shall be entitled to the right to be informed of, to be present at, and to be heard at appropriate criminal justice proceedings."

HB 766, also co-sponsored by Edwards, deals with municipal infractions, empowering towns to enforce infractions by way of imposing fines or taking violators to court.

House Defeats Dioxin Bill

The House Environmental Matters Committee Friday defeated a proposed bill that would have reportedly made Maryland's water quality standard for dioxin emissions the toughest in the nation.

The committee voted 19-3 against the bill which would have affected only one Maryland industry, Westvaco Corporation's Luke Mill in Allegany County. The bill was opposed by Westvaco, as well as by the Maryland Department of the Environment. Representatives of the Westvaco Corporation reportedly testified against the bill and reported that the company has been nationally recognized for its efforts to reduce dioxin emissions in recent years.

Proponents of the bill, however, reportedly feel the dioxin standards in Maryland are not strict enough.

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, dioxin is one of the most potent cancer causing chemicals, and Maryland's standards are 100 times weaker than EPA recommendations. Maryland also has the nation's highest rate of cancer.

Cigarette Tax Could Be Raised By 20 Cents

Legislation is currently being considered that would raise the price of cigarettes by 20 cents per pack in an effort to raise additional revenue for Maryland's budget deficit. The projected $84 million the measure would raise would reportedly be used to conduct health and smoking prevention programs.

The current 13-cent excise tax raises about $160 million a year. About $13 million of that goes to the counties and the rest to the state.

The cost increase is also meant to discourage smoking among adults and children.

The measure is being lobbied against by the tobacco industry, whose spokesperson reportedly sees the measure as a "tax on lifestyles."

Governor's Gun Control Bills Narrowly Approved

Two gun control bills submitted to the 1991 General Assembly by the Schaefer administration were approved this week by the House Judiciary Committee, in a 12-10 vote in one case and a 13-9 vote in the other. One measure included a ban on the sale of 38 military-style semi-automatic assault weapons, and another was aimed at preventing children from having access to loaded weapons. The bill would require parents to keep their guns locked up or, in some way, out of their children's reach.

Supporters of the bill to ban 38 semi-automatic assault weapons reportedly stated that these military-style weapons are being increasingly used by drug dealers and other criminals and that policemen feel they are being "outgunned."

The bills are expected to go to the House floor by the end of the week.

Bill Seeks To Promote Voter Registration

A bill has been introduced to the Maryland legislature that would give Marylanders the option of registering to vote up to the day of elections, thereby promoting voter turnout in the state. At present, a potential voter must register to vote no later than 29 days before the election.

The bill would also reportedly give more Marylanders access to early registration by including voter registration forms in tax bills, and by making the forms available to persons registering automobiles and to those applying for welfare.

Basic Health Benefits Subject Of Hearings

Two bills which would establish Basic Benefit Policies for health insurance, thus benefiting Maryland's uninsured population, were heard recently by the House Economic Matters Committee.

The bills seek to implement a system that would allow insurers and non-profit health service plans to issue policies to small businesses and individuals who cannot afford regular health care coverage.

The basic benefit package would consist of a three-year term and would benefit individuals and companies with two to 25 employees. The plan was developed with the help of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland, and would reportedly cost an individual approximately $90 per month and a family, about $225.

If passed the bills could reportedly move Maryland to the forefront in innovative and affordable health care insurance.

in the 1991 Maryland General Assembly. So that your readers can be fully informed, GCTA is required by law to represent and bargain benefits that must be shared by every teacher. We must do this fairly and without discrimination regardless of the membership status of any teacher. That is the current law! We gained the exclusive right to represent all teachers through an every teacher election. We enroll the clear majority of teachers as dues-paying members who pay all the bills.

No one can dispute the concept of fair share. Why shouldn't the non-members help share the financial burden of their representation? They receive exactly the same benefits our members receive and pay nothing. The legislation introduced in Annapolis would enable the exclusive representative of teachers to bargain a representation fee with the school board. Whether a fee is established would be determined by the results of negotiations. No present teacher who is a non-member would be required to pay the fee. Only teachers hired after the successful negotiations of such a fee would be required to pay the fee if they chose not to join the exclusive bargaining agent's organization.

If your readers believe in fair play, this legislation is needed so that all who benefit share in the costs associated with their representation. The Garrett County Teachers Association is confident that your readers believe in the basic principle of fair share. It is certainly unfair for teachers to receive benefits and pay nothing for them. Equal representation requires those represented to share in the costs of that representation. That is exactly what we seek through this legislative proposal.

We hope your readers will let Senator Hafer and Delegate Edwards know how they feel about fair play. That is all the bill seeks -- the authority to negotiate a representation fee with the local school board. After all, the American Federation of Teacher local in Baltimore City, the exclusive teacher organization there, collects such a fee now from all the non-union teacher members there. Practically every district where the Federation (AFT/AFL-CIO) represents teachers, an agency fee is assessed all non-union teachers.

No one is forced to join any organization, but everyone pays -- either in dues or fees -- to share in the costs of their representation. That's certainly fair.

Sincerely,
Tom Shaffer
UNISERV Director

To the Editor:

We all know how hard it is today to maintain and support our children in college; the expense is back-breaking, the constraints it places on the family budget result in near draconian sacrifices to every other member of the family. More often than not, the only way a working class family can handle the expense is to have more than one paycheck available to support the effort, and even then, sacrifice is still the modus vivendi . . . a way of life.

Having said all of this, I'm sure you will be happy to learn that you are paying for the higher education, even graduate degrees, for your elected officials and the upper echelons of your "paid" public "servants!" Believe it, it's true! Ask Elwood Groves, who will soon have a master's degree in public administration, or some such nonsense, at OUR EXPENSE!

It is entirely possible to be "educated" beyond your intelligence. There are many who believe, myself included, that Elwood Groves proves the point fully. A ten minute conversation with the man on almost any subject is sufficient to support such a conclusion.

In the "private" sector, businesses that have to pay their own way, meet a payroll, perform a worthwhile service, and produce a product that people like you and me are willing to pay for because it has "value," or enhances our lives . . . such entities that have learned how to produce a "profit," can "afford" to offer prerogatives, or "perks" to their employees, such as paid tuition for higher education courses in allied fields of endeavor that will eventually pay dividends to the COMPANY in the form of a more valuable, more productive employee. But what do we get for out money where Elwood Groves is concerned? MORE of Elwood Groves, a commodity that is already in gross oversupply! As you know, Mr. Groves is a relatively young man. He is the epitome of the "career" politician who fully intends to live out of our pockets for the rest of his life. One more four-year term and his county "pension" will vest. Ugh!

The truly sad part of this continuing raid on our wallets is that there is plenty of money available to the "career" politicians in this county to rationalize their "rip-off" actions because of the overly generous tax formula in Garrett County. They have so much money they have to scramble to find ways to spend it; money is literally (expletive deleted) away. Consider this simple fact: Your county government officials, instead of trying to minimize your taxes, made sure you pay the highest percentage (50%) possible in local taxes. The state didn't do that to you, your county government did. By the time you go to the polls again to vote on your county commissioners, a delegate and a senator to Annapolis, Garrett County will have the most expensive county government, per capita, in the State of Maryland. The people who managed this affront, are at this very moment trying to remove the present inadequate safeguards to their rampant spending by engineering Home Rule for Garrett County that will consolidate MORE power in the hands of the PRESENT power structure; allowing them to continue to write blank checks in the form of higher salaries and broader benefits, and evermore expensive prerogatives for themselves and their clients; through their own, hand picked "Salary Review Commission."

Aware members of our community are presently circulating a petition that could bring "CHARTER" HOME RULE to Garrett County. With sufficient signatures, we, the abused taxpayers, can force the present county and state officials to give ALL the voters of OUR county the opportunity to vote for, or against, "CHARTER" HOME RULE, which could eliminate "career" politicians like Mr. Groves, and give us a broad based, "public service" oriented (instead of money oriented) form of county government of OUR OWN CHOOSING! . . . including TERM LIMITATIONS as an integral part of the whole fabric.

If you haven't been asked to sign the petition, do yourself, and your fellow Garrett Countians, a favor and call Mary Leighton (334-9262), Ted Raynovich (334-3434), or me, Ron Rowan (453-3116), and we will see that you get a chance to sign the petition. If we fall here, you, we, deserve the continuing "rape" by our "esteemed" career politicians.

Respectfully,
Ronald R. Rowan

Local Realtors Form Task Force

Garrett County realtors have become so concerned about the possible effects of the proposed 2020 legislation that they have formed a new committee, the 2020 Task Force. At a meeting held Monday, that committee issued a statement that has been sent to the Maryland Association of Realtors and all legislative committee members now participating in the 2020 hearings.

Karen Spiker, local Board president, stated, "We do not disagree with the overall goal of the 2020 proposals; that is, to protect the environment and the natural resource base of the state of Maryland. However, it seems as though the legislative drafters were not well-versed in the diversity of our state, especially that which exists in Garrett County.

"Our written statement further pointed out that the proposal's first shortcoming is in planning for 'consistent' land use regulations throughout the state. Maryland has been known as 'America in Miniature' and enjoys diverse topography and economic interest; applying such a regulation would be the equivalent of applying a federal land use regulation to all 50 states. Surely, that cannot be the intention of our legislators."

Spiker said the Task Force goal is to educate and motivate the entire real estate profession concerning the ramifications of the 2020 bill to defeat it this year, and then to work diligently within Garrett County and other public interest groups to mobilize all of the people of Garrett County. She further stated, "we recognize that some land use regulations are necessary for the public good; however, we believe that they should be formulated locally and with the input of the entire citizenry."

All interested parties may contact the Garrett County Board of Realtors office at 334-8405 in order to be kept apprised of further developments.

Tree Seedlings Are Available From Westvaco

Forest tree seedlings are once again available to West Virginia forest landowners for spring planting through Westvaco's Luke mill, according to a spokesperson.

Interested landowners in Easter Panhandle counties may purchase Loblolly pine or Virginia pine seedlings for $16 per 1,000 seedlings.

Minimum orders of 1,000 seedlings will be accepted through March 15, 1991 by contacting a Westvaco forester. In this area, persons are advised to contact Kevin Simpson, Route 2 Box 113, Ridgeley, WV 26753, or Mike Fleming, 375 Sunset Place, Keyser, WV 26726.

Westvaco will also donate a maximum of 100 seedlings per member of an organized youth group for planting projects. Civic organizations planning reforestation projects may obtain a maximum of 500 free seedlings by contacting the forester named above.

"The 'Ugly' Arab" Program Set At Frostburg State

Dr. Jack Shaheen, an internationally recognized specialist of stereotypical portraits of Arabs in the mass media, will speak on "The 'Ugly' Arab: Images of Arabs in America" on Wednesday, March 6, at 7 p.m. in the Multi-Use room of the Lane Center on the Frostburg State University Campus. The program is free and open to the public.

According to FSU Professor of Political Science Mike LeMay, Dr. Shaheen, a professor of mass communications at Southern Illinois University and a professional journalist, critically views mass media images that profoundly shape what Americans think about the world. While his focus is the stereotyping of Arabs and Muslims in American comic books, television and films, he places his studies into a larger framework: that stereotypes of any and all peoples narrow one's vision and blur reality.

A frequent guest on major radio and television programs, including a recent edition of the CBS "48 Hours," he has written more than 200 articles. His studies reflect humanity's quest for fair play for everyone, not just a single group. Dr. Shaheen, selected by the U.S. Department of State as a scholar/diplomat, is the author of "Nuclear War Films" and "The TV Arab." He has taught journalism at the University of Jordan and the American University in Beirut. Under the auspices of the United States Information Agency, Professor Shaheen offers seminars for government officials and journalists in the Middle East. At present, he is at work on two books, "The Hollywood Arab" and "The Comic Book Arab."

This project was made possible with funds from the Maryland Humanities Council, Inc., through a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. It is also sponsored by the Public Affairs Institute of FSU's Department of Political Science, the FSU International Studies Program, FSU United Campus Ministry, FSU Student Government Association, FSU Chapters of Pi Sigma Alpha (National Political Science Honor Society) and Phi Alpha Theta (National History Honor Society). It is also sponsored by the FSU chapters of the Political Science Club, the History Club, Mass Communications Club, and the Sociology and Social Work Club.

Children's Play Slated At FSU

Frostburg State University's Roundabout Theatre will present "Thirteen Bells of Boglewood," a children's play by Max Bush, on Saturday and Sunday, March 9 and 10, at 2 p.m. in Studio Theatre, Compton Hall, on the FSU campus. Tickets are $1 for children of all ages.

The story revolves around Brian, a young companion hired by Casey Smith to help him dig for gold on some land he's purchased. In the search, they confront the Hideous Spriggans, guardians of the treasure; Lara, Queen of the Hollow Hill and the enigmatic Bogle himself. Thirteen mysterious, ghostly bells dominate the wooded world in which reality merges with traditional fairy-tale motifs. For young Brian, the events become a rite of passage from childhood into a larger universe.

Directed by junior theatre major Fred Holliday under the supervision of Linda McCullough, assistant professor of communications and theatre arts, the cast includes Chrissy Brant, Doug Cathro, Lisa Ellis, Greg Gerhard, Greg Holtschneider (of Garrett County), Robert Mullen, Amy Robison, Dutch Staggs, Joy Strider and Dawn Wagaman.

SHS Students Take Safety Tour At B&L

Nine Southern High School VICA students recently attended a safety seminar/tour at the local Bausch & Lomb plant.

The program began in an employee training room with Ted Grauel, director of safety and industrial hygiene specialist, explaining exactly what safety is. Through a hypothetical situation, participants examined and determined the importance of safety.

Grauel then explained how safety is approached at the B&L facility, and how accidents, no matter how minor, are reported and recorded.

Grauel then took the students on a tour through the 65,000 square-foot facility and showed them the various safety equipment which meet OSHA standards.

Students participating were: Todd Fearer, Mike SanJulian, Mike Stauffer, Richard Hetrick, Vickie Harvey, Heather Baker, Mandi Guy, Lynn Savage, and advisor, Steve Cosner.

Library Corner

As of March 4, the back door of the Oakland Branch Library will no longer be open to the public.

Federal and State income tax forms, including reproducible forms, are available at all branches.

There will be no fines collected on overdue books during the month of March at the Grantsville, Accident, and Oakland libraries.

Four Added To GCC Dean's List Or Honor's List

Four additional students were added to the dean's or honor's list for the fall semester, 1991, at Garrett Community College, according to Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs.

Those added to the dean's list include Anita L. Shunk, Grantsville, who earned a perfect 4.0 grade point average. Other students named to the dean's list by attaining a grade point average between 3.350 and 3.99 with a minimum of 12 credit hours accumulated were Paula Bentley, Oakland; and Melanie K. Tasker, Deer Park.

Carolyn K. Withrow, McHenry, was named to the honor's list after achieving a grade point average between 3.00 and 3.49 with at least 12 credit hours accumulated.

NEW Arrivals

The births of two infants this week at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were announced this morning by a hospital spokesman.

A daughter was born February 22 to Jeffrey Allen and Shelbadean Lucille Bolyard Harvey, Deer Park.

A daughter was born February 23 to Timothy Dale and Billie Jo Houser Umbel, Oakland.

Admissions at the hospital this week were listed at 44 with 67 discharges. This morning's census shows 28 patients.

PIE Program Is A Success At Grantsville

Students at Grantsville Elementary School recently concluded their Partners In Excellence Program. The PIE Program was a special reading program designed to encourage students to read and enable the school to purchase educational products through World Book – Childcraft of Chicago.

Students were offered different incentives to participate in the seven-week program. A certificate of achievement was presented to students who read up to seven books; a silver medal to students who read eight books and obtained eight sponsors; and a gold medal was presented to students who read a minimum of 10 books and had at least 10 sponsors. Students also received a special challenge from the school staff. If they read an average of seven books per student, they could "PIE" one staff member in the face, if an average of eight books per student were read they could "PIE" two staff members, and if an average of 10 books per student were read they could "PIE" three staff members.

The 291 students at Grantsville Elementary School read an average of 22.34 books per student. During an assembly where the students achievements were recognized, the selected staff members each received a pie in the face.

Christopher Yoder, who read 134 books, selected Jeff Rice, physical education teacher; Matt Houser, who read 197 books, selected Andy Callis, head custodian; and Jenny Wilburn, who read 80 books, selected Dale Garlitz, principal.

Through sponsors and a $1 contribution from World Book for every $2 raised, Grantsville Elementary School was able to receive five sets of the World Book Encyclopedia, four sets of Childcraft, one Early World of Learning, one World Book Dictionary set, 25 student dictionaries, one World Book Atlas, and two sets of World Book Encyclopedias of Science.

A DREAM OF A LIFETIME for most students is to be able to mash a cream pie in the face of a favorite (or not so favorite) teacher, or even a principal, and that's exactly what three students at Grantsville Elementary School were permitted to do as a reward for reading the greatest number of books in the Partners In Excellence (PIE) program. Above left, behind all of that cream, is physical education teacher Jeff Rice, who was the victim of Chris Yoder, and at right is head custodian Andy Callis taking one in the face from Matt Houser. Principal Dale Garlitz was selected by Jenny Wilburn. See story.

FSU Slates Various Events For National Drug Awareness Week

Frostburg State University will participate in the fourth annual National Collegiate Drug Awareness Week, February 28 - March 7, sponsored through the Inter-Association Task Force on Alcohol and Other Substance Abuse Issues, according to Connie Livengood, director of FSU's S.A.F.E. (Substance Abuse Facts and Education) Office.

According to Ms. Livengood, Drug Awareness Week, a national unified comprehensive drug prevention week to help university focus on the issue of drug abuse, is part of FSU's on-going substance abuse prevention efforts.

This year's theme, "Make Your Break S.A.F.E.," is particularly appropriate in view of the fact that FSU's spring break begins March 15, Livengood said. "We believe this year's program is very timely," she said. She explained that the Safe Break Campaign is a program designed to get students "primed for spring break while spreading the message to play it safe," especially avoiding drinking and driving.

"Spring break historically has been a time when college and university students have gotten out of control," Livengood said. "We want to change this. We want students to know they can have a great time, without putting their lives and the lives of their friends at risk."

Several activities are scheduled during Drug Awareness Week, all of which are free and open to the public.

This evening, February 28, at 8 p.m. in the Lane Center multi-use room, FSU alumnus George Obermeier, national consultant and education humorist on issues for prevention of substance abuse, will present "Natural Highs," a talk exploring the biochemistry of what makes people feel good. A second presentation, "Athletes: Drugs and Performance/Steroids Get Ready!," will be given by Obermeier Friday, March 1, at 11 a.m. in the Physical Education Center.

At 7 p.m. Monday, March 4, in Lane Center room 140-141, there will be a panel discussion, "Drug Legalization: Pros and Cons," featuring Col. James J. Demato, executive officer, operations, health and technology, Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, Washington, D.C.; Richard (Rock) Cioni, director of the Jackson Unit, Finan Center, Cumberland; Dr. Anne Bristow, FSU Department of Psychology; Dr. Elizabeth Morrissey, FSU Department of Sociology and Social Work; and a student government representative. Dr. Spencer Deakin, director of the University Counseling Center, will moderate.

The Catalyst Theatre of Towson State University will perform in Derezinki Lounge of the Lane Center Thursday, March 7, at 7 p.m. According to Ms. Livengood, this "Theatre of Social Issues," comprised of college students, brings into focus many of the dilemmas students face during their college years, especially drug and alcohol abuse. An audience-involved performance, situations are examined and the audience solves problems it sees reflected by the actors on the stage. Performers stay in character at the conclusion of each piece to discuss what the audience has just seen.

A drug information table will be staffed in the Lane Center all week and will

Pamela Margroff Selected BPW Young Careerist

Pamela Margroff was selected by the Grantsville Area BPW to represent the club at the Young Careerist Speak-off in Hagerstown on February 22.

Ms. Margroff was employed by the First United National Bank and Trust, Friendsville Branch, as a teller from 1984-89 and is now examining the prospect of beginning her own business.

She is a graduate of Northern High School. She attended Somerset Vo-Tech School in Somerset, Pa., for two years, studying marketing, and is now enrolled in a Dale Carnegie course.

She is active in a homemakers club and her church women's group.

Being the mother of two active little boys, when asked which BPW issue concerned her most, she replied, "The child care issue." She said that after the birth of her second child, local adequate child care was impossible to find, which put her career on hold.

Huskies Ousted In Tournament By Smithsburg

The season came to an end for the successful Northern High girls' basketball team Tuesday night when the Huskies were knocked out of the Class 1A Region I by visiting Smithsburg, 28-25.

Coach Harv Speicher's team concluded the campaign with a 14-8 record and the most wins ever by a Northern girls team.

The Huskies never led in the contest, but did not allow a single field goal by the Leopards in the second half. They trailed 9-5 at the end of the first quarter and were down 21-10 at halftime before coming back to cut the visitors' lead to two points, 25-23, with two minutes left in the game. Northern was down 25-17 at the end of the third period and allowed the Leopards only three foul shots in the final eight minutes.

A three-point attempt by Northern's Laurie Stanton with two seconds remaining bounced off the rim.

Neither team was effective at the free throw line in the second half, as the Huskies missed on the front ends of six one-and-one situations and the Leopards missed on 10 of 13 tosses in the final quarter.

Stacie Winter spearheaded Smithsburg's effort with 10 points and 14 rebounds. Rebecca Fratz netted nine points to lead Northern, while teammate Melissa Thomas pulled down 10 rebounds.

The Leopards will meet Williamsport this evening in the semi-finals of the tournament.

Bausch & Lomb Still Looking For First Win

Bausch & Lomb failed once again to get on the winning track in the Over 30 Basketball Association this week as they fell to Coors, 76-60. Despite dominating the first quarter of action, B&L scored only nine points in the second quarter. Chris Lattimer netted 21 points for B&L and Mark Hays added 10. Paul Lewis scored 30 and Danny Bosley added 22 to seal the win for Coors.

Mike McLaughlin's shot with one second to play gave Garrett Construction the extra point needed to edge Garrett Mine Service, 57-56. Garrett Construction went up 18-6 in the first quarter, but allowed GMS to dominate the second quarter of play. GCS was led by Ed Panther with 23 points and McLaughlin's 20. Denny Skeweris and Randy DiSimone led Garrett Mine with 16 and 15 points, respectfully.

Beachy Lumber, comprised of management personnel at First United, shocked Shaffer Ford, 63-55. Bill Grant, making his first ever starting appearance in a basketball game, provided the motivation and determination needed to defeat the Shaffer Ford squad. Brian Selders led Beachy's with 24 points, including three three-pointers. Coach Charlie Graham netted 14 for Beachys. Rob Michael led Shaffer Ford with 21 points, while former Bridgewater College standout, Monty Ragenhardt, added 14 for Shaffer's.

Play continues March 4th with Shaffer Ford hosting Garrett Construction at 6:30. Bausch & Lomb will engage Beachy Lumber at 7:30 and Garrett Mine and Coors will shoot it out in the nightcap game at 8:30.

League officials issued a reminder that, to remain eligible to play, all sponsors must have the entry fees paid by March 4. The amount due is $150. Sponsors should see league president Rob Michael or treasurer Mark Powles.

Lakers Win Opener In JUCO, But Knocked Out Of Finals By Owls

Although the Garrett Community College Lakers did not play their best basketball of the season in last week's Maryland JUCO Tournament, they just missed, by one bucket, earning a spot in the finals against top-ranked Allegany Community College.

The Lakers held on to defeat Montgomery Germantown in the first round of the competition on Friday, 64-57, despite cold shooting, major foul trouble, and numerous turnovers. However, the Prince Georges CC Owls overcame a similar performance against the Lakers in Saturday's semi-final contest and held on for a 64-62 win to capture the spot in the finals.

All-American candidate Chuckie Moore was the only Laker to reach double figures in Friday's game against Germantown. He also pulled down 12 rebounds, while Derek Young grabbed 12 to go with his nine points.

The score was knotted at 30 at halftime and again at 53 with just under five minutes remaining. An inside bucket by Young put the Lakers on top for good and Bruce Boldley followed with a jumper to make it 57-53.

Germantown did not give up, though, as Josh Pratt hit two free throws at the 1:50 mark. GCC's Clarence Moore answered with an inside jumper, but Germantown's Diallo Nelson made it 59-57 on a lay-up.

With 27 seconds remaining, Carlos Trotter gave the Lakers another four-point edge with a short jumper. Trotter added two insurance free throws with just 11 seconds left to conclude the scoring.

Shane Brey and Pratt each finished with 12 points for the Gryphons, while Mark Crutchfield and Nelson each contributed 10. The loss dropped the Gryphons to 16-12.

The game against the Prince Georges Owls was the rubber match-up between the two colleges, as the Owls topped Garrett at Largo, 90-80, and the Lakers won the return contest, 91-89, in McHenry.

It appeared that the Lakers would win the third contest on Saturday, as they held a 60-55 lead with just 1:36 remaining. But a three-point bucket by Sidney Winkler at the 1:18 mark, followed by two GCC turnovers and a pair of free throws by Winkler tied the game at 60.

The Lakers threw the ball away again and Eric Payne grabbed the rebound from a shot by Jimmy Walker and hit a lay-up with 10 seconds remaining. Once again the Lakers committed the turnover and Walker was fouled. He sunk a pair of free throws to make it 64-60 and ice the win. Moore hit a final shot at the buzzer.

The second half belonged entirely to the Lakers, as they built a 38-25 advantage by halftime. But the Owls scored 18 of the first 23 points of the second half to tie the score at 42. They stayed within five points the rest of the way.

The win improved the Owls' overall record to 18-12; however, they were soundly defeated by ACC in Sunday's championship game.

The Lakers, who are now 22-10, still are not finished, though, as they will compete in this week's Region XX Tournament in Cumberland. The Lakers will go into the tourney seeded number three behind ACC and Hagerstown.

Six-Woman Laker Team Makes It Into Finals Of JUCO Tourney

Despite the fact that there were only six women on the entire Garrett Community College roster, those six excelled as a team unit this past week in the Maryland JUCO Tournament, and their efforts resulted in bringing the state runner-up trophy back to McHenry, as the Lakers reached the finals and were defeated by top-seeded Hagerstown Junior College, 62-45, Saturday, at the Community College of Baltimore.

Coached by Dennis Gibson, also GCC's men's coach, the Laker women upset third-seeded and arch rival Allegany Community College last Thursday afternoon in a quarterfinal contest, 59-47, and then edged second-ranked Catonsville on Friday, 59-56, to earn a spot in the finals against the 19-4 Hawks. The Lakers went into the tourney seeded sixth with an overall record of 11-9.

Marcia DeBerry paced GCC against ACC on Thursday, as she poured in 20 points and dished out four assists, while Karen Gurrera netted 15 points and former Southern High standout Tracy Henline recorded eight points, 12 rebounds, four blocked shots, and four assists. Kim Copeland added eight points and eight rebounds, with seven of those grabs late in the second half.

The 16-9 Trojans were paced by Tyra Keplinger with 16 points, six rebounds, and three assists. Renee Mullin finished with 11 points.

The Lakers led the entire contest, holding a 29-22 halftime advantage. The Trojans shot just 26 percent from the floor and were able to cut GCC's lead to three points late in the game, but a lay-up by Tracie Dawson put Garrett back on top by five with 2:50 remaining in the game.

Henline and Gurrera each netted 16 points in Saturday's game against Catonsville, as DeBerry found herself in foul trouble early and fouled out midway through the second half. DeBerry finished with 12 points, while Copeland grabbed a game-high 16 rebounds and Henline pulled down 14, plus blocked six shots.

The Lakers held a 30-24 halftime advantage and led for the first 10 minutes of the second half, but Catonsville came back to take a five-point lead at about the time DeBerry fouled out. Copeland also had four fouls at the time.

But Coach Gibson shifted to a 1-3-1 zone defense, forcing the Cardinals to shoot, and miss, from long range. Henline and Copeland controlled the defensive rebounding from that point on, while Gurrera successfully engineered the offense in place of DeBerry to reclaim the lead for good.

Pacing Catonsville's scoring were Cindy Robinson and Ronni Harper, with 15 and 14 points, respectively.

The low number finally caught up with the Lakers in Sunday's championship contest with Hagerstown, as the Hawks wore down the small GCC squad and recorded 38 second half points after the score was tied at 24 at intermission. Hagerstown scored the first 10 points of the second half and the Lakers never did recover.

Garrett turned the ball over 17 times in the second half and Gurrera fouled out with six minutes remaining, while the Hawks freely substituted with 12 players. DeBerry played the final six minutes with four fouls on her.

Sandy Gilbreath led the Hawks' scoring, as she finished with 16 points, while Janelle Smith and Stella Roberts added 13 and 12, respectively.

Spearheading the Laker effort was Henline, who netted 15 points, and recorded four steals and two blocks. Gurrera scored 12 points, DeBerry finished with 10 points and five assists, and Copeland pulled down eight rebounds.

The Lakers were edged in rebounding, 35-27.

Gibson was thrilled with his team's performance, noting that his players "battled the whole way and really had a super tournament."

It was the first time a GCC women's team ever made the championship game of the JUCO conference. DeBerry was named to the All-Tournament team, as well as the All-Conference squad, while Henline and Gurrera were both named to the second All-Tournament team.

Winterfest Golf Tourney Winners Are Announced

Thirty-two "die-hard" golfers participated in the Winterfest Golf Tournament Saturday, February 23, at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. The five-hole tournament required competitors to use tennis balls in place of golf balls.

Proceeds from the tournament were donated to the Winterfest non-profit organizations of the Habitat for Humanity and the Spruce Forest Artisans Village.

Winners were: Jay and Jeff Meyers, first place; Rich and Jeff Orr, second; and Jeff Kurilla and Danny Davis, third.

Huskies Ripped By Beall, But Upset Oldtown To Share Title

It was a long season for the Northern Huskies, but their campaign ended on a positive note Friday when they upset visiting Oldtown, 54-52, to win a share of the Mid-Appalachian League title. Northern went into the final game after being manhandled by host Beall Thursday night, 86-62.

Coach Dave Bender's squad concluded the season with a 6-16 mark overall, but finished 5-1 in the MAL.

The Huskies were never really in the contest against the 12-9 Beall Mountaineers on Thursday, as they trailed 23-14 at the end of the first quarter, 44-31 by halftime, and 66-49 after three periods.

Greg Hostetler paced the winners with an 18-point performance, while Dan Taylor and Shannon McKenzie were right behind with 17 and 16 points, respectively. Shawn Cuthbertson netted 14 points.

Leading the Huskies' scoring effort was Jon Houser, who finished with 17 points. Rob Speicher also reached double figures with 11.

Houser was the big gun in the first quarter Friday night against league-leading Oldtown, as he pumped in nine of his total of 13 points in the first quarter, which ended with the Huskies in front, 19-10. Northern was on top 29-19 at halftime and led 39-31 at the end of the third period.

Then Dave Hinebaugh took over most of the Huskies' scoring effort in the final stanza, as he recorded seven of his nine points in that period to halt a rally by the Indians.

Kevin Walbert, who is the area's second leading scorer with a 23.5 ppg average, led that comeback bid as he scored 20 of his game-high 24 points in the second half. He also pulled down 11 rebounds, dished out six assists, and recorded four steals. Brian Sheetz contributed 10 points to Oldtown's total.

The loss dropped the Indians, the top seeded team going into the Region I Class 1A playoffs, to 13-3 on the season. A win would have given them the MAL title exclusively, but the loss forced them to share the crown with the Huskies.

Ten Garrett County Grapplers Qualify For State Tournament

Ten local high school wrestlers, seven from Northern and three from Southern, will be competing in the Maryland State Wrestling Tournament this weekend by virtue of their finishing among the top four in the respective weight classes in the Region I, Class 1A-2A Tournament held Saturday at North Hagerstown High School.

The local grapplers won a first place, four second places, three third places, and two fourth places in the regional event.

Northern's Scott Beitzel, a sophomore, was the champion in the heavyweight division as he was awarded a forfeit in the title bout over Josh Held of Damascus High and improved his personal record to 24-2. Beitzel is currently ranked sixth in the entire state in his division.

Earning runner-up trophies for Northern were Allen Bittinger in the 130-pound class and Tim Thomas, 135, and Southern's Jason Burgess, 103, and Pete Strawser, 119. Burgess, who is only a freshman, will take his 25-3 record against Mt. Hebron's Scott Cooper in his opening bout at the state meet this Friday. Strawser, also a freshman, will put his 28-5 record on the line against Lock Haven's L.J. Bramer in the opening round of the state tournament. Bittinger and Thomas are both ranked among the top four wrestlers in the state in their weight classes, as Thomas is the current state runner-up and Bittinger placed third in the state last year.

Winning third places in the regional tourney were Northern's Rich Wyland (119), Chris Rowe (125), and Randy Dolan (152), while Ron Sines of Northern placed fourth in the 145-pound division and Southern's Gary Sweitzer won fourth in the 112-pound class. Sweitzer, who is now 22-4, will meet Jon McCaslin of North Caroline in Friday's opening round of the state tourney.

As a team, the Northern Huskies captured third place in the 16-team regional tournament with a total of 109 points. Southern finished sixth with 66 points. South Hagerstown won the team title with 163 points, followed by Smithsburg with 153. Beall placed fourth with 92 points.

Southern's Ed Philyaw finished fifth in the 160-pound division and Shane Skipper, also of Southern, won sixth in the 140-pound class.

The state tournament, which will get underway this Friday at 2:30, will be held at Western Maryland College, Westminster. The quarter finals will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the semi-finals and finals will be held Saturday at noon and 6 p.m., respectively.

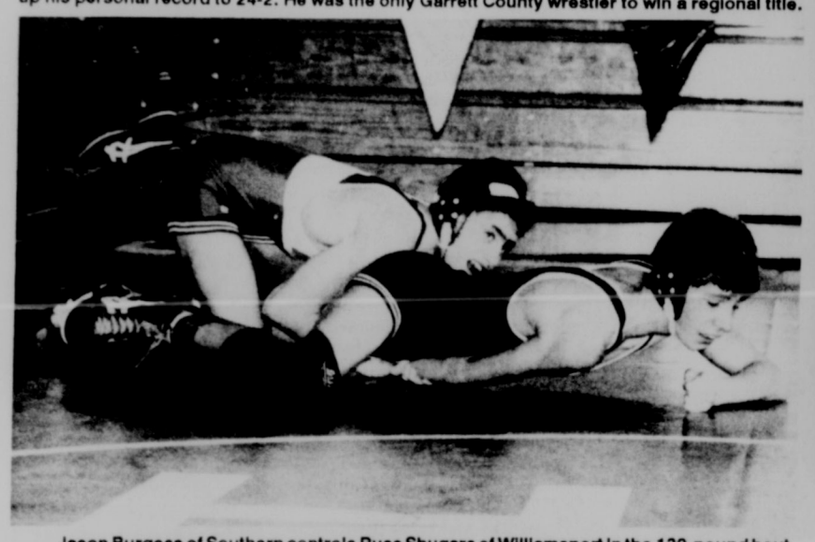
REGIONAL WRESTLING ACTION -- Several Garrett County high school wrestlers fared well enough in last weekend's Region I Tournament to qualify for the Maryland State Championships, slated for this weekend. Seven Northern grapplers and three Southern matmen placed among the top four in the regional event which qualifies them for the state meet. Above, Northern heavyweight Scott Beitzel, who is only a sophomore, pressures Brian Puckett of Francis Scott Key enroute to his second straight pin. He went on to win the championship and up his personal record to 24-2. He was the only Garrett County wrestler to win a regional title.



Jason Burgess of Southern controls Russ Shugars of Williamsport in the 130-pound bout. Burgess won, 12-3, to secure second place in the regional meet. Only a freshman, he will enter the state tournament with a record of 25-2.

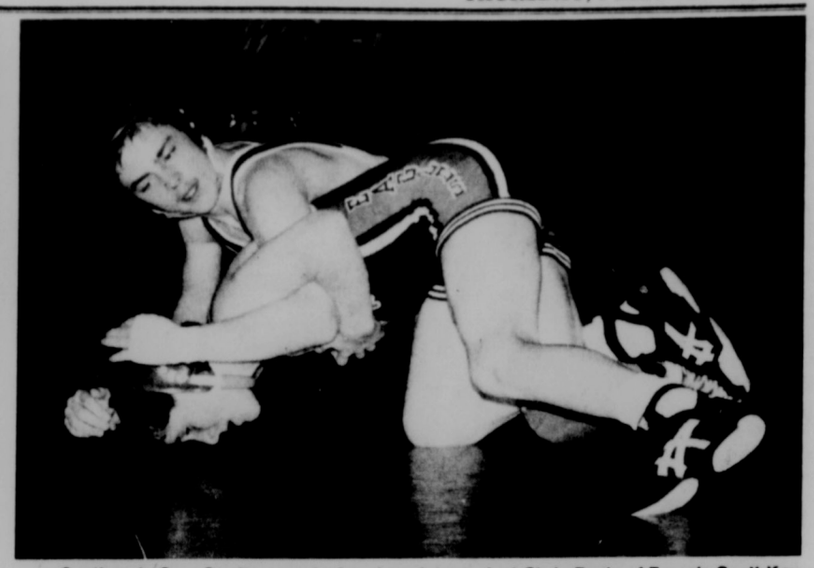
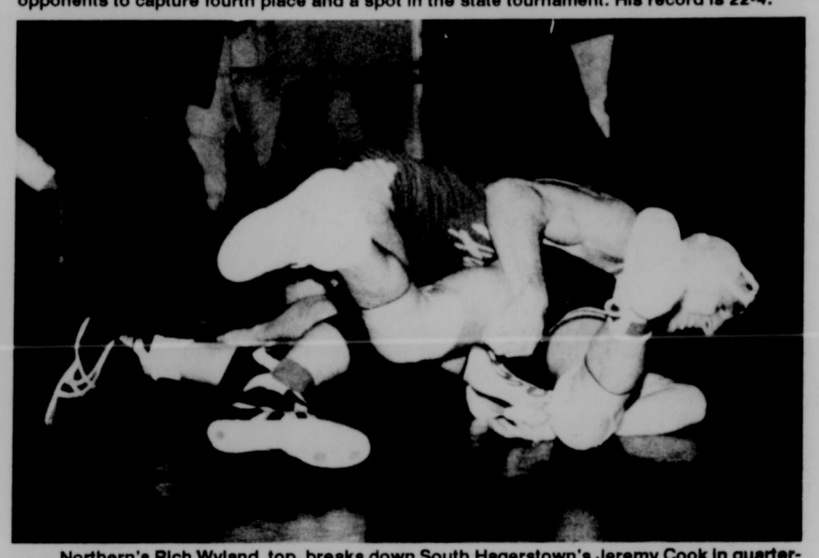
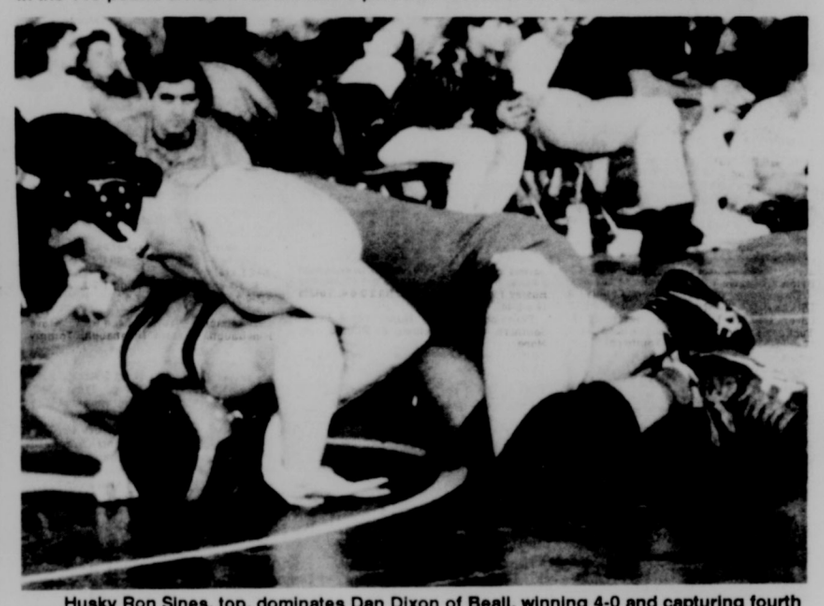
Southern Ram Shane Skipper, top, works for a chicken wing against Fort Hill's Jim Hill in the 140-pound division quarterfinals. Skipper won by pin in the third period and finished the tournament in sixth place.



Southern's Gary Sweitzer works for pin points against Chris Beale of Francis Scott Key in a 112-pound division bout. Although Beale won this match, Sweitzer defeated his next two opponents to capture fourth place and a spot in the state tournament. His record is 22-4.



Northern's Rich Wyland, top, breaks down South Hagerstown's Jeremy Cook in quarterfinal action won by Wyland, 17-15. Wyland then won two of his next three matches to place third in the 119-pound division. He will take a personal record of 24-7 to the state tournament.



Husky Ron Sines, top, dominates Dan Dixon of Beall, winning 4-0 and capturing fourth place in the 145-pound division. Dixon had won the Bi-County title the week prior after Sines had to default. Photo by Bob Dolan.

Mt. Top League To Begin Playoffs Sunday At GCC

The second season starts this Sunday for the Mt. Top Basketball League as the playoffs begin at noon at Garrett Community College. Regular season and defending champion Niner Construction/A&A Realty, barring an upset tonight, will be the top seed with a perfect 8-0, record.

The first and second place teams both get first round byes. Buffalo Coal needs a win tonight over Video Connection to secure second place. A loss by Buffalo will drop them to fourth or fifth and place G&H Masonry in second place.

There will be four first-round games on Sunday and the last two first-round games will be played Tuesday at The National Guard Armory starting at 6:30 p.m. Because of the tight races in the middle of the standings, four of the five games tonight will have an impact on the final league standings. Because of this, the final pairings for the playoffs cannot be announced until Friday.

Rams Avenge Loss To Tucker, But Lose In Region I Tourney

The Southern High varsity Rams avenged an earlier Potomac Valley Conference loss to Tucker County by edging the Mountain Lions, 65-62, in Oakland Friday night to conclude their regular season, but their post-season play came to an abrupt end Monday night when they fell to Middletown, 55-44, in the quarterfinals of the Maryland Class 2A Region I tournament. Coach Tom Bosley's team wrapped up the season with a 16-7 record.

Brett Rice, who has led the area in scoring all season long, pumped in 31 points against Tucker County Friday night, while Britten Martin netted two free throws with just 28 seconds remaining in the game to preserve the victory. The Lions had come into the contest with a 15-4 mark overall and 8-2 in the PVC rankings.

The Rams jumped out to a 12-4 lead by the end of the first quarter before Tucker came back to knot the score at 34 apiece by halftime on a last second jumper by Matt Ruckle. Southern went into the fourth period with a 52-48 advantage, as Jason Brenneman netted a three-point, 35-foot shot at the buzzer.

The Rams held a six-point edge, 63-57, late in the final stanza before Aaron Plaugher and Mark Kochenderfer hit back-to-back shots to cut Southern's lead to 63-62. Martin then went to the line when he was fouled going for an offensive rebound and he made good on both ends of a one-and-one to give the Rams a 65-62 advantage with 28 seconds left.

After a Southern time-out, the Lions had three opportunities to hit three-point shots, but all three missed, the last of which was attempted at the buzzer.

Rice's points came on a dozen field goals and seven of eight free throws. Brenneman also reached double figures, finishing with 11 points, while Martin grabbed nine rebounds and Jeremy Bosley was credited with four assists and four steals.

Ruckle paced Tucker County with 25 points. Kochenderfer finished with 14, Plaugher netted 12, and Brian Sikarskie contributed 11 to account for all of Tucker County's scoring.

In Monday's playoff game at Middletown, the Rams blew a 14-point first-quarter lead, stayed close throughout the second and third quarters, and then fell behind in the final eight minutes.

The Rams, who went into the tourney seeded fifth with Middletown rated fourth, raced out to a 16-2 lead in the early moments, sparked by six points each by Rice and Brenneman. However, an official then called a technical on the Southern bench for an illegal substitution. After about five minutes of discussion, the technical was waived off, but Coach Bosley maintained that his team lost its momentum during that period, allowing the Knights to re-group.

Middletown cut the Ram lead to 18-9 by the end of the quarter and narrowed it to just two points, 28-26, by halftime. Most of that comeback was made at the foul line, where the Knights netted 11 foul shots, while the Rams did not go to the line once during that time.

Southern also had no trips to the free throw line in the third period, as the Knights took the lead for good, 37-36, at the end of that quarter. Brian King scored nine of his game-high 27 points in the third period.

The Knights used a slowdown offense throughout the fourth period and out-scored the Rams 18-8 to clinch the win.

Preston County Students In Space Camp Competition

Aurora School has selected two eighth grade students, Aaron Teets of Horse Shoe Run and Rebecca Harsh of Aurora, to participate in the Space Camp Project Competition scheduled for April 27 on the campus of Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi.

Aaron, the son of Paul and Karen Teets, and Rebecca, daughter of Richard and Junell Harsh, are among approximately 300 eighth graders in West Virginia who will have a chance at receiving one of eight all-expense paid scholarships to attend the U.S. Space Camp in Huntsville, Alabama, this summer.

The Space Camp project, jointly sponsored by Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi, the North-Central Chapter of Software Valley, and the Software Valley Inc. in Morgantown, is designed to promote increased interest and achievement in science among West Virginia youth.

Officials at junior high and middle schools across the state were asked to choose two outstanding science students -- a boy and a girl -- to participate in the competition at Alderson-Broaddus College. Eight winners, one boy and one girl from each United States Congressional district in the state, will be chosen by their scores on an objective test of general science knowledge and awarded the scholarships.

Funding for the activity is furnished by West Virginia, national sponsoring companies, and the Software Valley Foundation.

Kitzmiller Senior Center Reports Recent Activities

The Area Agency on Aging "Eating Together" site at Kitzmiller has been busy with various activities.

Helen Heath, of the Garrett County Health Dept., visted the site on February 5 and provided blood pressure and blood sugar screenings.

On February 11, the site sponsored a successful soup sale with the proceeds going toward the purchase of a mixer. Future sales are being planned.

The seniors celebrated Valentine's Day with a dinner and party on February 14. Ina Bray and Cecil Uphold were crowned queen and king for the day. Door prizes were won by Bill and Clarence Marley. The winner of the cookie walk was Clarence Marley, and Conrad James won the cake walk.

In support of U.S. troops serving in the Persian Gulf, the Kitzmiller seniors purchased yellow trash bags and crafted front door bows. The bows were given to residents of Kitzmiller.

Irmgard Koscielniak, County Extension Agent, will be presenting the Living Wills program on March 12 at 11 a.m. Those requiring meal reservations should contact the site, 453-3445, by March 7.

Four Local Soldiers, Shipmates On A Carrier, Send Their Thoughts Home

The young men are AO3 Richard E. Kitzmiller, son of Richard Kitzmiller Sr., Deer Park, a 1987 SHS graduate; EMFN Randy Evick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evick, formerly of Oakland, a 1989 SHS graduate; EMFN Brent Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don E. Sanders, Oakland, a 1989 graduate of Southern; and ABFAN Eric Sines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton J. Sines, Red House, a 1989 graduate of Southern.

Richard Kitzmiller explained in his letter that he is an aviation ordnance man, third class. His duties include operating and maintaining weapons' elevator systems that transport the weapons from the magazine to the flight deck. He said that he has been on board since May 7, 1989, and hopes to be finished on Oct. 6th of this year.

Eric Sines explained that the letters in front of his name, ABFAN, stand for "aviation boatswain's mate, airman." He said his day-to-day routine usually lasts 18 to 20 hours, and his duties entail the re-fueling of all the carrier's aircraft before and between launches so that the planes can be back in the air as soon as possible.

"I usually have about 45 minutes to fuel about 90 aircraft. I have the help of about 40 other shipmates. On the flight deck, the hardest part of my job is walking through hot jet blasts and keeping as far away as I can from the jets' intakes, although sometimes I have to get pretty close. Some insurance companies consider (this work) as 'one of the most dangerous jobs in the world.' It's exciting, but at times it can be pretty intense." --Eric Sines.

Both Randy Evick and Brent Sanders are EMFN's, or electrician's mates and firemen. Their daily jobs consist of fixing and troubleshooting shipboard electrical equipment. They said that their work day lasts 12 to 15 "busy hours," and that they are "always on the go, standing by in case electrical equipment should break down throughout the day."

The young men all stated how they enjoyed being together on the same carrier, and how important it was to be able to depend on one another for companionship.

"It's great to know that there are three other people on board who I can talk about home with, and they know who and what I'm talking about. The four of us are great friends. . . We all talk a completely different language than the other crewmen." --Richard Kitzmiller.

"It's nice to know that no matter where we are in the world or what crisis may be happening, there are always good friends from back home here on the ship to talk to. All four of us look forward to seeing each other after work or just passing each other in the passageway to say 'hi,' or to talk for a while." --Brent Sanders and Randy Evick.

The young soldiers expressed their gratitude for the support given from the "folks back home," as well as their wishes for the war to be finished.

"It's a lot easier doing an endless job when you know you have the support of so many people wanting to help you in any way they can. I have gotten many letters from family, friends, and people I don't even know . . . I try to answer all that I can, but time doesn't always allow me to do so. I would like to thank everyone for their support 'cause mail means a lot over here--it really brightens your day. Keep them coming and thanks!" --Eric Sines.

"I would like to thank all of the people who have been writing to us. I've gotten countless letters from countless people . . . I wish I could write them all and thank them one by one, but the work hours are long and hard--I just don't have the time. But please keep them coming." --Richard Kitzmiller.

"All of the people back home really make us all feel good with their support and letters. We couldn't make it without them. We hope this is all over soon so we can be back home with our loved ones and the people we care about." --Randy Evick and Brent Sanders.

Persons who wish to write to these soldiers or any local military personnel may find their addresses in the "Mail Call," a regular feature in The Republican and The Garrett Addition.

Coldwell Banker Realtor Attends Sales Conference

Robert Huebner, broker of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, recently attended the company's international sales conference entitled, "Catch the Spirit," in New Orleans from February 13-17.

Several thousand real estate owners/managers, sales associates, and guests attended from more than 1,900 Coldwell Banker offices throughout the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico to share the latest developments in the real estate industry.

General sessions included speeches by company executives Arthur J. Hill, chairman and chief executive officer of Coldwell Banker Real Estate Group,and Chandler B. Barton, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Coldwell Banker Residential Real Estate Group.

Of particular interest to home owners and buyers at Deep Creek Lake and in Garrett County was the unveiling of Coldwell Banker's new program, "The International Resort Property Network.," according to Huebner. The network is a consortium of over 350 offices that specialize in the resort/vacation market across North America.

Huebner stated, "We're really excited about the potential of this program, which gives our property sellers more access to out-of-town buyers and allows us to better serve buyers in Garrett County and at Deep Creek Lake."

As a member of the network, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty will have enhanced referral opportunities from other Coldwell Bankers offices across North America, primarily located in major metropolitan markets. More details on this program will be announced at a later date.

Keynote speakers at the sales conference included Cathleen Black, publisher of "USA Today," and Lou Holtz, head football coach of the University of Notre Dame.

Seminars were given and Natalie Cole was featured as the entertainment at the black-tie finale.

OPERATION DESERT STORM
MAIL CALL

As American forces continue their assignment in "Operation Desert Storm" in the Middle East, mail becomes even more important as a morale builder and an expression of public support of their service.

The Republican proudly lists the names and addresses of those local service personnel who are now stationed there, either in Saudi Arabia or other Middle East nations. We hope local residents will take a few moments to drop a line to these young men and women. It is not necessary to be personally acquainted with these local soldiers or with anyone else in the armed services to send him or her a letter. Expressions of upbeat support, humor, and words of good cheer will mean a lot.

Letters to anyone in the Army, Air Force, or Marine Corps, land-based in Saudi Arabia, may be addressed as follows:

Letters to anyone in the Navy, Coast Guard, or Marine Corps at sea may be addressed as follows:

We will publish this list periodically over the next several weeks. Names and addresses of other local service personnel not listed here are welcome and will be added for future publication.

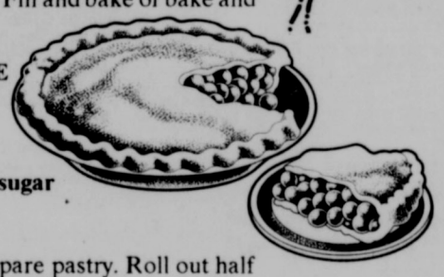
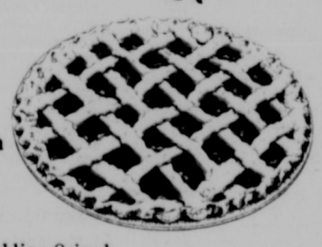
Easy as . . . Pie!

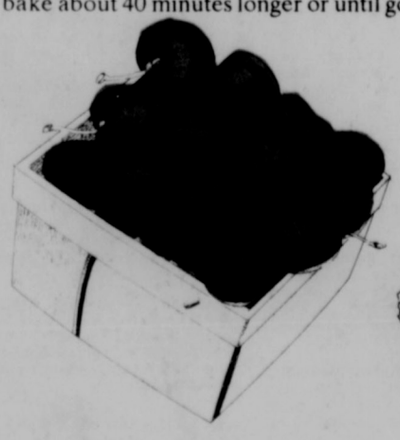
PASTRY FOR 2-CRUST PIE
(or two 8- or 9-inch piecrusts)
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup shortening
5 to 6 tablespoons cold water
In medium bowl with fork, lightly stir together flour and salt. With pastry blender or two knives used scissor-fashion, cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle in cold water, a tablespoon at a time, mixing lightly with a fork after each addition until pastry just holds together. With hands, shape pastry into a ball. For a 2-crust pie, divide pastry into 2 pieces, one slightly larger, and then gently shape each piece into a ball. On lightly floured surface with lightly floured rolling pin, roll larger ball into a 1/8-inch-thick circle, 2 inches larger all around than pie plate. Roll half of circle onto rolling pin; transfer pastry to pie plate and unroll, easing into bottom plate. Fill as recipe directs. For top crust, roll smaller ball as for bottom crust; with sharp knife, cut a few slashes or a design in center of circle; center over filling in the bottom crust. With scissors or a sharp knife, trim the pastry edges, leaving 1-inch overhang all around the pie plate rim. Fold overhang under; pinch a high edge; make a decorative edge if desired. Bake pie as recipe directs.
Making two piecrusts:
Prepare pastry as directed, then divide pastry evenly in half, shaping each half into a ball. On a lightly floured surface with a lightly floured rolling pin, roll out each ball and line 2 pie plates as directed above for bottom crust. Trim pastry edge and make a decorative edge if desired. Fill and bake or bake and fill as recipe directs.



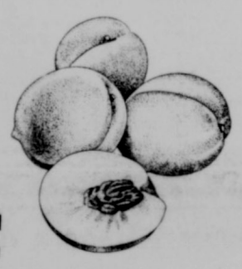
FRESH BLUEBERRY PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
3 1/2 cups blueberries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup packed light brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
Preheat oven to 400F. Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Mix blueberries, lemon juice, brown sugar and flour and pour into pie shell. Dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and cover filling. Prick or slash top crust or form a lattice. Bake about 35 minutes. Serve slightly warm, or cool.



FRESH CHERRY PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
4 cups fresh, sour cherries
2 2/3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1 1/3 cups sugar
2 drops almond flavoring, optional
2 tablespoons butter
Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Wash, drain and pit cherries. Combine tapioca, sugar, and almond flavoring; then mix gently with cherries. Let fruit mixture stand 15 minutes. Preheat oven to 450F. Pour fruit into pie shell and dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and cover filling. Prick or slash top crust or form a lattice. Bake 10 minutes at 450F, then reduce heat to 350F and bake about 40 minutes longer or until golden brown.



APPLE PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
2/3 to 3/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 to 2 teaspoons lemon juice
6 to 7 cups thinly sliced, peeled and cored cooking apples (2 lb.)
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
milk
Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. In small bowl, combine sugar (amount depends on tartness of apples) and next five ingredients. Place half of thinly sliced apples in piecrust; sprinkle with half of sugar mixture. Top with rest of apples, then rest of sugar mixture. Dot the filling with butter or margarine. Preheat oven to 425F. Roll out remaining pastry for top crust and place over pie; trim edges. Cut decorative design or a few slashes in top crust to let steam escape. Fold pastry overhang under, then bring up over pie plate rim. Pinch to form a high edge; make decorative edge if desired. For a golden glaze, brush the top crust (not the edge) lightly with some milk. Bake pie for 40 to 50 minutes or until crust is golden.



PEACH PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
6 cups peeled, sliced peaches
3/4 to 1 cup sugar
1/3 cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
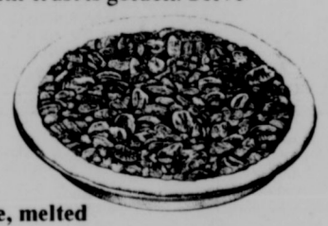
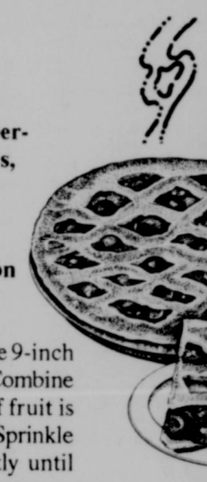
milk
Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Toss sliced peaches in large bowl with remaining ingredients except milk, then spoon peach mixture into pie crust. Roll remaining pastry into 11-inch diameter circle and cut into 6 strips of equal width. Preheat oven to 425F. Place pastry strips parallel across pie; twist, then fasten ends to the piecrust. Trim the pastry edges. Fold overhang over strip ends; pinch to form a high edge, then make a decorative edge if desired. Brush strips with milk. Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until crust is golden. Serve pie warm or cold.



PECAN PIE
1 9-inch unbaked piecrust
3 eggs
1 cup dark corn syrup
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup pecan halves
Prepare piecrust with your choice of decorative edge, then preheat oven to 350F. In medium bowl with wire whisk or hand beater, beat eggs well. Beat in corn syrup, sugar, butter or margarine and vanilla extract until well blended. Arrange pecan halves in single layer in bottom of piecrust. Pour egg mixture over the pecans in piecrust being careful not to disturb the nuts. Bake pie 1 hour or until knife inserted about 1 inch from edge comes out clean. Cool.

KEY LIME PIE
Pre-baked 1-crust pie shell (see below)
1 15-oz. can sweetened condensed milk
1 tablespoon grated Key lime rind
(or regular lime or lemon rind)
1/2 cup Key lime juice
(or regular lime or lemon juice)
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 slightly beaten egg yolks, optional
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar
Pre-bake pie shell as follows: Preheat oven to 450F. Roll out dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Prick well and bake 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool before filling. Mix together well the milk, rind, juice, salt, and egg yolks. Stir until thickened, a result of the reaction of the milk with the citrus juice. Pour the mixture into the baked crust. Preheat oven to 350F. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, while gradually adding sugar. Spoon egg white mixture over filled pie. Bake 10 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned.



BERRY PIE WITH FRESH FRUIT
Pastry for 2-crust pie
4 cups fresh berries
(gooseberries, currants, blackberries, raspberries, strawberries, blueberries, huckleberries, or loganberries)
2/3 to 1 cup or more sugar
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice or 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, optional
1 to 2 tablespoons butter
Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Wash berries, and hull if necessary. Combine sugar, flour, and lemon juice or cinnamon. If fruit is juicy, add 2 teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca. Sprinkle these ingredients over berries and stir gently until well blended. Let stand for 15 minutes. Preheat oven to 450F. Turn fruit into pie shell. Dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and cover filling. Prick or slash top crust or form a lattice. Bake in 450F oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350F and bake 35 to 40 minutes or until golden brown.

BERRY PIE WITH COOKED OR CANNED FRUIT
Pastry for 1- or 2-crust pie
2 1/2 cups sweetened canned or cooked berries
1 cup fruit juice
1 1/2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
Proceed as directed in above recipe for berry pie with fresh fruit, but for thickening use tapioca and the smaller amount of sugar. You may bake the filling in the unbaked pie shell as in berry pie with fresh fruit, or you may thicken the fruit juice by heating it separately with the thickener. Then mix it with the fruit and put it in a baked shell to serve.

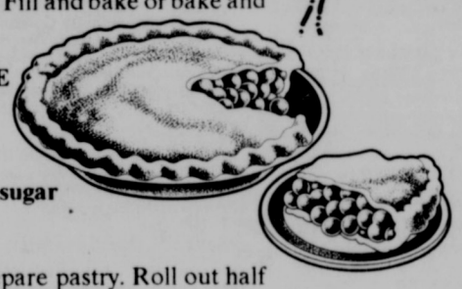
Easy as . . . Pie!

PASTRY FOR 2-CRUST PIE
(or two 8- or 9-inch piecrusts)
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup shortening
5 to 6 tablespoons cold water

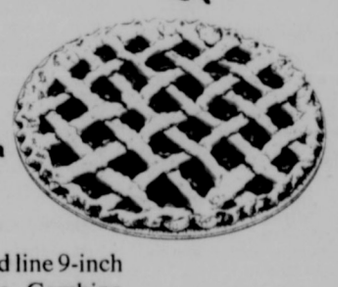
In medium bowl with fork, lightly stir together flour and salt. With pastry blender or two knives used scissor-fashion, cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle in cold water, a tablespoon at a time, mixing lightly with a fork after each addition until pastry just holds together. With hands, shape pastry into a ball. For a 2-crust pie, divide pastry into 2 pieces, one slightly larger, and then gently shape each piece into a ball. On lightly floured surface with lightly floured rolling pin, roll larger ball into a 1/8-inch-thick circle, 2 inches larger all around than pie plate. Roll half of circle onto rolling pin; transfer pastry to pie plate and unroll, easing into bottom plate. Fill as recipe directs. For top crust, roll smaller ball as for bottom crust; with sharp knife, cut a few slashes or a design in center of circle; center over filling in the bottom crust. With scissors or a sharp knife, trim the pastry edges, leaving 1-inch overhang all around the pie plate rim. Fold overhang under; pinch a high edge; make a decorative edge if desired. Bake pie as recipe directs.

Making two piecrusts:
Prepare pastry as directed, then divide pastry evenly in half, shaping each half into a ball. On a lightly floured surface with a lightly floured rolling pin, roll out each ball and line 2 pie plates as directed above for bottom crust. Trim pastry edge and make a decorative edge if desired. Fill and bake or bake and fill as recipe directs.



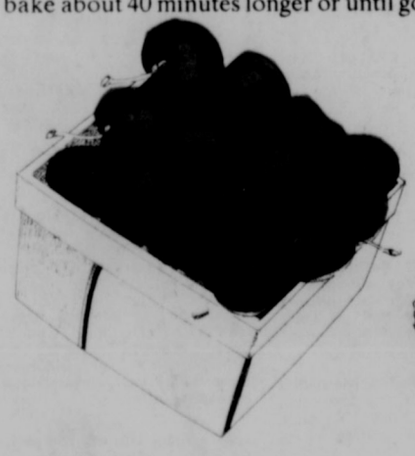
FRESH BLUEBERRY PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
3 1/2 cups blueberries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup packed light brown sugar
3 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter

Preheat oven to 400F. Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Mix blueberries, lemon juice, brown sugar and flour and pour into pie shell. Dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and cover filling. Prick or slash top crust or form a lattice. Bake about 35 minutes. Serve slightly warm, or cool.



FRESH CHERRY PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
4 cups fresh, sour cherries
2 2/3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1 1/3 cups sugar
2 drops almond flavoring, optional
2 tablespoons butter

Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Wash, drain and pit cherries. Combine tapioca, sugar, and almond flavoring; then mix gently with cherries. Let fruit mixture stand 15 minutes. Preheat oven to 450F. Pour fruit into pie shell and dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and cover filling. Prick or slash top crust or form a lattice. Bake 10 minutes at 450F, then reduce heat to 350F and bake about 40 minutes longer or until golden brown.



APPLE PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
2/3 to 3/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 to 2 teaspoons lemon juice
6 to 7 cups thinly sliced, peeled and cored cooking apples (2 lb.)
milk

Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. In small bowl, combine sugar (amount depends on tartness of apples) and next five ingredients. Place half of thinly sliced apples in piecrust; sprinkle with half of sugar mixture. Top with rest of apples, then rest of sugar mixture. Dot the filling with butter or margarine. Preheat oven to 425F. Roll out remaining pastry for top crust and place over pie; trim edges. Cut decorative design or a few slashes in top crust to let steam escape. Fold pastry overhang under, then bring up over pie plate rim. Pinch to form a high edge; make decorative edge if desired. For a golden glaze, brush the top crust (not the edge) lightly with some milk. Bake pie for 40 to 50 minutes or until crust is golden.

PEACH PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
6 cups peeled, sliced peaches
3/4 to 1 cup sugar
1/3 cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
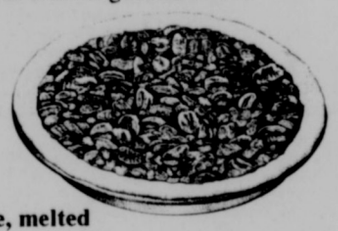
milk

Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Toss sliced peaches in large bowl with remaining ingredients except milk, then spoon peach mixture into pie crust. Roll remaining pastry into 11-inch diameter circle and cut into 6 strips of equal width. Preheat oven to 425F. Place pastry strips parallel across pie; twist, then fasten ends to the piecrust. Trim the pastry edges. Fold overhang over strip ends; pinch to form a high edge, then make a decorative edge if desired. Brush strips with milk. Bake 45 to 50 minutes or until crust is golden. Serve pie warm or cold.

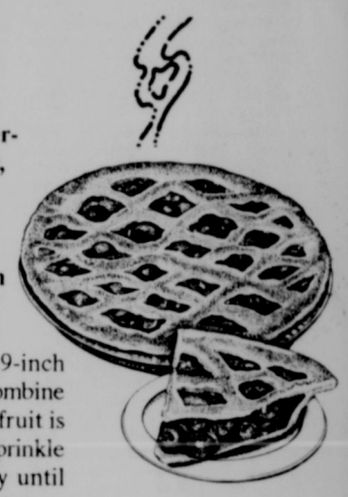


PECAN PIE
1 9-inch unbaked piecrust
3 eggs
1 cup dark corn syrup
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup pecan halves

Prepare piecrust with your choice of decorative edge, then preheat oven to 350F. In medium bowl with wire whisk or hand beater, beat eggs well. Beat in corn syrup, sugar, butter or margarine and vanilla extract until well blended. Arrange pecan halves in single layer in bottom of piecrust. Pour egg mixture over the pecans in piecrust being careful not to disturb the nuts. Bake pie 1 hour or until knife inserted about 1 inch from edge comes out clean. Cool.

KEY LIME PIE
Pre-baked 1-crust pie shell (see below)
1 15-oz. can sweetened condensed milk
1 tablespoon grated Key lime rind
(or regular lime or lemon rind)
1/2 cup Key lime juice
(or regular lime or lemon juice)
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 slightly beaten egg yolks, optional
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar

Pre-bake pie shell as follows: Preheat oven to 450F. Roll out dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Prick well and bake 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool before filling. Mix together well the milk, rind, juice, salt, and egg yolks. Stir until thickened, a result of the reaction of the milk with the citrus juice. Pour the mixture into the baked crust. Preheat oven to 350F. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, while gradually adding sugar. Spoon egg white mixture over filled pie. Bake 10 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned.

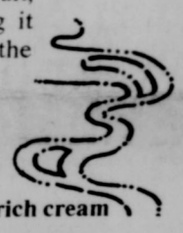


BERRY PIE WITH FRESH FRUIT
Pastry for 2-crust pie
4 cups fresh berries
(gooseberries, currants, blackberries, raspberries, strawberries, blueberries, huckleberries, or loganberries)
2/3 to 1 cup or more sugar
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice or 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, optional
1 to 2 tablespoons butter

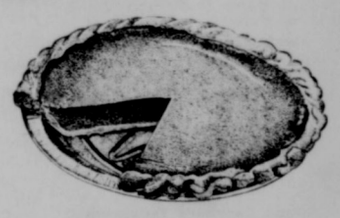
Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line 9-inch pie plate. Wash berries, and hull if necessary. Combine sugar, flour, and lemon juice or cinnamon. If fruit is juicy, add 2 teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca. Sprinkle these ingredients over berries and stir gently until well blended. Let stand for 15 minutes. Preheat oven to 450F. Turn fruit into pie shell. Dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and cover filling. Prick or slash top crust or form a lattice. Bake in 450F oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350F and bake 35 to 40 minutes or until golden brown.

BERRY PIE WITH COOKED OR CANNED FRUIT
Pastry for 1- or 2-crust pie
2 1/2 cups sweetened canned or cooked berries
1 cup fruit juice
1 1/2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca

Proceed as directed in above recipe for berry pie with fresh fruit, but for thickening use tapioca and the smaller amount of sugar. You may bake the filling in the unbaked pie shell as in berry pie with fresh fruit, or you may thicken the fruit juice by heating it separately with the thickener. Then mix it with the fruit and put it in a baked shell to serve.



PUMPKIN PIE
Pastry for 1-crust pie
2 cups cooked or canned pumpkin
1 1/2 cups undiluted evaporated milk or rich cream
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg or allspice
1/8 teaspoon cloves
2 slightly beaten eggs



Line pie pan with pastry. Preheat oven to 425F. Mix all other ingredients until well blended. Pour the mixture over pie shell. Bake 15 minutes at 425F, then reduce heat to 350F and bake about 45 minutes longer or until an inserted knife comes out clean. Serve with whipped cream.

MINCE PIE
Pastry for 2-crust pie
1 28-oz. jar mincemeat
2 to 4 tablespoons brandy, optional

Preheat oven to 450F. Prepare pastry. Roll out half of pastry and line a 9-inch pie plate. Fill with mincemeat, adding brandy if desired. Roll out remaining pastry and cover mincemeat. Prick or slash top crust. Bake at 450F for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350F and bake about 30 minutes.

IF YOU HAVE ACNE
DO SOMETHING NOW

Pimples, blackheads, blemishes and boils can make life miserable. They often can be controlled or eliminated by proper care. If neglected, permanent scars may develop. We have some helpful products any one can use safely. But if acne constantly recurs, it is wiser to consult a physician.

Acne is caused by poor adjustment of the skin to the secretions of maturing glands. It is not caused by dirt, but frequent washing clears the plugged oil glands to prevent blackhead formation. A blackhead is not dirt. The black color is from a chemical change in the secretion. Around the age of 18 or 19 the acne usually vanishes, but until then don't neglect proper care.

...Beautiful?

It all depends on whether or not you are a lobster lover. To those who enjoy this succulent fruit of the sea, a lobster is a thing of beauty. To others, it seems incredibly ugly.

Beauty is "in the eye of the beholder," but, contrary to another old saying, it is not skin deep. True beauty often can't be seen at all. It is something you feel, something of which you are aware, not necessarily seen.

Beauty, for instance, surrounds you when you walk into God's house. There is something in the atmosphere that you can't quite define. No matter what's been happening to you, within the confines of your church or synagogue, you feel a sense of peace, of sanctuary.

Had that experience lately?

THE LIMITS OF LOVE

March 3, 1991

Background Scripture: Luke 10: 25-37.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 22: 34-46.

Have you ever noticed that the parables that Jesus tells seem to have nothing to do with what people believe? The parables always teach us how to live our daily lives. Yet, very often these very practical teachings on how to live have a great deal to do with what we believe.

This is what we see in the Parable of the Good Samaritan. It begins with a question about belief from a lawyer or scribe—one learned in the religious law: "Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Luke tells us that he did this "to put him to the test." He hoped that Jesus would give an unorthodox answer that would spark a doctrinal argument. But Jesus refused to be trapped and turned the question back on the scribe: "What is written in the law? How do you read?" Anxious to show his expertise, the scribe replied with a quotation taken from Deuteronomy 6:4 and Leviticus 19:18: "You shall love the Lord your God...and your neighbor as yourself." In response, Jesus says: "You have answered right; do this, and you will live."

KNOWING & DOING

But the scribe once more seeks to embroil Jesus in a theological controversy: "And who is my neighbor?" Jesus could very well have answered him with a one-liner: your neighbor is anyone needing your help whom you can help. Instead, however, he tells a parable that says that and more. Remember, the scribes prided themselves on knowing the law. But in the parable the "hero" is a Samaritan. As a lay person he would "know" far less than a scribe, and as a Samaritan even what little he "knew" would be wrong!

By the careful way in which Jesus crafted his story, he discreetly showed that it is more a matter of doing than knowing. The priest who "passed by on the other side" certainly knew what to do, but didn't. The Levite also knew the right answers, but he too refrained from doing what he could. All Jews knew that Samaritans were all wrong in their religious views. For one thing, they believed the right place to worship God was on Mt. Gerizim, not Mt. Zion in Jerusalem. Yet, although the Samaritan was guilty of "wrong beliefs," he did exactly the right thing: he helped the robbery victim, despite the fact that the victim was a Jew, a sworn enemy of any Samaritan.

LET'S BE REASONABLE

In a sense, the scribe had asked Jesus to say something about the limits of loving one's neighbor. We can understand that because we too often wonder if love doesn't have some reasonable limits. Obviously, we must help someone in our own family who is in need. We all "know" that, although we may not all act upon it. The same is true of our friends. But what about the family next door whom we hardly know and actually don't much like—they, with their loud stereos and dog who seems to like our yard a lot more than theirs?

And what about the people on the south end of town who live in perpetual squalor and unemployment? What about those Hare Krishnas who always accost us when we go to the airport? And even if all the others are my "neighbors," surely that doesn't include Saddam Hussein!

The answer is no less hard for us than it was for the scribe: in Christ there are no limits to love.

Yellow Ribbon Campaign Of MSP Underway

Colonel Elmer H. Tippett, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, recently announced a Yellow Ribbon Campaign in support of agency personnel who have been called to active military duty in the Middle East. The yellow ribbons are displayed on Maryland State Police patrol cars in a statewide campaign designed to commemorate the men and women who have been called for duty as part of Operation Desert Storm.

"We are placing these yellow ribbons on the patrol vehicles to serve as a constant reminder of these brave men and women who are proudly serving their country," stated Colonel Tippett. "These yellow ribbons are intended to symbolize our thoughts and prayers for the safe return of these dedicated men and women we refer to as not only Maryland's Finest, but America's Finest."

So far, 19 members of the Maryland State Police have been added to the growing list of personnel called to active military duty in the Gulf War, including 17 troopers, one cadet, and one chaplain. The State Police estimated as many as 100 agency members, sworn and civilian, have some sort of current military obligation.

The Maryland State Police Alumni Association, Maryland Troopers Association, Coalition of Black Maryland State Troopers, and Lodge 69, Fraternal Order of Police, are providing support for the campaign and for the families of State Police personnel who are providing military service.

In announcing the yellow ribbon campaign, Tippett attached yellow ribbons to 16 marked State Police cruisers during a brief ceremony at Maryland State Police Headquarters in Pikesville. Following the ceremony, he ordered the presentation of yellow ribbons for display on nearly 2,000 vehicles statewide. The Maryland State Police Explorer Post assigned to Westminster Barrack (Carroll County) prepared the ribbons for delivery to all State Police field installations for display on patrol cars in each of Maryland's 23 counties.

State Police Note New Speed Enforcement Plan

Maryland State Police are gearing up for the beginning of a statewide highway safety program which targets 55 mile per hour highways with intensified enforcement of speed, alcohol and occupant restraint laws. The first phase of the program is entitled Project Intercept, which stands for Interstate Cooperative Comprehensive Enforcement and Education Program for Teenaged Drivers.

"Project Intercept marks the beginning of a year long highway safety campaign which will feature strict enforcement and heightened public awareness on a variety of highway safety issues," said Colonel Elmer H. Tippett, Superintendent, Maryland State Police. In remarks prepared for delivery to the Metropolitan Baltimore Public Safety Media Relations Council, Colonel Tippett called on Maryland's youthful drivers to make a concerted effort to obey traffic laws.

"We need to focus our attention on ways to improve the attitudes and driving behavior of teenaged drivers cited for speed related traffic law violations," added Tippett. "We need the cooperation of Maryland's youthful drivers in our efforts to control speeds on our highways."

Under Project Intercept, Maryland State Police will be working with the Motor Vehicle Administration and the Maryland District Court System in select counties to address teen drivers aged 16 through 19 who have been charged with exceeding the posted speed limit. Presiding judges in the participating counties may offer probation before judgment for first-time offenders who are residents of the county in which they have been convicted. The verdict will be rendered in exchange for the teenager's agreement to attend a two hour "Drive to Survive" highway safety session presented by the Maryland State Police. The session will focus on driver attitudes, use of occupant restraints, obeying posted speed limits and the dangers of drunk and drugged driving.

The intensified enforcement will begin March 1 with the deployment of special teams of patrols on Interstates 95, 83, 695, 70, 495, 270, 81 and 48. State Police will engage in a variety of enforcement techniques used during the widely publicized 1990 campaign, Clickit and Ticket. The Clickit and Ticket speed enforcement patrols successfully reduced the number of speed related crashes on Maryland highways during 1990 enabling a continuation of a three year downward trend in highway deaths.

"Our goal is to remove unsafe drivers who are jeopardizing other motorists on our highways," stated Colonel Tippett.

In addition to Project Intercept, Maryland State Police are planning several highway safety initiatives to "intercept" unsafe drivers, including a program to capture Maryland's Ten Most Unwanted Drivers.

Westvaco Luke Mill To Provide Local Scholarships

For the eighteenth consecutive year, Westvaco's Luke mill will be providing 1991-92 tuition scholarship grants to Allegany Community College, Frostburg State University, Garrett Community College, and Potomac State College students in an effort to stimulate college attendance by the sons and daughters of Luke mill workers.

Any incoming freshman student planning to attend one of these schools full-time and is a son or daughter of a Luke mill employee or retiree is eligible. Selection for a Westvaco scholarship will be determined by these four schools on a basis of high school three and one-half year grade point average. Applications and final determination of scholarship is made by the respective college.

The minimum scholarship requirement is that the student must meet the entrance requirements for the college and maintain the required academic standing to remain in school.

Westvaco's Luke mill first provided scholarships for freshmen in 1973.

Study Says Highway Spending Boosts Maryland Economy, Saves Millions

Continued investment in Maryland's highways would give a shot in the arm to the state's economy, according to a study released this week.

More than 1,700 jobs and at least $30 million in immediate benefits statewide are generated by each $100 million spent on Maryland's roads and bridges, said The Road Information Program (TRIP), a nonprofit highway research group. TRIP added that the jobs are in construction, retail trade, service, manufacturing, finance, real estate and other industries.

The estimated economic benefits of such investment include $11.7 million in corporate taxes and fees, $10.6 million in property, sales and other taxes, and $4.2 million in saved unemployment compensation. Driving on improved roads would also save Maryland motorists $3.8 million in operating costs by reducing vehicle wear and tear and fuel consumption.

"Roads and bridges touch the lives of all Maryland citizens," said Donald P. Hutchinson, president of the Maryland Economic Growth Associates, Inc. "Highway improvement not only provides smoother driving and faster transport of people and goods, it creates thousands of jobs which in turn stimulate the state's overall economy. Moreover, Maryland's road and bridge system is the key link for access to businesses here."

TRIP released its study against a backdrop of a possible $206 million shortfall in funding for capital improvements to Maryland's highways through FY 1992. Loss of these funds would cost Maryland an estimated 929 jobs and more than $56 million in goods and services during the remaining four months in FY 1991, and 2,616 jobs and an estimated $159 million in goods and service in FY 1992.

The study points to the serious need for capital improvements in Maryland. Presently, more than 35 percent of the state's most heavily traveled roads need improvements, ranging from repaving to total reconstruction, and 30 percent of the state's bridges need to be repaired or replaced.

Maryland's highway problems are compounded by overwhelming traffic volume. Traffic grew 36 percent statewide from 1980 to 1989, and the number of licensed vehicles increased nearly 26 percent during the same period. Maryland's traffic density is the fourth highest in the country, says the report, and it is greater than Pennsylvania, New York, West Virginia or Virginia, all of which are larger in size.

In contrast with significant traffic growth, Maryland's highway spending for capacity improvement and major repairs has not kept pace during the past 20 years. TRIP estimated that in 1988, capital spending per 1,000 vehicle miles traveled (VMT) was only 83 percent of that in 1970. spending to maintain Maryland's roads and bridges (such as filling potholes) grew steadily by 3.6 percent per year between 1958 and 1988. However, the study indicates that inadequate funding has caused Maryland to defer major improvements in order to maintain the system.

"A sound transportation system is essential for economic vitality, especially in a state like Maryland," said William M. Wilkins, executive director for TRIP. "Roads and bridges are necessary to help businesses operate competitively, both within and across state borders. TRIP's study shows that by investing in the improvement of these systems, Maryland will help to fortify its strong and diverse economic foundation."

TRIP, founded in 1971, is a private, non-profit organization that researches, evaluates and distributes economic and technical data on highway issues.

Day Of Prayer, Peace Set At St. Matthew's

St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, will host a Quiet Day of Prayer and Reflections on Peace, on Saturday, March 9. The day will begin at 9 a.m., and end with a closing communion service at 3 p.m.

There will be times for formal prayer, group and individual reflections on the three faces of peace: World Peace, Family Peace, and Peace with God. The Quiet Day Reflections will be led by Dr. Terry Webb, a member of St. Matthew's Parish and a long-time peace activist, and a pastoral/addictions counselor. Dr. Alan Hughes, family counselor for Garrett Addictions, the Rev. Peter Fulghum, interim rector of St. Matthew's, and Ruth Boyle, counselor at Garrett Mental Health, will also be leaders at this special prayer day for peace.

An open invitation is extended to all members of the community. Persons are asked to bring a bag lunch.

Dilgard Fund At GCC Increased

The Ann Dilgard Scholarship fund at Garrett Community College has recently been increased by the donor, according to Crystal Filer-Ogden, financial aid coordinator. When the current certificate of deposit matures next month, the scholarship account will be transferred to the Garrett Community College Foundation Endowment Fund, which will then be eligible for state matching funds.

Each year at Commencement, recipients of this scholarship are announced. To be eligible for this award, a student must be a Garrett County resident who has graduated from either Northern or Southern High School, must have graduated from Garrett Community College with an associate in arts degree and a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0, and must be transferring to a Maryland four-year institution. The student must also compose an essay on educational goals and a list of extra-curricular activities and accomplishments.

Students wishing to apply for the Ann Dilgard Scholarship should contact Crystal Filer-Ogden in the Financial Aid office of the college. A scholarship committee will make the determination of the award. One or two students are chosen each year to receive this scholarship.

State Tax Returns Pour In; Common Error Involves Subdivision Code

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said 540,000 taxpayers have already filed their 1990 state income tax returns. He reminded those still working on their returns to be sure to use the correct code for their subdivision on the front of their return. "Using the right code guarantees your local government will ;receive its proper share of more than $1.4 billion in local income tax revenue," he said.

The comptroller noted that his office has been busy correcting many returns filed by individuals who neglected to enter the correct code for their incorporated city or town. "Many folks entered the code for their county instead of the code for their incorporated town. If you live in an incorporated city or town, be sure to enter the correct code for that town. Only those taxpayers who live outside of an incorporated area should enter the county code." Goldstein said.

The comptroller said a full list of the codes is featured on page 2 of the instructions in the tax packet. "If you choose a tax preparer to complete your return, make sure the preparer entered the correct code of your subdivision. We're finding cases of preparers using the codes for their office location instead of the taxpayer's home," he added.

Goldstein said his office has mailed 151,000 state income tax refund checks to taxpayers so far during the filing season, averaging $280 each.

He also noted that more than 7,690 taxpayers have contributed $69,387 to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Trust Fund on their Maryland returns. Taxpayers may donate any amount they choose, using line 63 of the Maryland short or long form or line 5 of the new Form 123.

Baltimore County is currently leading the way, with 1,464 taxpayers donating more than $12,123, marking the largest total amount contributed among the subdivisions. The highest percentage of taxpayers contributing came from Montgomery County, where 6.8% of taxpayers whose returns have been processed to date have made a contribution. Charles County taxpayers donated the highest average amount, $12.63. The average contribution statewide is $9.02.

"At least 79 taxpayers have donated $50 or more to the fund," he said.

Proceeds from the contributions will be shared equally by the Department of Natural Resources and the Chesapeake Bay Trust. The money is used for wildlife protection and other bay-related projects.

"The amount donated will be added to any state tax you owe or subtracted from your refund, but it will be deductible on next year's return," Goldstein added.

The comptroller said taxpayers can get free state income tax assistance at all 15 Maryland income tax offices located throughout the state. The offices are open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., including all state holidays and certain weekends between now and the filing deadline, Monday, April 15, 1991. The extra hours of assistance are listed inside the state income tax packet.

"State tax experts will complete your Maryland return free of charge as long as you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements,," he said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for state income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Alcohol And Cigarette Tax Revenue Shared

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said his office has mailed checks totaling $5,766,867 to Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City, representing their share of the alcohol and tobacco tax collections for the second quarter of the fiscal year 1991 (October, November, December, 1990).

"This distribution is 4.1% less than the $6,011,603 the subdivisions received during the same period of fiscal year 1990," Goldstein said. "Maryland's subdivisions have now received a total of $11,502,407 as their share of distilled spirits, beer and cigarette tax revenue for the first half of fiscal year 1991. That's about 1% less than the $11,613,554 the subdivisions received during the same period of fiscal year 1990."

Alcohol and tobacco tax revenue for the first six months of fiscal year 1991 totaled $47,423,967, a modest increase of 1.7% from the $46,649,037 collected during the same period of fiscal year 1990. The comptroller said some of the increase in alcoholic beverage tax revenue was the result of purchases made in December to avoid the federal tax increase on these items that went into effect January 1, 1991.

Beer taxes in the second quarter of fiscal year 1991 yielded $1,072,459 in distributions to the subdivisions, up 3.2% over the corresponding period of last year. Approximately one-half of the nine cents per gallon beer tax is returned to the subdivisions, based on deliveries to local retailers.

Garrett County received $6,064.97 in beer tax revenue.

The distilled spirits tax provided $1,359,569 to the local governments, an increase of 2% over the same period of last year. The local subdivisions receive approximately one-third of the $1.50 per gallon distilled spirits tax for each gallon of liquor delivered to retail licensees within their jurisdiction.

Garrett County's share of distilled spirits tax revenue was $8,039.90.

Maryland's subdivisions received $3,334,839 from the cigarette tax for the second quarter of 1991, 8.4% less than they received in the same period last year. Distribution of cigarette tax is based on a formula returning approximately three cents of the 13 cents per pack tax to the subdivisions in proportion to their population.

Garrett County received $16,111.47 in cigarette tax monies.

Lung Association Baby Shower Set At Silver Tree

What is alleged to be Maryland's Largest Baby Shower will be held in Garrett County on Saturday, March 16, from noon to 2 p.m., at the Silver Tree Inn, Deep Creek Lake. Sponsored by the American Lung Association of Maryland, the Christmas Seal People, the shower is for expectant and new mothers who want a healthy, smoke-free life for their babies.

"This is a very special baby shower for pregnant women who have recently quit smoking or are trying to quit for the health of their baby," said Ann Sherrard, RD, a member of the Baby Shower Planning committee and nutrition and health coordinator with the Garrett County Health Department. "We think it is important that mothers-to-be realize the importance of taking care of themselves and not smoking while they are pregnant and also after delivery," she said.

Baby Shower guests will receive lunch and gifts and will have the opportunity to win door prizes from area merchants. The Schwab Company will provide each guest with a gift of infant wear. Speakers will discuss the harmful effects of smoking and will give tips on quitting smoking and staying quit.

The event is free, but registration is required. For more information, persons may call the American Lung Association of Maryland at 1-800-222-9974 or the Garrett County Health Department at 334-8111 or 895-3111.

Maryland's Largest Baby Shower in Garrett County is one of six showers throughout the state sponsored by the American Lung Association of Maryland and supported by a grant from the Washington/Baltimore Group Operations of the Prudential.

ROTARIANS SUPPORT GCC - Oakland Rotary Club President Andrew Messer, left, presents a check to Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, to benefit the GCC Foundation. Dr. Herman noted that gifts to the Foundation "have a way of appreciating very quickly" because of a matching gift program supported by the State of Maryland. Messer said that the Oakland Rotary Club has supported the college since its inception through a voluntary scholarship program. He added that the club is "pleased" to support the college Foundation, as well.

Speeding Kills Over 300 On State Roadways

Maryland State Police say more than 300 people lost their lives in speed related collisions on Maryland highways last year. According to a preliminary review of 725 highway fatalities in 1990, excessive speed is listed as a contributing factor in 302 highway deaths.

"Maryland's tough stance on speed enforcement has helped continue a three year downward trend in the number of deaths occurring on Maryland highways," stated Corporal Michael E. Davey of the Maryland State Police Field Operations Bureau. Appearing on the Maryland State Police Radio Program, a weekly public service broadcast, Corporal Davey attributed the decline to a variety of enforcement measures including the widely publicized Clickit and Ticket speed enforcement patrols.

"The strict and aggressive enforcement by Clickit and Ticket speed enforcement patrols led to an 11 percent decline in the number of speed related crashes on Maryland's 55 per hour highways," stated Corporal Davey. "These patrols also contributed to a 6.3 percent drop in the number of speed related crashes statewide," Corporal Davey added.

During 1990, Maryland State Police issued more than 24,700 tickets for speeds approaching 80 miles per hour or higher. The tickets were among the more than 190,000 speeding citations issued to motorists statewide for violating Maryland's 55 mile per hour speed limit.

The majority of the speed violations were cited for speeds between 66 and 74 miles per hour. The speed citation totals are contained in a report in the Clickit and Ticket program prepared by members of the Traffic Operations Section of the Field Operations Bureau. The intensified speed enforcement effort targeted unsafe driving behavior commonly associated with excessive speed including improper or unsafe lane changing, tailgating and failure to grant the right of way.

When It Comes To Saving Money, Are You Overlooking The Obvious?

Think about it. Your checking account is the banking service you use most, but probably think about least. In today's economic environment, it makes sense to take a long look at your current checking account, and ask yourself some hard questions.

"Am I Overlooking An Opportunity To Earn Interest On My Checking Dollars?"

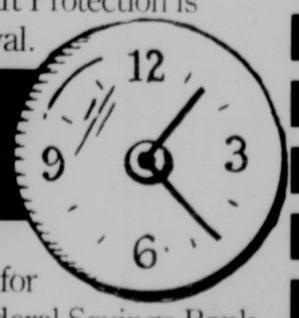
Do you have checking dollars sitting idle in a non-interest bearing checking account? If you normally keep a checking balance of $500 or more, you can earn a competitive rate of interest on your checking dollars with a First Federal Savings Bank Checking account.

"Do I Have Access To Overdraft Protection Just In Case I Overdraw My Account Or Need To Write A Check In An Emergency?"

SERVICE FEE

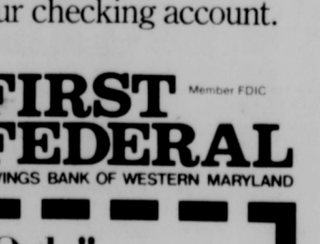
Nobody's perfect. We all have times when we make an error in balancing our checkbook. Or, we need a little extra cash right before payday. Instead of paying an overdraft fee, you could be enjoying the convenience of Overdraft Protection, available with all First Federal checking accounts. Your application for Overdraft Protection is subject to credit approval.

"Does My Current Checking Account Respect The Value Of My Time?"



It's amazing how many people will run around for their bank. At First Federal Savings Bank, we believe we're here to make life easier for you. That's why we have branch offices conveniently located throughout Western Maryland. That's why many of our offices offer evening and weekend banking hours. And, of course, we offer the 24-hour convenience of the MAC/Cirrus network with every checking account.

"Does My Checking Account Make Sense For The Way I Use It?"



Everybody has different checking habits. Some people write many checks each month and others write only a few. Some people prefer to keep their checking balance as low as possible while others feel more secure having a higher balance available all the time. In fact, it could be that the checking account that made sense for your family ten years ago may be wasting your dollars today. In addition to having a number of different checking options, First Federal has a knowledgeable staff who will work with you to help you determine which checking account will be most cost-efficient for your family's checking needs today.

"Maybe I Should Talk To First Federal."

In today's financial environment, you can't afford to waste a nickel on anything, especially something as important as your checking account. Why not come in for a checking check-up at First Federal Savings Bank today?

Workshop On Income Opportunities For Rural Areas Set For April 6

The Cooperative Extension Services of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the Small Business Development Center and the Maryland Tree Farm Committee are co-sponsoring a workshop on income opportunities for rural areas. The workshop will be held April 6 at Allegany Community College in Cumberland from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

"The farms, woodlands and other rural areas of western Maryland and surrounding counties in Pennsylvania and West Virginia contain an abundance of renewable natural resources that are in great demand," said Jonathan Kays, a regional natural resources specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland system.

"Using these natural resources to meet recreational needs and provide nontraditional products and services can help improve local economies while providing for the continued conservation of these natural resources.

"Unfortunately, there is a lack of good information for prospective entrepreneurs on how to produce, market and finance such nontraditional products and services," he added. "We hope this workshop will help fill the void."

The morning program will open with a session on "Looking Ahead for Small Farms" by Howard W. (Bud) Kerr, Jr., of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office for Small-Scale Agriculture. This will be followed by down-to-earth discussions on developing a business plan, marketing a product or service, what a bank is looking for in a loan application, and liability considerations.

After lunch, participants will attend consecutive one-hour sessions on three of the following topics: aquaculture, hunting leases, fee fishing, camping, sporting clays, bed and breakfast, forest products, custom saw milling, ornamental cut flowers, organic fruits and vegetables, shiitake mushrooms and ginseng.

"If you've ever wondered about any of these enterprises, this is an opportunity to get your questions answered," Kays said.

Pre-registration is required, and is being handled through the Allegany County office of the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland System. The $6 fee includes lunch, breaks and informational materials. Persons may call the Allegany office at (301) 724-3320 or any local Cooperative Extension Service office fin Maryland, Pennsylvania, or West Virginia for a workshop brochure.

ROTARIANS DONATE TO SCOUTS -- The Oakland Rotary Club recently made a financial contribution to Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America. Above, Maruice Brookhart, fund-raising chairman for the Deep Creek District of the Potomac Council, left, accepts a check from Andrew Messer, president of the Rotary Club. Messer said that the local club supports various other scouting programs at the local level, plus area scouts often participate with Rotary Club members on certain projects for which they earn community service hours in their scouting program.

Sarbanes Bill To Increase Literacy Funds

Stressing the importance of libraries in the effort to fight illiteracy, Senator Paul Sarbanes has introduced legislation to increase the maximum grant awards to libraries participating in the Library Literacy Grants program. The legislation sponsored by Sarbanes would increase the maximum grant available under Title VI of the Library Services and Construction Act from $35,000 to $50,000. The Eastern Shore Regional Library is currently seeking a grant under this program.

"Libraries, which have always served as engines of learning and ladders of opportunity in our society, are uniquely situated to develop and offer literacy programs which can reach all segments of society," Sarbanes said upon introducing the legislation. "With an estimated 10 to 21 million adults in need of literacy training in our Nation today, we can ill afford to turn our backs on programs which address this pressing problem. I am dismayed that the Administration has proposed to terminate the Title VI library literacy grant program in its FY92 Budget proposal."

Sarbanes added, "Since they were first funded in 1986, library literacy grants have proven successful in encouraging libraries to develop programs to reduce illiteracy. An increased grant award would provide a greater incentive for increased participation in this critical program."

Sarbanes noted that numerous public libraries throughout the State have participated in the library literacy grant program since it was first funded in 1986, including the Maryland State Library, Cecil County Public Library, Southern Maryland Regional Library Association, Eastern Shore Regional Library, Carroll County Public Library, Prince George's County Memorial Library, and the Enoch Pratt Free Library. Currently the Montgomery County Department of Public Libraries, the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, the Enoch Pratt Free Library and the Eastern Shore Regional Library have Title VI applications pending.

Sarbanes added, "The bill I am introducing serves to emphasize the urgent need to continue Federal programs to fight illiteracy and to assist libraries in expanding and increasing such programs. I urge all of my colleagues to join me in working toward prompt passage of this important legislation."

BalletMet, a professional ballet company based in Columbus, Ohio, will perform Tuesday, March 12, at 8 p.m., in Compton Auditorium on the Frostburg State University campus. Seating is limited and tickets can be purchased at the Lane Center and Main Street Books on Main Street, Frostburg.

One of the nation's fastest growing ballet companies, BalletMet was founded as a civic ballet company and became professional in 1978.

Potomac Edison Reminds Customers Of Payment Plan

Potomac Edison Company is reminding customers that special bill payment schedules are available if they are having difficulty budgeting for higher winter heating bills.

"If customers are having difficulty paying their electric bills, we would like to work with them to develop a payment schedule," said Western Division Manager Nancy Neff. "Families may be experiencing difficult times due to a family member's participation in Operation Desert Storm or for other reasons. There are several options available to help customers who may get behind on their winter electric bills."

Neff said one option is the average payment plan. With this plan, customers pay about the same amount each month throughout the year. High and low bills are average through the years so that budgeting is made easier.

Several other energy assistance programs are available for eligible customers. Information on these programs is available by calling Potomac Edison's toll-free number, 1-800-654-3317.

Customers can save energy during the colder months of the year by taking energy-saving measures at home, according to Neff. Some tips for conserving energy and energy dollars include:

*Reduce thermostat setting during the daytime to between 64 and 68 degrees. At night, set thermostat to between 55 and 60 degrees for maximum savings. Setting back a thermostat five degrees for eight hours can save eight percent on an electric bill. Note: reduced thermostat settings in winter are not recommended for infants, the elderly, or physically infirmed customers. Also, if electronic setback thermostat is present, heat pump thermostat set-back is not recommended.

*Save on hot water use by insulating water heater. Try substituting cool or warm water for hot whenever possible; take short showers instead of baths; install low-flow showerheads and sink faucets; wash only full loads of clothes or dishes; use cool or warm water for clothes washing and cold water for rinsing; and set water heater temperature to 120 degrees unless a dishwasher is present in which case the setting should be 140 degrees.

*Insulation in walls, ceilings, and floors helps keep a home warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

*Check furnace or heat pump filters monthly, and clean and replace them at least twice a year to help units operate as efficiently as possible.

*Use an energy-saver switch on the refrigerator if one is provided and regularly vacuum condenser coils underneath or behind the unit.

Ninety-nine percent of all forms of life that have existed on earth are now extinct.

Byron Bill To Prevent Deployment Of Single Parents With Infants

Rep. Beverly Byron (D-MD) opened her first subcommittee hearing of the new Congress yesterday by introducing a bill that will prohibit the separation of single parents serving in the armed forces from their infant children.

Byron's legislation is one of several bills being considered to address the problem of young children separated from one or both parents who have been deployed to the Persian Gulf or reassigned to duties in another location as part of Operation Desert Storm.

The bill states that active duty female members of the armed forces with a child under the age of six months may not be assigned without their consent to duties that would necessitate their living apart from a child. The bill's language also covers female reservists not on active duty with an infant child. They may not be called or ordered to active duty except for purposes of training without similar consent.

In cases where the secretary of defense makes the determination that it is a male service member who has sole custody of a child under six months, the Byron bill will apply the same guidelines as those prescribed for mothers.

"As a mother of three and a grandmother of five, I am deeply troubled by separating a child from its mother, particularly in the case of a newborn infant," stated Rep. Byron, "It is easy to lose sight of the fact, however, that today's military is composed of an all-volunteer force, whose members made a conscious decision to join for a variety of personal and family reasons," she added.

The Operation Desert Storm deployment has posed enormously difficult personal choices for which there are no easy answers. Millions of children, including this chairman whose father left for three years when I was eight, have greatly missed a parent called off to war. But we must be very careful that the solution is not far worse than the problem it is designated to address. My legislation is a compromise that I believe addresses readiness and will meet the needs of superb all volunteer force we have today," said Rep. Byron.

Local Students Named To Dean's List At ACC

Four local residents have been named to the dean's list for the fall 1990 semester, according to Gene Hall, ACC vice president of instructional affairs.

Those students include Mary "Fran" Otero, Deer Park; Rae Ann Frazee, Beth M. Goguen, and Cheryl L. Mast, all of Grantsville.

To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must earn a 3.8 or higher grand point average (on a 4.0 scale) and be enrolled in five or more semester hours.

The four local students were among 183 students who were named to the dean's list.

Lions To Host Lunch, Seminar On Quest Effort

The Lions of District 22-W, in conjunction with the Frostburg Lions who will serve as host, are sponsoring a free seminar on Lions Quest -- Skills for Growing, a drug education program presented in kindergarten through grades 5. The seminar will be an introduction to the Lions' elementary education program.

School teachers, parents, Lions, Lioness members, and others interested in drug education for youth are invited to attend the free seminar, to be held this Saturday, March 2, at the Gunter Hotel in Frostburg. A luncheon will be held at noon at a cost of $5 per person and the seminar will begin around 1 p.m. Persons interested in attending the luncheon should make a reservation by sending a check payable to the "Frostburg Lions Club" to: Gerry Beachy, P.O. Box 189, Grantsville, Md. 21536.

According to Beachy, Drug Awareness chairman for Lions District 22-W, the four-hour seminar will be given by Jim McCarty, Multiple Lions District 22 Drug Awareness chairman, who just received intensive training in Atlanta on the new advances of Lions -- Quest. He will be coming to Frostburg from Chestertown, where he serves his local Lions Club as well as his Lions District.

"Skills for Growing" is a positive youth development program fostering citizenship skills in responsibility, good judgment, self-discipline and getting along with others. Presently, the local Lions have sponsored Quest -- "Skills for Adolescence" in the middle schools of both Garrett and Allegany County schools for the past three years at an initial cost of over $30,000. The program was given much acclaim by Gov. Schaefer this past summer during a visit to Garrett County where he gave official commendations to the Lions and Lioness Clubs of Garrett County for their efforts in providing funds for the program. He stated that he was "proud" of the Lions' efforts in working with state and federal grants and local school boards to maintain the program.

Interested persons may attend the luncheon and/or the seminar and may also view parts of the seminar if they have time constraints. More information about the Lions -- Quest program can be obtained by calling Gerry Beachy at 301-895-5177.

GCC Graduates Invited To Join Alumni Group

At a recent meeting of the Garrett Community College Alumni Association, members voted to have a charter membership drive open until December 31, 1991. Any alumnus of the college who joins the association within that time period will be recognized as a charter member, according to Rob Michael, president.

A number of different activities were discussed at the meeting which was held at the college. The Association will publish a newsletter whose first issue will appear this spring. As a fund-raiser, a 50-50 drawing is being held, with the drawing to occur March 16.

Other possible projects that were discussed included a 5-K race in the fall, a pizza cook-off, and a formal dance that would be sponsored in conjunction with the GCC Foundation as an activity of the college's 20th anniversary celebration.

The next meeting of the GCC Alumni Association will be held in the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery of the college on Thursday, March 7, at 6 p.m. All graduates and former students of Garrett Community College are invited to attend.

Other officers of the Association are Phoebe Wiley, vice president; Linda Fike, secretary; and Paul Frantz, treasurer.

SFC Bittinger Graduate Of NCO Academy

Sergeant First Class Thomas E. Bittinger, Oakland, recently graduated from the Libby Advanced Noncommissioned Officer Academy at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

SFC Bittinger, who is the unit's full-time Unit Readiness NCO and operations sergeant, attended training for a three-month period. While at Fort Leonard Wood he studied and was tested in many combat engineer subjects. Some of these classes were on air/land battle doctrine, survivability, mobility and countermobility doctrines. Instruction under these doctrines included demolitions, reconnaissance, landmine warfare, and military load classifications. The training also included the placing and breaching of obstacles and general engineering subjects. He was required to qualify with his M16A1 Rifle and to pass three Army physical fitness tests while at the school.

Classes were also conducted on common leader training on subjects such as: effective military writing, military justice, training management, terrorism counteractions, and military history.

According to the school's evaluation report, SFC Bittinger achieved all course standards "by his good study habits and attention to detail. He possesses the knowledge, skills and abilities that are required of a noncommissioned officer. He demonstrated superior writing skills during his effective writing assignments. His contribution to small group studies was a major factor in the success of all students achieving course standards."

SFC Bittinger has been a member of either the regular Army or the Maryland Army National Guard for over 28 years. He and his wife, Dorothee, have resided in Country Club Acres in Oakland since 1970.

Any person 17 or over interested in joining the local combat engineer unit can either stop by the armory at 15 North 8th Street or call 334-3200 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. work days.

Local Dairymen Meet With "Agency" To Take Action On Milk Prices

A meeting of the Producers' Equalization Agency (Agency) was held last Friday at the Springs, Pa., Community Center for dairymen in Garrett County and Somerset County, Pa., who are interested in the price they receive for the milk they produce. Approximately 50 dairymen were in attendance to learn what options they have to change their net returns, which Agency directors say are the lowest in the nation.

Speaking for the Agency were Lowell Friedline, director and dairy farmer from Jennerstown, Pa.; Tom Croner, president and dairy farmer from Berlin, Pa.; and Kenneth Stromski, producer relations manager and former dairy farmer from eastern Ohio.

Taking the floor first was Stromski, who reviewed the situation, saying the downward trend is expected to continue. He explained that how net returns in this area (Federal Order 36) compare with other regions is important. "You have a choice," he said. "Let national marketing conditions drive your milk price down, or price your milk and be assured of at least a $1 premium."

The Agency is designed to price milk by establishing over-order premiums based on the cost of milk production, local marketing conditions, and alternative milk supplies. Milk processors and handlers can pay higher prices only if they know their competitors are also paying higher prices, Stromski told the group. Separately, dairy farmers will only receive what is offered to them, but together, dairy farmers can mutually establish over-order premiums which today, he said, would amount to at least $1.

There are 24 distributing plants, five supply plants, and five cooperative associations regulated by Federal Order 36. Stromski said the Agency will operate in a manner acceptable to all dairy farmers regardless of whether they ship their milk independently or through a cooperative.

Croner stated that the Agency has made progress, and at this time, has signed 2,971 of the 5,000 dairy farmers in Federal Order 36. "Control is fragile," Stromski said. "As soon as you can't price one handler, you can't price any handler. Farmers must stick together. If one shipper lets one handler pay more by persuading him to drop out of the Agency, he takes your check with him."

Friedline said that it's a mutual need — producers and handlers. "The handler is not a villian," Friedline said. "He's a businessman. We as farmers have a problem. We want to stay in business and we want them (handlers) to stay in business, too."

In the future, Stromski explained, if, because of a milk shortage, prices become livable the Agency will drop out of the picture to help the handler.

Stromski also explained that Federal Order 4 will not be priced by the Agency. "Where milk is sold defines the order; there are no geographical lines," he said. "Therefore, those in Order 4 wouldn't sign up, but we feel they will receive an indirect benefit."

Dairy farmers will control the Agency, but can establish premiums only after the vast majority of the producers in this market agree to mutually price their milk by signing the Agency agreement. Fredline stated: "We (dairymen) don't say 'this is what it costs.' We say how much will you give me. We buy retail and sell wholesale," he said. "I'm optimistic about this," he told the group. "But we need your help." He explained that the Agency maintains confidentially of the membership list to protect producers from some handlers, and will continue that confidentially until the organization has a 90 percent membership.

Croner urged those in attendance to convince their neighbors that "this is the right thing to do."

The general attitude of those in the room and the thoughts of some of the individual farmers were: "I think it's a great idea." "It's got to happen." "Farmers would have to stick together, and that might be difficult, but we've got to organize." "We need this. We can't start killing each other for a penny or we'll all die."

For more information, or to sign up with the Agency, those interested may call Friedline at (814) 629-6032; Croner at (814) 267-4955; Stromski at (614) 945-6455; or the Agency office in Medina, Ohio, at 1-800-875-2250.

Farm Bureau Opposes Mandatory Milk Supply Management Program

The American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) has urged Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter to consider the impact of dairy policy on producer income in the development of an inventory management program.

In a letter to the secretary, AFBF President Dean Kleckner said USDA must evaluate "both the short-term and long-term inplications" the dairy program has on producer income.

Providing an income safety net for producers is one of the main objectives of the price support program, Kleckner's letter said. "We urge you to have as a primary consideration the impact each program will have on producer income" and on producers' ability to improve their income and efficiency in the future.

The 1990 farm bill stipulates that the secretary of agriculture must develop a standby inventory management program designed to keep purchases at or below six billion pounds — not to include termination, buyout or support price reduction below $10.10. The secretary is authorized to make assessments to ensure that the government incurs no cost for purchases in excess of seven billion pounds.

Farm Bureau and other dairy industry groups were invited to submit inventory management proposals and will participate in a public comment period in June.

Kleckner said AFBF's 1991 dairy policy supports the concepts of the 1990 farm bill, which "should help return the dairy industry to a supply-demand balance."

Farm Bureau opposes a mandatory supply management program, he stated.

Maryland-USSR Sign Aquaculture Exchange Plan

An aquaculture exchange agreement between Maryland and the USSR Ministry of Fisheries was formally signed last August. This program involves the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the University of Maryland, the Maryland Aquaculture Association, and the USSR Ministry of Fisheries.

The agreement paves the way for Soviet aquafarmers and students to visit Maryland aquaculture operations in April and May of 1991. Maryland aquafarmers and students will pay a reciprocal visit to the USSR at a later date.

Acreage Reduction Set For ASCS Grain Program

A 7.5 percent acreage reduction requirement is in effect for 1991 corn, grain sorghum, and barley. Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee, said the feed grain program does not require a reduction in oats acreage.

Farmers who participate in the program will be eligible for price support loans and deficiency payments. Bachtel said 40 percent of the estimated deficiency payments will be available in cash when farmers sign up for the program, with the exception of barley. By statute, the advance rate for barley is based on 40 percent of the estimated all barley price. However, the total estimated deficiency payment rate is based on the feed barley price.

Bachtel said there is no cross compliance, meaning that a farmer could meet the acreage reduction percentage in one program crop to qualify for price support in that crop, and forfeit price support in another crop by planting the full crop base, or exceeding the base, in that program crop on the same farm. The feed grain program does not include a paid land diversion program for the 1991 crop, he said.

Program benefits include target price protection at $2.75 per bushel for corn, $2.61 for grain sorghum, $2.36 for barley and $1.45 for oats. National average price support loan rates per bushel are $1.62 for corn, $1.54 for sorghum, $1.32 for barley, $.83 for oats and $1.38 for rye. Estimated deficiency payment rates are $.58 per bushel for corn, $.56 for sorghum, $.47 for barley, and $.15 for oats. "Advance deficiency payments will equal 40 percent of these rates, with the exception of barley," Bachtel said.

Farmers will have planting flexibility on up to 25 percent of their program crop acreage. These acres will be known as "flex" acreage and may be planted to any program crop, oilseed, industrial or experimental crop, or any other crop except fruits and vegetables.

Bachtel explained that the first 15 percent of "flex" acreage will be called "normal flex acreage" and the remaining 10 percent as "optional flex acreage." "No deficiency payments will be made for program crops planted on normal flex acreage," said Bachtel, "and only the program crop which has the base is eligible for deficiency payments when planted on optional flex acres." Program crops planted on flex acreage will be eligible for price support loans, he said.

To determine the maximum deficiency payment acres for each program crop, ASCS will multiply the crop acreage base for the crop by 85 percent and subtract the acreage conservation reserve, or land devoted to conservation uses under the acreage reduction program. For example, a program participant with a 100-acre corn base must reduce acreage by 7.5 percent. The maximum payment acres would be 85 acres minus 7.5 acres, leaving a 77.5-acre maximum payment acreage.

Under the 1991 feed grain program, farmers may devote a portion or all of their maximum payment acres to conservation uses for guaranteed deficiency payments on 92 percent of this acreage, minus the actual acreage planted to feed grains. Bachtel said acres devoted to conservation uses will be called PAY/92 acreage and may be planted to sunflowers, rapeseed, canola, safflower, flaxseed, and mustard seed. "If a farmer plants an oilseed on PAY/92 acreage, the farmer must agree to forego either 0/92 deficiency payments or marketing loan eligibility for such oilseed planted on the farm."

For more details on these and other 1991 feed grain program provisions, farmers may contact the Garrett County ASCS Office.

State Announces End Of Meat/Poultry Inspection Program

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr. announced the end of the state's meat and poultry inspection program effective April 1 as part of the effort to balance the state's budget.

"The Food Safety and Inspection Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture will continue to enforce the Federal Meat Inspection and Poultry Product Inspection Acts in Maryland. One of the reasons I regret the end of this program is that Maryland Meat and Poultry Inspection is regarded as one of the nation's finest," Cawley said.

"As far as the consumer or the industry is concerned, there will be no change in standards of food safety. Our inspection program in Maryland has always met federal requirements," said Cawley.

The state currently employs 37 meat and poultry inspection personnel. "We will be meeting with these employees to discuss all aspects of their termination. The painful decision to let them go in no way reflects on their abilities as employees, but is based solely upon the state's need to respond to the critical budgetary situation. There is the possibility that some of these inspectors may be picked up by the USDA," Cawley said.

The elimination of this program will save the Maryland Department of Agriculture approximately $125,000 in the remainder of fiscal year 1991 and $616,000 in fiscal year 1992.

The Maryland Meat and Poultry Inspection Program was established two decades ago and was funded on a fifty-fifty cost share basis between the state and the federal government.

Perrines Named To American Angus Assoc.

Paul and Shauna Perrine, Deer Park, have been elected to membership in the American Angus Association, reported Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization, St. Joseph, Mo.

The American Angus Association, with over 24,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 11 million registered Angus.

The association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association.

WIC Program Grows At Record Pace In Maryland

Payments to farmers from coupons redeemed under the Womens, Infants and Children (WIC) Program increased by 135 percent from the previous year. According to the Maryland Food Committee approximately $78,000 was paid out for redeemed farmers' market coupons in 1990. By comparison, $33,500 was paid out in 1989.

"This was our second year of operation and we did a much better job of getting the word out to eligible women that they could get coupons to buy products at farmers' markets," said Secretary Wayne A. Cawley Jr.

Fifteen Maryland farmers' markets in nine counties and Baltimore City participated in the program in 1990. Seven markets took part in 1989.

"The statistics show that the program is growing. But behind the statistics are the real people that got fresh farm produce because of these WIC coupons," Cawley said.

Approximately 15,200 WIC participants received $10 worth of food coupons redeemable at the farmers' markets for fresh fruits and vegetables.

The Maryland Farmers' Market Coupon Demonstration Program is jointly administered by the Maryland Department of Agriculture and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Changing Winter Rations Increases Importance Of Sodium Bicarbonate

Late-winter ration changes forced by dwindling feed inventories and changing forage quality may disrupt rumen function in dairy cows, according to Dr. Mike Hutjens, dairy extension specialist at the University of Illinois.

"Producers can minimize this problem by making sure they have enough sodium bicarbonate in the ration," he said during an interview while at Illinois Dairy Days.

Sodium bicarbonate stabilizes rumen pH, keeping it in the optimum range of 6.2 to 6.8. If the pH falls below this range, a lower butterfat test can occur, as well as a decrease in dry matter intake followed by reduced milk production.

Adding grain or silage to a ration in late winter to compensate for a lack of high-quality forage is one way this can happen, Hutjens said. Feeding additional grain to rumen microorganisms accustomed to higher forage levels shifts rumen fermentation, leading to excess propionic acid production.

"It is currently cheaper to add corn when hay or forage becomes scarce than to buy additional high-quality hay. Making sure there is enough bicarb in the ration will help prevent a resulting pH drop."

Even if the grain level is not adjusted, rumen acidity can be affected by other changes, he added. Silages and haylages near the bottom of conventional upright silos are not identical to those nearer the top.

"As you get closer to the bottom of the silo, two things can happen," he explained. "First, the feed may be more acidic because of increased fermentation. Second, it may have been made from a less mature crop, which means higher moisture, less fiber, and a finer chop."

This silage's higher acid content comes from an increase in fermentation caused by a combination of higher moisture levels (affected by seepage as well as crop maturity) and higher pressures at the silo bottom. More acid in the feed means more acid loading in the rumen, lowering the pH.

"A less mature crop may also result in a finer chop," he added. "Smaller particle sizes lower the effective fiber level, reducing rumination and cud chewing."

Chewing stimulates the flow of saliva, a source of sodium bicarbonate and the cow's natural buffering agent. Less cud chewing, therefore, increases the need for additional rumen buffering.

Sodium bicarbonate should be fed daily at the level of 1.5 percent of the grain ration, or .8 ounces for every 10 pounds of milk produced.

"This is the level we recommend feeding throughout the year, not only during the winter," says Dr. Kenneth Cummings, director of research at Church & Dwight Co., Inc. "However, the ration changes you might be making while waiting for the pastures to turn green make it doubly important to make sure you're feeding enough," he added.

Maryland Farmers Rally In Annapolis

Almost 1,000 Maryland Farm Bureau members rallied this week in Annapolis in protest of the governor's proposed 2020 bill. Maryland Farm Bureau is the state's largest general farm organization, representing 13,876 members.

Approximately 300 farmers from across the state voiced their concerns about the 2020 bill on Tuesday in the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee hearing, and over 600 are present today for the House Environmental Matters Committee hearing. The farmers' major concern is the bill's potential to reduce a landowners property rights and equity.

Maryland Farm Bureau supports some of the principles adopted by the commission, which include protection of the bay and economic growth that provides for a strong state economy. The efficient use of land, reasonable protection of the environment, local control of land use planning and the preservation of the agricultural economy are also supported.

"We support protecting the Chesapeake Bay. However, if this bill in its present form would become law, landowners would lose property rights and equity. County governments would lose local control of planning and zoning and the ability to address local issues and problems. The bill could also affect those farm owners enrolled and planning to enroll in the Farmland Preservation Program," said Maryland Farm Bureau President Edward Allen.

NORTH GARRETT FFA SWEETHEART QUEEN — Approximately 75 attended the North Garrett FFA Chapter's annual Sweetheart Dance which was held February 8 at Northern High School. Stacey House was named Sweetheart Queen in a contest which is now coeducational. This contest now involves both male and female FFA members who receive the title of king or queen. The first runner-up in the contest was Todd House. Pictured above are the contest participants. Seated are Todd House and Stacey House. Standing, left to right, are: Andrew Yelovich, Lisa Durst, Jarrett McKenzie, Tammy Nicol, Michelle VanSickle, Eugene Bender, Tina Warnick and Jay Wilt.

Because of the far reaching implications and ramifications on zoning and regulations for county compliance, Maryland Farm Bureau requests a delay of the proposal for at least one year. In addition, Maryland Farm Bureau requests the bill be used as an initiative to be evaluated, discussed and debated by state legislators, local governments and the public.

International Trade Talks Could Resume

"Guarded Optimism" is being expressed by the American Farm Bureau Federation about the revived Uruguay Round of international trade talks.

"It is encouraging the European Community has agreed to start discussing the major issues relating to farm trade reform, but we are still a long way from reaching an agreement," said AFBF President Dean Kleckner.

The trade talks were scheduled to conclude last December, but collapsed when the European Community, backed by Japan and South Korea, refused to discuss a specific plan on agricultural trade. February 20 those countries agreed to begin talks on the three major areas of contention: internal farm supports, market access and export subsidies.

"Despite last week's acceptance of this framework for the agricultural talks, there is no specific plan on the table," said Kleckner. "The current status of the talks is that all parties have now apparently agreed on what they are going to talk about — which is where the trade round should have been a year ago."

Kleckner said the agreement for negotiations is "far from the clear commitment we had hoped to obtain from the EC on import barriers and export subsidies. But it does represent sufficient progress in the administration's eyes."

Farm Bureau, said Kleckner, will back the Bush administration's request for an extension of "fast-track" negotiating authority, which allows the administration to negotiate an agreement that Congress could either approve or reject, but not amend. Current fast-track authority expires June 1, and Bush must request new authority by March 1.

Without such authority, the Uruguay Round would die, according to Kleckner, as would the proposed U.S.-Mexico free trade agreement.

Farmers To Report Operation Changes

Kenneth Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), urges producers to report any changes in their farm operations which could affect farm program benefits during 1991.

"Farm records must be up-to-date in order for us to help producers get full program benefits," said Bachtel. "If a farm will have a new owner effective for 1991, or if a change is made in the operation of an existing farm unit, producers should contact our office."

He said requests to combine farms or divide a farm should be made as early as possible because reconstitutions require special processing as well as county committee approval.

Any changes in land owned or operated should be reported to the Garrett County ASCS Office as soon as possible.

CRP Sign-Up Opens March 4

Starting March 4, county offices of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will begin accepting Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) bids, based on new program provisions.

"Bids on eligible land will be selected based on the environmental benefits received from placing the land in the program when compared to the cost to Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC)," said Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee. "Farmers should not rely on bid amounts accepted in the past."

In previous sign-ups, Bachtel said there was a high expectation that a producer could rely on no change occurring to the bid amounts which would be accepted. Bid acceptance determinations will be made after a nationwide review and evaluation; and only for contracts beginning in 1991. "Producers who wish to enroll in the program should be aware that there is increased competition," he said.

Land eligibility requirements have been expanded to include not only highly erodible land, but also other cropland acres that contribute to the impairment of water quality or cropland in public wellhead areas. Public wellheads are sources of water for municipalities. USDA expects to accept bids for the protection of these water sources as well as other areas which have been determined to be a source of water quality problems.

To improve water quality under the CRP, Bachtel said farmers offering filterstrips, grassed waterways, shelterbelts and contour grass strips will receive additional consideration during the bid evaluation. He said bids for wetlands will not be accepted during the tenth sign-up, since USDA expects to announce a Wetland Reserve Program in the near future.

"Farmers will be permitted to enter the same acreage simultaneously into the annual commodity programs and the CRP," said Bachtel, "and to withdraw from the commodity programs, without penalty if their bid is accepted." USDA needs 30 days to evaluate and accept a bid but acceptance is not binding on either the producer or USDA until the contract is signed.

The ASCS official said 50 percent cost-share assistance will continue to be available to establish permanent vegetative cover, including trees, on the accepted acres. Annual rental payments for 10 years also will be paid to CRP participants, based on their bid, except in some limited cases, such as hardwood tree planting, where a longer period may apply.

U.S. Net Farm Income Likely To Be Lower Next Year

Net farm income, which accounts for non-cash as well as cash income and expense items, is likely to be lower next year. Projected at $44 to $49 billion, it could be down as much as 10 percent from the $49 billion expected in 1990.

Maryland Crop Production Value up for 1990

Crop production increases in Maryland and the U.S. resulted in lower average prices for most crops. However, as a result of higher corn production, the value of production of major crops in Maryland is estimated at $360.3 million for 1990, up $4.6 million from 1989. Soybeans were the only major crop with a higher average price for 1990. Maryland growers, who produced more soybeans in 1990, increased the total value from $92.4 million in 1989 to $101.6 million in 1990.

United States Value Of Production increases

In spite of generally lower average prices for 1990, the value of production increased for all major crop categories in the United States. Field and miscellaneous crops increased $7.1 billion dollars, fruits and nuts increased $121 million dollars, and commercial vegetables increased $655 million dollars, for a total increase of $7.98 billion in the value of production of principal crops in 1990.

Some Prices Rise During January

The index of prices received by Maryland farmers rose five points in January. The increase was a response to higher prices for corn, broilers, calves and apples. However, the index was 22 points below January 1990 when crops, poultry and milk prices were well above current levels. The United States showed a smaller improvement as lower prices for soybeans, cattle and milk nearly offset increases for hogs, broilers and eggs.

New Study Shows Zoning Doesn't Reduce Market Value of Ag Land

The Maryland Office of Planning released a new study this week which shows that the average fair market value of agricultural lands is not adversely affected after enactment of agricultural conservation zoning at or above one unit per 20 acres.

Additionally, the study reveals that the ability of a specific farm enterprise to repay a loan is the most important criteria for both real estate and operational loans, rather than the actual or future market value of the land. There was no evidence that agricultural conservation zoning impaired a farmer's ability to receive a loan.

According to Ronald Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning, "This new information addresses the long-standing issue of how zoning affects land values in the agricultural areas. Rather than rely on anecdotal evidence or opinion, solid research demonstrates that plans to preserve land and manage growth in rural areas, like those made by the Governor's Commission on Growth in the Chesapeake Bay Region (the Barnes Commission), don't have the catastrophic effect that some predict."

The study, titled "The Effects of Agricultural Zoning on the Value of Farmland," examines actual land value information before and after implementation of county-wide agricultural zoning. It analyzes land value information from a wide range of available sources, including the Maryland Department of Assessments and Taxation parcel files, the Department of General Services land appraisal files, the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation easement sales, the U.S. Census of Agriculture and, most importantly, data from 782 actual agriculture land sales from the real estate data firm of Lusk, Incorporated.

Sales prices in four counties (Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll and Montgomery) which have adopted agricultural zoning at or above one unit in 20 acres were examined before and after the zoning designations were established. Two counties (Cecil and Howard), which have not adopted agricultural zoning, were also examined for comparative purposes. Findings include:

*The sample of actual land sales in the four counties from 1973 to 1988 show no evidence of long-term reduction in the average fair market value of agricultural lands after enactment of the agricultural conservation.

*Data from USDA Economic Research Service show that land values in the four counties have appreciated at a greater rate than in other regions in the country.

*Land values in agricultural areas are influenced more by general economic trends, interest rates and prices rather than changes in zoning.

In addition, the study examined how agricultural zoning affects the ability of farmers to borrow money. Interviews with major agricultural lending institutions in Maryland, including the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore and the Farmers Home Administration (which together account for over 60 percent of farm loans made in Maryland), as well as commercial banks, reveal that the ability of the specific farm to repay a farm loan is the more important criteria for approving a loan. This is true for both real estate and operational loans.

Although the market value of the land is considered during the loan making process, the farm enterprise must be able to generate a "cash flow" based on the actual farm business, for example dairy, cash grain, poultry, fruit or vegetable crops. A survey of lending institutions and local officials in communities that have instituted agricultural zoning found no evidence that zoning impaired a farmer's ability to receive a loan.

Maryland Increases Agricultural Exports To Trinidad/Tobago

Agreements have been announced to send Maryland agricultural products to Trinidad and Tobago.

"Our international marketing efforts are really paying off and what we've accomplished in the last couple of days is truly outstanding. I think it's the beginning of bigger things," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr.

Approximately 40,000 pounds of corn and livestock feed was expected to be shipped in January. "There is strong potential for these shipments to become monthly. In addition, we are sending Trinidad 300 dairy heifers and 100 units of frozen semen for beef cattle," said Cawley.

The exports to Trinidad are all part of Governor William Donald Schaefer's marketing effort to sell Maryland agricultural products all around the world. "According to our marketing specialist in Trinidad, business is brisk. The government of Trinidad has just freed up the market to Trinidad. Importers may import all kinds of products for the first time in 10 years," Crawley said.

Since 1987, with Governor Schaefer's support, the Maryland Department of Agriculture has increased its international marketing efforts.

"What's happening in Trinidad is an example of how our aggressive international marketing effort is really paying off. I expect more success stories in the weeks ahead," concluded Cawley.

Conventional Agriculture vs. Low-Input Sustainable Agriculture (LISA)

I am sure most of you have seen the term "LISA" in many farm newspapers and magazines. In fact, the term and method of farming is receiving a lot of attention in the Frarm Bill. What's the difference? Conventional production agriculture is a system which has developed through a long history of agronomic and soil conservation research and implementation. The phrase implies modern, site-specific, progressive, science-based production systems where applicable technologies and inputs are used effectively and efficiently. Conventional agricultural has developed and operates with a concern for the environment as well as profitability.

LISA is a spectrum of systems referred to as alternative agriculture or sustainable agriculture. Alternative agriculture connotes farming systems that economize on the sue of manufactured inputs, notably fertilizers and pesticides, but also chemicals used to prevent livestock diseases or promote growth. The emphasis is on minimizing the use of manufactured inputs, notably fertilizers and pestitive agriculture would place emphasis on replacing commercial fertilizer with legumes in rotation, cover crops, animal manures and other organic waste.

HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Curtis, Lewis are 'Anything But Canceled'

Marty and Hannah together at last

By Amy Schmidt

Last May after ABC decided to cancel the comedy Anything But Love, comedian/star Richard Lewis was anything but happy. Not that he ever really is happy, mind you, his comic penchant being pain and melancholy.

"The two years I've had with Jamie Lee (Curtis) has been really an extraordinary experience for me," said Lewis fretfully of his Anything But Love co-star. "I mean, I really love her and the cast, and I'll miss being with her. You know, I'll come back, and if I do television in the next year, I'll produce my own show, and it'll be a different kind of show. I'll have more sex in my show. I'm the horniest co-star that ever lived. You know, I told Jamie Lee, I said, 'If I ever do a movie with you, no matter what role I play, we're making love in three minutes in the movie. They tortured me for two years without having sex, so I'm really in a lot of pain and I'm angry.'"

Finally, the angst-ridden Lewis will have his way. Not only is Anything But Love back on ABC, but after two seasons of pent-up desire, this year Hannah (Curtis) and Marty (Lewis) consummate their relationship.

On Anything But Love, Curtis and Lewis play a couple of writers working at a Chicago magazine. They oft forswore "getting involved" for fear it would ruin their great friendship. But promises were made to be broken, and Harry not only met Sally, but fell in love with her, too.

"It's beautifully done. And in fact, the number four show that we did, which is the culmination of their sexual experience, was really quite wonderful and very romantic and very naturally insecure for both people," said Curtis. "Because, in fact, what you really need to do is verify each other's performance. It's lovely. It's done beautifully. It's great."

After two seasons of toying with romance, Hannah (Jamie Lee Curtis) and Marty (Richard Lewis) finally get together on Anything But Love. ABC has brought back the comedy as a mid-season replacement, much to the delight of fans. The show airs Wednesdays.

"So it was good for you, in other words," quipped Lewis, always the comic, to Curtis.

Sure, love is grand, but one has to wonder why Anything But Love's creators decided to get Hannah and Marty together. Everybody knows that Moonlighting waned after Cybill Shepherd and Bruce Willis got married. And Sam and Diane's getting together never helped matters on Cheers.

Opinions are mixed about whether Anything But Love will work or not. "Nine out of 10 chances it will fail," said one skeptical viewer we asked. But another was thrilled: "He's so nice, and she's so nice, and they deserve one another. There's good chemistry between the two."

Will Hanna and Marty have to "make it" for Anything But Love to make it? As precariously positioned as the show has been, perhaps it is time to go for all the bananas.

Besides, said Lewis, the two aren't going to get along that well. "I mean, just because we are lovers, you know — we have ups and downs like, ,well ... maybe Mother Teresa and her niece get along all the time. That's about it as far as I'm concerned," he joked.

Kevin Costner (right) plays a man who, to his detriment, falls in love with a wealthy friend's wife (Madeleine Stowe) in Revenge, debuting on Showtime Monday.

Voice behind Raphael that of concerned man

Actor pleases kids with Ninja Turtles

By Candace Havens

He is best known as the voice of the cool but rude Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle Raphael. However, Rob Paulsen is anything but rude. He is an actor, a concerned citizen and a father. He is a man who genuinely cares about people and, most importantly, the welfare of children.

"I have the most wonderful job in the world," said Paulsen. "I actually enjoy what I do and really like going in to work. I couldn't ask to do anything better."

Paulsen actually began his career in commercials; he's done over 60. His career in doing voice-overs began in 1983. He does the voice-overs for other familiar characters including the Robot Dex on Wake, Rattle and Roll, Rude Dog and voices on Tiny Toon Adventures.

When asked how his son Ashton is affected by having a dad with such a popular voice, Paulsen said his son is no different from any other 6-year-old. "He is totally engrossed in the Ninja Turtles, Mario Brothers, Nintendo and all that other stuff," said the actor. "Sometimes when we are playing he asks me to do Raphael's voice, but most of the time he wants me to be just dad."

In his spare time Paulsen volunteers his voice to help Famous Fone Friends, a national organization that arranges for celebrities to call children who are terminally ill. He is also a member of a celebrity hockey team that plays for charities. "Talking to the children and bringing a little fun into their lives brings me great joy. Their parents are always so appreciative, but I benefit from the conversation just as much."

'Trialwatch' making a trial run on NBC

Real trials, people compel viewers

By Christy Bergslien

Robb Weller (Entertainment Tonight, The Home Show) is the host of NBC's relatively new daytime program Trialwatch, which is something of a Hard Copy and People's Court hybrid. Each of the half-hour show's three-to-four segments involves a flagrant court case. But the difference between this show and others is that the people on the program are not actors. "Real trials, real people," touts Trialwatch.

That fact makes the show rather fascinating, but also somewhat shameless. The premiere episode dealt with a case of fatal attraction in which the victim was murdered, and showed a husband who threatened his wife to abort their child or be divorced, only to later involve her in a bitter child-custody case. Actual footage from trials is shown, including interviews with victims' families, and in the premiere episode, even footage of the young child whose father wanted him aborted.

In some ways Trialwatch is like Robin Leach's Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous or Runaway With the Rich and Famous. You can't help but watch them, but they can also revolt you.

It doesn't help that Weller's, like Leach's, anchoring approach is overly animated. Especially narrating the murder trials, Weller could be more demure.

Co-hosting with Weller is Los Angeles attorney Lisa Specht. Specht covers Trialwatch's legal angles and narrates a scant few of the segments.

MOVIE MARQUEE

Jaclyn Smith caught up in blackmail, murder

By Anne Wheeler

Jaclyn Smith, the beautiful brunette actress who moved gracefully from Charlie's Angels to TV movies and miniseries, has always seemed to be cast with the cream of the crop of leading men.

Lies Before Kisses, airing Sunday, March 3, on CBS, is no different, except Smith stars with not one, but three of television's big names: Ben Gazzara, Nick Mancuso and Greg Evigan.

In the psychological drama, Smith plays Elaine Sanders, the wife of well-known publisher Grant Sanders (Gazzara) and mother of his two children. Her idyllic life becomes a nightmare when her husband is blackmailed and accused of murdering a woman with whom he is allegedly having an affair.

Elaine turns to journalist Sonny Vincent (Mancuso) for emotional support and help in proving her husband's innocence. As Sonny's investigation intensifies, everyone involved seems to have a secret to hide.

Gazzara, a noted actor of the stage, screen and television, starred in the television series Run for Your Life, the miniseries QB-VII, the TV movie The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald, and in numerous feature films and plays.

Mancuso is best known for his starring role in the television series Stingray, while Evigan starred in My Two Dads.

Faith Daniels anchors NBC News' A Closer Look, a half-hour, mid-day program examining social issues.

New Fox series documents realities of teen life

By Amy Schmidt

A number of different programs suitable for kids and parents alike are on tap this week.

Most notable is Fox's new half-hour reality series Yearbook. Yearbook uses no scripts and no actors. Instead it documents the real lives of students in the senior class of Glenbard West High School in Glen Ellyn, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

This series focuses on a time all young people look forward to and no adults forget — homecoming, football games, prom night, pep rallies. It also takes a look at the darker side of teenage America — sex, alcohol and drug abuse.

Yearbook premieres Thursday, March 7, and then moves to its regular time slot on Saturday, March 9.

CBS premieres the new "CBS Schoolbreak Special" But He Loves Me Tuesday, March 5. Kelli Williams stars as a normal, slightly insecure teenage girl who manages to catch the attention of the most popular boy in school. What she doesn't know is that his attention could lead to violence. Donavon Leitch co-stars.

The Disney Channel's month-long animated Easter fest begins March 9 with The First Easter Rabbit. Coming up are: Peter and the Magic Egg (March 10), Easter Egg Mornin' (March 11), The Easter Bunny Is Coming to Town (March 12), A Family Circus Easter (March 19) and The Animated Haggadah (March 26).

Mykel T. Williamson proud of career, heritage

By Anne Wheeler

Mykel T. Williamson, who stars as persistent reporter Deacon Bridges on NBC's Midnight Caller, is equally persistent about his career in real life.

With six regular series roles and an equal number of feature films behind him, Williamson has proven his ability for acting. And he has paired that with a prowess for dancing, singing and directing, as well.

At age 13, Williamson became the youngest dancer with the Lockers dance troupe, graduating to a key dancer on Soul Train. He directed Reel Image's 1988 hit video, The Hypnotizer, and did background vocals for Dan Hartman's "I Can Dream About You." As manager of the rap group Movement Ex, he is preparing for the recording of the first of seven contracted albums for Columbia.

Born in St. Louis, Mykel T. is proud of his heritage as both a Black American and a Native American. He was born Mykelti, a Blackfoot tribe phrase meaning "spirit" or "silent friend." One of his desires, he said, is to reenact the life of Stepin Fetchit, whose exaggerated portrayal of a black man made a mockery of racial stereotypes.

"It was only with the pioneering sacrifice of some people like Fetchit, who were and are regarded as Uncle Toms, that the gates were opened to minority talents in all capacities," Williamson said.

Mary Wickes plays the rectory housekeeper on ABC's Father Dowling Mysteries, Thursdays.

Hollywood hopeful Jerry Levine is Going Places on the ABC comedy series airing Fridays.

'Driving Miss Daisy' debuts on cable

By Amy Schmidt

1989's Best Picture premieres on HBO Sunday, March 3. Jessica Tandy won an Academy Award for her performance in this film, Driving Miss Daisy. Tandy plays an elderly Southern Jewish woman who develops a special friendship with the chauffeur she didn't want to have (actor Morgan Freeman).

Kirstie Alley and John Larroquette find themselves living in a Madhouse. The pair plays a married couple settling nicely into their dream home — until houseguests overstay their welcome and the two must "exorcise" them. Madhouse premieres on Showtime Saturday, March 9.

Terrorism became a topic in the forefront of many Americans' minds with the onset of the Middle East Crisis. Sunday, March 3, the Arts & Entertainment Network debuts a three-part series examining the how and the why of international terrorism. The series, titled Terror, focuses on incidents of violence in the Middle East, Ireland and Peru.

Tell Lifetime what you think. Monday, March 4, the network premieres The Great American TV Poll. David Birney and Eleanor Mondale (the former vice president's daughter) are the hosts of this program that polls Americans daily on anything and everything.

Penelope Wilton plays the title role in The Tale of Beatrix Potter, Sunday on PBS.

Clare Wren keeps house for the Pony Express riders on ABC's The Young Riders, Saturdays.

TUESDAY: Kelli Williams plays a shy teenage girl who attracts the attention of the most popular boy in school. What she doesn't know is that he has violent tendencies. ABC, TNT share coverage of Pan American games

By Steven Alan McGaw

ABC Sports will handle the American broadcasts of the Pan American games. TNT will handle the cable presentations of the games, primarily focusing on the weekday events, while ABC handles the weekend chores. The games will occur in August in Havana, Cuba.

This sounds interesting. Virgin Records has announced the formation of a new label, titled Night Records, which will deal strictly in live recordings. Those involved promise the label's releases will be unlike any live records now available, covering a range of genres from jazz to pop to R&B performed by artists little known outside New Orleans. It could be terrific.

Congratulations to Jeff Barry & Ellie Greenwich and Otis Blackwell, scheduled for a May induction into the Songwriters Hall of Fame.

More congratulations to Bonnie Raitt and actor Michael O'Keefe, who are planning a spring wedding.

Paul Sorvino and Victoria Principal will star in the upcoming NBC telefilm Nightmare, about a mother who must go to great extremes to protect her preteen daughter from a known child molester. Jeffrey Banks also stars in the piece. John Pasquin will direct from a teleplay by John Bensink and Rick Husky, based on a novel by Marjorie Dorner.

Oh boy! Jean-Claude Van Damme is at work on his next film, Double Impact.

Pat O'Brien anchors the half-time coverage of CBS' NCAA basketball doubleheader, Sunday.

Patsy Pease, after maternity leave, resumes her role on the NBC soap Days of Our Lives.

HOROSCOPE

March 3 through March 9

By C.C. Clark

PISCES (February 19 - March 20)
You will be very aware of your appearance this week. It may be time for a new hairstyle or even a change in color. Don't be so sensitive about loved ones.

ARIES (March 21 - April 19)
Keep your options open, especially concerning job opportunities. Exciting dialogue with a member of the opposite sex will open your mind to new possibilities.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20)
What appeared to be a lost cause will not only be revived, but will also be alive and kicking. Your financial situation is not as bad as you might have first imagined.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)
It is imperative that you keep an open mind, but at the same time don't be gullible. You will finally get the chance to prove your point in your work environment.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)
A healthy diet and exercise regimen will have you back to your old self soon. Your energy level will rise and you will feel as though you could accomplish anything.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)
Trust your intuition. More often than not, you will be right on the button when deciphering personalities. This will enable you understand those you deal with often.

VIRGO (August 23 - September 22)
It is time to focus on specific tasks in order to get the job done in a timely manner. What seems to be far away is actually very attainable and profitable.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22)
Make time to evaluate just how much potential you really have. Do things to help improve your self-esteem, and stay away from those who put you down.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21)
Though you don't always like to follow the rules, it is important that you do so this week. If you don't, your safety might be in serious jeopardy.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21)
Loved ones will understand a difficult situation if you articulate your views to them. Don't play head games with those you love; deal with them directly and honestly.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19)
You become physically attracted to someone you never thought of in that way before. It may be a harmless infatuation or the real thing. Follow your instincts.

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18)
Don't be so forceful where family members are concerned. They believe in your talents, so it is not necessary to continue proving yourself to them.

Did You Know?

The first SKI TRAIN using the Maryland Department of Transportation MARC trains provided excursion tours to Garrett County and the WISP ski area just this past weekend. With having had only three weeks notice that the ski train would actually take place, it is a miracle that it was actually able to run.

We want to congratulate and give our sincere appreciation to three of the people who just wouldn't give up and worked steadily, being instrumental in the idea and the implementation. Those people are Paul and Melinda Zanecki, and Louise Perkins.

Locally, many other individuals and businesses provided volunteer assistance, for which we are grateful. One project that our firm, A&A Realty/Better Homes & Gardens, was involved with included a "Send-Off Reception" from the Oakland train station on late Sunday afternoon. We sincerely appreciate their "last minute" support and donations:

Business list: A&A Realty/Better Homes & Gardens, Browning's Deli, Englander's Pharmacy, Fox's Pizza Den, Flowers by Webers, Garrett National Bank, Hometown Market, Jan Florists, Midway Liquor, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, and Super Valu.

Individuals: Jann Dehus, Cindy Evans, Linn and Anne Grant, Jean King, Ed King, Kevin Liller, Barbara Pritts, Denise Sanders, and Donna Sites.

There is still a mystique and an appeal to rail transportation. Let's work together to go back to basics — rail transportation was what built Garrett County — and enjoy those benefits. Thanks again to everyone who made it happen!

GOBA Conducts Regular Meeting On February 12

The Greater Oakland Business Association held its regular monthly meeting at Cornish Manor on February 12. Topics discussed at the meeting included town decoration in honor of the troops, a cartoon-type map of Oakland, and a luncheon planned by the Garrett County Board of Education.

GOBA President Jack Jones was contacted by Kim Flanigan, who is the wife of Sgt. Kevin Flanigan who is currently serving in the war with Iraq. Mrs. Flanigan said that 100 United States flags had been donated for the decoration of the town in honor of the troops. In addition, the mayor of Mt. Lake Park offered to assist in raising money for the effort.

Green Acres had yellow plastic bows available at $2 each, some of which GOBA purchased and decorated the "core area" of Oakland, including Second, Third, Alder and Oak Streets.

Steve Prosser from Creative Marketing Services was a guest speaker at the meeting, and presented a promotional map of Oakland to the group. The map is a cartoon-like drawing of the Oakland area. Prosser said that representatives from Creative Marketing Services will be contacting local businesses for their participation in this project.

The cartoon map can be viewed at Marvin's Men's Wear, where more information is available concerning the use of the map as a fundraiser.

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) students from Southern High School gave a presentation at the meeting. The club members will be in the state finals competition in Baltimore. To raise funds for the trip, they are selling blocks on a Monopoly game board, which will be named "Oaklandopoly."

The squares on the game board will sell for $150 each, and the board games will sell for $18. The students said they would be contacting businesses individually to invite them to participate in the project.

All GOBA members were recently asked to voice their opinion on two issues: keeping the state parks open and limited Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages. Of those responding to the issues in question, 100% of them were in favor of keeping the state parks open. A large margin of those responding were also in favor of limited Sunday alcohol sales.

A motion was made for GOBA to have a letter written in favor of the Sunday sales and send it to the Garrett County Commissioners. The motion carried unanimously.

Two new members of GOBA were introduced to the other members in attendance. The new members are Brenda Walker, a new attorney in Oakland; and Ed Wheeler, the new manager of NAPA.

The members also discussed a luncheon for local business partners to be sponsored by the Garrett County Board of Education. The luncheon will be entitled "School + Business = Partnership," and will be held on Tuesday, March 12, at the Southern High School Food Service Room, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

The next meeting of the association will be held on Tuesday, March 12, at Cornish Manor, beginning at 1 p.m.

Dodson Named GCC Student Of The Week

The Garrett Community College student of the week is Tammy Dodson, Friendsville, a freshman enrolled in the nursing program. She plans to become a registered nurse.

The daughter of Paula McDermott and Daniel Dodson, Altoona, Pa., Miss Dodson chose to attend Garrett Community to get credits that will apply to the nursing program at Allegany Community College. She is a student in the Tae Kwon Do class at the college, and has a job as a waitress in Friendsville.

A graduate of Northern High School, where she was involved in softball, silks, indoor guard, yearbook, and the float committee, Miss Dodson says she enjoys the classes offered at GCC and she likes the teachers at the college as well.

A fellow student said, "Tammy never relaxes like most people. If she's not in class, she's working away in the library."

Miss Dodson said she would like to see Garrett Community College have a wider selection of sports, including some additional ones for women, plus "a bigger, quieter library."

LOOK MOM...NO BOAT! - Scott Lohr, Oakland, was one of a handful of skiers who successfully careened across this 75-foot homemade pond Sunday afternoon during one of the most popular events of the annual Winterfest Celebration at Wisp Resort, McHenry. Bart Simpson, McHenry, was the winner of the competition, followed by Scott Sweitzer, Dale Carpenter, and Lohr. Many others weren't so lucky, as they failed to reach the other side and were forced to take a swim, which isn't easy while wearing ski boots and skis. The 10-day Winterfest event, coordinated by the Deep Creek Lions Club, concluded on Sunday. A list of winners in the various Winterfest events from the past week will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

DOUBLE DISPLAY - The skies above Wisp Resort in McHenry were lighted in brilliant fashion Saturday night during the annual Winterfest, and one of the snow-making ponds at the foot of Marsh Mountain provided a perfect mirror for this time-exposure shot by Craig Phillips. The light on the slope known as Squirrel Cage was provided by a torchlight parade of Wisp ski instructors and ski patrollers, while exploding fireworks filled the sky above.

Start-Up Date For Recycling Program Set

At a meeting held between the Garrett County Recycling Committee and the Garrett County Commissioners this week, a start-up date for the county recycling effort has finally been announced by Commissioner Brenda Butscher as May 15.

The commissioners set the date for the temporary recycling program after considerable pressure from the recycling committee and local groups, such as the League of Women Voters of Garrett County, who reported to the county officials that public support and enthusiasm for the effort has been at a high level for months. That sentiment was echoed by Gary Yoder, chairman of the recycling committee, as well as the other members of the committee.

The committee submitted several recommendations to the board of county commissioners, the first of which was for the county to purchase five thirty-yard capacity roll-off containers with five separate compartments each. One of those units would serve as a "spare" to replace other containers as they reach capacity.

The containers, according to Yoder, would be located at four of the six existing dump sites -- Friendsville, Grantsville, McHenry and

Local Red Cross Chapter Expands Services; Celebrates Red Cross Month

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross held a meeting for volunteers on Thursday, February 28. The meeting was attended by approximately 30 people, and was a great success, according to a spokesperson. The chapter is expanding its services to the county, and several training sessions for various efforts were planned at the meeting. March is Red Cross Month, and plans for a fund drive were also discussed.

Norma Hesen is the chairman of the local board of directors, and Cindy Kutchman was recently hired as executive director.

Expanded Services

An addition to the local chapter will be the first disaster assistance team for Garrett County. The team members will undergo training to learn how to provide immediate assistance to residents after a major disaster, such as a tornado, flood, or chemical spill. The team will also learn to supply emergency shelter, food, and clothing for victims of fires or other calamities.

The new disaster team will include a damage assessment group, whose members will be trained to assess monetary losses at sites of disasters. Caseworkers will be trained to work with individual victims of calamity and assess their needs. A Red Cross disaster plan is currently being compiled, according to a spokesperson.

Another service to be provided in Garrett County is assistance for military families. Although this service has been available, several new persons volunteered their help in this capacity, and training sessions have been planned for these persons in order to expand the effort.

This service includes assisting military personnel and their families with personal and family problems, as well as helping to maintain family communications worldwide through the Red Cross telecommunications network that links to the military's overseas communications system.

The chapter can offer assistance to families in obtaining state or local benefits and other services. The Red Cross is also an accredited representative of the Veterans' Administration, and chapters can assist vets in completing applications and gathering required documentation for benefit applications.

The Red Cross assists military families 24 hours a day, the spokesperson said.

Other services being planned include a schedule of CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation) classes to be

Dr. Rabush explained that he had been conducting similar summer vacations for the developmentally disabled for the past seven years, using his own home at Deep Creek Lake as the facility. Stressing that the project would be wrongfully labeled as a "camp," Dr. Rabush reported that the ten-week vacation for the participants is fully staffed by Western Maryland College students working on their masters' degrees.

Because of this, said Dr. Rabush, "we see ourselves more as trainers than as providers of services."

He noted that the vacation is "just like any other adult vacation, except for the support and guidance provided by the staff members."

DOING A HEADSTAND with the assistance of Northern High School wrestler Allen Bittinger is Fort Hill's Larry McDonald during a semi-final consolation bout at the Maryland State Wrestling Tournament, held last weekend in Westminster. Bittinger won this match by technical fall, 17-1, and went on to place fourth in the state in the 130-pound division. He placed third in the state last year. His teammate, Scott Beltzel, also finished fourth in the heavyweight division and Southern's Jason Burgess, only a freshman, captured fourth in the 103-pound class (see their photos on sports pages). Six Charged For CDS Crime; Other Arrests Noted

Six local persons were all charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) after Dep. J. Murphy stopped the vehicle in which they were riding for a safety equipment violation. After talking with the driver and passengers, the officer noticed a possible odor of marijuana. After searching the vehicle, he found two suspected marijuana cigarettes.

The officer proceeded to arrest Henry L. Steyer, 31, and Sherry D. Steyer, 28 (who was the driver of the car), both of Deer Park; Brad C. Lewis, 23, David M. Hinebaugh, 30, Lisa L. Hinebaugh, 24, all of Oakland; and Janet L. Nicholas, 23, McHenry. All were charged with possession of a CDS.

Murphy made the traffic stop on March 2 at 2:30 a.m. on Rt. 219 North.

In a separate case, a juvenile was charged with attempting to elude an officer of the law after he allegedly tried to outrun police on Feb. 28. Dep. C. Nolan attempted to stop the teenager, who was riding a motorcycle, on B Street in Mtn. Lake Park. The defendant drove through the park at a high rate of speed, traveling through a yard at one point in the chase.

Nolan caught the teenager near the railroad tracks, and proceeded to charge him with several counts of eluding police. He was fined $1335 for the offenses, received 38 points on his driver's license, and has been given two notices of his mandatory appearance in court. He will be taken before juvenile services next week, according to the report.

Nolan was assisted by Dep. D. Stoner and Oakland policeman S. Groves.

New Germany Park Volunteers Invited To Meet

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources, State Forest and Park Service, will hold a citizen participation meeting on Monday, March 11, at 6:30 p.m. in the Recreation Hall at New Germany State Park.

Volunteers are needed in various capacities to get New Germany State Park open prior to July 1, 1991. Because of staffing and budget problems, the park will be closed from April 1 through June 30, 1991.

For further information, persons may contact Jim Rogers, park manager, or Joe Stevens, assistant park manager, at (301) 895-5453.

Convicted Thief Given 20-Year Prison Term

Wendell J. Yoder, 24, Salisbury, Pa., was sentenced to 20 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections (DOC) in Garrett County Circuit Court last week for numerous charges of theft. Yoder pleaded guilty in January to 13 counts of theft, including two counts of felony theft. Judge Fred A. Thayer suspended 17 years of Yoder's sentence, and ordered five years of supervised probation upon the defendant's release.

Yoder was accused of the theft offenses as well as one count of forgery after he apparently uttered numerous forged checks during the fall of 1989 and the spring of 1990. The illegal checks were written out for thousands of dollars, and had been stolen from and/or written to several people, including John, Grace, Jacob, and Duane Yoder, and William Buckel.

Charges against the defendant also stemmed from Yoder's reported theft of cash from the Liberty Trust Bank in Grantsville and the First United National Bank and Trust, Oakland.

Thayer suspended 17 years of the sentence on the condition that Wendell make restitution to the victims of his crimes. A courthouse spokesperson stated that the defendant has already partially done so.

Wendell was remanded to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff. Defense counsel for the accused was Robert C. Hesson.

Edwards Bill Would Provide Facility Funds

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards recently introduced a bill to the Maryland General Assembly that seeks to provide grant funding for the construction of a fully accessible, seven-bed recreational facility to be built at Deep Creek Lake. The facility would be used by developmentally disabled children and adults as a summer vacation home.

TARGET, Inc., a group located in Carroll County, is the organization spearheading the effort to construct the 4,000 square foot "cottage" in the Thousand Acres area. According to spokesperson Dr. Don Rabush, Westminster, five and one-half acres of undeveloped land has already been purchased for the project, some of the purchase money having been raised by District Six Congresswoman Beverly B. Byron, who has been named as the honorary chairperson for the project, and who raised $7,500 by sponsoring a golf tournament.

The purchase of the land was also made financially possible, in part, by the Franklin Trust.

Young Man Stabbed To Death; Accused Held On $100,000 Bond

A 21-year-old Gorman man died Saturday after being stabbed once in the chest during an argument with another young man. Terry L. Wilson's body was found by Garrett County Sheriff Deputies and Oakland City Policemen at an apartment on High Street, Oakland, on Saturday afternoon. The apartment is the residence of Robert L. Stark, 25. Stark is accused of the murder, and is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County jail in lieu of $100,000 full cash bond, set Monday by District Court Judge Jack Turney.

The two men were reportedly involved in an ongoing dispute, and had been arguing for some time before the stabbing occurred late Friday night or early Saturday morning. Wilson was involved with the sister of the accused, according to a Sheriff's Office spokesperson, and this involvement may have initially caused the dispute that ended in Wilson's death.

Police received a tip on Saturday afternoon that Wilson had been killed and his body was "stashed" at Stark's apartment. Police responded immediately to the scene. Lt. Don Tucker of the G.C. Sheriff's Office said that it was obvious that an attempt had been made to "hide" the body, but the officers found it quickly. He elected to withhold further comment on the murder scene.

After finding Wilson, Tucker led a quick investigation with other Sheriff

Accident Quilters For World Relief To Appear In Video

The women of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, are regular contributors to the Lutheran World Relief, an organization with the mission to provide assistance to troubled areas around the world. The Accident women have provided relief projects such as health kits and school supplies, and have produced nearly 200 quilts in the past two years, which have also been donated to the organization.

Lutheran World Relief recently invited the Zion Lutheran Church to participate in the organization's new video, entitled "Partners of Hope." A professional film crew will be in Accident on March 20 to shoot footage and conduct interviews with church members. Only three other churches in the United States were chosen to participate in the film, according to Rev. Wilfred Karsten, pastor of the church.

The purpose of the film is to promote Lutheran World Relief and its mission. The organization has recently taken several actions to respond to situations in the Middle East. The group has sent $25,000 to the Middle East Council of Churches to assist refugees who are fleeing the war zone; they have sent $20,000 to Augusta Victoria Hospital in Jerusalem to help provide blood bank refrigeration, medicines, first-aid kits, gas masks, and antidotes for nerve gas; and have allocated 15,000 donated quilts for shipment to Jordan, where they will be distributed to war refugees. Some of the quilts created by the Zion Lutheran women will be among those sent to the troubled area.

QUILTERS FOR LUTHERAN WORLD RELIEF -- The ladies' groups of the Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, are shown above as they work on one of the many hand-made quilts which they will soon donate to the Lutheran World Relief, a charitable organization with a mission of assistance to various parts of the world, including the war-torn Middle East. The Accident Lutheran women have been regular contributors of money and goods to the organization, and have made nearly 200 quilts in the past two years. Lutheran World Relief has recently allocated 15,000 quilts for shipment to Jordan, where they will be distributed to war refugees by the Middle East Council of Churches. The Zion women have recently been invited to be included in a video produced by the organization, entitled "Partners of Hope." Only three other churches in the United States were chosen to participate. (See separate story.) Shown above, beginning at the left front and proceeding clockwise, are Margaret Kahl, Freda Quintero, Josephine DiGiustine, Alberta Mosser, Reda A. Haslin, Linda Oester, Peggy Close, Lois Kolb, Rev. Wilfred Karsten, Mildred Haenftling, and Dortha Bowser.

TELLING THEIR TALES at last year's Tapestry of Talent Storytelling Festival, held at Frostburg State University, were Chad Montgomery, left, and Zachary Leverenz, both students at Accident Elementary School. The 1991 festival, to which students in grades one through 12 are invited to participate, is slated for April 6. See story.

Tapestry Of Talent Storytelling Festival Set At Frostburg State

The Third Western Maryland Student Storytelling Festival will be held on the afternoon of April 6, (noon-4 p.m.) at Frostburg State University in Pullen Auditorium. The festival, called "A Tapestry of Talent," is directed by Dr. Gail Herman and Dr. David Fell of Frostburg State University.

"Storytelling is a readily accessible, flexible form of expression which challenges a student's creative ability and expands communication and performance skills," stated Dr. Herman. "It deepens our sensitivity to each other and our awareness of our common needs. It also provides a structure around which other talents — in drama, mime, music, movement or sign language, for example — can be developed. Teachers should encourage their students to be as imaginative and expressive as possible in their use of voice, language, characterization and movement. Basic drama and improvisation exercises are useful in coaching."

Students in grades 1-12 are invited to participate in the festival where they will share stories in small circles, hear adult storytellers, and have a chance to volunteer to tell their story on the main stage with the aid of a microphone. Students who tell on the main stage are chosen by lottery and by selection from the sharing circles.

Material can be original, adapted from folklore, mythology or literature, from legend, history or social sciences, or some other specific area of study — "anything, in fact, which works well for the student and teacher or coach," Dr. Herman said.

Teachers, parents, and club leaders are invited to coach students in adapting or creating a story to tell to audiences first in their schools or community, then at the festival. Some students prefer to present as individual storytellers; others prefer to tell a story together with a partner (tandem telling); and others work in a group of between 3-8 students to tell one story in story theater style. Story theater involves a narrator (or two) and several "mime/actors." Space is limited, so persons are advised to register early to reserve spaces. A small non-refundable registration fee ($4.00) is required.

Students and adults from Western Maryland and nearby counties in West Virginia and Pennsylvania may also observe the storytelling events. Admission is $4.00. All are welcome.

For registration information and forms, persons may contact Dr. Gail Herman, Department of Educational Professions, Frostburg State University, Frostburg, MD 21532, or call 301-387-9199 and leave name, address, and phone number.

The festival is sponsored by the Department of Educational Professions at Frostburg State University. Assistance is also provided by various individuals including Katie Holwager, Greg Gerhard, Marianne Green, Tammy Woodward, Dr. Brenda McCartney, Susan Bell, Denise Wolkswebber, and the Frostburg State University Center for the Study and Dissemination of Children's Literature.

Vandals Ruin Mailboxes, Other Property On 3/1

Six persons reported smashed mailboxes to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week. The damage was done all on the night of March 1, according to the reports. Each mailbox was valued at $30, bringing the total damage estimate to $180. Other incidents of vandalism occurred on the same night.

Those persons whose mailboxes were destroyed are Andrea K. Hays, Richard Maroney, Thelma McCrobie, Russell Simmons, Dave Stewart, and Kathleen Wolf. The residences of the victims are located on Underwood, Weber, Old Crellin, and Silver Knob Roads.

Dep. Crossland is investigating the crimes.

Steven C. Sullivan, Oakland, reported a destruction of property incident that apparently also occurred on the night of March 1. Sullivan told police that both his vehicle, a Ford Truck, and his girlfriend's Jeep Badge were parked on Pensinger Blvd. that evening. Sometime during the night, an unknown culprit or culprits slashed two tires on each vehicle, and scratched the paint on the them as well. Damage was estimated at $800 per vehicle, according to the report.

Jack J. Hebb, Oakland, reported to police that someone entered his farm property on Rt. 219 South on the night of March 1. Batteries from two tractors were stolen as well as several wrenches. Hebb estimated the loss at $120.

A destruction of property incident was reported by Kurt Shaffer, an employee of Buffalo Coal Company, located on Steyer Mine Road. He told police that when he arrived at the work site on the morning of March 4, he found that the windshield of a grader had been shattered, as well as a side window of the machine.

Shaffer also reported that all of the windows of a utility bus were shattered with rocks. He estimated the damage at $500.

Police officers are leading an extensive investigation into these incidents vandalism that apparently occurred on March 1.

In a separate case, Adria Carotenuto, Oakland, reported a theft to police. She said that her food stamps were to arrive in her mailbox at the first of the February, but she had not yet received them by the late part of the month. Ms. Carotenuto suspected that someone had removed the stamps, worth $199, from her mailbox sometime in early February.

An investigation is continuing into the theft.

MLP Man Injured In Monday Mishap Now "Satisfactory"

A Mtn. Lake Park man remains hospitalized in "satisfactory" condition following a Monday afternoon one-vehicle accident on U.S Rt. 219, near Red House.

According to a nursing supervisor at Garrett County Memorial Hosptial, Tommy G. King, 32, remained a patient Wednesday after being admitted to that facility for injuries he sustained in the 5:30 p.m. mishap.

Tfc. John E. Foley of the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment, investigated and stated that the accident occurred when King, operating a 1987 Chevrolet, skidded on the icy roadway. The vehicle reportedly ran off the left side of the road, traveled down an embankment, and finally came to rest on its top.

Foley said King told him that two deer were approaching the road and that he applied his brakes when the vehicle began to skid.

No charges were filed in the accident.

King was transported to the local hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Recycling

Weber Road -- and will have the capacity to receive three types of recyclable materials: glass, tin and aluminum cans, and newsprint. Separate compartments will house different colored glass containers (one for clear, one for brown and one for green).

The committee estimated the total cost for the five containers to be $25,000. Those funds must come during the middle of the county's fiscal year, but as Commissioner Butscher stated, "We've been slow in implementing a program for recycling until now, and we want to get going with it."

Yoder stressed to the commission that this collection system is only the first phase of the long-term effort. The committee has recommended that, eventually, two more containers be purchased by the county. He noted that other recyclables, such as plastics, oil, yard waste and "white goods" (large appliances, such as refrigerators, washers and dryers), have not yet been successfully addressed by the committee, but further evaluation of the county needs in those areas will take place.

Eventually, it is hoped that each municipality in the county will also be equipped with its own recycling hardware and collection system.

The agenda for the meeting consists of electing a board of directors, approving the by-laws of the Association, reviewing the grant for the advertising directory sign, and dealing with any questions or concerns. For more information, persons may contact Jack Jones at 334-9211.

Edwards Bill

He added that participants are selected who can "fully utilize the facilities at the lake."

The bill (HB 1268) introduced by Delegate Edwards calls for the creation of a state debt, not to exceed $225,000, and with the requirement of a matching fund, would provide a grant to the board of directors of Target, Inc.

Construction of the facility is scheduled to begin this fall and be completed by the summer of 1992.

HB 1269 -- Garrett County -- State's Attorney's Office

In other news this week from the office of Delegate Edwards, it was announced that a bill pertaining only to Garrett County was introduced by Edwards concerning the definition of a law enforcement officer as relates to the state's attorney's office.

HB 1269 was requested by State's Attorney James Sherbin in an effort to streamline the criteria used to define any investigator employed by that office, according to Edwards. The bill states, "investigators shall be law enforcement officers in Maryland and shall have the same powers, rights, protections, and fringe benefits as deputy sheriffs in the sheriff's office of Garrett County."

The bill also specifies that the office may employ clerical, administrative, investigative and other personnel as the state's attorney feels is necessary, and that salaries of those employees should be determined by the state's attorney upon approval by the county commissioners.

The bill is scheduled to be heard by a "select," rather than a standing committee in the legislature Thursday, March 14, at noon, at House office building 411.

Man Stabbed

Deputies and Oakland City Policemen, which ended in the arrest of Stark several hours later. The Maryland State Police mobile evidence collection unit was called to the location and also participated in the analysis of the area. The policemen received another tip from an anonymous caller during the day which aided in the capture of the defendant.

A hunting knife owned by Stark was identified as the murder weapon and was placed in the evidence locker at the Sheriff's Department. The State Medical Examiner's autopsy report stated that the victim died of the chest wound shortly after the stabbing occurred.

Born May 22, 1969, in Kingwood, W.Va., Terry L. Wilson was the son of Luther G. and Christine C. (Gregory) Wilson, who reside in Aurora, W.Va.

He attended the Rosedale Faith Tabernacle.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two sisters, Sarah J. Edge, Aurora; Sandra K. Steadman, Deep Creek Lake; one brother, Larry G. Wilson, Deer Park; three half-brothers, Joseph E. Sidebottom, Loch Lynn; James L. Sidebottom, Aurora; and Daniel D. Wilson, Shreveport, La. He is also survived by his fiancee, Anna A. Stark, Oakland.

Friends were received on Monday and Tuesday at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland. A service was conducted there on Wednesday by the Rev. Bradley Shaffer. Interment was in the Aurora Cemetery.

Chairperson For Dream Come True Recently Named

Brenda Marucci, Oakland, was recently named chairperson of the local "Dream Come True" organization, which is affiliated with the Garrett County chapter of Hospice. The mission of "Dream Come True" is to fulfill the special wishes of terminally ill patients, 18 years and older, who will probably not survive for six months.

The local group was organized in May 1987, Ms. Marucci said, and several dreams have been realized for area patients. A trip to Ohio was arranged for one patient to see family members, an air conditioner was placed in the home of another, and a wheelchair ramp was installed in yet another patient's home.

As the new chairperson, Ms. Marucci expressed some of her own wishes. She said that the organization is ready to handle more requests, and hopes that those individuals who are suffering from life threatening illnesses will feel free to make such requests.

Ms. Marucci explained that some patients do not feel that they deserve to have a dream realized, and they are hesitant to request a wish.

"But they should know that it's okay to ask for a dream, especially at this time in their lives. Everybody has a dream," she said.

Ms. Marucci explained that persons may inform the "Dream Come True" group of their wish by contacting any Hospice member or home health nurse. She advised that the patient must be the one to ask for the dream, not family members or friends.

"Hospice is about bereavement," Ms. Marucci said. "But this part of Hospice, 'Dream Come True,' offers a joyous time for patients, something to look forward to and be excited about."

Other new officers for the group were also named, and are as follows: Anna Mary Fratz, secretary; Elenor Plachta, treasurer; Steering Review Dream Team members are Jane Nolan and Donna Cook; and Father Martin Feild heads the speakers' bureau.

The organization is financed primarily by contributions from individuals, memorial funds, and local clubs or organizations, Ms. Marucci said. The fulfillment of all requested dreams is pursued extensively by the "Dream Come True" members.

Ms. Marucci is also a member of Hospice's fund raising committee. She is employed by Garrett County Community Action as a housing counselor.

FIRST UNITED DONATES TO "DREAM COME TRUE" -- The First United National Bank and Trust recently made a donation to the local "Dream Come True" organization, a group affiliated with Hospice. The local chapter of "Dream Come True" was organized in 1987, and works to fulfill special wishes of persons 18 years or older who are terminally ill and who will probably not survive for six months. Linda Sanders of First United is pictured above left as she presents a check to Brenda Marucci, chairperson of "Dream Come True." Ms. Marucci has recently been named chairperson of the organization (see separate story), and said that the group is waiting for more requests. "It's okay to ask for a dream," she said. "Everybody has one." The organization is funded mainly through contributions from individuals, local clubs or organizations, and memorial funds.

Archer Attends Rural Health Care Meeting

Dr. Rex Archer, Garrett County Health Officer, recently represented Garrett County and the State of Maryland at a Rural Health Discussion Group meeting. The meeting was co-sponsored by the National Association of County Health Officials (NACHO) and the Rural Health Branch Division of Primary Care Services of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (H.H.S.).

The eleven participants were selected from rural health departments across the United States, and the meeting was held to accomplish two goals. The first was to assist NACHO and the U.S. Department of H.H.S. in understanding more about the experiences of rural health departments in fulfilling their missions related to primary health care and disease prevention in their communities. The second goal was to develop an understanding of the types of support, activities, and technical assistance needed to help rural health departments improve their ability to achieve these missions.

Archer noted that several of Garrett County's services are significantly better than those provided by the other rural health departments.

"Likewise, we are also particularly fortunate that our doctors contribute their fair share by taking care of the county's medical assistance and working poor patients," he stated.

However, according to Archer, there are several areas where other rural counties are ahead of Garrett County. Several participants had far more comprehensive adolescent and school health services and one county was particularly proud of its natural helpers' program. This program makes use of those people in the county who are particularly interested in health issues and who are frequently called upon by their neighbors to help with advice or other forms of assistance.

Rural America has not had equal access to prevention services, Archer said. Correcting this relative lack of basic prevention services for Garrett County residents will present a significant challenge because of the present financial difficulties at the state and federal levels.

"If Garrett County residents' health status is going to continue to improve, it will be necessary for the whole county to embrace the health department's new motto: 'Working Together for a Healthier Tomorrow'," Archer said.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers' cases of the week involve incidents of breaking, entering, and theft.

A breaking and entering occurred on Dec. 20, 1990, at the O'Brien residence, located on Rt. 495 just outside of Swanton. Stolen during the incident were several shotguns, a Whirlpool Microwave, a video cassette recorder (VCR), and several other items, including wrapped Christmas presents.

Total loss in this case is estimated at $5,377. All leads have been exhausted.

In a separate case, an unknown culprit removed a 1986 Honda TRX350, four-wheel ATV from a garage on North Ridge Road in McHenry. The vehicle is red and has racks on the front and rear, and is valued at $2500. The theft occurred between Nov. 2 and Nov. 5, 1990.

A third case involves a theft that occurred during the month of January 1990 until February 13. Unknown suspects entered a residence under construction on Green Glade Road and apparently removed numerous building tools and supplies worth $1,114.

Since that time, there have been several similar thefts in the same area, possibly committed by the same individuals.

Crime Solvers needs the help of citizens in solving these offenses, and any persons who have information about these or any other unsolved crimes are asked to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975, or write to Crime Solvers, P.O. Box 731, Oakland, Md. 21550. Persons who provide tips that lead to an arrest are eligible to receive a reward up to $1,000. Persons do not have to give their names, nor do they have to appear in court.

This program is for all children entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time in September, 1991.

Attention: Mr. A. Coviello

Let's Do It . . .

Finally, after months of just talking about it, it seems that Garrett County is actually going to take some real, concrete steps in the area of recycling. We believe this has come about not by aggressive action by our county commissioners, but by the badgering and constant pressure placed upon them by various service organizations and the public in general. In fact, it seems that the commissioners have been dragging their feet on this issue, with the exception of Brenda Butscher, who has also been pushing for action on recycling since taking office in December.

We believe that our general public has been ready and willing for some time to participate in recycling. Our children hear all about recycling in their classes at school and they are learning about how important it is for the future well-being of the world. After all, that future is their future.

But we sensed that the enthusiasm was beginning to wane. It has been frustrating because of a lack of collection sites for the various recyclable materials. It seems that the proposal to purchase large collection bins that will be located at strategic points throughout the county is a good start. Ultimately, we would also like to see the use of designated containers in those homes that have weekly collection; i.e., a blue garbage can for tin and aluminum, a green can for glass, etc. The trucks used by the trash collectors would also be equipped with compartments to keep the various items separated. This is how it is done in many other areas.

We plan to do our part here at the newspaper office by using recycled newsprint, which we hope to begin within the next month. Already we are providing used newsprint to local farmers for use as bedding.

Most of the credit for getting things moving in the area of recycling in Garrett County should go to the League of Women Voters and the Civic Club of Oakland, plus a few other organizations that have voiced concern. The members of the recycling committee that was appointed by the commissioners last year also deserve a tip of the hat and encouragement to proceed.

We recognize that a major recycling program is not something that can be done overnight, particularly when tax-money expenditures are involved, but it was beginning to seem like some of the delays were intentional.

Without recycling, not only would our world eventually become one big dumping site, but we would also face total depletion of many natural resources that are so vital to our lives. The bleakness of that scenario frightens us.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The article "Tax Differential Sought by the Mayor, Town of Oakland" in the February 28 issue brings home the fact that the County Commissioners should pay a tax differential to the Town of Oakland.

The tax differential should cover the costs of those services provided by the Town of Oakland which the county would otherwise have to provide.

Maryland counties have been granting tax differentials to cities and towns for many, many years and it is now time for the county commissioners to provide equity to the Town of Oakland.

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland should use the service out of the University of Maryland to determine the actual tax differential figure that would be correct for the town and county.

Oakland taxpayers should let the Mayor and Town Council know that if the County Commissioners do not voluntarily grant the differential then they want the issue taken to correct as did Mountain Lake Park.

Jerome Walter Cox
Oakland

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Farm Bureau would like to go on record as being opposed to SB-267/HB-310, "Gun Control -- Assault Weapons," or any variation thereof.

Because the state of Maryland already has a waiting period for the purchase of such weapons, during which time the State Police conduct a criminal record background check, we feel the unlawful should already be prevented from owning these guns. If these weapons are being found in criminal hands, then this law is apparently not being acted upon or enforced. This bill then (SB-267/HB-310), if passed into law, would only prevent law-abiding citizens from owning these guns. Garrett County Farm Bureau believes the state should control crime instead of guns and punish those who use guns to commit crime, as this session's HB-641 (killed by the Judiciary Committee) attempted to do.

Our organization is also concerned that the superintendent of State Police and the Hand Gun Roster Board would have the authority to add to this list of 39 banned firearms any other similar firearms at any time, at their discretion. Garrett County Farm Bureau and the many hunters in Garrett County fear that their hunting weapons will be next to join this list of banned firearms.

Garrett County Farm Bureau feels this law, if passed, would be just another taking of basic rights from Maryland's citizens.

William F. DeWitt,
President

Farm Bureau

To the Editor:

As Chairman of the Conservation Committee of the Western Maryland Group of the Sierra Club-Potomac Chapter, I must take exception to Mr. C.W. Newhall's recent letter misrepresenting the position of the Sierra Club on logging issues.

In opposing current logging practices on publicly owned lands, the Sierra Club recognizes the importance of private woodlands for the production of saw timber and pulpwood because we all use wood and paper products. But a managed wood lot is not a natural forest. Many of the species of plants and animals that are found in large natural forests can not survive in managed forests fragmented by logging roads, clear cuts and stands of even aged trees. Since private land owners may manage their property as they see fit and as few private citizens can afford to hold extensive acreage in natural forest, our publicly owned forests are the sole refuge for many threatened and endangered species. Additionally, the recreational value of our state forests and the significant economic benefits derived from recreational users can not be ignored.

Simply put, the management objectives on our publicly owned state forests are far broader than the narrow commercial interests and those who stand to profit from logging trees that belong to all Marylanders. Whatever Mr. Newhall wants to do with his own property is his business. However, ALL citizens have a right to express their opinions about the management of our public lands, and Sierra Club members will continue to press for reforms that limit logging in our state owned forests. That's our right and we fully intend to exercise it.

March is Red Cross Month, and the local Red Cross Chapter has planned a fund drive during the month. Residents will be solicited by mail for contributions, as money is needed for the proposed expansion of services.

Ms. Kutchman stressed that all monies donated will stay in Garrett County.

Another fund-raising activity has been planned for the chapter: The Red Cross Roundball Tournament, which will take place on Saturday, April 6, at Southern High School. Vying for the championship in the event will be the faculties of Northern and Southern High School.

More information on the tournament will be released later, Ms. Kutchman said.

Continuing Services

The services already offered by the local Red Cross chapter will continue, Ms. Kutchman said. These services include first aid and CPR classes, as well as the Bloodmobile visits.

The chapter also offers several water safety classes (children's swimming lessons, lifeguard classes, water aerobics, etc.), which will begin this year on April 16.

Ms. Kutchman stated that donations are welcomed, and may be mailed to Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 3113, Deer Park, Md. 21550. Ms. Kutchman stressed once again that all donations will serve Garrett County only.

Persons interested in volunteering for the local chapter, or those who wish for more information about the chapter and its services may contact Cindy Kutchman at 334-3916.

Convicted Thief

William E. Cramer, 45, Friendsville, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections for the crime of reckless endangerment. Cramer pleaded guilty to the charge at a January hearing in front of Judge Thayer, and at that time, Thayer accepted the plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Other charges against Cramer were assault with intent to murder and assault and battery, but they were not prosecuted. The counts against him stemmed from an incident in September 1990 at which time the defendant and his wife, Beverly Cramer, were at home and were both apparently intoxicated. The couple began to argue, and Cramer picked up a .22 calibre rifle and reportedly told Mrs. Cramer that he was going to "blow her brains out."

He then discharged the weapon, shooting his wife in the upper left arm. Cramer later stated that he did not realize the gun was loaded at the time. Maryland State Police officers responded to the scene, and Mrs. Cramer was transported to the Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

After sentencing, the defendant was remanded to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff. John R. Toston represented Cramer in the case.

Alfred D Friend Sr., 56, Swanton, was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections for a count of third degree sex offense. Judge Thayer suspended the sentence and ordered the defendant to three years of supervised probation. He also ordered Friend to avoid all contact with the victim of the crime.

Friend was accused of the sex offense by police after they learned of an ongoing sexual situation involving a 39-year-old mentally handicapped woman. The incidents occurred from March until June of 1990, according to the report, during which Friend threatened the victim that he would harm her or her mother if she did not allow him to sexually fondle her.

Defense council for Friend was James F. Braskey.

Kenneth B. Thompson, 53, Oakland, faced several charges on Feb. 28 including resisting arrest, driving an uninsured vehicle, and assault and battery. He was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail, suspended, a $300 fine, and alcohol rehabilitation. A battery charge against Thompson was stetted upon the condition that he have no violent contact with his wife.

The defendant was charged with battery violation after an April 1990 domestic dispute with his wife, Patricia G. Thompson. The other charges stemmed from another incident in April at which time Tfc. P.R. Brown of the Md. State Police attempted to investigate some routine traffic violations incurred by Thompson. The officer asked the defendant to remain in the squad car, but Thompson tried to leave.

Brown insisted that the accused stay in the vehicle, and Thompson then reportedly struck the officer in an attempt to get away. The officer charged him with assault and battery.

Thompson was also charged at that time with driving while under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol (DUI) and driving an uninsured vehicle.

Defense counsel for Thompson was Robert C. Hesson.

Jay L. McVicker, 24, Van Vorhis, Pa., was found guilty of burglary and felony theft by the court after the defendant pleaded not guilty to the violations. Judge Thayer revoked McVicker's bail and ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

McVicker's charges stemmed from a September 1990 incident when the defendant reportedly broke into the home of William S. Bever, Bloomington, and stole several items, including a television set, a video cassette recorder, and eight checkbooks. The monetary worth of the items was placed at $750.

The Maryland State Police investigated the crime. Defense attorney for McVicker was John R. Toston.

Kenneth L. Stinson, 32, Mtn. Lake Park, lost an appeal attempt to overturn a Garrett County District Court sentence of two years in jail and a $1,000 fine for the charge of driving with a revoked license. After a January hearing, Judge Thayer upheld the guilty verdict, and on Feb. 28, ordered that the district court sentence be upheld.

Stinson was charged in August of 1989 after he reportedly drove a vehicle after the original driver became sleepy. Stinson was stopped on Rt. 219 North near Deep Creek Lake and was charged with the offense.

Robert C. Hesson represented the defendant.

Robert E. Carr, 26, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving with a revoked license. Judge Thayer accepted the plea and sentenced the defendant to three years in the Maryland DOC and fined him $1300 plus court costs.

The judge then suspended all but 60 days of the jail term, and ordered the defendant to two years of supervised probation.

Carr was arrested on April 14, 1990, on Rt. 219 South by Garrett County Sheriff Deputy J. Murphy.

Richard Green represented Carr.

Brian E. Ahlfield, 21, Oakland, was sentenced to three years in the DOC on the charge of forgery. Thayer suspended all but 30 days, which will be served in the Garrett County jail. The judge also ordered Ahlfield to be on two years of supervised probation.

The defendant incurred the charges in October 1990 after he reportedly forged a check for $100 and cashed it at the Starlite Motel in Oakland. Ahlfield used the name "Robert Tasker" on the check. He was arrested by a G.C. Sheriff's deputy.

John R. Toston was Ahlfield's defense attorney.

Kevin M. Clark, 25, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to a theft charge, which Judge Thayer accepted. The judge sentenced Clark to one year in the G.C. jail, and then suspended the term and ordered two years of supervised probation.

Clark reportedly took blank checks from the residence of Jack W. Garlitz, Frostburg, on Jan. 19, 1990. He then cashed one check for $250 at Fuel City in Grantsville, and another check (amount not provided) at Heads Hardware Store, Frostburg.

James Braskey represented Clark.

Roger L. Helbig, 20, Oakland, was arrested on Feb. 28 on the charges of possession of CDS and drug paraphernalia, as well as concealing a deadly weapon.

Dep. Murphy made the arrest on Rt. 39 in Oakland after he stopped the defendant for a speeding violation. Upon searching the vehicle, the officer found marijuana seeds, cigarettes, and one butterfly knife, which was apparently hidden. The arrest occurred at 9:30 p.m.

Wayne E. Burkey, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged with felony vehicle theft and destruction of property on Friday. Burkey reportedly stole a Chevrolet Cavalier station wagon owned by John Wolfe, Mtn. Lake Park. Burkey took the car on Wednesday night, according to the report, and apparently traveled through parts of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland before returning to Garrett County.

The defendant told police where he had left the vehicle, and the officers found it in a wooded area off Glendale Road near Deep Creek Lake. Burkey damaged the vehicle by driving it over two large logs.

The car has since been returned to the owner, and Burkey was released on his own recognizance.

Douglas E. Halterman, 21, Oakland, was arrested on Feb. 24 on the charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI). Dep. Murphy made the arrest on Rt. 560 at approximately 4 a.m. after the officer observed Halterman operating his vehicle in an erratic manner.

Brian E. Ahlfield was arrested on Feb. 27 on Snowy Creek Road for DWI. Dep. Murphy found Ahlfield in a vehicle that was in a ditch along the roadway. The arrest took place at 1:56 a.m.

Weldon K. Nicholas Jr., 32, Deer Park, was arrested on March 3 for DWI. Murphy made the arrest at 2 a.m. on Rt. 135 in Deer Park after spotting Nicholas driving erratically, according to the report.

Terri A. Hutzel, 24, and Joseph L. Hutzel, 32, both of Friendsville, were served arrest warrants on March 3 on charges of theft and destruction of property against Michael Fedor, Roanoke, Va. Further details were not available.

Paul E. House, 30, Friendsville, was served a bench warrant for failure to appear in district court on Jan. 30. House was scheduled to face a charge of driving while under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol, according to the report.

Steven J. Eddy, 34, Oakland, was served a bench warrant issued from the Howard County District Court. Eddy apparently failed to appear in court on Dec. 12, 1988, to face a charge of driving with a revoked license.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County this week attended the Garrett County Recycling Committee's meeting with the Garrett County Commissioners, at which time Chairman Gary Yoder gave a report to the commissioners for the fourth time since the committee was formed.

The committee was contacted Monday, February 25, after the commissioners promised, at their February 19 meeting, to announce a commencement date for the recycling program to the league and to the general public. The recycling committee, once again, stated its recommendations to the commissioners. Those recommendations had been approved by Maryland Environmental Services.

League President Constance E. Margison, during the meeting, stated that the league has lead the recycling campaign for the past one and one/half years, and while expressing frustration at the length of time the commissioners had taken to get the program started, she thanked the elected officials for providing the date, May 15, as the recycling start-up date, and for not waiting until the state-mandated date of 1994.

The Mind Wanders

APATHY OF THE PUBLIC

by Pam Ashby

The only fault I can find with the recent GCC theatre department production of Crimes of the Heart was the apathy of the public. The show ran three nights and played to just under 300 people. If you missed it for a good reason, that's too bad. If you missed it to watch reruns on television, shame on you. If you saw it, you know just how marvelously entertaining it was.

While I'm not educated in theatre at all, I know that the six players invested all their energy and talent to delight us with humor, warmth, and the realism of family relationships.

Mary Sincell McEwen charmed us in her portrayal of Lenny Magrath. Her facial expressions alone would be enough for an evening of entertainment. But she didn't stop there. She was Lenny Magrath, the elder of three eccentric sisters, which is remarkable when you consider that she is actually the youngest of five siblings in her real family. Bravo, Mary.

Scindra Rosson was a scream as Chick Boyle, the uppity cousin, concerned only with climbing the social ladder and "how things look." We all have one of those phonies in our families and Scindra made it so believable. Superb.

Susan Bell wowed us as Meg Magrath. My husband especially appreciated her looks, her clothes, and so on and on and on. What I saw was some great talent emoting from Susan as she so easily played the insecure (masked by overconfidence) middle Magrath sister. Kudos.

Rob Smith was convincing as Doc Porter, Meg's old boyfriend, with his laid-back, yet urgent need to be with Meg once again. His reserved performance was just as it should have been. Good going, Rob.

Marci Beiler was Babe Botrelle. I don't mean that's the character she played. I mean she was Babe Botrelle, the younger sister, the true Southern belle who attempted to murder her abusive husband and who was having a steamy affair with a young, black man. Just as the famous southern belle, Scarlet O'Hara, Marci/ Babe was able to convince us that denial of our problems will make them go away. And like her sisters, Babe assured us that laughter is the best medicine. Excellent.

Alex Hicks was born to play Barnette Lloyd, Babe's lawyer and new love interest. He blushed on cue. He raised his eyebrows on cue. He was cute and adorable on cue, as I suspect he was supposed to be. Great job, Alex.

Ben Sincell, Jane Avery, and their crews designed a set that stirred up memories of granny's kitchen and you could almost smell the coffee boiling and taste the fresh lemonade.

Congratulations to John Ackerman and Frances Acton, the directors. It must have been great fun working with those six local actors.

I was entertained. I laughed so hard a few times that I embarrassed by husband. Sorry you missed it now, aren't you?

Local Revenue May Be Needed For State Budget

Dateline: Annapolis

The 1991 Maryland General Assembly continues to grapple with the budgetal problems facing the state this year and next, as legislators weigh the latest of Governor William Donald Schaefer's proposal to cut aid to the local jurisdictions in order to find sufficient revenue for FY92.

Governor Schaefer's recent budget request was unveiled after an approximate two-week delay, giving legislators a late start in the process. That delay was coupled with a growing state deficit, and with those two factors combined, the legislators are now facing the difficult task of deciding to either cut programs and services or to raise taxes for new revenue.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week stated that, even though local educational aid may suffer the brunt of budgetary cuts, Garrett County would still realize an increase of about $700,000 in that funding amount from last year.

Edwards explained that a bill has been introduced into the General Assembly that would amend the budget reconciliation for FY 92, and would be contingent on two other tax bills being passed to produce revenue.

If those two tax bills pass, said Edwards, enough money would be raised and, as a result, might prevent the cuts being made to the local jurisdictions.

One tax under consideration would be an increase in the cigarette tax -- which is anticipated to bring in approximately $34 million.

Other cuts to local jurisdictions being discussed by legislators include a cut in the local grants for taxes in the amount of $26 million.

In the case of Garrett County, Edwards reported that the property tax cut would equal a loss of $163,000; a cut of $50,000 in fire aid, and approximately $42,700 in social security payments.

The most recent deficit estimates amount to $88 million for the current year (the previous estimate was set at $423 million), and an approximate $115 million shortfall for next year.

Edwards stated that he would have preferred to raise taxes across the board so that the amount could be "spread out among everybody" rather than see popular local programs being cut.

In some ways, he said, this budget deficit creates "a new start for us, and we should now have learned some lessons that will make us more careful in whether or not we increase funding for this or that program."

On a related note, Edwards predicted that the Linowes (tax reform) bill would be killed this year and go to summer study.

"The Linowes Commission worked for three years on these tax recommendations and the legislators are expected to dissect and study the bill in 45 days," he said, noting that was not enough time to study the comprehensive proposals and their impact.

Maryland's Tax Restructuring Bill Reportedly Dead

A bill proposed by the Schaefer administration that seeks to raise over $8 million a year by restructuring the state tax and revenue distribution system is reported to be a dead bill -- at least for this year -- by the chairman of the Senate Committee on Budget and Taxation, Senator Laurence Levitan (D-Montgomery), whose committee conducted a hearing on the bill late last week.

That assessment was reportedly echoed by House Speaker R. Clayton Mitchell Jr.(D- Kent), who agreed that the bill was too involved for consideration this year. Reinforcing that sentiment, were protestors at the hearing voicing their disapproval.

Governor William Donald Schaefer testified at the hearing, reportedly stating that he still favors the bill and that failure to pass it would result in pressing needs by the state not being met.

The bill was a result of recommendations made by the Linowes Commission, appointed by the governor to study the current tax structure in Maryland. That commission recommended, among other measures, an increase in the sales tax, from 5% to 5 and 1/2%, and a general reform of taxes that would seek to more evenly distribute funds throughout the state.

The bill's chances of survival through the General Assembly are reportedly also being dampened by a report issued recently by the Department of Fiscal Services, which challenges some of the Linowes Commission predictions, and by the already deflated economy. Legislators who oppose the bill say the public will not accept any new taxes at this time.

Central Cancer Registry Bills Clear Committees

Identical bills were approved last week by House and Senate Committees that would require hospitals and laboratories to report all newly diagnosed cases of cancer to a central registry in an effort to examine why Maryland has the highest cancer rate in the nation. The bills are also expected to win approval on both the Senate and House floors.

State officials, for the past nine years, have reportedly been gathering data concerning cancer patients--including such factors as the stage of disease at the time of diagnosis, environmental and occupational risk factors and treatment received -- but not all hospitals throughout the state have been supplying that information to the state.

For that reason, some statisticians have indicated that reports are too sketchy to obtain a true picture of cancer incidence in the state. A lobbyist for the hospital association, however, reportedly stated that such a task is too expensive for most smaller hospitals to undertake.

Tax On Gas Unlikely To Become Law

A Schaefer administration proposal to raise the gas tax by five cents is reportedly headed nowhere, according to recent reports, which indicate that the Senate is generally favorable to the measure but the House is unlikely to approve it.

The administration proposal is designed to add $1.5 billion to the state's Transportation Trust Fund over the next five-year period. A reported $583 million deficit in the transportation budget is jeopardizing approximately $1.2 billion in planned transportation projects, including road, rail and aviation projects.

Gun Bill To Be Heard Today

A bill introduced by Governor William Donald Schaefer's administration to ban the sale of 38 military-style, semi-automatic assault weapons is expected to undergo a hearing today before the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee. It was narrowly passed by the House Judiciary Committee last week, and is reported to be one of the more controversial of the legislative issues this year.

The National Rifle Association has been conducting heavy lobbying efforts against the bill. Supporters of the bill, however, state that these types of weapons are being increasingly used by drug dealers and other criminals. Among those supporters are law enforcement officers who have indicated they feel "outgunned" by persons carrying these weapons.

GCC Wildlife Club To Spend Break In South

During the week of Garrett Community College's spring break when many college students traditionally head for the beaches in search of sand, sun, and the usual rites of spring, members of GCC's Wildlife Club will be heading south in search of alligators, armadillos and the Florida panther.

The group, led by Assistant Professor of Wildlife Biology Kevin Dodge and Dr. Chuck Hager, will leave McHenry on Thursday, traveling by college van and towing a U-Haul, and drive to Florida. For a week, they will travel through Florida, camping overnight at national parks and campgrounds, and visiting wildlife refuges, sanctuaries, and other natural habitats.

Among their stops will be Ding Darling National Wildlife Refuge to see wading and water birds; Corkscrew Swamp, to see the largest remaining stand of virgin bald cypress in South Florida; and the Big Cypress region to look for the black bear, the Florida panther, and to hear the barred owl.

At the Everglades National Park they will follow the Anhinga Trail, a boardwalk through an Everglades slough, to see birds and alligators, and go canoeing through mangrove areas to look for endangered manatees and American crocodiles. In the Keys, the group will go snorkeling on a coral reef and work on a habitat management project for the key deer at the National Wildlife Refuge. They also hope to go deep sea fishing and visit the Dry Tortugas.

Fire Deaths In Maryland Stay Below 100 During 1990

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced another record low in the fire deaths for the State of Maryland during 1990. According to Gabriele, 95 persons died in fire incidents throughout Maryland during the past year. This is the second lowest number of fire deaths recorded in the State, since records have been kept pertaining to fire deaths statistics.

Fire death data collected by the Office of the State Fire Marshal revealed that careless smoking, or the misuse of smoking materials, was once again the leading cause of fire deaths in the State. In 1990 there were 37 deaths reported as a result of smoking related incidents, or 38.9% of the total fire deaths.

Children playing with matches or cigarette lighters was another leading cause of fire deaths in the State during 1990. Ten children died as a result of fires caused by children playing with matches or cigarette lighters. This was a dramatic increase over 1989, when only one child died as a result of fires started by children playing with matches and lighters.

A survey of fire deaths in Maryland last year indicates that the majority of deaths occurred in homes and apartments. Of the 95 reported fatalities, 65 occurred in either homes or apartments. The bedroom was the leading area of origin for fire deaths, with 33 fire fatalities recorded in this area or a total of 34.7% of all fire deaths. The living room was the second leading area of origin for fire deaths with 27 fatalities reported or a total of 28.4% of the total fire deaths.

The lack of smoke detectors was also a significant factor for the fire death problems in 1990. In 29 of the fatality incidents, there was no smoke detector present. Additionally, eight of the fatalities occurred in areas where the detector was present but did not function because of lack of maintenance.

The high risk victims of fires remain the very young and the elderly in 1990. Eighteen of the fire deaths which occurred last year were to children 15 years of age and younger. Similarly, 30 of the fire deaths were victims 61 years of age or older.

The early morning hours continue to be the most susceptible time for victims to fire. Of the 95 fire fatalities, 40 of the victims died between the hours of midnight and 6 a.m.

An examination of fire fatalities by jurisdiction indicates 28 of the fatalities occurred in Baltimore City. However, Baltimore City showed a dramatic decrease from 35 fatalities in 1989 to only 28 last year. Baltimore County has the second highest number of fire deaths with 13 in 1990 which was up from five fire deaths recorded the previous year.

There were five counties in Maryland which recorded zero fire deaths in 1990. Those were: Calvert, Frederick, Howard, St. Mary's, and Talbot.

1990 marked the second year in a row in which fire deaths remain below 100 throughout the State of Maryland. Commenting on this second year of record low fire deaths, Fire Marshal Gabriele remarked, "1990 was another very good year for the State in keeping fire deaths to record low numbers. I continue to urge our citizens to use and maintain smoke detectors and to be constantly aware of the hazards of fire in their homes and work places."

Leadership Skills Class Offered For Fire, EMS Officers

A new class, designed for officers serving in fire and emergency medical service settings, has been scheduled for March 16 and 17.

According to David Ramsey, coordinator of the Western Maryland Regional Office for Emergency Medical Service Systems, the objective of the two-day class is to introduce the company officer to basic leadership skills and techniques, in order to improve command and management effectiveness.

He noted that it was designed to address problems faced by leaders and managers of paid and volunteer services and is based on the situational leadership model.

Topics to be covered include: planning and setting goals, managing the budget, motivational techniques, delegation, when and how to discipline, problem-solving techniques, and conducting effective meetings.

The class is being jointly sponsored by the Region 1 Office of the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems, the Western Maryland Regional Office, and Garrett Community College.

All participants who successfully complete the class will receive certificates for the United States National Fire Academy.

Those seeking information regarding the class may contact Ramsey at 895-5934. Registration details may be obtained by calling Sandy Major at 387-6666, ext. 180.

Mar. 14-16 To Be Daffodil Days

The Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society has announced that the annual Daffodil Days observance will be held March 14-16 and orders are now being taken by the unit for fresh daffodils, which will be delivered at that time.

Daffodil Day was originally initiated by the Canadian Cancer Society and was adopted by the American Cancer Society in 1970. Nearly a half a million daffodils are sold each year by Maryland units of the Society. Daffodils were selected for this event since the flower represents the symbol of hope. It is also the first flower of spring and appears at approximately the time the campaign is launched each year.

Local persons wishing to participate in this fund-raising effort by ordering daffodils may do so by contacting Jan Florists or Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland at 334-9034 and 334-9211, respectively, or Accident Floral and Gifts at 746-8547. The cost of the flowers is $5 for a bunch of 10.

GCC Graduate Conducting Unique Wildlife Programs Through DNR

A graduate of the Garrett Community College Wildlife Program, Al Lease, now with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, recently returned to Garrett County to present nature programs at Southern Middle and Southern High schools. Lease is pictured above with one of his "feathered friends," a great horned owl.

Lease now works as a member of the Scales and Tales program of the Maryland State Parks Foundation whose purpose is to present programs that help wildlife through education. He travels throughout the state in a van that carries cages containing his wildlife "friends" -- a screech owl, a vulture, a great horned owl, a black snake, a snapping turtle, a tarantula -- or whatever other creature he happens to have along.

He claims that every animal has a story, and this story is part of what he shares with his audience as he speaks to school and community groups, and at various fairs and festivals. The program has become so popular that most presentations must be booked almost one year ahead.

Based at Gunpowder State Park near Baltimore, Lease is now in a biology program at Towson State University and working part-time with the DNR. He says he "loves" his work -- "playing with animals and talking to kids all day."

The Scales and Tales program has developed six separate presentations, each with a different emphasis, that are available to interested groups. They are: The Good, the Bad and the Ugly -- using Maryland wildlife to show that creatures generally perceived as "bad" are really "good"; Wings and Things -- giving tales about birds of prey as well as migratory and water birds; Reptile Rap -- presenting reptile friends up close and personal; Animal Sounds -- designed for the pre-schooler and allowing them to touch the animals; Wildlife on Display -- designed for transient audiences at fairs and exhibits; and Scales and Tall Tales -- storytelling about how animals got their special features.

Any group or organization interested in one of the Scales and Tales Programs should contact Ranger Bill Trautman, Gunpowder Falls State Park, 10815 Harford Road, Glen Arm, MD 21057, (301) 592-2897. There is no charge for the programs, but donations are welcome.

Mt. Top League Playoffs Begin: Quarters Tonight

The Mt. Top Basketball League opened its playoffs this past Sunday with four games at Garrett Community College.

In the first game, fourth seeded Martin Auto Glass crushed 13th seed Westvaco, 116-87. Westvaco jumped out to a 24-14 lead in the first six minutes of the first half and then was held to only two baskets in the last 14 minutes, as Martin's went on a 43-15 run to finish the half with a 57-39 lead. Rick Selders led Martin's with 30 points and Tom Stem added 22 in the victory. Westvaco's Gary Morris led all scorers with 33 points.

In the second game and the closest game of the day, 10th seed Fairfax Stone scored a mild upset as they edged seventh seed CMC Enterprises, 80-76. Fairfax was up by 12 points with 4:30 left in the game and withstood a CMC rally in the last minutes, including a chance by CMC to tie the game with three seconds left. The balanced Fairfax attack had all five starters score in double figures with Jeff Lipscomb leading the pack with 18 points. Norm Minnick of CMC led all scorers with 29 points.

Third seed G&H Masonry set a Mt. Top record as they destroyed 14th and last seed D&C Video by 102 points, 162-60, including 89 second half points. G&H had five players score over 20 points as Steve Lyons paced the attack with 38 points. Greg Evans scored 20 points to lead D&C.

In the final game on Sunday, fifth seed Video Connection came from 16 points down to knock off 12th seed Curve Tavern, 84-77, despite a strong effort by Greg Harvey who tallied 44 points. Dean Marsico scored 33 and John Harmke added 20 points in the Video Connection victory.

In the first round action Tuesday night at the National Guard Armory, sixth seed Miners & Merchants Bank held off a three-point barrage from 11th seed Deep Creek Pharmacy for a 98-90 victory. The Pharmacy hit 16 trifectas including nine in the second half, but the Miners were able to control the boards and allow the Pharmacy only one shot on most occasions, which the Miners then turned into numerous fast break opportunities. Delbert Napper was high point man for Miners & Merchants with 25 points, and Danny Wiles added 21 in the victory. Deep Creek Pharmacy's Mike Fazenbaker was the game's high scorer with 33 points, including seven three-pointers, and teammate Jerry Herpel added 21 points.

Ninth seed National Guard avenged an earlier defeat to eighth seed Levi Sunglasses with a 110-69 rout. The Guard jumped out to a 48-31 halftime lead and cruised for the victory. The inside game of Marshall Pike and Jonathan Cramer paced the Guard victory with 26 and 23 points, respectively. Paul Barnhouse led Levi's with 22 points.

The first game of the quarterfinals finished off the night at the Armory as second seed Buffalo Coal advanced to Sunday's semifinals with a 118-106 win over 10th seed Fairfax Stone. Fairfax did not go down without a battle, as they had cut Buffalo's lead to one point with just under five minutes remaining in the game. But the hot shooting of Brian Selders paced an 11-point run that put the game out of reach. Selders finished with 29 points to lead Buffalo and Paul Lewis added 27. Pat Adams scored a game high 37 points for Fairfax, while teammate Jeff Lipscomb chipped in 21 points.

The quarterfinals continue tonight (Thursday) at GCC, starting at 7 p.m. The first game pits first seed and defending champs Niner Construction/A&A Realty against the National Guard; G&H Masonry will play Miners & Merchants Bank in the second game; and Martin's Auto Glass will face Video Connection in the nightcap.

The semifinals will be Sunday at GCC, starting at noon, and the championship game will be next Thursday night at GCC, starting at 8 p.m. The championship can also be heard on WXIE 92FM, starting at 7:45 p.m., Thursday night.

Bowling Tourney To Benefit GCC Now Underway

The second annual nine-pin bowling tournament to benefit the Garrett Community College Foundation is now underway at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland, according to Hugh Schrier, organizer of the tournament. All interested persons, both sanctioned and non-sanctioned bowlers, are eligible to participate.

Remaining dates for the tournament are Saturday, March 9, and Sundays, March 24 and 31, from noon until 5 p.m. Entry fee per bowler is $10.

Rules of the tournament are that nine counts on the first ball counts as a strike for men; eight counts on the first ball counts as a strike for women. Foul lights will be activated and all rules of bowling etiquette will be observed. There must be a minimum of two bowlers per squad.

According to Schrier, a person may bowl on any or all of the designated dates. Every bowler rolling a 300 game will be eligible for the roll-off at the end of the tournament. Qualifying bowlers will bowl a three-game match, with the person rolling the highest score receiving a Columbia 300 Bowling Ball donated by Par-Matt Lanes.

Anyone desiring further information about the tournament should call Schrier at the college, 387-6666, or Par-Matt Lanes, 334-3040.

Big Brothers, Big Sisters Plan Annual Bowl For Kids' Sake

The Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies will hold its second annual Bowl For Kids' Sake at the Par-Matt Lanes on April 6.

Bowl For Kids' Sake is a bowl-a-thon that raises funds to support Big Brothers/Big Sisters services in the community. Last year the event raised $7,600, money that was used for the hiring of a part-time coordinator and the opening of a branch office in Garrett County. League bowlers and non-bowlers can help by signing up to Bowl For Kids' Sake on April 6.

The event is endorsed nationally by the Pro Bowlers Association and the National Association of Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters is a youth-serving organization that matches adults with school-age children from primarily single-parent homes. Professional staff supervise the "matches" and the volunteers provide guidance and support for the children at-risk. "The friendships developed through this one-to-one relationship can make a big difference to the children in need," stated a spokesman for the organization. "In Garrett County there are several children waiting for a Big Brother or Big Sister."

For more information on Bowl For Kids' Sake and how one can help, persons may contact Anna Bishop at 334-4249.

Companies or groups that wish to help sponsor the Bowl For Kids' Sake event may contact Dan Seib, coordinator, at 334-3591.

Ram Grapplers Conclude Season; Burgess Places Fourth In State

After a one-year absence, wrestling returned this year to Southern High School and the young Ram team finished with a surprising 9-5 record in dual meets for the year and also sent three grapplers to the Maryland State Tournament this past weekend.

Jason Burgess, who was the runner-up in his weight class at the Region I Tournament the previous weekend, came home from the state meet with a fourth place finish in the 103-pound division, while Gary Sweitzer (112) and Pete Strawser (119) also qualified for and participated in the state meet. Burgess and Strawser are just freshmen and Sweitzer is a sophomore.

The remainder of the team included three more freshmen, two juniors, and just one senior. Six of the nine members of the team finished with winning records, while one of the remaining three finished with a .500 mark.

Burgess led the team with an individual record of 28-5, followed by Strawser who finished at 28-6; Sweitzer, 23-6; Ed Philyaw, 23-10; Mike DeWitt, 20-13; Shane Skipper, 17-11; Sonny Livengood, 17-17; Jason Rush, 16-18; and Josh Woods, who was sidelined much of the season with injury, finished with a 2-5 mark. Philyaw was the only senior on the team, Rush and Skipper were juniors, and DeWitt, Livengood, and Woods were the other freshmen.

"We did a whole lot better than people thought we would do," stated Southern Coach Terry Kendall, who is assisted by Tom Woods. "We were fortunate to have some success early in the season, which made our kids believe in themselves. Plus, there was a lot of unity on this team, which was a major key to our success."

With all but one member of this year's team expected back next year, plus about six or seven incoming freshmen and possibly some present upperclassmen who did not wrestle this year, but may do so next season, Kendall and other Ram fans is anticipating even more success next year and the following seasons.

"We will try to continue to improve and keep building on what we already have," Kendall said.

LETTERMEN HAVE HEART -- The Northern High School Lettermen's Club recently donated $100 in memory of Coach Jack Lear to the WFRB "Mile of Quarters" drive for the American Heart Association. Shaffer Ford Ends Mettiki's Unbeaten Streak

Monty Pagenhardt and Rob Michael combined for 35 points to lead Shaffer Ford over previously unbeaten Mettiki Coal Company, 63-60, in Over 30 Basketball Association action this week. Shaffer Ford held the lead from the start of the game, although Mettiki battled back within one point in the last 30 seconds of play.

All six Shaffer players scored and combined for the best defense action of play in the association this season. Mike McLaughlin led Mettiki's scoring attack with 30 points, while teammate Jim Bosley was held to only seven points, well below his average of 22. Final score Shaffer 63-60 over Mettiki.

Brian Selders scored a record 38 points to power Beachy Lumber over winless Bausch & Lomb, 60-54. Kerry Collins' 17 points led the B&L scoring attack. Richard Schick's and Butch Sumpter's normal scoring attack was silenced by the younger, quicker, Beachy team.

Brothers Tom and Dan Bosley teamed up for 37 points to lift Coors over Garrett Mine Service. GMS led by as many as 16 points before the Coors team caught fire behind the scoring of Paul Lewis. Randy DiSimone scored 22 points for GMS while former "West Virginia Strong Man" winner Greg Harris added 14.

Play continues this week with Garrett Mine Service playing Bausch & Lomb at 7 p.m. Coors will play cross-town rival Shaffer Ford at 8 p.m. and Beachy Lumber will take on Mettiki Coal at 9 p.m. Players ared asked to note the time changes and to adjust their schedules accordingly. Questions as to time changes should be addressed to league president, Rob Michael.

Lakers End Season With Region Tournament Loss To Hagerstown

The 1990-91 season came to an end for the Garrett Community College Lakers Saturday night when they fell to Hagerstown Junior College, 91-84, in the semi-finals of the Region XX Tournament, held at Allegany Community College in Cumberland. The result left the Lakers with a final overall record of 23-10, while the Hagerstown Hawks took their 23-11 mark against Allegany in Sunday's finals and were defeated.

The contest was the third meeting between the Lakers and Hawks, who split their regular season games, each team winning on its own court. The Lakers dropped Saturday's tournament game by allowing the Hawks to capitalize on crucial GCC turnovers in the second half.

The Hawks were led by 5-9 sophomore point guard Jason Niblett, who finished with 18 points, dished out 11 assists, pulled down seven rebounds, and recorded four steals. Teammates Keith Wood and Tony Burrell also provided some key buckets late in the contest, as they finished with 21 and 19 points, respectively.

The score was knotted at 44 apiece at halftime, but two minutes into the second half, with GCC down by a point at 48-47, Niblett initiated a six-point run by causing two Laker turnovers that led to dunks by Wood, and then stealing the ball himself and driving for a lay-up to make it 54-47.

The Hawks led by 13 points, 68-55, at the 12:30 mark, but the Lakers began to chip away at the lead, as Bruce Boldley nailed a three-pointer and Derek Young followed with a free throw to pull Garrett to within three points, 77-74, with about five minutes remaining. However, GCC's offensive effort sustained a major blow when Boldley fouled out at the 4:13 mark.

All-American candidate Chuckie Moore closed the gap to just one point, 79-78, with a lay-up, followed by a steal and another bucket with 3:45 left. Chris Green's foul shot with just under three minutes remaining tied the score at 79 apiece.

However, a three-pointer by Burrell, a bucket by Walt Hunter, and another steal and lay-up by Niblett, with the Lakers getting only a free throw by Young, gave the Hawks an 86-80 lead, from which Garrett could never recover.

The Lakers got buckets from Young and Jesse York in the final minute, but Burrell sunk a pair of foul shots and Wood added a three-point play with just 13 seconds left to conclude the scoring.

The Lakers out-gunned the Hawks from the floor by a 36-35 margin, but Hagerstown made good on 17 of 29 free throw opportunities, while Garrett netted just eight of 15.

Moore led the Lakers in scoring as he finished with 22 points, while Young netted 17, York recorded 15, and Boldley contributed 12.

Also reaching double figures for the Hawks were Ira Winston and Hunter with 12 each.

Three Great Moves --

1. SCHWARZKOPF MOVES COALITION FORCES INTO KUWAIT
2. IRAQI SOLDIERS SURRENDER ALMOST IMMEDIATELY
3. 92-X WXIE-FM MOVES FROM 92.1 TO 92.3 ON YOUR FM DIAL

92-X congratulates all of our servicemen in the Persian Gulf for their outstanding efforts in freeing the people of Kuwait and bringing peace back to the Middle East.

We'd like to say our move from 92.1 to 92.3 on your FM dial was done in celebration of the end of the war. But, to be honest, we've been working on this for over a year, and we would have moved anyway, even if the world had never heard of Saddam Hussein.

By moving from 92.1 to 92.3 on the dial, more Garrett Countians will be able to pick up 92-X at home, at work, and in the car. That means more will be able to hear our award-winning local news coverage, Paul Harvey, and more classic hits 24 hours a day.

Barring any unforeseen events, we expect to make the big switch this Friday. And, as a bonus, we'll be tripling our power so more of you can enjoy Steve and Susan in the morning, and more classic hits all day long.

AVAILABILITY OF ASBESTOS MANAGEMENT PLANS AND NOTIFICATION OF ASBESTOS RESPONSE ACTIONS

In October 1986, the U.S. Congress enacted the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA). Under this law, comprehensive regulations were developed to address asbestos problems in public and private elementary and secondary schools. These regulations require most schools to inspect for friable and nonfriable asbestos, develop asbestos management plans that address asbestos hazards in school buildings and implement response actions in a timely manner.

These regulations assign schools many new responsibilities. Our Program for fulfilling these responsibilities is outlined in our asbestos management plans. These plans contain information on our inspections, reinspections, response actions and post-response activities, including periodic reinspections and surveillance activities that are planned or are in progress.

You can review these plans at our administrative office, Garrett County Board of Education, 40 South Fourth Street, Oakland, Maryland, during normal business hours. Each school will have their individual plans available for review within five (5) working days of receiving a request for inspection.

The following response actions were conducted during the 1990 year: Asbestos removal procedures were conducted at Loch Lynn Elementary School, Mt. Lake Park, Maryland, beginning on July 12, 1990 and were completed on the same day. Friable asbestos-containing pipe insulation was removed from a section of pipe and four (4) elbows in a storage closet under the stairs in the basement of the school. Brico Environmental, Inc., Baltimore, MD, was contracted to conduct the removal.

Asbestos removal procedures were conducted at the Bloomington Elementary School, Bloomington, MD, beginning on July 20, 1990 and were completed on the same day. Friable asbestos insulation was removed from a fitting between hot water heaters in the boiler room of the school. Brico Environmental, Inc., Baltimore, MD, was contracted to conduct the removal.

Asbestos removal procedures were conducted at Southern High School, Oakland, MD, from June 13, 1990 to September 28, 1990. Asbestos-containing pipe insulation was removed from approximately one thousand (1000) linear feet of pipe, asbestos-containing surfacing material was removed from approximately 43,000 square feet of ceiling, and approximately 27,200 square feet of asbestos-containing floor tile and mastic were removed.

Throughout the course of these removal projects, industrial hygienists from Briggs Associates, Inc., Columbia, MD, monitored the projects to ensure compliance with all Federal and State regulations.

If you have any questions about reviewing our management plans or response actions, please contact Mr. George Brady at (301) 334-8906.

"Hire The Older Worker Week" To Be Observed

"Ability is Ageless" is the 1991 theme for "Hire the Older Worker Week" to be observed in Maryland the week of March 10-16. The proclamation was made by Governor William Donald Schaefer. The observation marks the 32nd anniversary of the national effort to recognize older persons as qualified employees, and to encourage employers in the public and private sector to hire the older worker.

Employment records of most older workers demonstrate positive job-related characteristics that many employers value, such as stability, punctuality, dependability, and productivity, according to a spokesman from the Maryland Office on Aging.

"There are many persons in Maryland, aged 55 and over, who wish to join or rejoin the workforce," said Governor Schaefer. "Some older people seek employment because of financial need, while others are motivated by their desire to be engaged in meaningful activity."

Gov. Schaefer, along with Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, this week encouraged all departments of state, county, and local governments, as well as all employers in the public and private sector, to remember that the dependable older worker is a "good choice."

Employers interested in knowing more about hiring older workers in Maryland may call the Maryland Office on Aging at 301-225-1100. Persons interested in learning about programs or activities for "Hire The Older Worker Week" in their community may contact their local Area Agency on Aging.

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging will be recognizing its older workers during award ceremonies at the individual "Eating Together" sites in the coming week.

Delinquent notices were mailed on March 1, 1991. We have included all taxes on the property. Also, personal property taxes for 89-90 and any prior year are delinquent and they become a lien on your real estate (Section 14-804). Amounts due on the delinquent notices will be honored through April 1, 1991. After this date, interest figures will increase.

Due to the volume of accounts, we will not be accepting messages to hold properties beyond the delinquent notice time. After April 1, 1991, all delinquent accounts will be given to the Attorney for preparation for tax sale. ABSOLUTELY NO EXCEPTIONS!

Failure to pay before the April 1st deadline will result in assessment of attorney fees and other expenses of sale as provided by law.

Fish

BAKED RED SNAPPER WITH OYSTER STUFFING

1 4-to 4 1/2 lb. red snapper, dressed salt
salad oil
1 cup water
3/4 cup minced celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 8-oz. container shucked oysters
3 cups day-old bread cubes
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Sprinkle inside and outside of fish with salt; brush one side with oil. Brush large shallow roasting pan with oil; place fish, oiled side down, in pan. Make stuffing: In 2-quart saucepan over high heat, in boiling water, cook celery and onion until tender; drain, reserving liquid. Put onion and celery in large bowl. Into 1-cup measuring cup, drain liquid from oysters; add to celery and onion. Stir in bread cubes, butter, poultry seasoning, pepper and celery-oyster liquid. With spoon, lightly fill cavity with oyster stuffing mixture. Skewer cavity closed with toothpicks. Brush other side of fish with salad oil. Bake in 350F oven 1 hour 10 minutes brushing fish occasionally with salad oil; with 2 pancake turners, lift fish to warm platter. Remove toothpicks. To serve: Cut top side of fish into squares just down to bone. Serve squares with some of stuffing. Lift off all bones and repeat with other side of fish.

BROILED SESAME TROUT

6 serving-size rainbow trout or other locally available fish, pan dressed
1/2 cup lemon juice
3 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup sesame seed
3/4 cup butter or margarine
lemon slices and parsley sprigs for garnish

With sharp knife, make 3 light slashes on each side of fish, without cutting flesh too deep. In 13-inch by 9-inch baking pan, mix lemon juice, salt and pepper. Add fish and turn over to coat with marinade. Cover; refrigerate at least 3 hours., turning occasionally. In 1-quart saucepan over medium heat, toast sesame seed until golden, stirring occasionally. Add butter or margarine and heat until melted. Place fish on rack in broiling pan. Drain marinade from baking pan into sesame seed mixture. Preheat broiler if manufacturer directs. Broil fish about 5 minutes on each side, basting frequently with sesame seed mixture. Test fish for doneness with a fork. Trout are cooked when their flesh flakes easily. With pancake turners, lift fish carefully onto warm platter. Spoon hot juices over and garnish.

SHRIMP SCAMPI

1 1/2 lb. fresh shelled and deveined large shrimp or 1 24-oz. bag frozen, shelled and deveined shrimp, thawed
4 large garlic cloves
1/2 cup butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup chopped parsley
lemon wedges for garnish

Preheat broiler if manufacturer directs. Place shrimp in single layer in bottom of broiling pan. Into 1-quart saucepan, with garlic press, crush garlic cloves. Add butter and next 4 ingredients. Over low heat, heat until butter is melted. Pour butter mixture over shrimp, turning shrimp to coat evenly. Broil 5 to 8 minutes until shrimp are pink. To serve, spoon hot shrimp and butter mixture onto warm platter. Sprinkle with parsley, garnish with lemon.

BLUEFISH WITH BUTTERY LEMON SAUCE

1 cup butter or margarine
1/3 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
3/4 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
8 1-pound bluefish, pan-dressed

Preheat broiler if manufacturer directs. In 1-quart saucepan over high heat, melt butter or margarine; stir in lemon juice, parsley, lemon peel, salt, sugar and pepper. Place fish on rack in broiling pan and brush with butter mixture. Cook about 5 minutes, then turn and cook 5 minutes more or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. During cooking, brush bluefish frequently with butter mixture.

STRIPED BASS WITH PUNGENT SAUCE

1 3 1/2-lb. whole striped bass or sea bass, dressed, with head and tail on 1 tablespoon dry sherry
salt
cornstarch
1 small carrot, cut into 3-inch long matchstick-thin strips
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup white wine vinegar
1/2 cup catchup
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
2 teaspoons soy sauce
1 1/4 cups water
2 medium lemons, sliced, for garnish

Rinse fish under running cold water; pat dry. With sharp knife, cut fish crosswise into two pieces; score 3 crosswise slashes about 1/2 inch deep on both sides of each piece to help fish cook more evenly and reduce cooking time. In small bowl, mix sherry and 1/2 teaspoon salt. With hand, rub mixture inside and outside of fish. Place fish on platter; cover; refrigerate 30 minutes. In 6-quart Dutch oven or saucepot, over medium-high heat, heat about 1 inch salad oil to 350F on deep-fat thermometer. Meanwhile, again pat fish dry; on waxed paper, coat fish inside and out with 1/3 cup cornstarch. Carefully slip 1 piece of fish into hot oil; cook 8 minutes or until underside is golden and fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Turn fish over to brown other side, about 8 minutes. Drain on paper towels 1 minute; place on warm platter; keep warm. Repeat with second piece. Reassemble pieces to make a whole fish. Meanwhile, in 2-quart saucepan over high heat, in 1 tablespoon hot oil, stir-fry carrot, celery and 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Spoon into small bowl; set aside. In same saucepan over medium-low heat, heat sugar, vinegar, catchup, pickle relish, soy sauce, water and 3 tablespoons cornstarch to boiling, stirring frequently with wire whisk. Continue cooking for 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour sauce over and around fish; sprinkle with carrot mixture; garnish with lemon.

STEAMED CLAMS

6 dozen steamer clams
1 cup water
1 cup melted butter or margarine
chopped parsley for garnish

With metal brush, under running cold water, scrub clams free of sand. In steamer or saucepot over high heat, heat water to boiling. On rack in steamer, place clams. Cover steamer with tight-fitting lid; reduce heat to low and steam clams just until they open, approximately 5 to 10 minutes. Serve clams in soup bowls with 6 small individual dishes of melted butter. Pour broth from clams into mugs; sprinkle with parsley. To eat: with fingers, pull clams from shells by neck; dip first in broth to remove any sand, then into butter. All except the tough skin of the neck may be eaten. When the sand settles to the bottom, the broth may be drunk, if desired.

"It All Depends On How You Look At It"

How often have we heard this phrase? But have you ever really thought about it?

This toddler is viewing her topsy-turvy world with a smile on her face. As she grows older, she may perceive unstable situations as more threatening; yet she need not feel helpless if she is taught to face life with humor and with faith.

Job 8:21 reassures us that God ". . . will yet fill your mouth with laughter." Furthermore, James 1:6 instructs us to ". . . ask in faith without any doubting."

As we guide our children into adulthood, may we encourage them to live their lives with strength and a positive perspective as we worship with them in God's house each week.

With His word as our compass, the twists and turns in the paths of our lives need not turn our world upside down, as we walk hand in hand with God every day.

FOR GOOD ADVICE ALWAYS CONSULT AN EXPERT

Well meaning friends who give you prescription medicines that have helped them relieve an ailment with similar symptoms can cause you serious harm. Many drugs are too potent to be taken without a physician's approval. Many different ailments have the same distress symptoms. To diagnose the cause of trouble takes years of study and observation of sick people. Only a physician has this knowledge.

Prescriptions contain what a physician considers to be the specific medicine which will best help his patient. What helped your friend may endanger you. Never take any other person's prescription without getting the approval of your own physician.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SHOULD WE WAKE GOD?

March 10, 1991

Background Scripture: Luke 11:5-13.
Devotional Reading: Matthew 7:7-12.

I have been praying for the same person for the past 30 years. It would appear that my prayers so far have been unsuccessful. So, when I find the Psalmist crying, "How long, O Lord? Wilt thou forget me forever? How long wilt thou hide thy face from me?" (13:1), I feel he is singing my song: "How long must I bear pain in my soul, and have sorrow in my heart all the day?"

That's why Jesus' Parable of the Importunate Friend in Luke 11:5-13 gives me some difficulties. This is the story of a man who receives a late evening visitor and finds he doesn't have enough bread to properly be a good host. So, although it is already midnight, he goes to the house of a friend and knocks on his door. The friend doesn't want to get up, but finally he does because of the other man's persistent knocking. The meaning of Jesus' parable, thus, is that we need to be persistent—importunate—in our prayers. So, he promises, "Ask, and it will be given you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives, and he who seeks finds, and to him who knocks it will be opened" (11:9,10).

FISH OR SERPENT?

To make sure he gets this message across, Jesus goes on to ask, "What father among you, if his son asks for a fish, will instead of a fish give him a serpent?" Even imperfect earthly fathers try to respond to their children's needs. How much more can we expect from our Father who is perfect? The point, therefore, is that we must be persistent if we expect to be successful in our praying.

So, what's my problem? How much more persistent am I to be? I've spent literally half my life praying for someone desperately in need of help and instead of a fish I seem to have been given a serpent. It is not because my prayer is a selfish one. Although no prayer is completely unselfish—it would give me great joy to have my prayer fulfilled—still it is for another's welfare. I am not asking to sing like Pavarotti, look like Redford, or throw passes like Montana.

AN UNWILLING GOD

In the parable, the man wakened from his sleep doesn't really want to help his importunate friend, but does so anyway because he wants to stop the ruckus and get back to sleep as soon as possible. Is Jesus saying that God is like that man? That we must get his attention with our persistence? That he will respond to us only to get us off his back? Is my apparent failure in prayer the result of a lack of persistence, the wrong technique, or sales-resistance on God's part?

No, despite my disappointment and frustration, I do not think that is what the parable means. William Barclay says that the point of the parable "is not that we must batter at God's door until we finally compel him for very weariness to give us what we want, until we coerce an unwilling God to answer" (The Gospel of Luke, by William Barclay, Westminster Press, 1977). The point of this parable is that God is not uncaring, unwilling or unable. God does care and that is why we are to be persistent—not because God needs us to persist, but because do we. We need to hang in there until in God's own time the need can be fulfilled in a way that is in harmony with God's will.

'The Mummy' solidified Boris Karloff's reputation

By Steven Alan McGaw
The Mummy
(1932)

This film came out a year after James Whale's mesmerizing Frankenstein and solidified Boris Karloff's reputation as a master interpreter of macabre material. In fact, in the ads for The Mummy, he was billed simply, grandly, as "Karloff."

The magic, of course, was Karloff's astounding capacity to inject pathos into his seemingly monstrous characters. In Whale's film, the monster was, by far, the most human character around. In director Karl Freund's moody masterpiece, Karloff's displaced, tortured Egyptian is as unforgettable as he is seemingly unstoppable.

Comely Zita Johann is the 20th-century woman whom Karloff is convinced is the reincarnation of his ancient love.

Universal's make-up genius Jack Z. Pierce repeated his Frankenstein success with Karloff's creased, parchment-like skin, and the use of danse macabre as the film's theme was a stroke of brilliance. Fine supporting performances come from David Manners, Bramwell Fletcher and venerable old Edward Van Sloan.

German director Freund made an expressionistic masterpiece with this chilling, romantic tale.

Personally, the inveterate performer has eight People's Choice Awards to his credit — five for Favorite Motion Picture Actor and three for Favorite All-Around Male Entertainer. This year he competes for top honors in the Favorite Male Performer in a New Series category.

The People's Choice Awards are unique in that they are chosen by the public at large in a Gallup telephone poll surveying more than 5,000 Americans. This is about three times the number of people polled in an ordinary survey, thereby minimizing the margin of error. Interviewees can name any movie, actor or series they so chose.

Here are the top vote getters:

It's not over for co-star of 'Over My Dead Body'

By Amy Schmidt

Jessica Lundy was in the middle of shooting the Christmas episode of Over My Dead Body Nov. 15, when she was given a break to chat. Lundy played Edward Woodward's (The Equalizer) crime-solving sidekick on the who-dunnit.

"There are decorations up everywhere. It's funny. Yesterday, I walked out onto the set and said, 'This is a lie' I haven't even picked out a turkey yet," said the spunky brunette. "Things move fast around here. We'll be doing the Easter show next week, I'm sure." That never happened, of course, because CBS canceled the show. Nonetheless, the animated young actress remains a talent to be reckoned with.

New York is home base for Lundy. The daughter of a doctor and a housewife, she has wanted to be an actress since age 3. Lundy recalls a ballet recital as a child: "My mother told me I was a 'dancing poodle' when I came off stage. Afterwards, we were watching the other girls do a number when I told her, 'It's only fun when you're on stage.' She knew then that there was something going on," said Lundy. "I still have that tutu."

Over My Dead Body was Lundy's first TV series. She has appeared in three theatrical films, Bright Lights, Big City, followed by Caddyshack II, and recently, Madhouse, premiering this month on cable.

Richard Chamberlain stars in Aftermath: A Test of Love, premiering Sunday on CBS.

A retarded woman wins the lottery in Lucky Day, Monday on ABC. Olympia Dukakis co-stars.

William Shatner continues to host the reality-based series Rescue 911, Tuesdays on CBS.

Fans rejoice as former General Hospital star Tony Geary (Luke) returns to the ABC soap.

John Byner becomes host of comedy showcase

By Steven Alan McGaw

John Byner is serving as host for a new comedy series which recently premiered on cable's Arts & Entertainment Network. Titled Comedy on the Road, the program is a showcase for new comic talent in various venues around the nation.

Congratulations to Gloria Estefan for her triumphant performance on the American Music Awards — a tedious program's redeeming highlight.

Bravo to cable channel Playboy at Night for picking up the Talk About It series of public service announcements related to AIDS prevention. The spots were previously rejected by Fox and MTV.

From the folks who brought the nation the deservedly short-lived Preview: The Best of the New comes a new series for syndication that sounds just as dubious. Titled Amazing Love Stories, the show will feature three separate stories each week. One segment will detail a celebrity love story, one will spotlight a famous romance in history ("George and Martha: Their Shocking Story") and a final spot zeroes in on "average" people. (Any bets on which part will be the shortest?)

This could be interesting. Director Oliver Stone's next project is a film about the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Filming will center in Dallas and New Orleans, appropriately enough.

'Josephine Baker Story' a lavish HBO production

Life of controversial performer dramatized

By Christy Bergslien

"Before Madonna, before Marilyn, there was Josephine." That's the billing HBO has given their original telefilm The Josephine Baker Story, debuting Saturday, March 16.

For the uninformed, Josephine Baker was a talented, flamboyant and controversial jazz singer who blossomed during the 1920s. A legend in Paris, her risque act, interracial marriages, and aggressive pursuit of black rights left her banished from the United States, her home country.

HBO spared no expense in putting together the film. The Josephine Baker Story is a lavish production and a feast for the eyes. (The male half of the species will especially find it so when gorgeous lead actress Lynn Whitfield (Equal Justice) gyrates topless in a recreation of Baker's scandalous "banana dance.") One hundred different locations, with Budapest, Hungary, doubling as pre-WWII Paris, 6,000 extras, and 80 speaking parts are employed in the 60-year span covering the performer's life. Whitfield's period costumes and hair styles are nothing less than fabulous.

Co-starring with Whitfield are Ruben Blades (Dead Man Out) as the manager and lover Baker deserted; David Dukes (War and Remembrance) as the famous French conductor Jo Bouillon, who was to marry Baker and later divorce her; Craig T. Nelson as New York journalist Walter Winchell, who condemned Baker as a communist; and Lou Gossett Jr. as American Army officer Sidney Williams.

"I got to do it my way, Mama," says Baker. And she did.

A legendary entertainer's life story finally reaches the screen when Lynn Whitfield stars in the title role of The Josephine Baker Story, debuting Saturday on HBO.

Actor didn't hazard to sing on 'Andy Griffith Show'

By Polly Vonetes

Q: Could you please tell me if the man who played Jim Lindsey, a singer, on The Andy Griffith Show is the same man who played Enos P. Coltrain on the Dukes of Hazzard show? I say it is the same man; my husband says not. Who's right? There's money bet on this one! —Suzanne Edelen, Bardstown, Ky.

George Lindsey

A: Suzanne, I hope you're a good sport, because you are going to have to pay up. First off, I think you have the names confused. There wasn't anyone named Jim Lindsey on The Andy Griffith Show. There was a George Lindsey, who played Goober Pyle, and there was Jim Nabors, a singer, who played Gomer Pyle. But he didn't sing on the show. On The Dukes of Hazzard, Roscoe Coltrain, Hogg's corrupt sheriff, was played by James Best. Deputy Enos Strate was played by Sonny Shroyer. Sorry, maybe you'll win next time.

Q: Could you please tell me what actress Sheila James, who played Zelda in the 1960s show Dobie Gillis, is doing these days and how old she would be? I have also heard a Dobie Gillis movie was made. Is this true? —Robert Ruiz, Carlsbad, N.M.

A: I'm sorry to be the one to tell you that, yes, a movie titled Bring Me the Head of Dobie Gillis aired on Feb. 21, 1988. Among the original stars reunited for this film was Sheila James, who recreated her role of Zelda. Sheila still lives in Los Angeles, but has switched careers. She is currently teaching law at Loyola University in Los Angeles. Even while she was starring in the series in 1959, she was a full-time student at nearby UCLA, graduating in 1962 with a bachelor of arts degree in English. She worked as an associate dean of students at UCLA before being admitted to the Harvard Law School, where she graduated with a J.D. degree in 1978. In 1981 she became an adjunct professor at the USC Law School and in 1985 became a full-time law professor at Loyola Law School. Sheila celebrated her 51st birthday on Feb. 9.

Q: I'm hoping you can answer my questions. I'm a big fan of Glenn Ford and really enjoy his old movies, especially the westerns. Can you tell me if he's made any movies recently, and if so, when will they be released? Can you also send me his address? —Carolyn Dusatko, Miles City, Mont.

A: Glenn Ford's last movies were Happy Birthday to Me ('81) and Virus ('82). I do not see him listed as having anything in production at the present time. You may write him at 911 Oxford Way, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

Please send your questions about television past and present to: Polly Vonetes, TV Pipeline, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, Texas 76102-0748. Because of the volume of mail, only questions of general interest can be answered.

Ironclads, premiering on TNT Monday, March 11, dramatizes the legendary Civil War battle between the armored gun ships Monitor and Merrimack. Virginia Madsen, Alex Hyde-White and Reed Edward Diamond star in the two-hour film, which began production two years ago. Producer Norman Rosemont claims the project, logistically, was the most difficult thing he has ever done.

State Returns Arriving 9% Faster; Tax Break For Parents Noted

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said more than 650,000 taxpayers have filed their 1990 Maryland income tax returns so far. "This means taxpayers are filing about 9% faster than at this time last year," he said. "We've also mailed out 238,000 state income tax refund checks, averaging $290, which is about 9% higher than the average refund at this time last year," he said.

The comptroller reminded parents who use their federal return to report a child's unearned income to look for a special subtraction benefit on the Maryland return.

"Parents who use their federal return to report up to $5,000 in unearned income from dividends and interest for a child may subtract that income on their Maryland return," he said. "This eliminates the necessity for the parents to file a separate return for the child to avoid Maryland tax on the income."

The comptroller outlined the procedure in these easy steps:

*The parent should complete federal Form 8814, available from the I.R.S.

*The parent should then report the child's unearned income on line 38d of federal long Form 1040.

*The parent then subtracts the amount of the child's unearned income (up to $5,000) on line 31 of Maryland long Form 502.

*See Instruction 13t in the instructions section of the Maryland tax packet for more details.

*Remember to enter code letter "t" on line 31 of Form 502.

The comptroller said taxpayers can get free state income tax assistance at all 15 Maryland income tax offices located throughout the state. The offices are open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., including all state holidays and certain weekends between now and the filing deadline, Monday, April 15, 1991. The extra hours of assistance are listed inside the state income tax packet.

"State tax experts will complete your Maryland return free of charge as long as you bring a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements," he said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all 15 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for state income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Projections Of General Revenue Further Reduced

The Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates, consisting of State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein (chairman), State Treasurer Lucille Maurer, and State Budget Secretary Charles L. Benton, met in Annapolis Monday and informed Governor William Donald Schaefer that it is reducing its projections of general fund revenue by $89.9 million for fiscal year 1991, to $5.814 billion. The Board also reduced projections by $94.6 million, to $6.199 billion for fiscal year 1992, which begins July 1, 1991.

The Board cited continued changes in the national and state economy as principal reasons for reducing the revenue projections, saying that employment, construction, and consumer spending have dropped in recent months.

For the remainder of fiscal year 1991, the Board of Revenue Estimates reduced the projection of individual income tax revenue by $47.7 million, to $2.972 billion. The Board cited declining employment in November and December, 1990, together with recently announced layoffs and lower than expected fourth quarter 1990 estimated tax payments as reasons for lowering expected individual income tax revenue. Statistics from the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development show a decline of 86,000 jobs from November 1989 to November 1990, and a decline of 108,000 jobs from December 1989 to December 1990.

The Board also reduced the estimate of corporation income tax revenue by $8.4 million, to $123.4 million. They reduced the sales and use tax revenue estimate by $19.1 million, to $1.561 billion, noting a slump in collections from the construction sector and a reluctance by consumers to spend due to uncertainty over the Persian Gulf war and high debt levels. The Board also pointed to bankruptcies of some large retailers, which affect tax collections. Sales and use tax revenues have been below the same month of the prior year in each of the last four months, the first such declining trend in the history of the sales tax. The board also reduced the projection of revenue from property transfer taxes by $14.7 million, to $9.7 million, noting the effects of slowed construction and home-buying activity.

The latest projections by the Board of Revenue Estimates further reduce estimates made in December, 1990, when the Board reduced its original fiscal year 1991 estimates by $353.2 million.

For fiscal year 1992, the Board reduced its earlier estimate of general fund revenue by $94.6 million, including a $87.3 million reduction in expected individual income tax revenue, to $3.204 billion. The Board also reduced its expectation of corporation income tax revenue by $284,000, to $143.2 million. The Board reduced its projection of sales and use tax revenue by $26.6 million, to $1.656 billion, and its earlier estimate of property transfer tax revenue by $7.1 million, to $21.8 million. The Board of Revenue Estimates made technical adjustments to its December, 1990 projections of fiscal year 1992 revenue, increasing State Lottery revenue by $19.5 million, revenue from the tax on insurance companies by $4.8 million and clerks of court revenue by $2.4 million.

HOW TO STEP UP IN A DOWN MARKET.

We're not saying this is the best of times to sell. But it is a great time to move up. All it takes to see if it's right for you is simple arithmetic.

NOW'S THE TIME TO MAKE YOUR MOVE.
Could we take a moment longer to inform you about some of the ways that Coldwell Banker can be of help in these difficult times? With our Best Seller™ Marketing Services Guarantee, we put into writing the exact steps we promise to take in the marketing of your property.

GOOD OPPORTUNITIES FOR WISE HOME SELLERS.
Here's how a buyer's market can work to your advantage if you want to move up. Consider that a price reduction on your home can be easily offset if you can buy a larger home at a similar reduction.

That means, if you settle on a price that's 15% less on a more expensive home, overall a move up can add up to considerable savings.

Other factors make right now a good time to buy. Interest rates are attractive: in the 10% range. And could be getting better as some lenders forgo commercial real estate loans in favor of home buyers. Remember though, that selling in these times takes a little patience, flexibility and getting the right help.

And, in those areas where offered, our exclusive Blue Ribbon Award Program has been proving itself time and time again for helping to sell houses faster than the average in tough markets.

We believe that when you consider everything -- opportunities, interest rates, financing -- this really isn't a bad time to sell. And it's a great time to take a step up. Accordingly, if you decide now is the time to make your move, Coldwell Banker will be glad to assist you in any way we can. Just give us a call.

Marylanders Invited To Join "Tree-Mendous Earth Month"

To build on the momentum created by the national celebration of Earth Day 1990, Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced his plans to designate April 1991 as "Tree-Mendous Earth Month" and invited Maryland citizens to help plant trees across the state.

"Last year thousands of Marylanders joined hands and cleaned up streams, removed trash from highways, and planted marsh grasses on Earth Day," Governor Schaefer said. "This April, I encourage all citizens to help me plant one million trees to improve our air and the Chesapeake Bay."

"There is a role for every person in Maryland during April," the Governor said. Individuals, civic and community associations, businesses, schools, and farmers can all participate and plant trees during April's "Tree-Mendous Earth Month." Individuals can plant trees on their own property or can join community tree plantings on public lands. Students can also help plant trees on their school property. Businesses can join their fellow co-workers to help beautify business property, or can help plant trees on highway interchanges to enhance regional roads. Farmers can receive financial assistance for planting trees on private land through a special state cost share program.

Coordinators are available in every county to assist civic organizations and community groups to organize tree plantings in their area. These groups can call (301) 974-5300 for the name and phone number of the coordinator in their county. The coordinator for Garrett County is John Nelson, who can be reached at 334-1920 during regular business hours.

According to the Governor's office, trees help to control and prevent soil erosion. They also help reduce air pollution by removing pollutants from the air. Trees can increase the value of a homeowner's property, and reduce costs for heating and air conditioning by supplying a wind barrier in winter and shade in summer. Trees also provide habitat and supply for birds and wild creatures.

Tree-Mendous Earth Month is being organized by the Governor's Office, the Maryland Office of Planning, and the Department of Natural Resources. For additional information, persons may call the Governor's Office at (301) 974-5300.

Tree Planting Workshops Slated

Marylanders can learn how to plant trees by attending one of six regional tree planting supervisor workshops sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources. The workshops will be held 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and are free to all citizens.

The workshop nearest Garrett County will be held March 23 at Allegany Community College. Citizens need attend only one workshop and can register by calling 974-3776.

Once trained, citizens will be qualified to act as tree planting supervisors and are encouraged to plant trees during the month of April for Maryland's Tree-Mendous Earth Month Celebration. Governor William Donald Schaefer has challenged all counties to help him plant one million more trees this year. These trees should be above and beyond those trees which are routinely planted as part of a county's maintenance and landscaping.

"I encourage all Marylanders who love trees to attend a tree planting workshop and join Maryland's Tree-Mendous Earth Month celebration," the Governor said.

For a copy of a brochure about how groups, schools, businesses, farmers, individuals, and a government agency can organize a tree planting for Earth Day, persons may call (301) 974-5300.

Resumption Of RC Bloodmobile Schedule Noted

The 40-county Johnstown Region of American Red Cross Blood Services has announced the resumption of its regular collection schedule, following the recent suspension by the Department of Defense of supplemental civilian blood shipments to the Persian Gulf. Garrett County is in the Johnstown Region.

According to Marianne Spampinato, public relations director and Operation Desert Storm coordinator, regional blood supplies are adequate to meet the needs of region residents and patients in the 64 hospitals in the Johnstown Region. "We are not on appeal at this time, and are able to meet local blood needs plus could provide support to the military if there is a need to resume civilian shipments.

"However, right here in our community there is a continuous need for blood donors to meet the needs of patients with cancer, leukemia, and other acute and chronic illness, as well as the emergency needs of accident victims. We need to collect 600 units of blood each weekday to meet these ongoing needs," she explained.

Since January 17, the day after the Persian Gulf War started, the Johnstown Region has operated under a contingency operations plan which enabled it to process additional blood donors, up to 800 a weekday, with its existing resources, should additional blood supplies be needed by the military.

As part of its contingency plan, the Johnstown Region has curtailed blood drives of fewer than 50 units and eliminated collections at four of its permanent "fixed" donor locations (Altoona, Cumberland, Greensburg and State College) to concentrate collections staff at larger blood drives which could better accommodate an influx of donors.

Spampinato announced that the Johnstown Region will resume its normal operating schedule, including smaller blood drives and fixed donor locations, on Monday, March 11. "We will continue to actively monitor all donor locations to make sure that we limit collections to an average 600 units of blood each weekday."

She explained that blood is a perishable resource, with a shelf life of only 42 days, and that individuals can give blood only once every 56 days. "While we must collect enough blood to meet patient need, we don't want to collect more supply than what is needed by patients.

"A readily available blood supply is needed throughout the year; we ask those individuals who have wanted to donate blood to support the military to consider donating this summer, and coming back over the holidays. It's very difficult to maintain adequate blood supplies at these times."

Spampinato noted that while the American Red Cross's support of military blood needs has ceased, the Red Cross continues to provide emergency communications and other vital services to members of the armed forces and their families.

"Since August, more than 90,000 emergency communications have been transmitted between service personnel in the Persian Gulf and their families," she explained. "The American Red Cross currently has 114 Service to Armed Forces staff in the Persian Gulf area."

She added that the International Red Cross movement continues to provide shelter, food and emergency medical care to refugees, prisoners of war and other war victims. "Those who wish to show their continued support of our armed forces are encouraged to donate to the 'American Red Cross Gulf Crisis Fund,' which seeks to raise $30 million to help the Red Cross continue to alleviate the human suffering resulting from the Persian Gulf War."

Since December 17, the 54-blood center Red Cross Blood Services has shipped 8,500 units of blood to supplement the U.S. Military blood needs. The Johnstown Region has provided 300 units of blood toward these shipments.

DNR Explains Burning Permits, Seeks Cooperation

In these times of budgetary stress and manpower shortages, the Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife Service asks the public's help in efficiently administering open air burning permits. Persons are asked to contact Ernie Metz or Wade Dorsey at 334-3296 at least two days before they conduct burning. A burning permit is not required when the ground is covered with snow or between 4 p.m. and midnight E.S.T.

Other Open Air Burning Regulations are: a natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned; adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping; and at least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.

These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodland, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials that could ignite and carry fire to woodland are located. These regulations do not apply inside the limits of incorporated towns (where persons should check with local authorities before burning.)

Omissions Noted

Southern High School officials inadvertently omitted the names of two students who were among those named to the honor roll. Nikki Brown, a senior, was named to the distinguished honor roll for earning 90 percent or better in all subjects (straight A's), while Chester Stacy, a sophomore, was named to the regular honor roll for achieving at least 80 percent in all subjects.

WXIE Radio To Move Frequency, Increase Power

The Federal Communications Commission has given WXIE-FM Radio (92-X), Oakland, the go ahead to move its frequency from 92.1 to 92.3 mhz and to triple its current power. The Oakland station thus becomes one of the first FM stations in the nation to take advantage of a new rule which allows community-sized FM's (Class A) to operate on regional channels (Class B).

"Obviously, we're very happy," said Paul Mullan, station manager at 92-X. "In addition to tripling our power, the move from 92.1 to 92.3 megahertz eliminates an interference problem we've had from a station located in Johnstown, Pa."

The change is scheduled to take place this Friday, although it could be delayed because of equipment adjustments that have to be made along with the frequency change and power increase.

92-X first went on the air as WMSG-FM in 1966 as it simulcast programming with its AM counterpart. Programming was separated in 1978 as WMSG-FM became WXIE-FM. The 92-X moniker was adopted in late 1990.

Program Director Steve Williams said the station will be "very visable" in the new areas it covers.

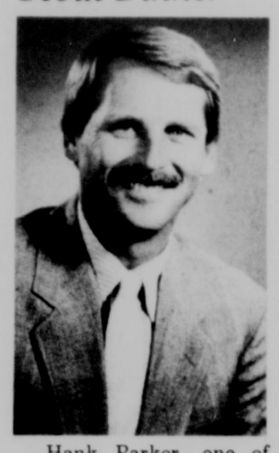
Hank Parker To Be Speaker For Scout Dinner



Hank Parker, one of America's premier freshwater fishermen and host of a popular fishing series on television, will be the featured speaker at the April 8 "Friends of Scouting Dinner," according to Carl O. Belt, Jr., chairman of the Potomac Council-B.S.A.'s 1991 Sustaining Membership Enrollment (SME) campaign.

The Friends of Scouting dinner is a privately funded function attended by Boy Scout supporters who have contributed over $150 to the current SME Campaign. Special invitations to the dinner are sent from the Potomac Council headquarters on McMullen Highway in Cresaptown. This year the dinner will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

A resident of Denver, N.C., Parker has been a professional fisherman since 1976, when he started to compete on the National Bass Association (NBA) circuit. In 1978, he was named the NBA "Angler of the Year."

The same year, he started competing in the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (BASS). For the past 13 years, he has entered nearly 100 tournaments and finished "in the money" three-fourths of the time.

In 1983, he again earned the title of Angler of the Year and his wins in BASS made him the first angler to win the BASS Grand Slam.

Parker has won the Missouri Invitational, the BASS Masters Classic twice and he is fourth on the all-time money-winners list. He has qualified for the BASS Masters Classic each year since joining the pro tour.

He is the host of "Hank Parker's Outdoor Magazine," a television series which he started in 1985.

Parker and his wife, Angie, are the parents of five children, ages 6 to 16.

March Of Dimes Walk America Slated April 27

The annual Walk/America is the largest fund-raiser for the March of Dimes and it is the nation's largest walking event. It takes place in over 1,400 communities in all of the 50 states, usually on the last weekend in April. Walk/America will be held in Cumberland on Saturday, April 27, rain or shine, beginning at 8 a.m. on the downtown Cumberland Mall and continuing down the C&O Canal towpath to Mexico Farms.

Of the one million people who walked or participated in other ways last year, most did so as part of TeamWalk, the corporate arm of Walk America, in which co-workers sign up as a team and walk together under their company banner. Last year, nearly 26,000 teams accounted for 80 percent of the $43 million raised by Walk America.

According to a March of Dimes spokesman, that money enables the organization to carry out its Campaign for Healthier Babies, which includes programs for increased access to prenatal care and other health services, research, advocacy, and public and professional education.

"The 1991 Walk/America is an opportunity for all of us to support the March of Dimes and do our part to ensure a brighter future for generations of American children," the spokesman said. "All employees, their families and friends are invited to step out in their company's TeamWalk to show that they care about America's babies and their community. It's also a great opportunity to get together with fellow employees for friendship and camaraderie, and to enjoy a feeling of accomplishment."

Persons are encouraged to register now to be part of a team, and get a sponsor sheet/envelope. Participants can obtain pledges from family, neighbors, and others, based on the number of kilometers walked or just a flat donation.

For more information or to register for the 1991 Walk America in Cumberland, persons may contact the Allegany/Garrett County March of Dimes office at 301/722-5818.

Alfalfa Management Workshop Set For March 12 At Bittinger Fire Hall

Alfalfa growers will be able to get the latest information on alfalfa production and management practices at a one-day workshop being sponsored by the Maryland/Delaware Forage Council and Garrett County Extension Service on Tuesday, March 12, at the Bittinger Fire Hall, Bittinger.

"During the past few years we have improved the production of alfalfa in Garrett County," said County Extension Agent Jim Simms. "But on an average most farmers are not near the potential yields that could be achieved. Also, I know some of you have had some real bad experiences in trying to grow alfalfa. No doubt that alfalfa is a high management crop; however, there is no other forage that can provide such an abundance of good nutrients."

Coffee and donuts, sponsored by Potomac Valley Farm Credit, Oakland, will be served at 9 a.m., with the program starting promptly at 10 a.m.

Hugh MacWilliam, vice president of Beachley-Hardy Seed Company in Camp Hill, Pa., will lead off the program at Bittinger with the topic of uses, markets and production cost. Dr. Sam Stratten, forage breeder at FFR Cooperative in West Lafayette, Indiana, will discuss variety selection and seeding considerations.

The forenoon program will conclude with panel presentations and discussion of Best Management Practices (BMP) for established stands, covering areas such as fertilization, spring and fall cutting management, advantages and disadvantages of alternative harvest and storage methods and grazing of alfalfa. Questions will be encouraged throughout the day, but the panel segment of the program has been designed as a time for producers to seek answers to specific questions that they may have about alfalfa management.

The afternoon program will be devoted to topics dealing with harvesting aids and pest management. Ms. Janet Fallon, manager, Forage Applied Technology, Agway, Inc., Tully, New York, will discuss drying agents, hay preservatives and silage inoculants. Fallon has conducted extensive field trials with these materials throughout New York and Pennsylvania. Alfalfa insects, the damage they cause and their control will be covered at the Bittinger workshop by Dr. William O. Lamp, research entomologist, University of Maryland.

Alfalfa weeds and their control will be addressed by Ms. Betty Marose, pest management coordinator, University of Maryland. Dr. Arvydas Grybauskas, Extension plant pathologist, University of Maryland, will discuss diseases affecting alfalfa and how these diseases relate to variety selection.

An Alfalfa Management Guide is being assembled for the workshops. This guide is a three-ring looseleaf binder containing much of the alfalfa production, management and utilization information available from industry and the Extension Services of Maryland and Delaware. Purchase is optional, and the price is $10.

Reservations can still be made by calling Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-1990. A full-course family style chicken dinner with all the trimmings will be served for $5 per person (payable at the door). Those needing transportation to and from Bittinger should also call the Garrett County Extension Office.

Wheat And Feed Grain Reduction Program Sign-Up Begins March 4

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will open sign-up for the 1991 wheat and feed grain acreage reduction programs on March 4. The sign-up period closes April 26.

To qualify for price support loans and deficiency payments, Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee, said producers must reduce their acreage bases by at least 15 percent for wheat, 7.5 percent for corn, barley and sorghum and zero percent for oats.

At sign-up, farmers may request advance deficiency payments on their wheat and feed grain. According to Bachtel, these payments will equal 40 percent of the estimated deficiency payment rate for the crops. "Advance deficiency payments will be issued in cash," Bachtel said. Estimate deficiency payment rates are $1.47 per bushel for wheat, $.58 for corn, $.56 for sorghum, $.47 for barley, and $.15 for oats.

Bachtel said there is no cross compliance. This means that farmers may elect to make acreage reduction cuts in one program crop to quality for supports in that crop and pass up supports in another crop by planting the full crop base, or exceeding the base, in that program crop on the same farm.

The 1991 programs offer planting flexibility on up to 25 percent of the crop acreage base. "Generally, this 'flex' acreage may be planted to any crop except fruits and vegetables." Bachtel said a list of prohibited crops will be available.

The programs do not contain paid land diversion provisions. However, the 0/92 planting options are available. Under these provisions, wheat and feed grain farmers may devote all or a portion of their maximum payment acres to conservation uses, and get guaranteed deficiency payments on 92 percent of these acres, minus the actual acres planted to wheat or feed grains.

For additional 1991 farm program details, farmers may contact the Garrett County ASCS Office.

NFO Joins The Agency To Price Order 36 Milk

In Federal Order 36, Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania, the National Farmers' Organization (NFO) signed an agreement with the Producers' Equalization Agency (Agency) to bargain collectively for milk prices.

NFO is a collective bargaining organization for farmers and deals with all agricultural commodities. It is headquartered in Ames, Iowa. The Agency is a dairy farmers' organization composed of all dairy farmers, including independent dairy farmers and those who market milk through cooperatives.

The objective of the Agency is to raise the level of milk prices in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. The goal is to price milk at a level that will return to dairy farmers at least $1 over the federal order minimum price.

Total membership in the Agency is just over 3,000 dairy farmers. The goal is 5,000. For information, those interested may call 1-800-875-2250.

The January DHIA information for Maryland dairy herds is listed by herd name, total number of cows in the herd, breed, and the average production per cow on a 3.5 percent Fat Corrected Milk (FCM) basis for all milking cows in the herd. The herd must consist of at least 10 cows averaging 60 pounds or more of 3.5 percent FCM per cow per day. All of the herds are on official DHI or DHIR test.

County Farm Bureau Directors Meet; Take Legislative Action

Directors of the Garrett County Farm Bureau met Friday, March 1, at Hoyes United Methodist Church. The first order of business was the introduction of new Maryland Farm Bureau Fieldman Joe Diamond, who was in attendance.

Taking the floor, Diamond stated that county and state membership goals are within reach, with 12,402 state members signed up out of a state goal of 13,877, and 195 paid members of the county's 229-member goal. Members, or those interested in becoming members, who have not paid their 1991 dues may send $35 to Secretary/Treasurer Clark Kolb, Accident, Md.

Diamond announced that the early price of Safemark baler twine has been extended for Garrett County from March 8 to March 29, because of the late growing season here.

Maryland Farm Bureau's Food Safety training program will hold its second session for county representatives on March 15. Representing the county are Debbie Barnard and Karen Engel. The program is the result of a national study by the American Farm Bureau Federation on food safety. The two county representatives will return after training, prepared to speak on the subject to all Garrett County schools, civic clubs and organizations. The Garrett Farm Bureau directors voted to set aside $100 from the treasury to be paid the two representatives for travel costs and other expenses.

March 19 will be the annual Washington Drive-In held by Maryland Farm Bureau. Garrett County members interested in attending should contact President William DeWitt by March 12 so reservations and transportation plans can be made. The agenda will begin at 10 a.m. with greetings and a briefing by AFBF Washington staff. Invited speakers will be from the USDA and Congressional offices. After luncheon, visits will be made to Congressional offices on Capital Hill. The day will end at 3 p.m. The cost for the day will by $20.

Also on the spring agenda is the Cruise for Queens — a riverboat cruise for all County Farm Queens. Attending will be Garrett County Farm Queen Melissa Thomas, who was also a runner-up in the state Farm Queen Contest. The cruise will be held on April 20. Any member interested in participating may call William DeWitt for more information.

Diamond had attended the legislative hearings last week in Annapolis on the 2020 bill, and gave a report to the directors. He stated that over 300 were in attendance for the Senate hearing on Tuesday, and over 600 attended the House hearing on Thursday. In addition to some farmers from Garrett County, Diamond noted that a group of county bankers had also attended to testify against the bill. Diamond says that, at this time, it looks like the bill will go to summer study, but that it will be back next year.

He also discussed the funding being taken away from the Ag-Land Preservation Program, and Farm Bureau's efforts to save that program in the face of budget cuts.

Also discussed was legislation calling for additional gun control. Member Elwood Sanders and Director Butch Helbig presented information on SB-267/HB-310, Gun Control - Assault Weapons. They stated that the way the bill was worded, all long-barrel guns were in danger of being added to the list of 39 banned guns, and they felt that hunting weapons would be the next to be banned. It was decided that letters opposing the bill would be sent to members of the legislature before the vote was taken this week on the floor of the House, or in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

President William DeWitt discussed a recent meeting held for Grade B milk producers in the county. He said that there are 15 such producers in Garrett County, and they were advised of inspection regulations that will affect them in the near future when new inspection laws are enforced.

The Integrated Pest Management (IPM) program that is being introduced in the county this summer was discussed. In addition, farmers are being advised to keep a record of the sprays they use, the amount and where they are used.

The meeting ended by appointing committee chairmen. These chairmen are: William DeWitt, Clark Kolb and Brooks Hamilton, Executive Committee; Karen Engel, Butch Helbig, Legislative Committee; Art Lake, Membership Committee; Lowell Merrill, Gary Fratz, Service to Member Committee; Bernice Kepple, Information Director; Directors to serve as Policy Development Committee; and Brooks Hamilton, National Affairs Committee.

Chicago Forum Panelists Say Livestock Forecast Favorable

Pork producers can expect another good year in 1991. Cow-calf operators may want to consider expension if possible. Stockers and backgrounders should figure their costs closely and feedlot operators may want to shed some of their bullishness. Those were opinions shared by economists at the American Farm Bureau's 22nd biannual beef cattle/hog cycle forum in Chicago last week.

The January 1 cattle and calf inventory figures were up only slightly from a year earlier and in fact numbers have not changed more than a million and a half since 1988, said Ed Uvacek, Jr., president of Western Research Inc.

The numbers indicate that the herd rebuilding phase has started and the new cattle cycle may be in its third year, though admittedly it's a fairly flat beginning of an expansion period. The two previous cycles had similar beginnings, though the last one, unlike any other, used only four years to build up the herd, then tapered off for the next seven, Uvacek pointed out.

"There are several reasons for the slow buildup, if that is what is going on," Uvacek said. "New tax laws are not quite as favorable for cattle producers as they were before, banks are a bit more conservative in lending capital now, and there is a lot of uncertainty in the economy and with the war in the Middle East," he said.

Another thing the inventory showed was a calf crop down about one percent from last year, which was down one percent from the previous year, so we are going into 1991 with a much smaller number of feeder calves available. That means another profitable year for cow-calf producers and another year of high costs for feedlot operators.

While 1990 was a good year for cow-calf producers, it was a troublesome year for cattle feeders. Many of them had very high breakeven costs because of the high feeder cattle prices and consequently moved into the red. As we move into 1991, some of the same conditions prevail, Uvacek said.

"Strong feeder cattle prices will stay with us, but USDA calculates average break even costs for February were a little over $85.50 per hundredweight (cwt.). That's pretty stout, particularly when you're talking about $79 cattle," Uvacek added.

The Texas economist sees 1991 fed cattle prices averaging in somewhere between $76 and $80 per cwt. with the strongest prices coming in the April to June quarter. Feeder cattle will remain high with the year's average falling between $87 and $91 per cwt., he said.

Uvacek and fellow panelist Glenn Grimes, professor emeritus from the University of Missouri Department of Agricultural Economics, agreed that the beef industry should be looking at more aggressive promotion and marketing techniques, new packaging and better consumer information programs.

Grimes said the pork industry is on a roll, especially in 1990, with demand for pork products growing over the past several years.

USDA data shows little or no growth in the breeding herd, with some of the same rationale affecting producer attitude on expansion as is evident in the beef industry — conservative lenders, vivid memories of the stress of the 1980s and uncertainty about recession and the Persian Gulf conflict.

Slaughter levels have remained fairly constant and Grimes said odds are high that slaughter in early 1991 will be less than last year. "The future of the livestock industry over the next few years depends on what happens to demand, not only in pork but beef and poultry as well," Grimes said.

"Demand grew enough in 1990 to push retail pork prices 4.9 to 6.5 percent higher. With recession in the general economy, growth in demand this year at 1990 levels is probably too ambitious, but even with relatively weak demand, cash hog prices are very likely to average above $50 per cwt. with only one or two percent increase in pork supplies per capita," Grimes said.

Grimes recommended hog producers keep a close eye on March data for signs of herd expansion. Efficient producers should expand fairly rapidly. High-cost producers should watch expenses.

Wayne Purcell, professor of economics for Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, said cattle producers got blind sided on demand way back in 1979 when consumers suddenly became concerned about fat, cholesterol and other health-related issues.

Purcell agreed that demand has turned around for pork and poultry demand is growing rapidly, "but the data does not provide any evidence that demand is growing for beef."

"There are signs of progress on demand for beef, but no sign of demand having turned around. The third and fourth quarter of 1990, for example, provides the same uncomfortable pattern of being able to hold price only by decreasing offerings of the product," Purcell said.

Purcell said more emphasis must be placed on new product development for beef. "Our products are not going into the market as conveniently as consumers want them," he added. "Producers may not have to do this themselves, but they surely must see that it is done. Nobody else is doing it," he said.

Purcell echoed the sentiments of Grimes and Uvacek that a large number of consumers do not know how to prepare many cuts of beef, or pork. "I think simple things like cooking tips, at the retail level, at the point of purchase, can really help the situation," he said.

Purcell also agreed that the backgrounder and the cattle feeder must be very concerned at facing more financial risks than they have ever faced before. "This is a time when you have to really sharpen your price risk management skills, look for forward pricing opportunities and use them," Purcell said.

The cow-calf producers who survived the last 15 years are going to get some of it back over the next three to five years as we continue to see strength in the calf market," Purcell concluded.

West Virginia Leads Nation In No-Till Corn

In 1990, West Virginia farmers went from fourth in the country to first in the percentage of full-season corn grown without tillage, according to the 1990 "National Survey of Conservation Tillage Practices."

West Virginia also led or was second in two other categories and was fourth overall in no-till farming, reported the Conservation Technology Information Center of West Lafayette, Ind., which compiled the survey.

In no-till, a form of "conservation tillage," crops are seeded and grown in soil that is not plowed. The soil is protected from erosion by crop residue or sod. The technology center describes no-till as "the ultimate in residue protection" and reported that this conservation practice "gained significant acreage in all crop types except double cropped grain sorghum."

In 1989, 32.9 percent of West Virginia's full-season corn was grown without tillage, the fourth highest percentage in the United States. In 1990, the percentage increased to 38.26, the nation's highest. Full-season corn, West Virginia's principal annual crop, was grown on 81,012 acres.

In second and third place, with no-till, full-season corn were Virginia at 35.67 percent and Maryland at 30.28. Nationally, more corn is in no-till than any other crop, 6.4 million acres.

West Virginia's 7,319 acres of full-season soybeans were 45.02 percent no-till, by far the highest proportion in the nation. Delaware was second with 20.92 percent.

The state's soybean growers are leading a national trend. The acreage of full-season soybeans in no-till has doubled nationally since 1987, the technology center reported.

The state's double-crop corn, grown on 1,660 acres, was 81.93 percent no-till, second in the country behind Maryland's 83.09 percent.

Forage crops — grasses and legumes grown as part of a crop rotation — were planted on 15,284 acres in West Virginia in 1990. Of that total, 3,621 acres were no-till, 23.69 percent, sixth highest among the states. Virginia was first with 52.28 percent.

For all annual crops, West Virginia had 30.02 percent of 149,159 acres in no-till, fourth best percentage in the country. Three nearby states, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, had slightly higher percentages.

No-till and two other cropping methods used infrequently in West Virginia, ridge-till and mulch-till, constitute "conservation tillage."

Nationwide, "conservation tillage" was used on 26 percent of all planted acres, up from 25.6 percent in 1989, according to the technology center, which is a division of the National Association of Conservation Districts. Kentucky led the nation with "conservation tillage," at 55.15 percent of all crops, while West Virginia was seventh among the states at 38.16 percent up from 34 percent in 1989.

County field offices of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service (SCS) make approximately 3,000 reports for the conservation tillage survey. SCS district conservationists work with extension offices and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in compiling the local data.

SCS state conservationist Rollin N. Swank pointed out that cropland acreage in the Mountain State is relatively small. Only seven states have smaller acreages — Rhode Island, Alaska, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Nevada and Vermont.

"But leading the nation in percentage of no-till corn is still an important accomplishment," he said. "It shows many West Virginia farmers are conscious of conservation and are as up-to-date with technology as farmers anywhere in the world."

Results Of W.Va. Hybrid Corn Trials Published

Results of the 1990 West Virginia Hybrid Corn Trials are now available from the West Virginia Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station.

Each year, station scientists test hybrid corn seeds for their performance under field conditions at research farms in Morgantown, Kearneysville, Reedsville, and Wardensville. Grain yields of all entries tested in 1990 averaged 114 bushels per acre. Average yields for all corn grain grown in West Virginia in 1990 were 105 bushels per acre.

The report was prepared by Charles B. Sperow, Jr., professor of agronomy, WVU Extension Service, and John A. Balasko, professor of agronomy, WVU College of Agriculture and Forestry.

"This is one of a long-term series of bulletins that can provide a basis for farmers to select a hybrid that will do well on their farms," said Sperow. "We hope that people will consider not only how well the hybrids harvested, but some of the other figures, such as moisture at harvest and percent of erect plants."

The research can also help seed corn companies and dealers decide which hybrids to stock in different parts of the state.

The report — Circular 153 — is available at no charge from Mailing Room, WVU Communications Building, Morgantown, WV 26506, or from West Virginia County Extension offices.

Ag Scholarship Available Through American Co-Op

American Co-operative Services, Ltd., a national purchasing agency devoted exclusively to family farmers and ranchers, has announced the endowment of a $5,000 agriculture scholarship.

"This money shall be made available to deserving students from farming and ranching families," said Anthony J. Ball, Sr., executive vice president.

"The plight of the American family farmer or rancher is sad, and for most of them, it is not getting a whole lot better any time soon. However, by assisting them to obtain the lowest possible prices for their necessary supplies and equipment, we are helping some of these families to keep their places and stay in the business. But, if we can also help some of them by providing scholarships, too, then we have a moral obligation to do so," continued Ball.

"Hopefully, this is only a small beginning from which a much greater fund will grow. We invite and encourage all other organizations involved in the family farm and ranch market to join us in providing the funds necessary to assist many more of these deserving students obtain higher educations.

"Whether they be colleges, universities, or trade schools is not important. What's important is that deserving students with the capability and the desire have the opportunity to pursue their education, to gain the vital specialized knowledge so necessary in our ever changing agriculture environment," Ball concluded.

The scholarship funds are held in trust by Guardian State Bank, Sandy, Utah 84070. For details concerning the scholarship, those interested may write Scholarship, c/o American Co-operative Services, Ltd., P.O. Box 57766, Murray, Utah 84157. The closing date is August 1, 1991, and it is open to qualified citizens of the U.S. regardless of race, color, or creed.

The convention will be held at the Turf Valley Hotel and Country Club at Ellicott City on Friday, March 8. The sale will be held the following day at the Howard County Fairgrounds starting at 11 a.m.

On Friday, following the morning business session and lunch, Dr. Raymond Hunter, president, Masstock Southern Holdings, Inc., will give a talk on the Dairy Farming Philosophies at Masstock. This is a well-known dairy facility located near Montezuma, Georgia. Following his presentation, Dr. Bryan Johnson, associate director, Agriculture Experiment Station, University of Maryland System, will give a status update on the robotic milker.

Following the afternoon program, producers will be invited to Howard County Fairgrounds to look at the sale cattle.

For women who are interested in arts and crafts, there will be a craft demonstration by Eva Martin, Smithsburg; Bonnie Remsberg, Middletown; and Gemini Flowers, West Friendship. This activity will be presented on Friday morning from 10:30 to 12:15.

A full-day's activity is planned for the Maryland Holstein Jr. members. A bus will take them to the Central Maryland Research and Education Center where they will receive an update on the robotic milker. Following the stop at the research farm, they will travel to Maple Lawn Farm, Fulton, to tour their dairy operation and have lunch. Following lunch, they will travel back to the hotel for an afternoon educational program. Susan Kelley, Agri-Graphics, and Lois (Remsburg) Skeen will discuss proper picture taking of dairy animals and promotion and advertising.

Following the day program will be a banquet. Social hour will begin at 6 p.m., followed by the banquet from 7 to 9:15 p.m. As part of the activity, many youth will be recognized for their accomplishments. One of the highlights of the evening session will be Horace Backus, Mexico, N.Y., who will provide a talk on Dunloggin Revisited. Most Holstein breeders are aware that Dunloggin Farm is part of the history in Howard County. The evening will be completed with a sale of a few specialty items from Dunloggin, including the Dunloggin sale catalog, milk bottle and cream can. For the strong and hearty, a disc jockey will provide music until midnight.

The Maryland Holstein Convention Sale will begin at 11 a.m. on Saturday. Many outstanding pedigreed animals will be offered for sale.

Cattle Numbers Up; Milk, Egg, Sheep Production Down

Cattle

There were 320,000 cattle and calves on Maryland farms on January 1. This is two percent more than 1990 but two percent fewer than 1989. Beef cows and replacement heifers declined while heavy weight feeder heifers and steers increased. Nationally, cattle numbers were slightly above 1989 and 1990, but were below the 1988 level.

Milk Production

Maryland dairy farms produced 1.37 billion pounds of milk (approximately 159 million gallons) in 1990, down one percent from 1989. The average number of cows declined 1,000 while the annual average production per cow was 22 pounds higher for the year. The number of farms with milking cows was 1,800, down 100 from the previous year.

Egg Production

Egg production in Maryland during 1990 totaled 954 million eggs, down one percent from 1989. The decline in production was due to a reduced average number of layers during the year. Nationally, 67.8 billion eggs were produced in 1990, almost one percent more than the 67.2 billion produced in 1989.

Sheep

The number of sheep on Maryland farms continued to decline. On January 1, there were 30,000 head, down 2,000 from the previous year. The 1990 lamb crop was 23,000 head, the same as 1989. Nationally, sheep numbers were down from 11.4 million in 1990 to 11.2 million on January 1, 1991.

Regulation Of Farm Credit System By Treasury Department Is Opposed

The American Farm Bureau Federation has recommended approval of legislation ensuring that the Farm Credit Administration retain regulatory power over the Farm Credit System.

Oklahoma Farm Bureau President James L. Lockett, testifying before the House Agriculture Credit Subcommittee said, "We support the retention of regulatory authority by the Farm Credit Administration and oppose the regulation of Farm Credit System by the U.S. Treasury Department."

Lockett, who is a rancher from Osage County and a member of the AFBF board of directors, said, "We strongly believe the Farm Credit Administration, a government agency working in behalf of the American people, is fully equipped to protect the public interest."

He said the Farm Credit System will "continue to strengthen and grow," noting the system will begin repayment of a portion of the $1.2 billion (the first payment isn't due until 2003) advanced to it by the U.S. Treasury since 1988.

"How different this is from the record being written by the savings and loans, some of which individually lost more of the taxpayers' money than the entire Farm Credit System borrowed," he said.

Because of concern triggered by the savings and loan debacle, the Treasury Department last summer began to look at closer regulation of government-sponsored entities (GSEs) including the Farm Credity System. GSEs are chartered and established by the federal government but are privately owned and operated. The Budget Enforcement Act of 1990 requires the Congressional Budget Office and the Treasury Department to provide Congress with alternative regulatory schemes and a financial assessment on each of the five GSEs.

The other GSEs are the Federal Home and Loan Bank System, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, the Federal National Mortgage Association and the Student Loan Marketing Association.

The Treasury Department is required to make legislative recommendations and the congressional committees of jurisdiction each must report legislation to the House and Senate by September 15. The Act further requires the president to include an analysis of these GSEs in his annual budget proposal.

The American Farm Bureau successfully opposed a plan by the administration to place the Farm Credit System under the Treasury Department during the budget summit negotiations last summer.

The Farm Credit System is a nationwide network of borrower-owned financial institutions. Over 70 years ago Congress created the system to provide American agriculture with a dependable source of credit at competitive rates. Today, one-third of the total credit used by America's farmers, ranchers and their cooperatives is provided by the system.

Milk Inventory Management Called For By NMPF Task Force

The National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) task force on U.S. Department of Agricultural's (USDA) milk inventory management study has agreed that several dairy program options could be effective for the industry as long as a program was implemented and they act quickly to balance milk supply with demand and strengthen dairy farm income.

Task force members reviewed economic projections indicating that milk prices would increase somewhat later this year, but would remain far below last year's levels. The projections, compiled with input from several NMPF member economists, indicated that milk prices would remain depressed for several years unless there is an effective program to balance milk production with expected market needs.

"With the virtual collapse in farm milk prices we have witnessed during the past six months, it is extremely important that an effective inventory management program be established," said Gordon Riehl, the task force chairman and general manager of Milk Marketing, Inc.

"This study will provide Congress the opportunity to make the improvements needed in the dairy program adopted in the 1990 farm bill," Riehl said. "It is also an opportunity for elected officials to address the damage caused by roller coaster milk prices," he said.

The task force agreed that, to be effective, an inventory management program should address the milk supply as well as undertake activities to enhance dairy product consumption and dairy export programs.

The group said several approaches could be effective in strengthening and maintaining milk prices, including programs under which producers agree to reduce production in exchange for an incentive payment; two-price programs where milk in excess of market needs is priced at lower level; and programs which encourage reductions in resources used to produce milk.

Such programs could be incorporated in an industry "self-help" approach which could include a producer board empowered to institute a standby supply management plan and would be responsible for buying and disposing of dairy products in excess of those needed for domestic consumption.

Fast-Track For GATT Backed By Farm Bureau

The American Farm Bureau Federation will support extension of the administration's fast-track negotiating authority aimed at speeding completion of a multilateral trade agreement, a Farm Bureau spokesman told a House agriculture subcommittee.

Harry Bell, president of the South Carolina Farm Bureau and vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Department Operations, Research, and Foreigh Agriculture, that American agriculture has much to gain from a successful trade agreement and a "great deal to lose" from giving up on the effort now.

Further progress on the talks, Bell noted, hinges on the European Community. The EC's agricultural programs and trade policies "are generally recognized as the most trade-distorting in the world," and failure to discipline them "would have to be viewed as dooming the trade round," he added.

"Our support for the final Uruguay Round package will ultimately depend on the benefits achieved for American exports in return for the concessions made by the U.S.," Bell said. "We will not accept any result in which U.S. farmers are asked to give up more than they receive from other countries."

He reiterated Farm Bureau's stance that no agreement is preferable to a "bad" agreement.

If the Uruguay Round fails, American agriculture will lose a major opportunity to open and develop export markets for future U.S. agricultural outputs — which are almost certain to outpace domestic demand, according to Bell.

"Failure to generate new export markets for our products will put increased pressure on farmers' incomes or the government's budget, or both," he said.

U.S. and EC farmers aren't the only ones affected by the trade talks, Bell stressed. "Developments in Eastern Europe also lend urgency to (these) talks. Without meaningful agricultural reform, these countries have no alternative but to play the same game as the EC — and the world does not need any more misguided domestic and trade policies in the farm sector."

Fast-track negotiating authority would give Congress 60 to 90 days to consider any agreements reached in the Uruguay Round. It would not allow for amendments and would require an up or down vote by both houses of Congress.

In his submitted testimony, Bell told the subcommittee that Farm Bureau also supports extension of fast track authority for negotiations toward a North American free trade agreement.

"However, we will only support an agreement resulting from those negotiations if they provide for fair and equal competition in agricultural trade," he said.

DHIA and Garrett County Holstein Associations Annual Meeting

Producers' Equalization Agency, Inc. is a company that originated in Medina, Ohio, with the purpose of organizing dairy farmers into their agency in support of bargaining for higher milk prices. Over the past year or so the agency has grown and now has moved into our area. Our neighboring county, Somerset, Pa., has several dairymen who have joined the agency.

Ken Stromski, Producer Relations Manager, Producers' Equalization Agency, Inc., will be the speaker at the annual meeting on March 19, 7 p.m. at the Bittinger Fire Hall. All dairy family members and businesses are invited. A steak dinner will be served. Cost $6.00; children 10 and under $2.50. Two New Postemergence Herbicides for Corn

Accent by Dupont and Beacon by CIBA-Geigy are the two new herbicides on the market that provide good postemergence of grasses in corn. I like the characteristics of both herbicides, which are very similar, because they are postemergence, low toxicity, and no residue hold-over. Both are applied at very low rates. For example, Accent is applied at 2/3 oz. per acre. My dislike of the herbicides is the cost of approximately $20.00 lper acre. If you need additional information, contact me.

Catalog Shows How To Improve Tractor Safety

Tractor rollover accidents kill 300 to 400 farmers every year, ranking as the single most common cause of fatal farm injuries. A new catalog produced in Marshfield, Wis., now offers farmers a tool to help reduce the risk of rollover accidents.

"Rollover Protection Directory: A Guide to Tractor Roll Bars and Other Rollover Protective Structure," published and distributed through the Wisconsin Rural Health Research Center and the National Farm Medicine Center, can point farmers to resources to help them equip their tractors to reduce the chance of rollover fatalities.

The catalog, which lists suppliers of rollover protective structures and roll-protected cabs, was compiled by the Wisconsin Rural Health Research Center with the financial assistance of the Office of Rural Health Policy, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

When used with a seat belt, a properly manufactured and installed rollover protective structure (ROPS) can protect a farmer from serious injury or death in case of an overturn. Without ROPS, fatalities occur in 40 percent of overturn accidents. Since 1969, there has not been a single fatality resulting from an overturn in which the operator remained in a rollover protective structure.

The American Society of Agricultural Engineers has recommended since 1985 that all new tractors be equipped with rollover protection. However, many farmers own tractors built before 1985 that are not equipped with rollover protection.

A complimentary copy of the directory has been sent to local extension offices and to agricultural cooperatives throughout the U.S. Those interested in obtaining information about the availability of ROPS for their tractors should contact their local county extension agent or cooperative manager.

The Wisconsin Rural Health Research Center and the National Farm Medicine Center are programs of the Marshfield Medical Research Foundation, a research arm of Marshfield Clinic, Marshfield, Wis.

Time Management Class Rescheduled At Garrett CC

"How we use time determines many essential things in our lives: how much work we accomplish, how much time we have to relax, how we feel about ourselves, and whether life runs us or we run it," said a Garrett Community College spokesman. A class entitled, "Making the Time to Manage," has been rescheduled to meet three consecutive Thursdays from March 14 through March 28.

The classes will be held from 6:30-9:30 p.m. at the McHenry Campus.

The spokesman noted that practical, individualized learning experiences would help each participant evaluate his use of time in the work place and in private life.

"The class can be helpful for supervisors, office personnel, and others in the workplace who want to learn to use their time more effectively," said the spokesman.

Persons wishing to register for the class or to obtain more information may call the Continuing Education Division of the college at 387-6666, ext. 169.

Rural Community Fire Protection Applications Sent

Applications have been sent to all fire protection agencies in Maryland on the Rural Community Fire Protection Program (R.C.F.P.). This program is funded through the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture - Forest Service under Title IV, Rural Development Act of 1972, in cooperation with the State of Maryland.

Thirty-eight thousand dollars have been allocated to Maryland for fiscal year 1991, and is available to qualifying fire protection agencies of Maryland. The main qualifying guidelines are: saving lives and protection of property in unprotected or inadequately protected rural areas; and the funding will reimburse up to 50 percent of the cost to local agencies after approval and certification that the items have been received and paid for by the agency.

Fire companies interested in applying for funding under the Rural Community Fire Program must have their completed applications in to the Maryland Forest, Park & Wildlife Service by April 30, 1991. All applications should be sent to: Don Van Hassent, Supervisor, Resource Protection, Md. Forest, Park & Wildlife Service, Tawes State Office Building, 580 Taylor Ave., Annapolis, MD 21401.

Fire companies that have not received their applications should contact the DNR - Resource Management - Forestry Division at Mt. Nebo; telephone 334-3296.

Allowances On Insurance For Troops Explained

Maryland Insurance Commissioner John A. Donaho has announced that a Notice and Order, published in the Maryland Register and involving more than 1,400 insurance companies licensed to operate in Maryland, provides for certain considerations to be extended to U.S. citizens serving on active duty in the military during the Persian Gulf conflict.

Donaho went on to say that, "a cancellation or notice of cancellation of automobile coverage or refusal to renew or issue such coverage by reason of the insured's active military service will be deemed unjustified and considered a violation of the Annotated Code of Maryland. (It is the general practice of insurance companies to refuse to insure individuals who have not had coverage for thirty days or more. The individual's recourse is Maryland Accident Insurance Fund.)

"All life insurance policies presently in force shall be continued in accordance with their terms. Such policies shall not be terminated by the insurer because of any military service of the insured . . ."

Life insurance policies for amounts not in excess of $10,000 that have no restrictions and which were in effect at least six months before the insured entered into the military services shall remain in effect from the time the insured entered into military service until at least two years after the insured leaves the service, whether premiums were paid during that period.

If those life insurance policies under $10,000 have loan bearing interest in excess of six percent, the insurer shall reduce the rate of interest to six percent.

The Maryland Insurance Division along with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) are making a concerted effort to ensure the willing ness of life and automobile insurers to write and maintain the availability of such coverage for military personnel.

Senator George W. Della, Jr. (D-Baltimore City) introduced a Senate Joint Resolution on February 26th urging the Insurance Commissioner to provide insurance coverage for military personnel. Donaho and his staff, already at work on a similar project, were able to issue a Notice and Order on February 27.

Brass Quintet To Perform At ACC

The Hunter Brass Quintet, a New York-based ensemble that includes a Cumberland native, will perform this Saturday, March 9, at Allegany Community College in Cumberland.

Admission to the 8 p.m. concert, part of ACC's Performing Arts Series, is free of charge.

The Hunter Brass Quintet is so named because all of its members, among them Cumberlander Timothy Schadt, have been affiliated with the music department at New York's Hunter College.

Schadt and his fellow musicians will perform a varied program, ranging from selections by J.S. Bach and Johann Pezel, to Charles Ives and G.W.E. Friedrich, to George Gershwin and Irving Berlin.

Schadt has had diverse musical experience since graduating from Allegany High School. He spent three years in the Brooklyn-based 26th U.S. Army Band, toured the United States and Western Europe with productions of "A Chorus Line," and actively free-lances and performs in regional, dinner, and summer stock theater in the New York area. He studied at Mannes College of Music in New York, in addition to the Juilliard School.

The concert will be held in ACC's theater, located in the College Center. For more information, persons may call 301-724-7700, extension 122.

Hospice Slates Training Class For Caregivers

Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., will sponsor a two-day training class for Hospice volunteer caregivers. The classes will be held Saturday, March 16, and Saturday, March 23. These classes are designed to teach new volunteers how to deal with the many challenges of being a Hospice volunteer caregiver.

Topics scheduled for March 16 include an overview of the work of Hospice by Father Martin Feild, education coordinator, Sharon King, volunteer coordinator, and Brenda Butscher, executive director. Jean James, M.A., will be teaching listening skills. Shirley Fitzwater, of the First United National Bank & Trust, will speak on legal and financial planning. Martha Jachowski, co-chairman of the Hospice bereavement program, will be conducting the class on grief counseling skills. An aids awareness class will be taught by Chris Shafer, R.N.

Cathy Chapman, R.N., will speak on home care skills on March 23. The class will go to the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, to learn about funeral home skills. Brenda Butscher will speak on the subject of "What is Hospice," and physical therapy skills will be taught by Theresa Hannibal, P.T.

Mrs. Butscher, executive director of Hospice, stated, "Hospice is very much in need of volunteers. We are reaching out to the community as our Hospice program continues to grow and expand. Volunteer caregivers are extremely essential to the Hospice patients. As we grow, the need for caregivers becomes greater. We ask you to join our classes and I firmly believe that you will find that doing good for others is good for you. The rewards from within are great."

Persons may register for the classes by calling Hospice at 334-5151 and 895-3111. There is no fee for the classes.

Sarbanes Seeks More Funds For Literacy Programs

Stressing the importance of libraries in the effort to fight illiteracy, Senator Paul Sarbanes has introduced legislation to increase the maximum grant awards to libraries participating in the Library Literacy Grants program. The legislation sponsored by Sarbanes would increase the maximum grant available under Title VI of the Library Services and Construction Act from $35,000 to $50,000. The Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland is currently seeking a grant under this program.

"Libraries, which have always served as engines of learning and ladders of opportunity in our society, are uniquely situated to develop and offer literacy programs which can reach all segments of society," Senator Sarbanes said upon introducing the legislation. "With an estimated 17 to 21 million adults in need of literacy training in our Nation today, we can ill afford to turn our backs on programs which address this pressing problem. I am dismayed that the Administration has proposed to terminate the Title VI library literacy grant program in its FY92 budget proposal." Sarbanes added, "Since they were first funded in 1986, library literacy grants have proven successful in encouraging libraries to develop programs to reduce illiteracy. An increased grant award would provide a greater incentive for increased participation in this critical program."

Senator Sarbanes noted that numerous public libraries throughout the State have participated in the library literacy grant program since it was first funded in 1986, including the Maryland State Library, Cecil County Public Library, Southern Maryland Regional Library Association, Eastern Shore Regional Library, Carroll County Public Library, Prince George's County Memorial Library and the Enoch Pratt Free Library. Currently the Montgomery County Department of Public Libraries, the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, the Enoch Pratt Free Library and the Eastern Shore Regional Library have Title VI applications pending.

Senator Sarbanes added, "The bill I am introducing serves to emphasize the urgent need to continue Federal programs to fight illiteracy and to assist libraries in expanding and increasing such programs. I urge all of my colleagues to join me in working toward prompt passage of this important legislation."

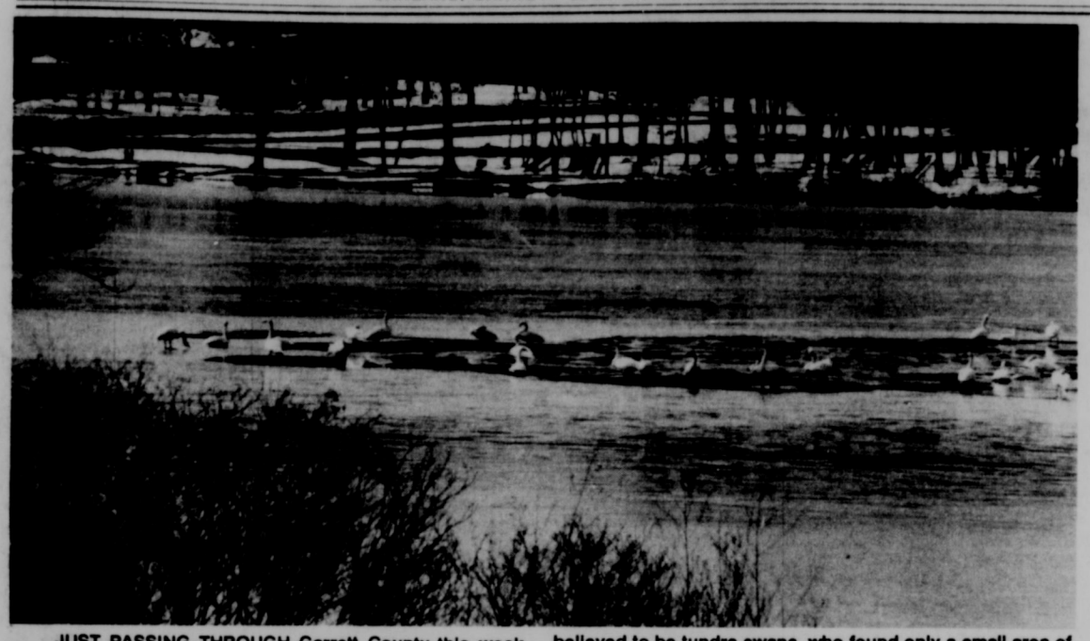
THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 114 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1991 | PER COPY 35¢



JUST PASSING THROUGH Garrett County this week was a large flock of swans, who decided to make a pit stop on Broadford Lake. According to one local birder, they were believed to be tundra swans, who found only a small area of open water to go for a swim and do a little fishing. Photo by Craig Phillips.

New Germany State Park To Remain Open

New Germany State Park will remain open through the month of March, according to an announcement by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Office of Public Affairs. The 455-acre park had been slated to close in March, to re-open July 1. However, because of the actions of a Save the Parks Committee headed by Tom Williams of Bethesda, nearly $5,000 in cash and services are now available to make the park available to the public this month.

New Germany's citizens' group follows the example of a citizens' effort in Frederick County. There, a plan was developed to open Gambrill State Park.

Budget constraints prompted the decision earlier this year to close 12 state parks until July 1. Governor William Donald Schaefer responded to citizens' requests to open those parks at an earlier time by stating that, with volunteer assistance, parks could be opened before July 1.

New Germany's recreational features include fishing, boating and swimming at a 13-acre lake, hiking trails, 37 improved campsites and eleven cabins. The park also offers accessible facilities, including cabins, for the mobility-impaired.

State forests and parks traditionally have less visitation during the winter months and would normally open during the month of March.

Governor Schaefer indicated in a February visit to Gambrill's citizen group that the state would be willing to reconsider opening parks whose citizens' interest groups presented a viable volunteer plan for park operation.

A series of public meetings was held around the state last month to give citizens opportunities to express their sentiments on the park closures. Maryland has a total of 70 public land areas, including the 47 state forests and parks.

WELCOME HOME, SGT. STONER! -- Sgt. Arthur Neal Stoner, Oakland, was the first member of Operation Desert Storm to be officially welcomed back into Garrett County by town and county officials Tuesday. During the celebration, held in front of the St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland, Sgt. Stoner signed the first of the 100 flags displayed around the Oakland town tree. On the flag, he wrote, "Proud to be home," then replaced the flag. Also during the ceremony, Sgt. Stoner, a member of the U.S. Air Force, stated that he was proud to have served in the Persian Gulf as a part of the force that liberated Kuwait. "The American people stood by us every bit of the way and provided us the strength to carry on," said Stoner. Pictured above at the ceremony, left to right, are Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, Sgt. Stoner, and Garrett County Commissioners Elwood Groves and Brenda Butscher.

Germantown Duo Arrested For CDS Possession

A couple from Germantown were arrested Monday by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment, and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) and possession of drug paraphernalia, according to police reports.

Robert L. Boykin, 31, and Paula L. Baker, 27, were both arrested on the possession charges after Boykin was stopped by Tpr. S.H. Anderson for speeding (70 mph in a 55 mph zone) on U.S. Route 48.

A search of the vehicle revealed a pipe containing suspected burnt marijuana and rolling papers. Boykin was also charged with operating a vehicle while his license was suspended.

The arrest occurred at 7:50 p.m.

In other State Police news, three Keyser, W.Va., men were arrested and charged with breaking, entering, and theft last Thursday by Tfc. R.T. Wilson and Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy D. Crossland.

Arrested were Robert W. Bean, 27; Carl E. Robinette, 24; and Ronald G. White, 27, who were apprehended a short time after they allegedly broke into the home of H.E. Beckman, Swanton, and stole a satellite receiver and descrambler and two fishing tackle boxes and miscellaneous tackle. The stolen goods were valued at over $2,500.

The three men were incarcerated and remain lodged in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of $15,000 bond each, according to a prison spokesman.

An attempted theft last Friday was foiled when a witness scared away three white males who were in the process of stealing a Honda Four-Trax all-terrain vehicle, according to a report filed by Tfc. J.E. Foley.

The ATV was the property of Kenneth W. Harding Jr., Friendsville. Foley stated that the suspects fled the scene in a dark green pickup

Education Board Discusses SHS Renovation, Commissioners' Request

The Garrett County Board of Education met this week and discussed several topics including the status of the Southern High School renovation and a request to limit spending from the Garrett County Commissioners.

SHS Status

The renovation of Southern High School is "on target," according to John Morris, assistant superintendent of administration. The occupancy date of August 15 is still set as the renovation is currently slightly ahead of schedule.

Morris told the board members that 50% of the interior masonry is complete, and the A-wing occupancy date for April 15 is holding. He also explained that the greenhouse is complete and operating.

The assistant superintendent explained at a meeting two months ago that there was a problem with the cement blocks that were used in two walls of the auxiliary gym. The blocks used appeared to be blemished, but the blemish was not detected until the building was complete. The affected blocks were apparently sunken in the middle, so that the corners stood out.

When Morris explained the blemish to the board members, he asked them if they wished to have the blemish corrected, or to be paid a compensatory sum of money. The board members quickly voted to have the problem fixed. At the most recent meeting, Morris told the board that since the blocks have been painted, the blemish is not as noticeable as before, and that the contractor, Carl Belt, Inc., was offering another compensatory credit of $2,000 for the mistake. The money would be used in the same area for further improvements.

The board members decided to accept the credit rather than to have the blocks sanded down and re-painted, based on the information that the paint on the blocks apparently improved the appearance more than what was expected.

Morris also informed the board members that a new bid had to be voted on for the school's phone system. The previous bid agreed on by the members was for $9,000, which was far lower than any other bid received. However, after the company arrived for the job, an employee of the company realized that in computing the estimate for the board, the cost of installation had been completely overlooked.

After re-computing the bid, the company's estimate rose to over $17,000. Morris then explained the board could rescind on the bid because the error was made by the awarded company.

He told the members that a local company, ProCom, recently offered a bid of $15,164, which did indeed include installation. The board members then awarded the bid to the local company.

In other school renovation information, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of G.C. schools, told the board members that the G.C. Commissioners had decided not to bid for the Northern High School auxiliary gymnasium, citing the current financial problems within the county as the main reason for postponing the bid.

Commissioners' Request

The education board received a letter from the Garrett County Commissioners dated Feb. 28 that was sent to all county funded agencies and departments. The letter was a topic of discussion at the meeting.

The commissioners expressed concern over the current economic condition of the county and state, and proceeded to ask all county agencies to cooperate in limiting budgeted expenditures. The purpose of the request is to "preserve a positive cash flow and to avert any severe cutbacks."

The commissioners did not specify exactly what sort of cutbacks they would pre-

Local Resident/FSU Student Writes Book On Computer DOS

"Welcome to DOS, Mastering The Basics" is the title of a new book written to give personal computer users a working knowledge and understanding of the Disk Operating System (DOS), enabling them to get the most from their computer and its software. The book was written by Paul L. Browning, a Deer Park resident and undergraduate student at Frostburg State University.

Browning is no computer novice, having become interested in computers at a young age. He was involved in the organization of a computer club at Southern Middle School, and took part in 4-H computer projects and contests, winning both regional and national prizes for programming. He presently acts as computer class superintendent at the Garrett County Fair, and is computer project leader of the Country Kids 4-H Club. At the time his book was published, Browning had eight years of computer experience.

Now a senior at Frostburg State University, Browning, the son of Jerry and Janet Browning of Deer Park, is carrying a double major — computer science and math education — and will attend graduate school after completing classes at FSU. He has worked part time for several years at TCI Computer Systems in Oakland, and it was for a class he was teaching at Garrett Community College for TCI that he wrote the book. TCI, in turn, funded the publishing costs of the book.

When asked why he felt there was a need for a book like "Welcome To DOS, Mastering The Basics," Browning responded by holding up a standard DOS manual — a two-inch-thick reference text — all that was then available, the writing being quite technical and very complicated for beginners to understand.

In his book, Browning says he attempts to introduce the reader to DOS by following a simple, but logical structure, with examples at the end of each chapter to give the reader hands-on practice with each topic. His book clearly describes all aspects of DOS from commands that pertain to the entire disk to specific details, such as commands and concepts, file names and extensions, backing up data, more commands and concepts, and

Man Accused Of Sex Offenses Found Not Guilty

Gary L. Durst, 38, Accident, was found not guilty of several sex offenses in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Frederick Sharer presided over the case.

Durst was accused in November 1989 of sexually abusing a 9-year-old female. His charges were second, third, and fourth degree sex offense, child abuse, and assault and battery. Durst pleaded innocent to the counts.

According to the court document, the child told authorities that Durst had sexually abused her from June to November, 1989. A mistrial was declared in this case in September 1990 when the jury could not reach a decision.

Durst maintained his innocence throughout, saying that the child fabricated the story because of past ordeals that did not involve him.

Robert E. Watson defended Durst in the trial.

Arson Charges Brought Against G.C. Jail Inmate

A 17-year-old Garrett County jail inmate was cited Wednesday with several charges related to a fire that occurred at the Garrett County Court House on Tuesday, Feb. 5.

William P. Gank, formerly of Oakland and currently a jail inmate, is accused of arson, attempted arson, malicious destruction of property, and two counts of reckless endangerment. The teenager was charged with the violations after an extensive investigation led by Sheriff's Office Cpl. L. Gnegy.

The fire at the court house was originally thought to have been started after a dust or lint build-up in a heating duct ignited. Further investigation led to the accusation that Gank allegedly blocked the duct himself.

A sheriff's office spokesperson stated that the fire put many people at risk, including the inmates, sheriff's office personnel, and the dispatcher for G.C. Emergency Management (911), who was reportedly choking on the thick smoke as he called the Oakland and Deer Park Volunteer Fire Departments to the scene.

Gank is currently serving time for burglary, having been indicted by the Grand Jury in September 1990 and sentenced to one year in prison.

Oakland Man Is Cleared Of CDS Possession Charge

An Oakland man pleaded not guilty and was found not guilty of possessing a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week. In the absence of Judge Jack R. Turney, Allegany County District Court Judge Paul J. Stakem presided over the case.

Vaughn V. Winters, 38, was found not guilty of possessing marijuana after he had been arrested on October 10, 1990, by a Garrett County Sheriff's deputy.

The arrest occurred when the deputy stopped a 1977 Ford pickup being operated by Franklin P. Polce Jr., 23, Mtn. Lake Park. Polce was also charged with CDS possession. Winters was a passenger in the pickup, according to the court document.

In other court news, a Mtn. Lake Park man was found guilty of possessing a controlled dangerous substance and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs.

John L. Armstrong, 35, was sentenced to six months in the county jail (all but 48 hours and the 30 days already served was suspended), ordered to pay a $100 fine and placed on one year of supervised probation.

In a plea agreement, charges of possessing CDS paraphernalia and driving while suspended were not prosecuted.

Armstrong had been arrested on December 8, 1990, near Hutton by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Two sentencing hearings also took place in District Court last week.

Michael C. Hinebaugh, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, who had been found guilty of possessing a controlled dangerous substance in court proceedings on November 20, 1990, was given a 30-day jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), ordered to pay a $150 fine, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

Richard Condon Browning Jr., 42, Friendsville, who had been found guilty of CDS possession and possession of CDS paraphernalia in court on October 20, 1990, was sentenced to a one-year jail term (all but one month was suspended), fined a total of $575, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Browning was initially arrested on April 28, 1990, by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Two sentence revision hearings were also held last week in District Court.

Dr. Hughes Joins Staff Of County Health Department

Alan Hughes has recently accepted a position with the Addictions Service of the Garrett County Health Department. Dr. Hughes is responsible for initiating a family therapy program for Garrett County residents who are experiencing difficulties because of the use of alcohol or other drugs.

"Alcoholism and drug abuse are family diseases," Hughes said. "Every member of the family is adversely affected by the member who is dependent on alcohol or drugs." It will be his role to insure the best outcomes of addiction treatment by dealing with all the members of the family.

"Family members may come to the health department for help even if the alcohol or drug abusing member is not currently in treatment," noted Dr. Hughes.

Prior to practicing full-time as a therapist, he was an Episcopalian pastor. He served as a chaplain in the British army and in parishes in Pennsylvania and Maryland. Comptroller Seeks To Return Millions In Unclaimed Funds To Marylanders

"We may be in an economic downturn, but thousands of Marylanders might find a windfall to help them cope with the difficult times," says State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "We're advertising the names of 14,483 Marylanders who have lost track of their money or valuables. The ads will appear in newspapers across the state in the next two weeks," he said.

Ads carrying 29 of those names due property are in today's issue of The Republican and will be in the March 21 issue also.

"The individuals whose names we are advertising are due unclaimed funds worth millions of dollars from banks or other businesses," Goldstein said. "These names were reported to us in the past year."

Financial institutions, insurance companies and corporations are required to report bank accounts, contents of safe deposit boxes, wages, insurance benefits, stock dividends and other funds to the State Comptroller's Office if they remain unclaimed for five years or more. "We advertise the names of the apparent rightful owners in the county of their last known address," Goldstein said.

"However, Maryland's law is custodial, meaning that there is no time limit under which the property or its monetary equivalent may be claimed," he said.

The unclaimed property doesn't include real estate or boats or cars. Bank accounts and funds reported by corporations make up most of the unclaimed funds in the current ad. Insurance benefits will be advertised in the fall.

"The contents of safe deposit boxes listed in the current ads include diamond rings, coin collections, and other valuables. If you see your name in the current list, follow the instructions that appear at the top of the ad to learn how to claim your funds," Goldstein said.

Head Start Program Seeks New Enrollees

The local Head Start Program has announced it is currently recruiting 3- and 4-year-old children for enrollment in September 1991.

According to a spokesman for the program, Head Start is a pre-school child development program for children from families who fall within federal income eligibility guidelines. Head Start has six major components: education, health, nutrition, parent involvement, social services and handicap. The education program includes learning experiences to foster intellectual, social and emotional growth. Children participate in indoor and outdoor play and are introduced to concepts of words and numbers. They are also encouraged to express their feelings, develop self confidence and the ability to get along with others.

Children with handicapping conditions participate with other enrolled students and receive all the same services, plus services for their individual special needs.

The spokesman said Head Start provides each child with comprehensive health and nutritional services. Children are served two hot meals every day in order to meet at least two-thirds of their nutritional requirements.

"Parents are the most important influence on a child's development and an essential part of every Head Start project is the involvement of parents in all aspects of the program," the spokesman said. Many parents volunteer in the classroom, participate in decision making and in training sessions provided by Head Start. Educational activities that can be implemented at home are also available to parents.

Some 140 children are presently enrolled in the Garrett County Head Start Program. Centers are located in Crellin, Oakland, Jennings, Accident, Kitzmiller, and along Dennett Road. There is also a home-based program, begun in December of last year.

Applications are accepted in May for the fall term. Now is the time to apply, according to the spokesman. Applications are available at any center, at the Community Action Office, 360 W. Liberty St., or at the Head Start Office, 221 S. Third St., Oakland.

Parents are requested to bring verification of family income, parents' social security numbers, and their children's birth certificates when applying.

For more information, persons may contact the Head Start Office at 334-5856.

NOTICE

The following petition concerns a proposal to designate large sections of Garrett County forestland as wilderness areas. This was the topic of meetings held February 21 and 22. Local residents who agree with the petition statement that says we care about our future and want some control over what happens are asked to sign the petition, clip it out of the paper, get other signatures if possible, and send it to:

Planning & Program Development

Forest, Park, & Wildlife Service
Annapolis, MD 21401
Attention: Dr. Torrey C. Brown

PETITION

We, the undersigned, Garrett County residents, feel that the meetings held February 21st and 22nd, 1991, were insufficient in accomplishing our future goals. We feel that the D.N.R. is doing its best at working with us to accomplish our hunting, timbering, and recreational needs. We are strongly against any change in this process. An issue of utmost concern are the proposed wildlands. We feel that our conservational and economical future would be put into serious jeopardy if these proposals are carried out. We know that you must be under enormous pressure by special interest groups such as the "Sierra Club," but please don't give in to their demands.The D.N.R. understands how important these lands are to Garrett County and the people of this state. They are doing a fantastic job at conserving these lands for our children and their children as well. They have proven to us that managed timbering, hunting and recreation will keep the wildlife population on the proposed wildlands and other lands as well, at a maximum and still provide recreation and enjoyment for all the people of this state. We hope that you will use all the influence and power at your disposal to see that the fire under these proposals is permanently put out.

Sincerely signed,

Sheriff's Office Notes Arrests

The members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office made various arrests this week on charges including theft and driving while intoxicated (DWI).

Daniel R. Fike, 32, Friendsville, was arrested on the strength of a warrant on charges of theft and breaking and entering.

Fike reportedly illegally entered the home of Joseph L. Hutzel on Feb. 2. There was apparently no theft at that time. Fike entered the home again on Feb. 28, according to the report, and removed many items, including a tuxedo, suit, and other clothing; canned food, appliances, pillows, rugs, planters, and personal property of Hutzel's deceased daughter.

Fike was served with the warrant on March 9.

Also arrested on theft charges was Matthew T. Evans, 24, Oakland. Evans is accused of the daytime burglary of the home of Judy C. Smith. Firearms were apparently stolen from the residence.

Dep. L. Gnegy served the warrant to Evans on March 6, charging him with one count of daytime burglary and one count of felony theft. The defendant was released on $5,000 unsecured bond, according to the police document.

Glenes E. Dumire, 57, Oakland, was arrested on March 7 for DWI. Dep. J. Murphy made the traffic stop on Jasper Riley Road when he noticed a faulty exhaust system on Dumire's vehicle.

After a short investigation, Murphy discovered that Dumire was operating an uninsured and unregistered vehicle as well as driving while intoxicated. The arrest took place at approximately 6:30 p.m.

Richard A. Wright, 33, Parish, N.Y., was served two bench warrants on March 6 by Dep. R. Sines. Wright apparently failed to appear in Garrett County District Court on Feb. 14 to face charges of driving an uninsured vehicle and driving with a revoked license.

Ricky D. Kent, 27, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants charging him with failure to pay fines and/or court costs to the district court. Kent's original charges were DWI, driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI), and operating an uninsured vehicle.

The defendant was served the bench warrants by Dep. D. Crossland on March 5.

Robert J. Simmons, 28, Deer Park, was served with a bench warrant for failure to pay fines to district court. Dep. D. Welch served the warrant on March 5. Simmons was originally charged for DWI and DUI, according to the police report.

Franklin P. Polce Jr., 23, Mtn. Lake Park, was served a bench warrant for failure to pay fines to district court. Dep. Crossland gave the warrant to Polce on March 5. Polce's original charges were possession of a controlled dangerous substance, DWI, DUI, and driving with a revoked license.

Area Grandmother Enjoying Path Toward AA Degree From GCC

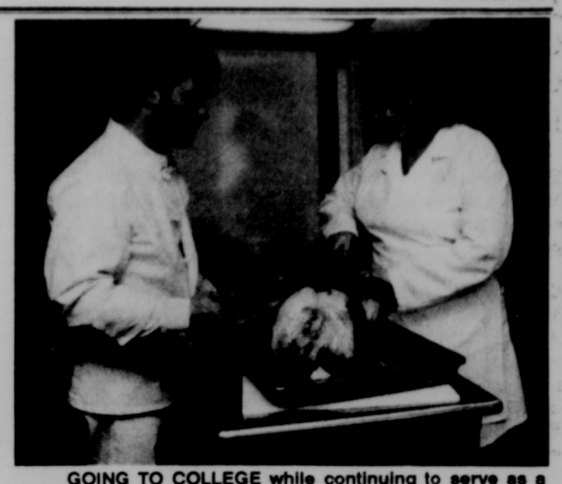
A grandmother from Leadmine, W.Va., who says, "You're never too old to learn," is a student in the new Resort Management program at Garrett Community College. Frances Henline, mother of three married daughters, now has her sights set on an associate in arts degree from Garrett, and possibly an additional two years of education at another institution.

When asked how she first became interested in the Resort Management program, Ms. Henline explained that her job as cook at YMCA Camp Horseshoe in St. George, W.Va., made her aware that she enjoys working with people. She decided to find a career that would let her do that and use her experiences. "After I got my GED, I knew that I wanted to go back to school," she said, "and I saw a GCC schedule at Foodland. That brought me here."

She now takes classes three days a week, allowing her time to continue her job. About her experience in the Resort Management program, Ms. Henline said, "I feel that I have learned a great deal and I really enjoy it. It feels good getting back to school. Everyone here at the college is very supportive." She added that her daughters are "very proud" of her and that her husband is trying to understand her decision to come to college.

Through her work at camp, she has been grateful for the opportunity to work with young adults and children, and she expresses the dream of some day having a big house that she could open to children who need help. "Caring about others helps," she said. "So many children have low self esteem and they need encouragement."

In addition to her classes and her work at the camp, Ms. Henline finds time to teach a young adult Sunday School class at her church. In what little free time her schedule allows, she likes to decorate cakes and proudly states that she made all of her daughters' wedding cakes.



GOING TO COLLEGE while continuing to serve as a mother and now a grandmother is Frances Henline, who is working toward an associate in arts degree in resort management at Garrett Community College. Also in the photo is Sam Butler, food services instructor at GCC.

"We advertise the names of the apparent rightful owners in the county of their last known address," Goldstein said.

"However, Maryland's law is custodial, meaning that there is no time limit under which the property or its monetary equivalent may be claimed," he said.

The unclaimed property doesn't include real estate or boats or cars. Bank accounts and funds reported by corporations make up most of the unclaimed funds in the current ad. Insurance benefits will be advertised in the fall.

"The contents of safe deposit boxes listed in the current ads include diamond rings, coin collections, and other valuables. If you see your name in the current list, follow the instructions that appear at the top of the ad to learn how to claim your funds," Goldstein said.

Head Start Program Seeks New Enrollees

The local Head Start Program has announced it is currently recruiting 3- and 4-year-old children for enrollment in September 1991.

According to a spokesman for the program, Head Start is a pre-school child development program for children from families who fall within federal income eligibility guidelines. Head Start has six major components: education, health, nutrition, parent involvement, social services and handicap. The education program includes learning experiences to foster intellectual, social and emotional growth. Children participate in indoor and outdoor play and are introduced to concepts of words and numbers. They are also encouraged to express their feelings, develop self confidence and the ability to get along with others.

Children with handicapping conditions participate with other enrolled students and receive all the same services, plus services for their individual special needs.

The spokesman said Head Start provides each child with comprehensive health and nutritional services. Children are served two hot meals every day in order to meet at least two-thirds of their nutritional requirements.

"Parents are the most important influence on a child's development and an essential part of every Head Start project is the involvement of parents in all aspects of the program," the spokesman said. Many parents volunteer in the classroom, participate in decision making and in training sessions provided by Head Start. Educational activities that can be implemented at home are also available to parents.

Some 140 children are presently enrolled in the Garrett County Head Start Program. Centers are located in Crellin, Oakland, Jennings, Accident, Kitzmiller, and along Dennett Road. There is also a home-based program, begun in December of last year.

Applications are accepted in May for the fall term. Now is the time to apply, according to the spokesman. Applications are available at any center, at the Community Action Office, 360 W. Liberty St., or at the Head Start Office, 221 S. Third St., Oakland.

Grantsville Community Chorus To Present Cantata

The C

Area Grandmother Enjoying Path Toward AA Degree From GCC

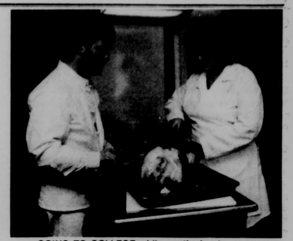
A grandmother from Leadmine, W.Va., who says, "You're never too old to learn," is a student in the new Resort Management program at Garrett Community College. Frances Henline, mother of three married daughters, now has her sights set on an associate in arts degree from Garrett, and possibly an additional two years of education at another institution.

When asked how she first became interested in the Resort Management program, Ms. Henline explained that her job as cook at YMCA Camp Horseshoe in St. George, W.Va., made her aware that she enjoys working with people. She decided to find a career that would let her do that and use her experiences. "After I got my GED, I knew that I wanted to go back to school," she said, "and I saw a GCC schedule at Foodland. That brought me here."

She now takes classes three days a week, allowing her time to continue her job. About her experience in the Resort Management program, Ms. Henline said, "I feel that I have learned a great deal and I really enjoy it. It feels good getting back to school. Everyone here at the college is very supportive." She added that her daughters are "very proud" of her and that her husband is trying to understand her decision to come to college.

Through her work at camp, she has been grateful for the opportunity to work with young adults and children, and she expresses the dream of some day having a big house that she could open to children who need help. "Caring about others helps," she said. "So many children have low self esteem and they need encouragement."

In addition to her classes and her work at the camp, Ms. Henline finds time to teach a young adult Sunday School class at her church. In what little free time her schedule allows, she likes to decorate cakes and proudly states that she made all of her daughters' wedding cakes.



GOING TO COLLEGE while continuing to serve as a mother and now a grandmother is Frances Henline, who is working toward an associate in arts degree in resort management at Garrett Community College. Also in the photo is Sam Butler, food services instructor at GCC.

Oakland Town Council Election Results Noted

The Oakland Municipal Elections were held on Monday and resulted in one change in the town council positions.

Retaining their seats on the council were Harvey (Jay) Moyer with 117 votes, and Arthur E. Naylor with 116 votes. Willard R. Ringer received 105 votes, unseating incumbent Clinton W. Englander, who garnered 99 votes.

The council members will be sworn in April 1, at which time their two-year terms in office will begin.

100 FLAGS DONATED BY AMERICAN LEGION -- American Legion Post 71 has donated 100 flags to the newly formed Desert Storm Support Group to be used in welcoming home the troops from the Persian Gulf. The flags are displayed around the Oakland community tree, located at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, and a 13-yard yellow ribbon (donated by Crafts N' Things) has been tied around the trunk of the tree. The Garrett County support group will be soliciting donations to provide each returning service person with a jacket (provided by Marvin's Mens' Wear and monogrammed by Personally Yours Monogramming). Persons may donate to the group at the First United National Bank and Trust or by contacting Kim Flanagan at 334-8747, or either of the two retail stores. Each flag will be assigned to a returning service person, replaced to its location, and when all the troops have returned, a flag will be given to each of them to keep. Kitzmiller Man Injured In One-Vehicle Accident

A Kitzmiller man was hospitalized Wednesday when his vehicle ran off U.S. Route 38 and struck a tree, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, McHenry Detachment.

James Whitacre, 44, is listed in "guarded" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, according to a nursing spokesman. He was transported to the hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Whitacre was reportedly operating a pickup truck on Old Route 38, about one-half mile from Md. Rt. 135, when his vehicle traveled left of center and struck the tree.

State police charged Whitacre with driving while intoxicated, negligent driving, traveling at a speed greater than reasonable, driving on an alcohol restriction, and failure to keep right of center.

A Barton man escaped serious injury Saturday night when he reportedly fell asleep at the wheel of his vehicle and ran off the road, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police.

Randall P. Duckworth, 40, was operating a 1990 Chevrolet Silverado east on the Bartlett Road, west of Md. Route 36, when he apparently fell asleep, crossed the center line, and struck a ditch on the left side of the road, police said.

Tpr. J.T. Bentlejewski investigated and said Duckworth drove himself to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where he was treated and later released.

Duckworth was charged with failure to drive right of center following the 10 p.m. mishap.

Temporary Pick-Up Of Recyclables Schedule Noted

It was announced this week by the Garrett County Commissioners that temporary sites and pick-up times for recyclables have been established throughout the county.

According to Commissioner Brenda Butscher, the board of commissioners is organizing the effort in response to the public's request. "I want to point out that the county will not be offering reimbursement for the items. The county will not be making money on this program, and money is not the reason people should participate in the program," stated Butscher.

During the temporary program, however, B&S Scrap will reimburse citizens for cans and bottles at the temporary sites.

B&S Scrap will be located at the followings sites on the dates listed. All the dates are on Sundays from 2-5 p.m.

The temporary schedule is as follows:

March 17 -- Oakland Town Parking Lot
March 24 -- Garrett Community College Parking Lot
March 31 -- Oakland Town Parking Lot
April 7 -- Northern High School Parking Lot
April 14 -- Oakland Town Parking Lot
April 21 -- Garrett Community College Parking Lot
April 28 -- Oakland Town Parking Lot
May 5 -- Northern High School Parking Lot
May 12 -- Oakland Town Parking Lot
May 19 -- Garrett Community College Parking Lot
May 26 -- Oakland Town Parking Lot

This service will be discontinued once the new compartmentalized containers are located at the county's existing dumpster sites.

Dr. Hughes Joins Staff Of County Health Department

Alan Hughes has recently accepted a position with the Addictions Service of the Garrett County Health Department. Dr. Hughes is responsible for initiating a family therapy program for Garrett County residents who are experiencing difficulties because of the use of alcohol or other drugs.

"Alcoholism and drug abuse are family diseases," Hughes said. "Every member of the family is adversely affected by the member who is dependent on alcohol or drugs." It will be his role to insure the best outcomes of addiction treatment by dealing with all the members of the family.

"Family members may come to the health department for help even if the alcohol or drug abusing member is not currently in treatment," noted Dr. Hughes.

Hughes came to the health department from Cumberland where he was in private practice with Zealand Psychology Associates and the Allegany County Health Department. Prior to practicing full-time as a therapist, he was an Episcopalian pastor. He served as a chaplain in the British army and in parishes in Pennsylvania and Maryland. Welsh born, Dr. Hughes received a master's degree from the University of Wales, United Kingdom. His doctorate was earned at the Lancaster Theological Seminary in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Hughes resides in Oakland.

Comptroller Seeks To Return Millions In Unclaimed Funds To Marylanders

"We may be in an economic downturn, but thousands of Marylanders might find a windfall to help them cope with the difficult times," says State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "We're advertising the names of 14,483 Marylanders who have lost track of their money or valuables. The ads will appear in newspapers across the state in the next two weeks," he said.

Ads carrying 29 of those names due property are in today's issue of The Republican and will be in the March 21 issue also.

"The individuals whose names we are advertising are due unclaimed funds worth millions of dollars from banks or other businesses," Goldstein said. "These names were reported to us in the past year."

Financial institutions, insurance companies and corporations are required to report bank accounts, contents of safe deposit boxes, wages, insurance benefits, stock dividends and other funds to the State Comptroller's Office if they remain unclaimed for five years or more. "We advertise the names of the apparent rightful owners in the county of their last known address," Goldstein said.

"However, Maryland's law is custodial, meaning that there is no time limit under which the property or its monetary equivalent may be claimed," he said.

The unclaimed property doesn't include real estate or boats or cars. Bank accounts and funds reported by corporations make up most of the unclaimed funds in the current ad. Insurance benefits will be advertised in the fall.

"The contents of safe deposit boxes listed in the current ads include diamond rings, coin collections, and other valuables. If you see your name in the current list, follow the instructions that appear at the top of the ad to learn how to claim your funds," Goldstein said.

Sheriff's Office Notes Arrests

The members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office made various arrests this week on charges including theft and driving while intoxicated (DWI).

Daniel R. Fike, 32, Friendsville, was arrested on the strength of a warrant on charges of theft and breaking and entering.

Fike reportedly illegally entered the home of Joseph L. Hutzel on Feb. 2. There was apparently no theft at that time. Fike entered the home again on Feb. 28, according to the report, and removed many items, including a tuxedo, suit, and other clothing; canned food, appliances, pillows, rugs, planters, and personal property of Hutzel's deceased daughter.

Fike was served with the warrant on March 9.

Also arrested on theft charges was Matthew T. Evans, 24, Oakland. Evans is accused of the daytime burglary of the home of Judy C. Smith. Firearms were apparently stolen from the residence.

Dep. L. Gnegy served the warrant to Evans on March 6, charging him with one count of daytime burglary and one count of felony theft. The defendant was released on $5,000 unsecured bond, according to the police document.

Glenes E. Dumire, 57, Oakland, was arrested on March 7 for DWI. Dep. J. Murphy made the traffic stop on Jasper Riley Road when he noticed a faulty exhaust system on Dumire's vehicle.

After a short investigation, Murphy discovered that Dumire was operating an uninsured and unregistered vehicle as well as driving while intoxicated. The arrest took place at approximately 6:30 p.m.

Richard A. Wright, 33, Parish, N.Y., was served two bench warrants on March 6 by Dep. R. Sines. Wright apparently failed to appear in Garrett County District Court on Feb. 14 to face charges of driving an uninsured vehicle and driving with a revoked license.

Ricky D. Kent, 27, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on the strength of two bench warrants charging him with failure to pay fines and/or court costs to the district court. Kent's original charges were DWI, driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI), and operating an uninsured vehicle.

The defendant was served the bench warrants by Dep. D. Crossland on March 5.

Robert J. Simmons, 28, Deer Park, was served with a bench warrant for failure to pay fines to district court. Dep. D. Welch served the warrant on March 5. Simmons was originally charged for DWI and DUI, according to the police report.

Franklin P. Polce Jr., 23, Mtn. Lake Park, was served a bench warrant for failure to pay fines to district court. Dep. Crossland gave the warrant to Polce on March 5. Polce's original charges were possession of a controlled dangerous substance, DWI, DUI, and driving with a revoked license.

Area Grandmother Enjoying Path Toward AA Degree From GCC

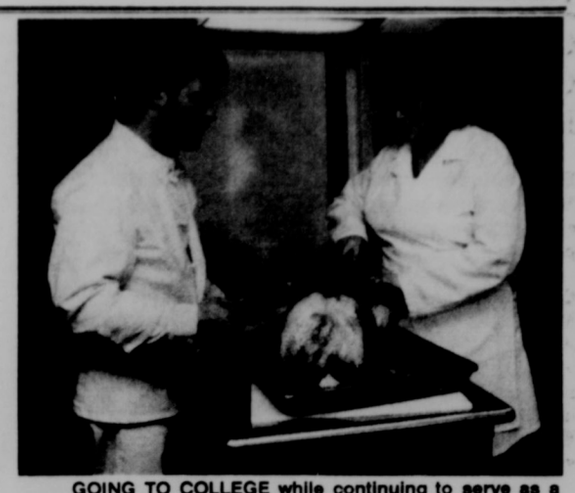
A grandmother from Leadmine, W.Va., who says, "You're never too old to learn," is a student in the new Resort Management program at Garrett Community College. Frances Henline, mother of three married daughters, now has her sights set on an associate in arts degree from Garrett, and possibly an additional two years of education at another institution.

When asked how she first became interested in the Resort Management program, Ms. Henline explained that her job as cook at YMCA Camp Horseshoe in St. George, W.Va., made her aware that she enjoys working with people. She decided to find a career that would let her do that and use her experiences. "After I got my GED, I knew that I wanted to go back to school," she said, "and I saw a GCC schedule at Foodland. That brought me here."

She now takes classes three days a week, allowing her time to continue her job. About her experience in the Resort Management program, Ms. Henline said, "I feel that I have learned a great deal and I really enjoy it. It feels good getting back to school. Everyone here at the college is very supportive." She added that her daughters are "very proud" of her and that her husband is trying to understand her decision to come to college.

Through her work at camp, she has been grateful for the opportunity to work with young adults and children, and she expresses the dream of some day having a big house that she could open to children who need help. "Caring about others helps," she said. "So many children have low self esteem and they need encouragement."

In addition to her classes and her work at the camp, Ms. Henline finds time to teach a young adult Sunday School class at her church. In what little free time her schedule allows, she likes to decorate cakes and proudly states that she made all of her daughters' wedding cakes.



GOING TO COLLEGE while continuing to serve as a mother and now a grandmother is Frances Henline, who is working toward an associate in arts degree in resort management at Garrett Community College. Also in the photo is Sam Butler, food services instructor at GCC.

Let's Have A Parade . . .

The local veterans of the Persian Gulf war have begun to filter back home to the welcoming and appreciative arms of those of us who, via CNN and other television networks, were on the sidelines of the conflict. Patriotism has surely not soared at such heights since the conclusion of World War II. It is impossible to know just how much the attitude of the general public back home has to do with the morale and overall success rate of our troops, but we know it is significant.

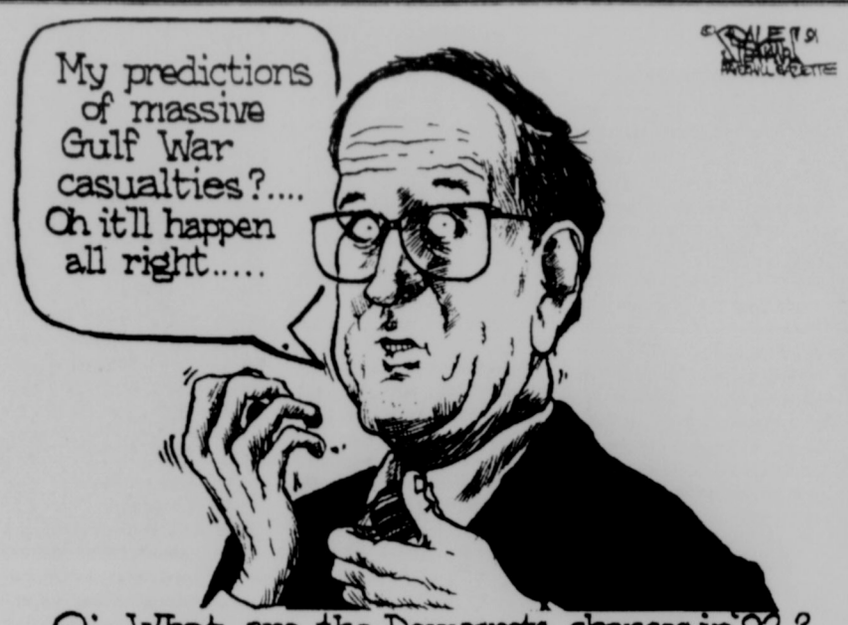
In his words to the U.S. Congress last week, President Bush pledged that the July 4 celebration of freedom this year would be of an enormous magnitude. We believe that Garrett County should join in such an event, with our veterans at the focal point of the observance. While most of the attention is currently directed at the veterans of Operation Desert Storm, we see this as an opportunity to recognize our veterans of all wars.

What we have in mind, if there are individuals and organizations willing to organize it, is a parade in downtown Oakland or one of our other communities that would feature our veterans. Richard Maroney, one of our few surviving World War I veterans, could be the parade marshal and lead the procession. He and any other WWI vets would be followed by World War II veterans, either walking or riding, followed by Korean War vets, Vietnam vets, Grenada and Panama conflict veterans (if any), and finally, the Operation Desert Storm veterans.

Securing bands during the summer months is difficult since school is not in session, but perhaps the Southern High Alumni Band, the Oakland Fire Department German Band, the Accident Community Band, and a few other groups could participate. The parade could be followed by a brief program and a big party at the fire hall or, if in Oakland, at the new Mountain Fresh pavilion in the town parking lot (weather permitting).

In order to avoid conflict with other established July 4 events, such as the Accident and Terra Alta parades, perhaps this special parade could be held Saturday, July 6. Such details can be worked out later, but now is the time to begin planning.

Recognizing and showing our appreciation to those who have risked their lives to protect freedom and secure peace, not only in the Persian Gulf, but in all times of conflict, is the least we can do.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would personally like to thank all the caring people of Garrett County who have been supporting all of us Military Service Members throughout the Persian Gulf crisis and these trying times.

As a resident of Oakland, I am presently enlisted in the U.S. Army, serving in Giessen, Germany. Being separated from family and friends is very difficult, but knowing that we have great people back home supporting us has made life more bearable.

I ask of you to keep flying our country's flag, hang your yellow ribbons, and most important of all, sending your precious letters from HOME!

Garrett Countian,
SPC Richard D. Layton

To the Editor:

Last week we experienced our first flue fire. It was fairly uneventful. Oakland firemen came, did what they normally do, said everything was OK, and went home to go back to sleep. As part of the "taking people for granted" public, that's how we'd always thought of flue fires that didn't burn the house down. Until now.

We phoned 911 at 12:30 a.m., and within 15 minutes a sheriff's deputy, a fire truck, and seven volunteer firemen were at our home on an icy, cold night. The firemen were in our basement, attic, and points in between to insure that the fire was contained. The chief, local businessman Bob Rudy, then directed three men to climb a ladder to a very slick, three-story cedar roof to check out and clean out the flue. By 1:30 a.m., they had finished their work, cleaned up after themselves, packed up their truck, and were on their way back to the firehouse to clean up their gear and go home to catch a few hours' sleep before they had to get up and go to "work."

What the firemen may have experienced that early morning was a simple flue fire. What we experienced was professionalism and a commitment to excellence in action. Most people begrudgingly drag themselves out of bed in the morning for a paycheck. These men are called at all hours to endanger their lives as volunteers to protect the safety and well-being of their fellow man.

You only have to be on the receiving end of their commitment one time to appreciate just how lucky we are to have them there for us.

Thank you, gentlemen.

To the Editor:

My daughter, Rebecca A. DeWitt, was arrested twice for DWI in one month last fall by the Maryland State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

My wife and I had no idea she was out drinking and driving until July of last year when she had to testify against Deputy David Stoner in August of 1990.

My daughter alleged that Deputy Stoner drove up along side the car my daughter was driving late one night, and after a conversation with her and a friend he offered and gave them a beer while on duty, sitting in a marked police car. My daughter was sitting behind the wheel, and both girls were under aged.

The other girl initially reported Deputy Stoner, and Rebecca was called in and questioned later. She was questioned especially about the location of the beer in the police car because Deputy Stoner had not logged any confiscation of alcohol that night.

Our daughter said that Deputy Stoner also that night began chewing gum and offered some to the girls to get the smell of beer off their breath. My wife heard a rumor that Rebecca was "going to get her head bashed in" by Deputy Stoner. We instructed Rebecca to keep her mouth shut about most things at the Police Board Hearing because we didn't want anything to happen to her or to jeopardize a friend's job.

After the hearing, Deputy Stoner was found guilty. Two people told Rebecca that four deputies would be biased against her and her friend. This information came from reliable sources. Because of the second arrest, my daughter ended up in the hospital and had false charges pressed against her by Deputies Stoner and Nolan, with the exceptions of DWI and resisting arrest. The car she was driving is registered to my wife. She was not notified, and we found the car the next day unlocked and with a window down.

My daughter did give the State Trooper a hard time on the first arrest, and the Deputies knew it because of the information getting back to my daughter. When Deputy Stoner saw my daughter get sick at Sheets, we believe he took a great advantage of his authority, as well as Deputy Nolan. Together they made sure she paid for testifying that a Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy promotes drinking and driving and under-aged drinking.

My daughter has learned her lesson because eventually after her arrests she lost her license for four months, owes her parents $2,000.00 for legal court costs, and she must pay her own car insurance.

I have never given any of my children beer to drink, and I cannot comprehend the fact of a Sheriff's Deputy serving two young girls beer when one is sitting behind the wheel. Deputy David Stoner must have a serious problem. I don't think he should be a police officer.

If any police officer ever gives my daughter an illegal substance or manhandles her, I (Franklin DeWitt) personally will see to it that the problem is corrected.

My daughter has told me many more stories about several other Deputies and their activities. I hope this letter will inform Garrett County taxpayers of what we are paying for.

Sincerely,
Franklin DeWitt
Velma DeWitt
(Junior and Lucy)
Kitzmiller

Dear Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt,

In checking out your allegations, we discovered that Deputy Stoner was not found guilty of giving beer to minors, but found guilty of conduct unbecoming of an officer and being negligent of duty. He was subsequently placed on probation by Sheriff Van Evans.

Stark Raven: Don't Miss The Return

Stark Raven: A Return Not To Miss
by Jack DuBose

The band Stark Raven returns to Garrett Community College on March 22 at 8 p.m., so if you weren't sufficiently convinced that you missed something special the last time they were here, let me reiterate: last spring's show was a knockout, a dazzler, a wonderful show. Those who couldn't attend the last show need only ask the fortunate 200 or so who made the effort and were treated to Stark Raven's musical wizardry.

The highlights of the concert were practically countless. Julie Adams' voice made me melt in the chair — talk about smooth! Ron Sowell's fine guitar work and searing harmonica moved me back to the edge of my seat. John Kessler's bass playing had the fluid quality of a relaxed stroll and the snap of a wind sprint. Ammed Solomon worked the drums — stick magic to be marvelled at, certainly. Bob (Whew!) Webb's self-designed cello and dulcimer and brilliant acoustic fretwork joined with Deni (Wow!) Bonett's vocals and scintillating violin playing to round out the nearly flawless performance.

From start to finish, two sets with a short intermission, the band held the crowd in thrall to its sound — a provocative blend of acoustic and electric instrumentation, as witnessed by Webb's thrilling hollow-body lead into "Levitation." The melding of classical and rock roots shaped the sound also, perhaps best illustrated by Pachelbel's "Canon in D Major" sweetened to dissolve into a cover of "Whiter Shade of Pale." The string section (Bonett and Webb) really cooked on that number, and Adams' vocals were inspired if not inspirational.

The original music the band played was amazingly catchy, quirky — the kind of music you can sing along with and smile, laugh, or cry. "Inertia," Adams' paean to physics and love, and "Irrational People," Kessler's portrait of another band member's maddening parents, are wonderful tunes — fun to listen to and sing along with. "Always Come Home," penned by Bonett, and "It Never Goes Away," by Adams, put a lump in my throat any time I hear them. This is music you can stretch and grow comfortable with; music that asks you to dance.

Last April's show was an event. The vocal interplay of the Twister Sisters and integrated (some call it "tight") playing of the entire band made it a night to remember.

So don't miss out this time. I'm sorry to say it will be the last time, since Stark Raven will disband later this year. Get your tickets soon, and be ready to dance in the aisles. Tickets are available at local outlets and you can get further information by calling 301-387-6666, extension 124 or 178.

To the Editor:

Most Americans will face the familiar IRS Form 1040 sometime in the next month or two. Most people probably do not realize that one of the major protections of our political system against undue influence is embedded on the 1040. This is the opportunity for taxpayers to check off whether they want $1 of their federal taxes to be set aside for the Presidential Election Campaign Fund, which provides public funding to presidential candidates who agree to abide by legal spending limits and to comply with legal disclosure requirements.

The legislation enacting this reform was put into place during the Watergate era. As the history that scandal fades, people have forgotten the purpose of the amount of dollars going to the fund has declined and may not be sufficient for the 1992 presidential election unless Americans act now.

The purpose of using Federal dollars to fund Presidential campaigns is to reduce candidates' dependence on special interests and to place candidates on a more equal financial footing in the campaign. There is no cleaner money in Federal campaigns than the funds from the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. This is not special interest money -- it is, pure and simple, $1 from individual taxpayers paid into a U.S. Treasury Fund and disbursed to qualifying candidates. Furthermore, the $1 checked off ($2 for joint returns)O does not increase the taxes an, individual owes.

Why not check "yes" on your 1040 and help put citizens back in the presidential campaigns?

Respectfully,
The LWV of GC

The Young Mind Wanders

Isn't Friendship Amazing?
by Annie Ashby

Isn't it amazing? Friendship, I mean. Just think about it. Did you ever stop and wonder why you call a friend "a friend?" It just seemed like from kindergarten to fifth grade I always had different friends that I always seemed to argue with. We just didn't see eye to eye on most things. (Lots of times, Mom didn't see eye to eye with them.)

Now, I'm in the seventh grade and I have this one really great friend that I've had since the beginning of sixth grade. You probably won't believe this, but we've never had a fight. We have different beliefs about some things, but we seem to respect those differences. Mostly we're a lot alike. Lots of times we say the same thing at the same time. We even found out that our funny moms have a lot of the same expressions and bits of wisdom.

I really do have to say that the past two years have been the best two years of my life. If you're wondering who my wonderful friend is, it's Erin Long. Yes, that's right. Erin Long -- Diehard, Mat Mate, dancer, and my best friend.

Today, when I got to school, there was no Erin anywhere. I was hoping so much that her bus was late and that she would soon arrive. I waited and waited. No Erin. I felt totally lost without her. I was glad when it was time to go home. While sitting there on the bus, I began to think, "Why do I care so much about Erin?"

I've never felt like this before with my other friends. Then I realized why Erin is so special to me. It's because I must be special to her. She is the best friend for me. She keeps me thinking straight. I really do care about all my friends, but Erin is one of those people I would do just about anything for. But then, she would never ask me to do anything rotten.

Friendship. Think about it.

Another Kind Of Gift

by Rev. John Grant

Known as "Fritz" to his family and friends, Charles M. White early recognized that other things besides money can be donated to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. His gift of the White Face Farm to the hospital in 1956, long before the Foundation existed, was proof that other things can be of benefit.

"As a little boy, Fritz was always heating some kind of metal in the cook stove," said his mother, who was talking about Charles' metallurgical knowledge in the late 1930's, as he was gradually moving up the corporate ladder of the steel industry.

"He was a smart kid in school. Always got the best grades in math class," said Milton Sincell, who was one of Fritz's contemporaries. They sat together at the same school desk in Oakland. This comment was made in the early 1940's when White was promoted to the upper level of management in the Republic Steel Corporation in Cleveland, Ohio.

White was a well educated man with a degree from the University of Maryland (1913) and one from Carnegie Tech (1916). He was also a man who knew the detail workings of a steel business, having started as a machinist helper in a fabricating plant.

"Did you see in Time magazine what Mr. White had to say about Henry J. Kaiser," stated Edward Smouse, talking about an article in the business section of the magazine following World War II. The government had financed the building of additional steel furnaces at one of Republic's mills during the war. Through some underhanded maneuvering Kaiser had bought the furnaces as government surplus. As a corporate executive, White did not have kind words for Kaiser's purchase of the furnaces on Republic's property.

"I think Uncle Fritz had an honest approach to the labor problem," Jack Hart was commenting on a quote in Newsweek over a looming steel workers' striker. White, who cared for the men of the steel industry, could remember the days when he worked side by side with the employees of his company. His quote was to the effect that a strike might not be too bad since it would bring a lot of grievances "out in the open." Surprisingly, the men also saw the quote and felt they would get fair treatment at the bargaining table; the looming strike at Republic didn't occur after all.

This was the man who rose to the top of the steel industry, but never forgot his roots. During the years that his parents were still alive, he often visited his boyhood home in Oakland. It wasn't at all unusual to see this tall, quiet man talking with old friends in Harned's drug store or buying a cigar at Gonder's confectionery store.

His father, Mr. Charles F. white, had been in the lumber business most of his adult life. (In his elder years he was also a justice of the peace.) No doubt some of his father's association with the woods and the out-of-doors rubbed off on Fritz. He began investing his money in land in the county. One particularly large tract of land that he put together near McHenry, he called White Face Farm. He adopted the concept of timber farming for the several hundred acres of ground that had "saw timber" on it. In the fields which were still open, he bought and grazed beef cattle.

Through his association with Oakland in the early 1950's, Charles White became interested in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Previously, the members of the Loar family had bequeathed money to the hospital in their wills. Fritz concluded that money wasn't the only thing which could assist the hospital. In January 1956, he gave the White Face Farm complete with equipment and grazing cattle to the county commissioners of Garrett County, to be for the exclusive benefit of the hospital.

In the years since this gift to the hospital, the county commissioners have administered their trust wisely. Parts of the land have been sold, the cattle were marketed for a good price, and the Garrett County Airport now occupies part of the farm.

After his retirement from the steel industry, Charles M. "Fritz" White moved to a home in Florida. When he died in 1977, it was with the knowledge that he had made a substantial contribution to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Recycling Action Alert

Thanks to response from our elected officials, the League of Women Voters of Garrett County will no longer operate as a recycling drop-off point, as of Friday, March 15. In addition, the office on Alder Street will be relocated to 202 East Alder Street starting on that date.

The league thanks the general public and concerned citizens for their increased participation over the last one and one/half years, and wishes to encourage all residents who have not yet participated in the county-wide recycling program to do so.

Interested persons are asked to refer to the article in this week's edition of The Republican for a schedule of temporary pick-ups throughout the county.

FRIENDS OF THE RUTH ENLOW LIBRARY

by Sull McCartney

A check for two hundred and sixty dollars was recently given to the library from Friend's Book Endowment Fund to purchase 13 books. The fund was started in 1986 and to date has purchased 59 books or books on tape. The number of fully funded endowments is now 28. For those who are not aware of this fund, anyone can fund an endowment by donating $200. The interest is used to purchase one book every year. A book plate is placed in each volume giving the donor's name and any dedication requested. The donor may stipulate the type of book and which branch of the library it is for, if desired. These funds make excellent memorials or long term gifts to the library. To fund an endowment or for more information, write to: Friend's Book Endowment Fund, 6 North Second Street, Oakland, MD 21550.

Sam VanSickle is our most recent life member.

I have read several good books in the last month. Clyde Edgerton's new novel, Killer Diller, has some of the same characters as his earlier work, Walking Across Egypt. If you liked his previous books, you will like Killer Diller.

Martha Grimes has another winner with The Old Contemptibles. The plot isn't her best, but the ongoing development of her characters and their relationships more than compensates for any weakness in that department.

Black Cherry Blues by James Lee Burke is about an ex-cop in Louisiana forced to defend himself and his adopted daughter from the bad guys. Black Cherry Blues reminds me of a good Elmore Leonard novel. I plan to read more of Mr. Burke's work.

It is the last day of school in Elm Haven, a small midwestern town, the kids are anxiously awaiting dismissal and looking forward to a typical summer of baseball, fishing and free movies in the park. Then Tubby Cook goes to the rest room and never returns and things go rapidly downhill thereafter. Instead of the usual fun and games, evil stalks the people of Elm Haven, especially the children. Summer of Night by Dan Simmons is a very well written albeit spooky book. I have never read Stephen King, but if his books are this good I have been missing something. I wish some King fan would let me know how Summer of Night compares to King's work.

Delegate Edwards Incorrectly Quoted In Budget Story

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards was incorrectly quoted in a story concerning the state budget that appeared in last week's issue of The Republican.

In the story, Edwards was quoted as saying that he would rather see increased taxes than to cut money from popular local programs.

What he actually stated, however, was that he would rather see "cuts" spread evenly throughout various programs, and that "everybody should chip in to help balance the state budget."

"Please let me make it very clear that I am not in favor of increased taxes," he explained this week.

The Republican regrets the error.

On a related note, Edwards also wanted to stress the fact that, even with the proposed cuts in local educational aid, Garrett County would still realize an increase in that funding. "It would be more appropriately termed a cut of an increase," he stated.

House Passes Budget Bills; Presents $11.6 Million Budget To Senate

According to District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards, the Maryland House of Delegates has now passed two budget bills, one to balance the budget for the current year and one to generate revenue for FY92. An $11.6 million budget for the coming year has been approved by the House.

The FY92 budget bill was contingent on two taxes -- one to reinstate the five percent sales tax on cigarettes and one to eliminate Maryland's 40 percent tax break on capital gains.

Edwards explained that he voted in favor of the cigarette tax simply because it was a "reinstatement of the sales tax that had previously been taken off the sale of cigarettes."

However, Edwards, along with 22 of the House's 25 Republicans, voted against changing the capital gains tax from a 40 to a 20 percent shelter. At present, 40 percent of all capital gains are exempt from state income taxes. The House bill would reduce that exemption to 20 percent.

"I felt this was more of a business or economic development issue," stated Edwards, adding, "The tax would affect everyone who makes a certain amount of profit from selling a house, not just those who are wealthy."

He explained that the proposal is not a good move for the economy because profits made from those types of sales by state residents almost always are recycled back into the economy.

Together, the tax proposals amount to approximately $74 million in revenue that will be added to balance the 1992 budget. A proposal to find that money elsewhere, in the event the taxes would not be approved by the entire legislature, would take the form of cuts in state aid to local jurisdictions, especially educational aid.

Even if cuts in educational revenue become necessary, the amount of money Garrett County receives will still be an increase from last year, according to Edwards. The amount of new money the county would receive for next year, he said, would be approximately $700,000.

Edwards also noted that he has always voted for the budget because, even though "there are some things in there you may not like, the whole package is more beneficial than detrimental."

After three rounds of cuts, the $11.6 billion budget approved by the House and sent to the Senate resulted in the cutting of a total of $507 million from the FY92 budget. Following is a partial listing of some of the program cuts: $100 million from the state's "rainy day" fund; $28 million from the state health insurance surplus; $20 million from the state accident fund; $18 million from Program Open Space and the Agricultural Land Preservation program; $10 million from the Waterway Improvement Fund; $7.2 million from the proposed Rocky Gap golf course project; and a $5.5 million retrieval in unclaimed lottery prizes.

State Welfare Aid To Be Cut April 1

State welfare recipients will be receiving a skimpier monthly stipend, beginning April 1, if Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer's recent proposal is accepted by state legislators. The administration's plans to cut benefits to help balance the budget were announced just this week, and would affect some 98,000 cases throughout the state, according to reports.

The move was reportedly made because of the administration's contention that legislators have refused to raise taxes, and because of the increased number of persons applying to the state for welfare benefits. Specifically, the cuts would affect the General Public Assistance Program and Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). Those programs would be cut back to last year's level.

The reductions in monthly benefits would amount to between $4 and $16 per individual monthly check, depending on the size of the family. However, reports indicate that those same recipients would now be eligible for an increase in the federal food stamp program, which might serve to offset the loss from state aid.

Linowes Plan Defeated by Assembly; Will Study In Summer Sessions

The 1991 Maryland General Assembly this weekend defeated the proposal by the Linowes Commission to restructure the state's tax system and direct more money to the poorer jurisdictions. However, reports indicate that legislators will study the recommendations during the summer months for review next year.

Committees in both the House and Senate (the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee) voted down the $800 million tax proposal, that included, among other things, an increase in the state sales tax from five to five and one/half percent, a more progressive income tax structure aimed at higher-income individuals, and a two percent personal property tax on motor vehicles and boats.

The bill was introduced by the Schaefer administration.

The comprehensive plan is reportedly seen as deserving of merit by most legislators, but more study and review is seen as necessary before the proposal becomes law.

The bill recommended that the state sales tax be applied to such services as auto repairs and tanning salons. The plan also sought to place less of the tax burden on middle and low income taxpayers and more on the wealthier taxpayers.

Predictions are that a bill addressing those inequities will be formulated for next year's General Assembly.

Farm Bureau Backs Private Land Proposal

With the advent of extensive environmental regulation in the last two decades, the legislature and courts have increasingly abandoned the concept that a property owner has some fundamental rights to use and develop land, as long as there is no harm being done to others, says the Maryland Farm Bureau.

Jack Miller, legislative liaison for Farm Bureau says that increasingly, private property owners are being asked to bear the burden and cost of government decisions, decisions that are made in the interest of the public at large that reach beyond the protection of public health and safety.

"Private property rights are the basis for all economic progress," Miller said. "Unless people can feel secure in their ability to retain the fruits of their labor, there is little incentive to save and expand their capital investments. The Maryland Private Land Rights Protection Act (SB-289/HB-919) would recognize property rights by placing a cost of compensation on proposed legislation assessed as being a constitutional taking. Farm Bureau supports this legislation."

This bill requires the Attorney General to develop a program containing a checklist and guidelines for the evaluation of risk and avoidance of unanticipated constitutional taking under Maryland law and assist state agencies in the identification and evaluation of governmental policies that may have taking implications.

It also states that starting on September 1, 1991, all proposed state legislative bills with constitutional taking implications shall include an assessment of the constitutional taking implications, including an analysis of at least the following elements:

1. The likelihood that the proposed bill, if passed, could result in a constitutional taking, including a description of how the taking affects private land rights;

2. Alternatives to the proposed prefiled bill or proposed bill that would fulfill the state's legal obligation but that would reduce the impact on the private land owner and thus, the taking risk; and

3. An estimate of a financial cost to the state for compensation and the source of payment in the state's budget.

Farm Bureau members are urged to contact their legislators, as well as members of the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee and the House Constitutional and Administrative Law Committee, asking for their support of the Maryland Private Land Rights Protection Act (respectively SB-289, HB-919).

Seat Belt Bill Passes House

A bill that expands the state's mandatory seat belt law and raises the age of children who must wear a seat belt was passed this week by the House of Delegates, in a 117-11 vote.

The bill was amended by the House to require the driver and front-seat passengers of lighter-weight trucks to wear a seat belt, and also requires that children under the age of 10 wear seat belts. Children who weigh less than 40 pounds would have to be restrained in a safety seat or an approved safety booster seat.

The House Judiciary Committee removed a requirement, however, that would allow a police officer to stop someone because he was not wearing a seat belt. As stated in the current law, motorists still may only be charged with the seat belt violation if they are stopped for some other reason.

Open Meetings Bill Approved

The Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee voted 9-2 last week to approve a bill that would strengthen Maryland's open meeting laws -- laws that are reportedly the weakest in the nation. The bill seeks to close loopholes in the current law, establish a review board to resolve disputes about when a meeting should be closed or open, and would inflict penalties for violators of up to $100.

The bill, expected to go to the Senate floor next week, would also delete a clause in the current law that allows governing bodies to go into closed session with a two-thirds majority vote.

Abortion Foes Will Campaign To Overturn Law

Following the recent passage of Maryland's new abortion-rights law in the Maryland General Assembly, opponents of the measure are reportedly gearing up to campaign for its overturn.

The plans reportedly include placing the decision in the hands of the voters in the form of a referendum in the November 1992 General Election. The referendum must be backed by 33,373 signatures, or three percent of the registered Maryland voters.

The new law, signed into effect by Governor William Donald Schaefer February 18, allows abortions to be performed until such time as the fetus is able to live outside the womb. After that time, abortion would only be allowed to save the life or health of the mother or if the fetus is deformed.

Abortion opponents reportedly believe that law to be too liberal.

Education Board

fer, but did ask that the agencies "hold the line" on future purchases of goods and services wherever possible. The commissioners stated that those agencies who assist in alleviating the cash flow problem will be noted, while those who do not will be noted as well.

In light of the request, the board members made various decisions based on the budget limitations. Firstly, the funding of the yearly transportation banquet will not be handled by the education board as it has been in the past, nor will the funding of the yearly retirement dinner, which is usually held in the spring for all retiring employees.

Mikal Moomau, board member, stated that the funding cut in no way was to show non-support of the transportation employees, nor the persons scheduled for retirement. Mrs. Moomau went on to say that the transportation employees have done an "exceptional job" this year in dealing with the many schedule changes in the southern end of the county. Ryscavage concurred with Mrs. Moomau, stating that the board certainly considered the banquets meritorious and important, but the budget had to be curtailed.

A travel request for an art teacher to attend an art convention in Atlanta was also denied. The teacher planned to pay her own way to the convention, as well as her own room and board, but she was to be gone for three school days, and the board would be required to hire a substitute for those three days.

Beverly Murphy, school board president, stated that although the monetary amount may seem small, all attempts at cutting "goods and services" will have to be made by the board.

Ryscavage also stated that any planned travel expenses will now be cut, as will any other previously planned affairs, for the remainder of the fiscal year.

More coverage of the Garrett County Board of Education meeting will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

The 82nd Airborne Sends Thanks To County

A letter was recently received by the Family Rental Center in Oakland, sent from members of the 82nd Airborne Division stationed in the Persian Gulf area.

At the start of the war, the Family Rental Center established a drop-off point for packages to be sent to the division. Several Garrett Countians took advantage of the drop-off point and a large care package was sent to the military group. Officials then asked that no more be sent because of such an influx from all over the country.

The letter is as follows:

Dear Citizens of Garrett County, Md.,

Thank you very much for the box. It boosted our spirits and morale immeasurably.

We, the men of the 307th ENGR, 82nd Airborne Division, are proud to be here doing a job some consider unglorious.

Keep us in your hearts and prayers as we always do and we'll be home as soon as we have taken care of business. Airborne!

Sincerely,
the PAC RATS - 307th Engr.

The names signed to the bottom of the letter were nearly illegible, but two of the seven signed names were accompanied by further expressions of gratitude: "I enjoyed everything in the box. If you have the time again, send more!" and "Thank you very much. Please send more."

Efforts to send more goods to the soldiers have not been announced; however, notification will be given if another drop-off point is to be established.

SOLDIER

I was that which others did not want to be.
I went where others fear to go, and did what others failed to do.
I asked nothing from those who gave nothing, and reluctantly accepted the thought of eternal loneliness.
Should I fail, I have seen the face of terror, felt the stinging cold of fear, and enjoyed the "sweet taste of a moment's love."
I have cried, pained, and hoped . . . but most of all, I have lived times others would say best forgotten.
At least someday I will be able to say that I was proud of what I was . . . a Soldier.

Probation before judgment was also the revised ruling for Wendell Benge, 32, Nicholasville, Ky., who had originally been found guilty of CDS possession and CDS paraphernalia possession.

His initial sentence was a 30-day jail term (all but 48 hours suspended) and fines totaling $150.

Benge had been charged on November 16, 1990, by the Maryland State Police.

Girl Scout Troop 5052 Busy With Many Activities

Girl Scout Junior Troop 5052 from Accident has been busy this past year with many learning activities. The girls meet twice a month on Wednesdays and their leaders are Doris Cooper and Nancy Friend.

Hiking, researching, folklore, cooking, and recycling are only a few of the activities that have kept the troop busy this past year.

The members have gone on several hikes. On one of the hikes, they shared a healthy snack. They also visited several old graveyards where they examined and discussed the dates of birth and death and the names on the tombstones.

The troop went Christmas caroling and presented love gifts and homemade cookies to the people they visited.

Planning a healthy meal, including shopping for food, preparing, serving, and cleaning up after the meal, was the highlight of one Saturday activity. Each member invited one guest to the luncheon.

The girls recycled meat trays by turning them into Christmas decorations. They also recycled milk jugs into Easter baskets.

Yellow ribbons were tied to the trees in the yard of the troop leaders. They also sent letters and cards to service men and women stationed in the Middle East.

A homemade drop cookie bake-off was held and the three top winners took their cookies to a mall showing in Morgantown, W.Va., on March 9.

Additionally, the troop had a booth at the Morgantown Scout Show with the theme being "Come Join Us -- Support Our U.S. Troops."

The scouts will be traveling to the Columbus Center of Science and Industry in Ohio in April.

One leader stated, "Our troop has fun learning and sharing and working together. Learning to work and play together are important activities for anyone to learn."

Aglow Fellowship To Hear Director Of Salem Home

The Cumberland Chapter of Women's Aglow Fellowship will hold its monthly meeting at the Kensington-Algonquin on Wednesday, March 20, at 9:30 a.m. The speaker for the month is Mrs. Louise Sutermeister Richards who is the executive director and founder of Maryland Salem Children's Trust, located on the Lower New Germany Road near Grantsville.

Salem, which means peace, provides care, housing, therapy, occupational training and (when needed) a permanent home for abused, neglected, trouble or abandoned children.

The Salem concept originated in the 1950's in West Germany, where presently there are two Salem Children's Villages and a Salem Health Center. Mrs. Richards spent several years traveling and working in Germany. It was during that period of time that she was "led" to a Salem Children's Village in Stadtsteinach, Germany. She spent a year there learning the Salem concept, discipline and experiencing personal growth. On her return home in July of 1976, she founded the Maryland Salem Children's Trust. That summer she traveled cross-country in a V.W. "bug" to raise money and support for Salem, and in 1977, Salem became licensed by the Maryland Social Services Administration.

Mrs. Sutermeister Richards holds a B.A. degree (cum laude) from Bryn Mawr College and a M.S.W. from the University of Maryland in Baltimore. She is a licensed social worker and was recognized by the American Association of University Women as their "Woman of the Month" in December 1987. She is also a certified horsemanship instructor.

Women's Aglow Fellowship is a non-denominational Christian Women's organization. It holds monthly meetings every third Wednesday of each month in the Kensington-Algonquin Clubroom. The meeting starts at 9:30 a.m. with a half hour of fellowship. Coffee, tea and donuts or fruitbreads are served. Luncheon is available after the meeting in the Dining Room. Reservations are necessary. For more information, persons may call 895-5041.

"MD., YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL" WINNERS -- The Dennett Road School recently held a Maryland, You Are Beautiful (MYAB) Student Literacy Writing Competition, in cooperation with the MYAB Office. The theme of the contest was drug abuse prevention, and prompts for all age groups at Dennett Road (Kindergarten-second, third-fifth) gave students an opportunity to suggest positive ways to encourage drug-free behavior to others. There were 244 participants at the school, and pictured above are the winners of the two age groups. Rachel Lane, left, a fifth grader, won the contest in the third through fifth group; and Molly McGowan, right, a second grader, won in the K-second group. Standing behind the winners is Dennett Road principal, Clark Sharpless. The compositions of the two girls will be sent on to the G.C. Board of Education, where they will be judged with all area winners to determine the county-wide champion. Sharpless wished to thank the judges of the contest, who were Diane Thayer, Betty Foy, Betty Naylor, Dorothy Spade, and Rev. Ray Ursin.

David Moe, owner and manager of TCI, said that through Browning's book, customers can better understand their own computers. "One customer who purchased the book called already and asked when the advanced book would be published," Moe said, adding that the book "epitomizes Browning's attention to detail and to customer service."

Sarbanes Supports Military Family Assistance Act

Senator Paul Sarbanes has joined in sponsoring the Military Family Assistance Act which would provide benefits to U.S. military personnel serving in the Persian Gulf. "This legislation will help provide compensation for the dangerous and difficult mission our service men and women are performing in the Gulf," Sarbanes said.

The Military Family Assistance Act will provide reservists with a 60-day transitional coverage under the military health care system for those who have no private health plan after they are discharged. The Act will also help provide children of those serving in Operation Desert Storm with school-based counseling in areas from which large numbers of service personnel have been sent to the Persian Gulf.

"Because of the increased demand brought on by the deployment of active duty personnel and the call-up of reservists, current military child care facilities are overburdened," Sarbanes said. "This legislation provides funds to support existing child care facilities and to supplement military family-support programs.

"This measure specifically addresses some of the hardships that Operation Desert Storm has brought to military families here at home," he added. "The immediacy of these difficulties makes it important to take steps as soon as possible to enhance the military family support network."

Many Loving Memories Of
Terry L. Wilson

You may be gone,
but you will never be forgotten.
You will always be loved by many forever and ever.
You are the best son, brother and best

You would have been the best husband and father.
You are no longer here but God knows you left behind your strength for others to carry on as you would want them to do.

While the German students are here they will be housed by families of students who attend Southern High School. They will attend school with their host brothers and sisters, and will take part in a variety of activities planned for their education and enjoyment.

A Welcome Banquet will be held in their honor at Southern Middle School, March 19, at 7 p.m. in the cafetorium. Following the banquet, the students will get to know each other as they dance or relax to the music of David Zimmerman, D.J.

On March 23 the group will travel to Pittsburgh to see Station Square and to shop at Century III Mall.

The highlight of their stay will be a visit into the Germanic culture of Garrett County, as they will be welcomed by the students at Swan Meadow School and by the John C. Yoder family. They will also tour Rigidply Rafters, Inc. Becoming acquainted with the Amish in the local area has always been one of the German exchange students' most memorable experiences, according to Southern High teacher and program coordinator Joan Lambert. The Amish people were originally from parts of Germany and the German-speaking part of Switzerland.

In addition to visiting the Amish, the exchange students will also tour Sweet Water, a maple syrup farm on Route 50, owned by Don and Janie Eskridge. Maple syrup is not produced in Germany, so this experience is also educational as well as interesting for the German guests, Mrs. Lambert said.

A farewell party will be held at Alpine Lake Resort on April 1, and the students will return to Germany April 5.

Following is a list of exchange students and their host families: Oliver Ahrenshop, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. William Devens and Matthew; Uwe Albers, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Browning and Patrick; Curd Reinert, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kierstead and Scot Hamilton; Simone Boer, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Arden Reeves and Jennifer; Uwe Gaumann, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jones and David; Markus Gormanns, hosted by Mrs. Ann Ellis and Melanie; Meike Grundling, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dabney and Erin; Ute Nuttelmann-Klauss, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley DeWitt and Larissa; Biance Reiss, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. James Browning and Christy; Sidra Khalifi, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Trickett and Gretchen; Tanja Koeberlein, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. George Scheffel and Dawn; Ines Langenkamp, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Manning Smith and Ashley; Andrea Leistritz, hosted by Rev. and Mrs. Richard Tepper and Tiffany; Thorsten Luehrs, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ayers and Lisa Bittinger; Jens Mohrmann, hosted by Mrs. Wendy Bauer and Cole; Annette Rawolle, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Doug Liller and Michelle; Nils Redde, hosted by Mrs. Bonnie Swyter and Malyna; Michael Reimers, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Darvin Friend and Brian; Birte Rottmann, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Gracie and Jessica; Katja Steinert, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Skiles and Mindy; Klaas Teerling, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. James Simms and Jason; Daniela Temme, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Massi and Maria; Kirsten Treidler, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. John Umstot and Susan; and Maren Vallen, hosted by Drs. Student Volunteers Help Refurbish Habitat House

Student volunteers from Loyola College of Maryland, Baltimore, were in the area recently to help refurbish the first Habitat for Humanity home built in Garrett County some years ago.

The seven-member group, along with their advisor, spent several days repainting and doing minor repairs at the house. During their stay, they were hosted by Bethel United Methodist Church, Mtn. Lake Park.

The group slept in the basement of the church and volunteers packed and prepared meals for them.

Others assisting with donations or the donation of services included St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland; Ida Maust and family, Bittinger; Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Oak Park; Sandy Flanigan and family, Deer Park; Southern High School, Oakland; and Par-Matt Lanes.

Members of the volunteer group included Kathy Clark, advisor; Sharon Finley, John Baummer, Jennifer Bellone, Duffy Jednak, Christy Bateman, Ann Gwynn, and Megan McCormack. Clark is the director of student life at Loyola.

All the members of the volunteer group agreed that the project was worthwhile and rewarding.

"The main reason I decided to do this was to satisfy my curiosity about Appalachia and the people who live there," said John Baummer. "It was different. I didn't expect a lot of things -- conditions of living, culture, standards of living. It was very enlightening."

"I was not as shocked as I thought I would be," said Duffy Jednak. "It was a week of working hard. There is a need for education and how the condition of houses will be kept. I realized how much we take for granted."

"I felt a really warm welcome in this community," said Jennifer Bellone. "It was so different from the city. And the generosity of the food was great."

Habitat for Humanity is a program that helps those who are willing to help themselves. It provides low-cost mortgages to those who would otherwise not be able to afford a home of their own. The homes are built mainly by volunteers -- some with a degree of expertise, some with a willingness to put in a hard day's work and to learn as they go.

Volunteers and donations are always welcome.

CRIME SOLVERS

The Garrett County Crime Solvers cases of the week concern two incidents of theft that occurred during February.

Unknown persons apparently broke into the Grantsville Furniture Mart sometime between Feb. 16 at 9 p.m. and Feb. 17 at 6 a.m. The business is located in the Grantsville Shopping Plaza.

Once inside the establishment, the suspects removed numerous items, including televisions, VCR's, scanners, walkie-talkies, car radios, and speakers. All items stolen were Radio Shack or Tandy products.

In another incident of theft, unknown persons entered the truck parking area of Perry's Solid Waste Disposal on Feb. 18. The culprits then removed several CB radios from under the dash of each truck. Total loss in this case is estimated at $500.

All leads in these cases have been exhausted and Crime Solvers needs the help of any persons who may have information about the thefts. Persons with information are urged to contact Crimes Solvers by calling 334-1975 or by writing to Crime Solvers, P.O. Box 731, Oakland, Md. 21550.

Persons are not asked to give their names, and they do not have to testify in court. Rewards up to $1,000 are available for persons who provide tips that lead to an arrest.

Lakers Open Baseball Campaign With Pair Of Wins Over Chowan

The Garrett Community College baseball team opened its 1991 campaign with a pair of big wins Friday afternoon over Chowan College in Murfreesboro, North Carolina, 7-3 and 16-4. The doubleheader marked the beginning of a 39-game schedule for the Lakers, who are coached by Lawrence Nesselrodt.

For the past several seasons, Nesselrodt has taken his teams to North Carolina over their spring break from classes; however, this is the first time the Lakers have won in that state.

After falling behind 3-0 in the first inning of the opening contest, GCC starting pitcher Tony Angelo worked his way out of a jam in that inning and again in the second to keep his team close. In the fourth frame, Todd Booth led off for the Lakers by reaching on an infield error. He then stole second and went to third on a force play at second. With Mike Clark at first, John Cullen followed with a three-run shot to tie the score at 3-3.

Mick Bayle, GCC's returning first-team All-American who batted a sizzling .496 last season, opened the Laker fifth inning with a solo homer to give Garrett a 4-3 lead. D.G. Largent, of Hampshire High School, then reached on an other infield error. Dwayne Woodring, the courtesy runner for Largent, advanced to second on a sacrifice, moved to third on another infield error, and came home on a sacrifice by Clark.

The Lakers added their two final runs in the sixth on bases-loaded walks by Largent and Booth to make it 7-3.

Angelo, who was relieved by Brian Shaffer in the seventh, recorded the win on the mound. He had six strikeouts.

Garrett maintained their momentum as the nightcap opened, jumping out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. The scoring came on a bases-loaded single by Largent, a fielder's choice by Ujcic, and a two-run single by Chris Lollis.

Ujcic finished with two singles and a double, to finish with five hits on the day, while Bayle went two-for-three in the nightcap with three RBI, Angelo recorded a single and a double, and Mike Leshok rapped a double, walked three times, and accounted for four Laker runs.

The Lakers practiced this week in South Carolina and will return to action this Saturday with their home opener against Anne Arundel CC.

Bayle, who was named to the All Region XX and All JUCO West Division all-star teams last year, has the most impressive stats among the GCC returnees; however, also back are last season's Bucky Leichliter, who batted .370 with six home runs; D.G. Largent, out of Hampshire High School who hit .380; and Ujcic, of Frankfort High School, who also finished with a .380 average.

Returning pitchers include Mike Berlin, who went 3-3 last year, with 48 strikeouts and a 3.87 ERA; Angelo, a two-time Western Pennsylvania American Legion all-star who was red-shirted last year; and former Petersburg High standout Mark Rohrbaugh, who was 3-0 with one save and had a 1.64 ERA in relief work last year.

Three Great Moves --

1. SCHWARZKOPF MOVES COALITION FORCES INTO KUWAIT
2. IRAQI SOLDIERS SURRENDER ALMOST IMMEDIATELY
3. 92-X WXIE-FM MOVES FROM 92.1 TO 92.3 ON YOUR FM DIAL

92-X congratulates all of our servicemen in the Persian Gulf for their outstanding efforts in freeing the people of Kuwait and bringing peace back to the Middle East.

We'd like to say our move from 92.1 to 92.3 on your FM dial was done in celebration of the end of the war. But, to be honest, we've been working on this for over a year, and we would have moved anyway, even if the world had never heard of Saddam Hussein.

By moving from 92.1 to 92.3 on the dial, more Garrett Countians will be able to pick up 92-X at home, at work, and in the car. That means more will be able to hear our award-winning local news coverage, Paul Harvey, and more classic hits 24 hours a day.

Barring any unforeseen events, we expect to make the big switch this Friday. And, as a bonus, we'll be tripling our power so more of you can enjoy Steve and Susan in the morning, and more classic hits all day long.

Three Local Wrestlers Finish Among Top Four In State

by Craig Speicher

Fourth place isn't as nice as first place, but it's still a very nice place to be in the case of the Maryland State 1A/2A Wrestling Tournament, held recently at Westminster. Two Northern Huskies and one Southern Ram each finished fourth in their respective weight classes there. By doing so, each victor bested 54 other potential and actual contenders, as there are 58 schools in divisions 1A/2A sponsoring varsity wrestling teams.

For Northern High, sophomore Allen Bittinger (130 pounds) won a place finish at the state level for his second straight year, having placed third last year. This season, he had been ranked second statewide among all divisions in his class. A Region One runner-up, he concludes this year with a personal record of 29-5.

His teammate, junior Scott Beitzel (275), also took fourth place, after being rated sixth in the state throughout the season. Beitzel, the only Garrett County grappler to win a Region One championship this year, ends the season at 27-4.

Southern's Jason Burgess (103), a freshman, was also a Region One runner-up. During the state tourney, he scored a particularly impressive win against Region One champion Sean Norman, knocking him out of the running, 10-0. Burgess, who won his consolation semifinal match by default when his opponent disabled him with an illegal hold, finishes the season at 28-5.

In the 21-year history of the State Tournament, only three Garrett County matmen earned place finishes there in their first varsity season, and strangely, all three of them won this year. Beitzel, although a junior, made his varsity debut this season.

Two other county wrestlers didn't win place finishes, but contributed to their respective team scores.

Northern senior Tim Thomas (135), a state runner-up last year who was ranked second in the state in his class going into this year's event, won two out of four matches before being eliminated. In his most critical contest, with the eventual runner-up, his match went into overtime, but remained deadlocked, whereupon Thomas lost on the basis of tie-breaking criteria. Nonetheless, his two victories contributed to Northern's final team score of 28, good for 16th place among 1A/2A teams.

Southern sophomore Gary Sweitzer (112) entered the state competition as a Region One number four seed, facing a Region Three champion (number one seed). Only rarely do number four seeds eliminate regional champions, but in this case, Sweitzer did just that, before dropping two straight contests. His single win added to Southern's final team score of 13. The Rams finished in a tie with Catoctin for 25th place — among the top half of all 1A/2A schools statewide — despite ending the regular season without a full team.

Other area schools scored and placed as follows: Fort Hill 23rd (with 15 points); Beall 28th (10 points); and Westmar tied with Pikesville at 32nd (seven points).

The team championship went to Owings Mills, with 125 points.

Martin's Upsets Niner's, 86-83, In Mt. Top League Playoffs

Niner Construction/A&A Realty, defending and undefeated regular season champions, saw their 24-game winning streak come to a halt Sunday as they were eliminated by fourth seed Martin's Auto Glass, 86-83, in semifinal action of The Mt. Top Basketball League playoffs.

Martin's took advantage of the cold shooting Niners in the first half to build a 28-13 lead midway through the first half. However, Niner's battled back behind the shooting of Tom Panther to cut the lead to six at halftime, 40-34.

Martin's scored the first three baskets of the second half to take a 12-point lead, but Niner's was not dismayed as they fought back to take a 60-58 edge with eight minutes remaining in the game. The teams traded leads for the next three minutes until Martin's took a one-point lead with less than three minutes remaining. Then, with 2:30 remaining and his team down a point, Steve Liller, who scored 20 of his game high 25 points in the second half, picked up his fifth personal foul as he fouled Tom Stem on a lay-up. Stem hit both free throws to put Martin's up by three points and a lead they would never relinquish.

Niner's kept within striking distance down the stretch despite the clutch free throw shooting of Martin's, which went 10 for 14 from the foul line in the last 2:30 of the game. Niner's was given one last gasp with two seconds remaining. After a Niner's turnover with two seconds left, Martin's, leading by three points, sent their inbounds pass awry. Ted Raynovich chased the ball down and his hurried 23-footer was too hard as the buzzer sounded the end of the game.

Dennis Gibson paced the Martin's attack with 22 points and teammates Tom Stem (19), Poke Winters (18), and Pete Brosnihan (12) all added double figures to the victory. Niner's was led by Steve Liller with 25 points. His brother, Kevin Liller, added 17 points, Ken Niner scored 14, and Tom Panther had 12 points for Niner's, who finished the season with a 19-1 record.

In the second semifinal game, second-seeded Buffalo Coal, behind the hot shooting of Brian Selders, rolled to a 78-66 victory over sixth seed, Miners & Merchants Bank. Buffalo led throughout most of the game and was able to hold off any rally that the Miners were able to muster. The Miners were never able to get any closer than five points which they achieved midway through the second half.

Selders poured in 31 points for Buffalo to lead all scorers. Teammates Mike Saturday (12) and Mike McLaughlin (11) also helped in the Buffalo attack. Allen Selders of Miners & Merchants led his team with 23 points.

The championship game will be tonight at Garrett Community College, starting at 8 p.m. The game can also be heard on WXIE (92.3 FM) starting at 7:50 p.m.

Quarterfinals: Buffalo Coal def. Fairfax Stone, 118-106; Niner Construction def. National Guard, 96-84; Miners & Merchants def. G&H Masonry, 91-85; Martin's Auto Glass def. Video Connection, 100-66.

Semifinals: Martin's Auto Glass def. Niner Construction, 86-83; Buffalo Coal def. Miners & Merchants, 78-66.

Members Of GCC Women's Team Reflect On Successful Season

For the first time ever, the Garrett Community College women's basketball team played in the championship game of the Maryland JUCO Tournament held recently at the Community College of Baltimore. Although they lost to Hagerstown Junior College, 62-45, the six-girl squad of the Lakers capped their season with outstanding performances in the tournament, defeating third-seeded Allegany Community College, 59-47, and second seeded Catonsville, 59-56.

Sophomore Marcia DeBerry led the Lakers in scoring throughout the tournament and was named to the All-Tournament first team. Tracey Henline and Karen Gurrera were named to the second team.

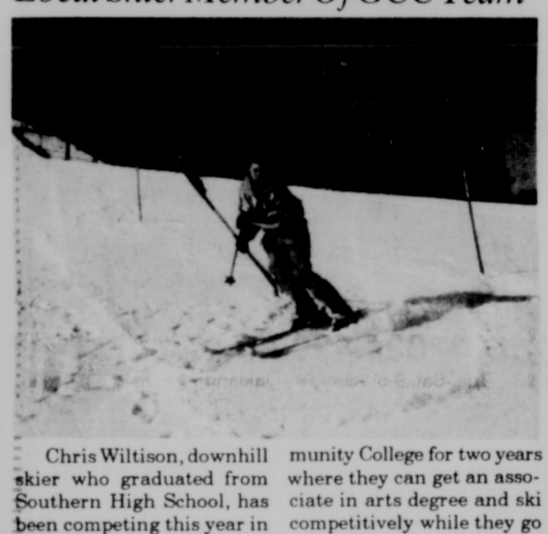
For Marcia DeBerry, playing in the championship game was a lifetime dream come true. "Tracey and I played together all through high school (at East Preston) and never made it to the tournament before," she said. "It was a great experience. We are very proud of our team because no one thought we could do so well. When ACC and Catonsville came out on the floor, we could tell they thought they would beat us, but we all had the desire to prove we could do it. We just got fired up and had to get it into our heads that we could win."

DeBerry also said that the team was tired because they had to play four games in five days, with only six girls.

Coach Dennis Gibson added his thoughts to the 12-10 season the women completed. "Anytime you combine athletics and academics you should be rewarded," he said. "Tracey Henline and Marcia DeBerry are two players who have worked at being the best on the court and in the classroom and I am happiest for them. Being able to cap their season with outstanding performances is something for them to remember for the rest of their lives.

"As a coach your greatest hope is to have a team that over-achieves. We weren't the best overall team, but these girls played to their strengths and covered their weaknesses with outstanding desire. Everyone in the gym that weekend admired what our girls were accomplishing -- including parents, fans, and opposing coaches. They proved themselves, despite the odds," he concluded.

Local Skier Member Of GCC Team



Chris Wiltison, downhill skier who graduated from Southern High School, has been competing this year in skiing events at the Wisp as a member of the Garrett Community College Ski Team. Recently he placed second in the Wisp Memorial Giant Slalom race and third in the Governor's Cup Giant Slalom. He also had two second place finishes in the Washington Ski International Races at the Wisp.

Now a freshman in the Wildlife Management program at Garrett, Wiltison is interested in talking to other skiers at Northern and Southern high schools about enrolling at Garrett Community College for two years where they can get an associate in arts degree and ski competitively while they go to college.

He says it's "a great opportunity" to continue a sport they enjoy while they obtain their first two years of a college education. He said staying in Garrett County appealed to him because he "loves the out-of-doors," and says he enjoys the small classes and "friendly atmosphere" at GCC.

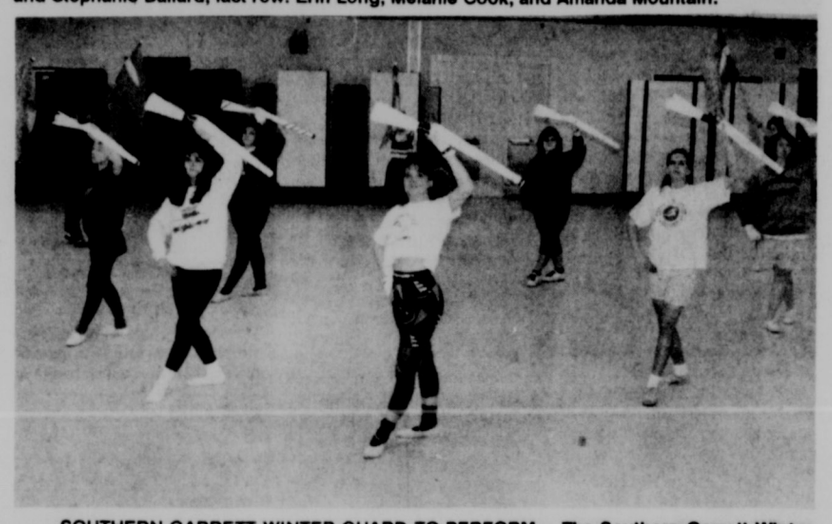
GNB BANKERS WIN RACE - The Bankers Buck Board Race held during the recent Winterfest Celebration at Wisp Resort was won by the team from the Garrett National Bank. Also fielding teams in the event were First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland and Liberty Bank. Receiving the first-place trophy from the King of Winterfest were, left to right, Kathy Refosco, Kitty and Luke Stuart, members of the GNB team. At right is Mike Whipkey, First Federal Oakland branch manager and coordinator of the event for the Winterfest Committee.

DIEHARDS PERFORM AT OPENING -- The Aerobic Diehards recently traveled to Baltimore to perform at the ribbon-cutting ceremony for a new physical education complex at Goucher College. The guest speaker for the event was former NBA player and current congressman, Tom McMillan. The Diehards represent Brenda's Body Shop and are coached by Brenda Brosnihan. Members of the Diehards include, front row, left to right: Sheri Perando, Natalie Wolf, and Christy DeWitt; middle row: Fern Shaffer, Angel Sharpe, Shannon Spurrier, and Stephanie Ballard; last row: Erin Long, Melanie Cook, and Amanda Mountain.



SOUTHERN GARRETT WINTER GUARD TO PERFORM -- The Southern Garrett Winter Guard will be performing an exhibition show for parents on Saturday, March 16, at the old gymnasium at Southern High. The public is invited to attend the free show, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. The group has been practicing since mid-January to perfect their presentation for competition in early spring. The performance is set to music of John Taylor, David Lee Roth, and Frankie Goes To Hollywood. The winter guard is made up of 18 girls who perform a complex drill with rifles and silks on the basketball court floor. The captain of the winter guard is Vickie Karlstrand. Lisa Murray serves as rifle captain, and Tami Carter and Malyna Swyter are assistant silk and rifle captains, respectively. Pictured above are seven of the 18 participants, who are, right to left, Sherry Nelson, Melanie Ellis, Lisa Murray (rifle captain), Jennifer Reeves (assistant rifle captain), Sherry Jordan, Malyna Swyter, and Kim Wampler.

WVU To Have Research Center For Alzheimer's

West Virginia University, Morgantown, will be the site of a federally funded Center for Nuclear Medicine Research in Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders.

"Once again, the efforts of Senator Robert C. Byrd are bringing world-class research to West Virginia," said Dr. Robert D'Alessandri, dean of WVU's School of Medicine.

"This project will be of particular benefit to West Virginia because of the large number of older people residing in the state. We are going to be able to gain new insight into diseases which affect the brain during the aging process," he said.

The center -- which is expected to be allocated $10 million from the U.S. Department of Energy -- will house a Positron Emission Tomography (PET) scanning device.

"This will allow us to do research that can only be done in a few places in the country," said Dr. Deborah Willard, a faculty member in radiology in the School of Medicine. "We think it has a lot of promise."

"The PET scanner enables a doctor to actually watch the brain function," said D'Alessandri. "You can't see what someone is thinking, but you can determine with a great deal of precision which areas of the brain are responding to stimulation. It has the potential to become a very important tool in the study of brain disorders."

The PET scanner is used by injecting the patient with a radioactive tracer. The tracer, often a sugar solution, emits positrons at a predictable rate. The positron is a positively charged subatomic particle with the same mass and magnitude of electrical charge as an electron.

By mapping the distribution of positrons in a portion of the brain, the scanner produces a picture of the metabolism of the sugar in the brain -- allowing researchers and physicians to determine which areas of the brain are active.

Using other tracers, the scanner can map blood flow or other functions in the heart or elsewhere in the body.

Hauser Honored As Appalachian Top Logger

The American Pulpwood Association's Appalachian Technical Divison Policy Committee recently recognized William and Sandra Hauser of Stoney Hill Corporation in Aurora, W.Va., as the region's 1990 Outstanding Logger. The award was presented by Division Chairman Paul Haywood at the association's meeting in Clarks Summit, Pa.

"The selection process was very difficult," said Haywood. "Our committee has five excellent candidates from the eight-state Appalachian region, all of whom deserved our recognition. However, Bill Hauser's operation impressed us most."

The Outstanding Logger program recognizes excellence in five general areas: timber harvesting quality, forest management considerations, business management and professionalism, logging and trucking safety, and community involvement. The winner of the regional award becomes a nominee for APA's National Outstanding Logger recognition.

Haywood cited Hauser's high productivity, Best Management Practices compliance, excellent safety record, and active involvement in the community as reasons for his selection. "Bill is an excellent example of a modern, high-quality, professional logger."

The Outstanding Logger Award program is designed to:

1) recognize outstanding logging contractor performance;

2) raise the visibility of competent, professional independent logging contractors in the forest community;

3) encourage other independent logging contractors to emulate the outstanding performance of the award winners; and

4) improve forester-logger relations by publicly recognizing outstanding logging performance as an essential element of every planned timber harvest.

The American Pulpwood Association Inc. is a nationwide nonprofit trade association responsible for issues that surround the safe and efficient harvest and transportation of forest products from the woods to the mill. APA members include the nation's pulp and paper mills, wood dealers, and independent logging contractors who harvest and transport pulpwood and timber, and equipment companies that manufacture pulpwood and timber harvesting and processing equipment.

One Month To Go In Filing Season; Personal Exemption Error Pops Up

With the April 15th filing deadline only a month away, Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said his office has received more than 950,000 state income tax returns of the 2.2 million expected. "We're receiving an average of 30,000 returns every day in Annapolis," he said.

The comptroller noted that his office has also received hundreds of returns showing unexpected errors in claiming Maryland's personal exemption.

"We're finding hundreds of returns where taxpayers are checking the correct boxes in the exemption area on the top of the form, but they're failing to carry the dollar value to line 58 of either the short or long form," Goldstein said. "In effect, they're cheating themselves by not deducting the value of their personal exemptions from their income.

"Our officials are correcting these returns in processing, but it's a good idea to double-check your return before you mail it in to make sure you don't make the same mistake," he added.

Goldstein reported that more than 38,120 Form 123's had been filed by March 8th. "The Form 123 is a new, convenient form used by single and dependent taxpayers whose income was less than $5,300 but who are due a refund of taxes withheld from their pay," he said.

More than 465,000 Maryland income tax refund checks have also been mailed to taxpayers, averaging $308. "The average check today is nearly 10% greater than the average check issued at this time last year," he said.

Goldstein reported that 22,546 taxpayers have contributed more than $225,000 to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Trust Fund on their state income tax returns.

"So far, 306 taxpayers donated $50 or more, including four returns which included donations of over $300. One taxpayer from Montgomery County donated $500," he said. "The average contribution continues to climb and is now nearly $10."

Montgomery County leads the way with the largest amount contributed ($44,305) from the second largest number of contributors (3,362). The 4,154 contributors from Baltimore County ranked first in numbers of donors. Montgomery County also had the highest percentage of participation, with 5.9% of its taxpayers whose returns have already been processed making contributions to the funds. Montgomery County taxpayers are also making the highest average contribution, $13.18. Calvert Countians are donating the second highest average, $11.84.

"About 3.4% of all the tax returns we've processed so far have contained contributions to the fund," the comptroller said, noting that the contribution activity continues to generally match last year's successful pace.

Goldstein reminded taxpayers that, while any contribution to the fund on line 63 of the short or long form will be subtracted from their refund or added to any additional tax they owe, it will be deductible on the federal and state returns filed next near if they itemize deductions.

"At the same time, taxpayers who donated to the fund on last year's Maryland return should be sure to include that donation amount in the charitable contributions category of deductions on their 1990 federal and state returns, if they are itemizing deductions," he said.

"March is a good time to file because there is very little backlog in the processing. That means you can get your refund check as fast as possible. If you need help with your state return, we're here to help and we have a wide variety of assistance available," Goldstein said.

He reminded taxpayers the 16 state income tax offices will be offering extra hours of free tax help between now and the April 15th filing deadline. All state income tax offices will remain open on Maryland Day, Monday, March 25, and Good Friday, March 29. The hours are 8:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. In addition, telephone assistance will be offered on Monday, April 1 and April 8, from 5:00 p.m. until 7:00 p.m.

Taxpayers can also call or visit any of the state income tax offices on Saturday, April 6 and April 13, from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m.

All of the state income tax offices will remain open on the filing deadline, Monday, April 15, from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all 16 Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The statewide toll-free number for free state income tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

Two New Beacon Courses Offered At GCC Campus

Two new Beacon courses designed for the adult learner are scheduled to start within the next two weeks at Garrett Community College, according to Joan B. Crawford, director of enrollment development.

Writing Family Histories (ENG 209) will be given on Wednesdays from 1 to 2:30 p.m., beginning March 20. Crawford, who will teach this one-credit course, says that students do not have to consider themselves "writers" in order to take it. She sees this course as helping people to tell of their life experiences for their children and for future generations. Because minimum enrollment is required, students are asked to register for this course by Monday, March 18.

The Appalachian Plateau -- Extending Our Boundaries (DS 162) will meet on Thursday afternoons, from 1-5 p.m., from March 28 to June 27. This course may be taken for two college credits, or as a non-credit offering. Instructor Mary Love plans for the class to travel to a different place of interest each week to learn about this area's natural resources, land formations, and man-made structures. Guest speakers will give presentations at the various sites.

Some of the places students in the class will visit are Paw Paw and the C & O Canal, Fort Necessity, Dolly Sods, the St. George Courthouse, Friendship Hill, and Black water Falls. The first class will meet at the college in Room 305-11 of the Continuing Education Building at 1 p.m. on March 28. Other classes will be off-campus. Students are encouraged to register before the first class meeting.

Tuition will be waived for persons 60 years of age or older who enroll in these Beacon courses. Anyone desiring further information should call Crawford at the college, 387-6666.

EMT Class Slated By Southern Squad

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad is sponsoring a 110-hour EMT-A Class which, when passed successfully, allows participants to run with an ambulance company in the State of Maryland.

The class will be held on Monday and Thursday evenings from 7-10 p.m., beginning April 8 at the Southern Squad Hall in Oakland.

Persons interested in taking the class may stop by the Squad hall after 6 p.m. weekdays or may call 334-3000.

The cost of the class is $25 for the textbook which will be reimbursed if the participant runs with a squad for one year.

Pre-registration for the CPR class is required. Those interested should contact the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross at 334-3916 no later than Wednesday, March 20.

The CPR class during the month of April will be held in Friendsville. The date and time will be announced later. Each month the local chapter will offer a CPR class in a different community in Garrett County.

Red Cross To Offer Several CPR Courses

In striving to increase the number of Garrett County residents trained in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR), the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will offer the first of its monthly CPR courses on Saturday, March 30, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Assembly Room of the Garrett County Health Department in Oakland.

The course is eight hours long and will cost $20 per person. This includes the CPR book.

Community CPR teaches: what to do when an infant, a child, or an adult stops breathing, or goes into cardiac arrest; what to do when an infant, a child, or an adult is choking; and more.

When CPR is combined with quick delivery of the right medical care, it has been shown that about 40 percent of cardiac arrest victims can be saved, according to the Red Cross.

FSU Percussion Instructor To Present Recital

Ronald Horner, percussion instructor at Frostburg State University, will present a recital on Wednesday, March 27, at 8 p.m. in Pullen Auditorium, on the FSU campus. The public is invited and admission is free. Kim Andrews, also of the music faculty, will accompany.

The program will include the world premier performance of Sonus for Timpani and Piano, written by FSU's Dr. Jon Bauman for Mr. Horner. Works by Stanley Leonard, timpanist for the Pittsburgh Symphony, Carlos Chavez, and Bela Bartok will also be featured.

A former member of the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra, Mr. Horner has performed in the major music centers of North and South America, Europe and the Middle East. In addition to teaching at FSU, he is principal percussionist with the Westmoreland Symphony of Greensburg, Pa., and Johnstown Symphony. He is a member of the music faculty at the University of Pittsburgh and is an extra percussionist with the Pittsburgh Symphony.

He holds a bachelor of science degree in music education from Indiana University of Pennsylvania and a master of music degree in music performance from Duquesne University.

Mr. Horner resides in Somerset, Pa.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and dad, Ray Artice, who passed away four years ago, March 15, 1987.

Those who have a father
Treasure him with care
You never know his value
'Til you see his empty chair
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb
He gently closed his weary eyes
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell
The grief is born in silence
For the one we loved so well
What would we give to grasp his hands
And see his smiling face
To hear his voice and see his smile
These things we can't replace.

Sadly missed by his wife, children, grandchildren, sisters, and brother.
